And now the storm begins to gather and the heavens look dark. St. Peter's, the great church of Rome, is being built. Luther saw the vast foundations and he knew that vast sums of money would be required. How was it to be raised? Raised! say a corrupted priesthood and Pope; why sell indulgences. For $6 they were to be free to commit robbery and perjury, for $8 they were to be pardoned for murder, and for $6 they were to be forgiven for adultery. The people danced with joy that they should get free from the consequences of their crimes so easily. But the soul of Luther was roused to oppose this awful wrong. Surely the Bishops and the Pope could not know of its perpetration! Soon he became undeceived for he received no encouragment to oppose Tetzel, the Dominican friar who came to Wittemberg with his ungodly wares. He resolved to do his duty. On the 31st of October, 1517, he nailed on the door of the Castle church of Wittemberg, his famous 95 theses, thus publicly attacking the papal power, amid a multitude of clergymen and laymen who had assembled to celebrate the consecration of the church. God alone can forgive sins. The Pope has simply the power to declare the forgiveness which God grants. "If the Pope knew how the Christians were being plundered by these indulgence preachers," said Luther "he would rather see St. Peter's Church reduced to ashes than to see it erected with the flesh and blood of his sheep."

At first it was believed that the monk would soon be crushed as others had been before him, but he proved himself a match for the Pope and the Church. The ministers of Wittemberg stood by him, his lectures drew crowds, and his theological positions were believed. His name was flashed through Germany with the rapidity of lightning and the emperor Maximilian requested that good care be taken of the monk—that his services would be needed. Tetzel and other friars thundered against him and threatened burning him at the stake. But he was not burned, for God was a wall round about him. The Pope sent an ambassador to meet Luther but no settlement was arrived at.

The gathering storm looked more terrible now. Luther went back to Wittemberg and appealed in a formal way far a universal council of the Christian Church to consider the whole question of dispute. By this act he severed his relations to the Papisy and daily lived in expectation of being excommunicated. But wild and crafty measures were adopted at first. A co-operation was surreptitiously attempted whereby the heretical preaching of Luther was to be suppressed. Some seventy Papal communications were brought into the various wielders of legislative power in Germany. Out of every five persons in Germany scarce two remained true to Rome.

At last the fury of the gathering storm did burst. The hour had come for excommunication. A Papal bull was issued. Dr. Eck bore it to Wittemberg from Rome. How does Luther take the message that is intended to deal him a death blow ecclesiastically, spiritually, and eternally? Does his slender form tremble, and his dark, piercing eyes gaze affrighted. Never! Never! Calmly, courageously, with all Wittemberg looking on, he, on the 10th of November, 1520, publicly burned the document.

The die is cast. The bugle notes of the Reformation are sounded. A storm burst on that day in Germany which still rages; a fire was enkindled, the splendour of which illumines many empires to-day. Papal authority in Germany received a death blow.

Charles V., the new Emperor, ascends the throne. He, of Spanish descent, hated the German people, and was unfriendly to the Lutheran movement. A Diet was to be held at Worms, and at that Diet Luther was summoned to explain his position. His friends were solicitous for his safety, but Luther decided to go. On the 16th of April, 1521, Luther and three brave companions rode in an open waggon into the city of Worms. A movement was set on foot to have him seized and put to death, but the Emperor prevented the realization of its object.

After waiting two hours, Luther was led into the presence of the Imperial Diet. Here a glorious assemblage confronted him. The youthful Emperor was seated in the centre of the hall under a purple canopy and surrounded by the glitter and array of Court. Hundreds of princes and nobles were present. When Luther entered a murmer of excitement was heard. It was hushed and the Archbishop of Treves addressed him: "Martin Luther, his sacred and invincible majesty, with the advice and counsel of the nobility of the Roman Empire, has summoned you to appear before his majesty's throne and demands an answer to these two questions: First, do you acknowledge these books (heaped on a bench at his side) to be yours? Second, do you recant or do you adhere to, and maintain, the contents of the same?" Luther answered that the books were his, but requested further time for the consideration of the second question.

On the next day Luther appeared before the brilliant assemblage and said in calm, clear words: "I believe neither in the Pope nor councils alone, since it is evident that they have erred and have often contradicted themselves, and, as my conscience is bound by my God's word, I cannot and will not recant. Here I stand! I cannot do otherwise! God help me! Amen." The whole world knows what followed. After witnessing the progress of the Reformation for nearly a quarter of a century he passed away to his long and blissful home.

Luther's life, in God's hands, has become an untold blessing to mankind. Its worth can scarcely be estimated. It has given us civil freedom, for it unloosened the grip of Rome or all the civil powers of Europe. It has given us social elevation for it put an end to the heartless imprisoning of the human mind in ignorance, by the priesthood. It has given us religious freedom. It has given us universal intelligence, for it gave freedom to the Press and prepared channels for the circulation of both sacred and secular truth. Four potentates ruled the mind of Europe during the Reformation—the Emperor, Erasmus, the Pope and Luther. The Pope wanes, Erasmus is little, the Emperor is nothing, but Luther abides as a power for all time. His image casts itself upon the current ages, as the mountain mirrors itself in the river that winds at its foot—the mighty fixes itself immutably upon the changing.

And now let me say to the brotherhood of Orangemen present that it becomes us to live worthy of the Protestant faith for which our fathers bravely struggled to maintain. Our attitude towards the Church of Rome, notwithstanding her feelings towards the faith we hold, should not be a harsh one. Let us hold to our noble Protestantism with a deathless grip. We cannot be too loyal to the principles involved in our civil and religious freedom. We cannot be too zealous in spreading abroad the essential elements of our faith, and yet let us not be inferior in spirit. A Christ-like love, intense and aggressive, should be fostered towards even those who may count themselves our enemies. Let us hope that the day of swords is past forever. Into the great future let us carry with us the sword of the spirit, which is the ordW of God. Is the Church of Rome still sheeted with the ice of superstition and error? If it is then let us pray that the ice may be honey-combed by the potential influence of Christ's own love and truth. I believe Protestantism is destined to send its waves of light and blessing over all the earth, for it and Christianity are one. What Luther taught, what Ridley and Latimer bled for, Saint Paul declared to be the truth. Then my hearers, and brotherhood of Orangemen present, let us be faithful. Let us not be revengeful, but gentle and loving, and earnest in prayer. You will best serve the order to which you belong by putting on the Lord Jesus Christ. You will best serve your generation by consecrating time, talent, energy and influence to Christ. If the Protestantism of this great dominion be but bathed in and baptized with the spirit of Christ, yet more and more, we shall then not hope in vain for the swifter march and grander triumph of her principles until the whole land shall be filled with the blessing of true liberty.

PROCLAMATION!

BULLETIN ISSUED FROM THE CITY CLOTHING STORE.

PERSONALLY we do not know every buyer of Clothing and Gents' Furnishings in Peterborough, but the constant and uninterupted flow of new customers who are daily making our establishment their headquarters for their wants, warrants us in believing that the public after once visiting the City Clothing Store, become SOLID customers. And what is more, they tell their friends and neighbours of the fair and square manner they are dealt with, and by this means we have gained the public confidence.

PERSONAL: H LeBRUN is never behind in anything he takes hold of, and in the Clothing Trade he has proved himself a shrewd buyer—purchasing nothing that would be an eyesore on the shelves, and taking none but a class of goods that the general public are in daily need of. The WORKING MAN is not forgotten by LeBRUN, who has constantly on hand a class of goods that the mechanic requires, such as Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, Gloves, Hosiery, Underwear, Umbrellas, Rugs, Water-proof Coats—in fact everything in the Gentlemens' Furnishing line.

A GOOD FIT IS EVERYTHING!

If a man buys a suit of Clothes, the first thing he will do is to choose a piece of cloth he likes—something suitable and pretty. That's right; the correct thing to do. But if that man does not get a good fit—if the Cutter makes a "botch" of the job—the cloth that looked so enticing to him before being made up, now becomes cheap-looking and he dosen't like it. MR. KILPATRICK, although only with the City Clothing Store about two months, is giving universal satisfaction, and he makes no mistakes nor botches no clothes, but guarantees a perfect fit and the most fashionable cut. In consequence our Order Department is having an unprecedented run. In BOYS' SUITS we are doing a grand trade.

JUST LISTEN TO THIS!

We have an extra large stock of Ready-made Overcoats for Men and Boys, and are determined to dispose of them immediately. So if you want a neat and nobby Coat cheap, call and examine ours.

In UNDERCLOTHING our assortment is very extensive, and the public will find on examination that it is one of the best stocks in town.

In GENTS' FURNISHINGS the City Clothing Store stands at the head of the class. Your every want is here, and if you cannot see what you want, ask for it, and presto! it is before you. The greatest feature in our store is the prices, they are ROCK BOTTOM!

H. LeBRUN,

THE SICK BOY'S REQUEST.

From Grip.

If your're waking call me early, call me early, mammy dear,
For to-morrow 'll be a whooper up as sure as I lie here;
Oh! mother when I sleep to-night upon my little bed,
I know I'll dream I see papa a-painting things so red!

To-morrow, mother, as you know, the stove pipes will be brought,
From out the cellar's gloomy depths with soot and cobwebs fraught,
Last year I had to do the job, but now, I'm sick, hurray!
Papa will have to tackle all those pipes I stowed away.

He used to stand and gaze at me, and say "Now Bill, don't shirk
That job. I love to see a boy like you be fond of work,
Now, up and dust; be lively now." And there he stood, mamma;
His hands deep in his pockets: he's a daisy, is papa.

To-morrow morn he'll rise betimes; he'll do the work himself;
He's not the man to hire help and waste his hard-earned pelf.
And, mammy, if you're waking, do call me up, I pray,
For to-morrow 'll be a rouser, a rattling glorious day.

(N. B. Tears here, please, for the dear boy.)

Now, mother, when you wake me, you'll carry me down stairs,
And put me close to dear papa to hear him when he swares.
Oh! won't it be a glorious time! I would not miss a point;
I fancy I can see dear dad when he strikes a crumply joint.

You know, mamma, I would not care if dad had only been Less cranky with a boy like me: I think 'twas awful mean;
When I used to jab my fingures on those pipes he'd only laugh
And say, "look lively, Willyum, you clumsy little calf."

But now, mamma, I'm sleepy, but do, pray do be sure
And call me up at day break; you can hammer at my door,
And put me right near father, for I want to hear him holler
His naughty words as he conveys those pipes from out the cellar.

When I have seen him work and sweat as on to-morrow's day
He'll do, I shall be willing to be gently moved away,
Oh! mammy, I shall fairly cry with laughing, ha! ha! ha!
Be sure and call me early, call me early, dear mamma.

Mow I think before I sleep I'll kneel and say my little prayers,
And then I'll try and take a nap Be sure and come upstairs;
And thunder in the morning on the panels of my door.
Good-night, mamma Now do not fail. There's heaps of fun in store.

Oh! I shall dream of pap all night as thumping, thumping, thumping,
He'll come up-stairs from cellar, his knees and elbows bumping;
His nose and face all sooty. Now, mamma, go away,
But call me, call me early at the very peep of day.

A HERO'S TERRIBLE FATE.

The Death-Plunge From a Five Story Window—Exciting Scenes.

A despatch from Chicago on Oct. 30th says: A man dangling by one hand from the fifth storey window from which flames were issuing, a thousand excited people watching him, a score of excited men on the roof of the building opposite endeavoring to cast him a rope, a dozen intrepid fellows beneath holding a canvas for him to drop upon, a shriek, a plunge, and a death, were the horrible scenes enacted at noon to-day at Michigan street and LaSalle avenue.

A short time before, in the building 122 to 128 Michigan street, there was a tremendous explosion, and the wall in rear, upon an alley where the engine and boiler were located, was blown out. In an instant flames followed, and the entire structure became choked with smoke. Upon the top floor were 21 girls and 18 men and boys. The crackling of the flames below and the blinding smoke which rushed into the room threw them into a panic. James Carr, foreman, seeing their danger, with rare coolness and presence of mind, gathered them together and sent them before him to an iron cased stairway which had been built for just such an emergency, for the building was a fearful fire-trap. Down this the frightened employees groped their way through smoke and darkness with skirts and clothes pressed against their nostrils.

Carr followed them to the third floor and then asked whether all were on hand. Fearful lest there might be some left behind he turned back, while the other employees descended to the street and escaped. A few minutes later Carr was seen at the fifth story window. He crept out upon the cornice. The smoke was dense, and the flames were close behind him. He let himself down and clung to the window sill by his fingers. Men rushed to the roof of the building across the alley with ropes. "It seemed," said an excited witness of the terrible scene, "as if the brave fellow clung there five minutes." Finally Carr caught the rope with his left hand. He loosened his hold upon the sill and dropped, but could not retain his hold upon the rope and fell, plunging through the canvas, and was picked up bleeding and bruised. He died a few hours later at the hospital.

Meantime exciting scenes were in progress in the building. The third floor was occupied as a chewing gum factory. There were 12 girls on this floor, who attempted to reach the ground by the fire escape. When 20 feet from the ground eight of them jumped and were more or less injured. Thousands of persons had gathered about the burning building. Parents and other relatives who had loved ones in the building were running hither and thither, distractedly wringing their hands and crying. In the confusion it was impossible to determine whether the inmates were saved or not. Most of those who escaped hurried away, and whether any were left behind could not be learned.

There were many narrow escapes among the employees in other parts of the building, and it is believed that there were two or three who succumbed to the blinding smoke and flame. The firemen put ladders to the windows and climbing up peered into the black smoke which surged through the bulging walls warped by the heat within.

No one could exist there, and if there were any unfortunates there they could not be discovered, and it will not be known until the ruins cool off sufficiently to allow a close examination. The building was owned by C. S. Culver, of the Board of Trade. The loss will be about $100,000.

A Gold Lined Nest.

Close to the United States mint, on the roof of the place of business across the street, there is a small bird box, which was formerly occupied about this time of year by a pair of robins, but lately occupied solely and entirely by a pugnacious and tricky English sparrow. This miserly fellow—and the sparrows are all an avaricious set—after driving the robins out, has occupied the box for two seasons without as much as even a mate. As might be supposed, one who was able to do that is foremost in looking out for himself in other ways. Among the girls, and even among the girls in the mint, nearly all of whom bring their dinners with them, this particular sparrow has been long a favorite because of his boldness; and so freely does he fly in the windows and flit in the back door of the smelting rooms to pick up crumbs, that they jocularly say he is the only one who has the "free run of the mint." A short time ago a boy in the building west where Mr. Sparrow has made his nest, and, peeking into the box to see if there were any of the young folks at home, as the boys love to do, he was surprised upon drawing his fingers out to see them sparkling in the bright sunshine. No miner who strikes an unexpected vein was more excited than that boy as he seized the box and carried the whole thing down stairs, where it was found that the inside was not only flecked with gold dust, but that accumulations of the precious metal had formed a sort of carpet of sparkling, soft, yellow gold, the whole proving a veritable "bonanza." The sparrow had regularly been carrying off quantities of gold dust in its feathers, which it shook out when it made its toilet in the morning.—Philadelphia Times.

POLITICAL GAMBLERS.

Sporting Men Betting Heavily on the Elections—Blaine Stock Going Up.

BUFFALO, Oct. 31.—The amount of money wagered on the Presidential election throughout the country has been greater than in any previous contest. One sporting man in Buffalo is known to have $30,000 invested in various ways on Cleveland; another has bet every cent he is worth, some twenty thousand dollars on the general result. Fully a dozen others are known to have upwards of $10,000 each on the outcome. It is believed that fully one million dollars in wagers have been posted in this city alone, and as the town has the reputation of being a little "slow" in such matters, the amounts staked throughout the country must be phenomenally large if the proportion holds good. Quite a flurry was caused by the announcement last night that a sudden change in the betting had taken place in New York. For some days wagers have stood at $10,000 to $7,000 that Cleveland would carry New York, and $10,000 to $9,000 that Cleveland would be the next President. Last night Kelly and Bliss announced that offers were $10,000 to $7,000 that Blaine would be elected President, and $10,000 to $8,000 that he would carry New York with lots of money for a number of takers. It transpires that the Democratic Congressmen from Louisiana are "banking" on Blaine, and it is believed that that State and North Carolina may possibly break the solid South, and go over to the Republicans. At this writing we can find no basis for the belief beyond the fact of the faith the above named Congressmen appear to have in Blaine's success, which leads to the suspicion that a deal has been made. The ways of the politician are dark and somewhat doubtful, but that Louisiana will renounce the faith seems difficult to believe. Tilden was counted out there in 1876, but the State has been uniformly Democratic by majorities ranging from 20,000 to 45,000 during the past eight years. In North Carolina the Republican chances are much better, and the State is fairly doubtful, or would have been so but for the reckless waving of the "bloody shirt" in the Northern States by the Republicans.

The Queen as an Artist.

The following pretty little story is told of Queen Victoria's early proficiency in painting:—On one occasion she painted a picture so admirably that her master, Mr. Leitch, obtained leave to take it away in order to have it properly mounted. It was lying in his studio for this purpose when Stanfield called, and observing the drawing he asked by whom it was painted. Leitch said it was by a pupil of his. "Oh, nonsense," said Stanfield. "Yes," said Leitch, "and it is by a lady." Stanfield looked at it again and said: "Well, she paints too well for an amateur. She will be soon entering the ranks as a professional artist."

Worshipping Trees.

"The ancient people of India" says Quintus Curtius, "had a profound veneration for certain trees, before which they were in the habit of kneeling in the attitude of devotion, and the most terrible punishment awaited the sacrilegious transgressors who dared injure one of them." There are two kinds of trees in Persia that are worshipped to this day. The one is the divakeh-i-fusel, or tree that surpasses the rest, the other the dir-dar, or the tree of the genii. The true believers decorate these trees with strips of precious stuffs. The ancient Persians had a particular veneration for the barrom, a gigantic tree over which the sun, as they believed, kept watch in an especial manner.

We learn from the Mail of last week that Mr. Cameron is to get his commission in that celebrated regiment, the 79th Cameronian Highlanders, now serving in Egypt. He will join his regiment in a month or so, and must be considered highly favored to have the chance of seeing active service so soon in his career as a soldier. May he come back covered with medals and decorations, and add one more to the roll of Canada's sons who have so worthily maintained the honor of their country in the regular service of the empire.—Sentinel-Star.

A Wonderful Discovery.

Consumptives, and all who suffer from any affection of the throat and lungs, can find a certain cure in Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Thousands of permenent cures verify the truth of this statement. No medicine can show such a record of wonderful cures. Thousands of once hopeless cases now gratefully proclaim they owe their lives to this New Discovery. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. Free trial bottles at Taylor and McDonald's drug store. Large size $1.

Merit Proven.

Dollar upon dollar is frequently spent on the faith of recommendations for articles entirely worthless. Not so with McGregor's Speedy Cure; you are not asked to purchase it until its merits are proven. Call at John McKee's drug store and get a free trial bottle, and if not convinced it will cure you of the worst forms of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, etc., no matter of how long standing, it costs you nothing. Sold in 50c, and $1.00 bottles. See testimonials from persons in your own town.

JAMES BRALEY, Hamilton, says: "I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value; we have plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was as bad with bilious fever and indigestion as I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well, and can eat any kind of food without hurting me. I may say that I feel better than ever I expected to be." Free trial bottles at John McKee's.

will be found especially worthy of attention. Many think that low prices are incompatible with choice and sterling goods, and so much are they influenced by this opinion that they frequently pay far more than is necessary for many articles under the impression that they must be good because they are dear. I feel sure that I can and do give sterling goods, pure, genuine, and of good quality at low prices.

I make RICH GOODS, MEDIUM GOODS, and COMMON GOODS alike compatible with low prices, because I am satisfied with a very small advance on all the goods I sell.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Curling and Skating Rink Co.

A special meeting of the Curling and Skating Rink Company will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Grand Central Hotel, for the purpose of sanctioning a by-law to increase the capital stock to $6,000.

C. E. T. S.

A regular meeting of the St. John's Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society will be held to-morrow evening. The members intend to make a united effort to increase the membership, and cordially invite all who take an interest in the cause of temperance to join with them in this society, whether they are adherents of the Church of England or not.

Piano Tuning.

R. S. Huffman, Piano Tuner, is in town. Orders left at Mr. Hartley's music store will be attended to at once. He will also visit Peterborough every three months in the future. Testimonials from Messrs. Nordheimer, Heintzman, Dominion and Webber and Mr. Ewing, of Peterborough.

An Attractive Programme.

We publish in to-day's issue the programme of the grand entertainment to be held under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, on Nov. 5th. It contains the names of several well-known artists and everything requisite for a first class evening's entertainment will be presented.

Ladies wanting pillow sham holders will be pleased to learn that Mr. A. Clegg has received the agency for Peterborough, Millbrook, Norwood, and Lakefield. Call and examine them and we are sure no lady will be without them.

Mammoth Stock Sale.

The posters and small bills are now out in reference to Dr. Kincaid's fourth mammoth stock sale. The sale will be held by Mr. Chas. Stapleton on Nov. 10th, at Dr. Kincaid's stock farm in North Monaghan, two and a half miles from the market square. It will commence at 10 o'clock a.m., and 200 head of classified horses, cattle and pigs will be sold without reserve.

Complimentary Benefit.

On the evening of Monday, Nov. 17th, a grand complimentary benefit concert will be held in Bradburn's Opera House for Messrs. F. Clarke, D. Simons and J. Walbrooke. The best local talent has been secured and the concert will doubtless be a success. These three young men have contributed their services gratis on many occasions to assist in public entertainments, and no doubt their friends, and those benefitted by their services will turn out in large numbers on November 17th. The services of Mrs. Chambers has been secured for the occasion.

Personal.

The Toronto World of Nov. 1st says:—

"C. J. Leonard, for several years past an active member of the legal firm of Jones Bros. & Mackenzie, has retired from that partnership and is about to open an office in Belleville. Mr. Leonard is favourably known among members of his profession in this city and stands high in the estimation of those with whom he had business relations. He is well known through the eastern part of the provinces, and will no doubt make his mark in the future."

Mr. John Winchester, Inspector of public offices, has recently been in town inspecting the offices of the Sheriff and the Master in Chancery.

As will be seen in his advertisement in another column, Mr. T. McGrath has just returned to town from an extended tour through the eastern part of Canada. He is now prepared to execute all orders for painting and kalsomining in the latest styles of the art.

Oriental Barber Shop.

Mr. Petter Brosseau, so well and favorably known in Peterborough as a first class tonsorial artist, takes pleasure in informing the public that his barber shop, at the Oriental Hotel, is now fitted up in regular city style. No other shop in Peterborough employs as large a number of workmen and there is no delay or impatient waiting, but immediate attention is given to all who favor him with a call. Mr. Brosseau has had over twenty years experience in the principal cities in Canada and the United States, and is a thorough and efficient tonsoric artist in every respect. Those who are unsettled in mind as to whom they will patronize should call at the Oriental Barber shop, and they are sure to become permanent customers.

Attack on a Parlor Car.

On Saturday evening when the Grand Trunk Railway express train was a short distance on this side of Lindsay a heavy stone, weighing about a pound and a half, was thrown through the window on the side of the parlor car. The stone struck Mr. Sommerville on the shoulder, and passing on, struck Mr. A. White on the knee, but happily neither of the gentlemen were much injured. Almost immediately afterwards another stone was thrown through the window in the rear of the car, but it did no further damage than breaking the glass. The size of the stones and the force with which they were propelled shows that they were thrown by some person bent on doing mischief, but there is no clue to the motive for the act.

THAT SHOW GROUND.

A Selection Made at Last—The Morrow Property Selected at a Full Meeting of the Directors.

Pursuant to previous arrangement, a meeting of the Directors of the West Riding of Peterborough Agricultural Society was held in the Council Chamber on Saturday last, there being present: James Campbell, Esq., President, and Messrs. Rutherford and Riddell, South Monaghan; Jos. Walton and J. McClelland, Peterborough; T. E. Bell, G. W. Fitzgerald, John Garbutt, Geo. A. Elliott, John Young and Hugh Davidson, Smith; and Wm. Collins, North Monaghan. Mr. McClelland reported as to the inspection of the various sites offered, in accordance with the resolution passed at the last meeting. He also stated that he was authorized by Mr. R. A. Morrow to state that he was willing to let the society have the east part (say 12 acres) of his property at the south end of the town and adjoining the Driving Park for a show ground, upon the following terms, viz.: for four years form the 1st April next at a rental of $100 per annum, and for the next five years at a rental of $150 per annum, with the right of purchasing at any time during the lease at $500 per acre; and further that in the event of the Peterborough Driving Park Association not purchasing the part of the same property now enclosed by them, before the termination of their lease (9 years from next April) he would bind himself to give them the refusal of it at the same price per acre.

A letter was also read from the Secretary of the Driving Park Association, expressing their readiness to cancel their lease of that portion of the Morrow property enclosed by them in order to facilitate an arrangement with Mr. Morrow and offering in the event of the same being made to enter into an arrangement with the society whereby they would receive the use of the Driving Park for their exhibitions in exchange for the use of their stables when not required by themselves.

After a good deal of discussion it was Moved by Mr. Collins, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That the offer of Mr. Morrow and the Driving Park Association be accepted.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Bell, seconded by Mr. Young,—That Mr. Cox's offer of the east ten acres of the thirty acre lot lying east of the communication road, township of Smith, bounded on the south by Mrs. Dixon's, and on the north by Mr. Nicholls', at $200 per acre, for a show ground, be accepted.

The amendment was put and lost on the following division:—

YEAS,—Messrs. Bell, Young and Elliot.—3.

NAYS,—Messrs. Walton, Rutherford, McClelland, Fitzgerald, Garbutt, Davidson, Riddell and Collins.—8.

The original motion was then put and carried on the following division:—

YEAS,—Messrs. Campbell, Walton, Rutherford, McClelland, Fitzgerald, Garbutt, Davidson, Ridell and Collins.—9.

NAYS,—Messrs. Bell, Young and Elliot.—3.

The President, Secretary and Mr. McClelland were appointed a committee to have the necessary documents prepared for giving legal effect to the motion just passed, and to submit them to a meeting of the directors to be called as soon as they were ready.

The President and Mr. McClelland were appointed a deputation to wait upon the Town Council with reference to their taking steps to secure the holding of the Provincial Exhibition in Peterborough, and the meeting adjourned.

LADIES' Kid Mits and Gloves, and Black and Colored Jersey Gloves. J. ERSKINE.

A Beautiful Sight.

The attention of the public is directed to the decidedly pretty manner in which a certain store window in Peterborough is constantly dressed. Apart from the mere fact of ornamentation and excellent taste displayed in showing the numerous articles to good advantage, the goods thus so tastefully arranged are in themselves worthy of special observation. In gentlemen's furnishings the variety is immense, and he would, indeed, be hard to please that could not select a choice from the multifarious and beautiful stock that is carried in this store. Reader, have you any hesitation in supposing where this establishment is to be found? Then, if you are still in doubt, take a walk up George street, and you will find the place described at "Habiliment Hall," and the popular proprietor is A. MCNEIL.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

A BRAKEMAN KILLED IN THE RAILWAY YARD AT LINDSAY.

A Conductor Seriously Injured at Unionville—Train Hand Hurt at Blackwater Trying to Save a Hat.

On Monday two employees of the Grand Trunk Railway, engaged on the Midland Division, met with a serious accidents.

THE FIRST ACCIDENT

happened at Unionville, twenty miles this side of Toronto, in the morning, and Conductor Bell of Lindsay, was the victim. The freight train of which Conductor Bell had charge was coming up to Unionville station, and, to "steady the train," the conductor got on top of a car and commenced to turn on the brake. The brake chain broke and the conductor fell down on the track. A wheel struck him on the thigh and passed down on his leg over the knee, when the car was thrown off the track and the train was stopped. A surgeon of Unionville attended to his injuries and the sufferer was brought to Lindsay on the evening express. His injuries are said to be serious.

A BRAKEMAN HURT.

On the afternoon of the same day (Monday) a brakeman named Charles Thompson met with an accident at Blackwater. Thompson was on his train, which was a freight train, when the firemen's hat blew off. The train was not going fast, and Thompson tried to grasp the hat, but in doing so he slipped and fell off the train. A car struck him on the thigh and he was thrown to the side of the track, the force of the fall breaking his arm and injuring his head somewhat. He was taken on to Toronto.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

By Telephone to the Review.

LINDSAY, Nov. 4.—This morning at about fifteen minutes after eight o'clock a brakeman named Donald McArthur was killed in the Grand Trunk Railway yard here. He was employed in the yard, and while the shunting engine was at work he went to get on a car to pull out a pin while the cars were in motion. By some means he fell under the wheels and was dragged out one hundred and fifty feet, several cars passing over him. His head was crushed badly and he must have been killed instantly.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

TUESDAY, Nov. 4.—Thos. W. Tebb charged Thos. Desautel with having committed an assault upon him. The defendant pleaded not guilty, but afterwards acknowledged having done so in a mistake. It seems that some boys had been throwing rotten eggs at his door, and Desautel attacked Tebb, who was passing at the time, in a mistake for the culprits. He was fined $2 and costs.

It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

R. S. Huffman, Piano Tuner, is in town. Orders left at Mr. Hartley's music store will be attended to at once. He will also visit Peterborough every three months in the future. Testimonials from Messrs. Nordheimer, Heintzman, Dominion and Webber and Mr. Ewing, of Peterborough.

Lynching Cattle Thieves.

DENVER, Nov. 2.—Meagre information of a terrible lynching affair at Rock Creek, in Summit County, has reached here by two or three different routes; but beyond the assertion that seventeen men were lynched at that point on the charge of cattle stealing nothing is known. Rock Creek is in the Gore Mountains, a sparsely settled region in the northern portion of Summit County, and the means of communicating are slight. The information, although lacking particulars, is believed to be reliable.

A TALE OF THE SEA.

Terrible Experience of the Barque Busorah between Java and Montreal.

The barque Busorah, 390 tons, of Sunderland England, Capt. Thos. Pike, arrived in port at two o'clock on Monday afternoon from Souribays, Java, with a cargo of sugar. Her voyage was one of the most eventful of any vessel of the season. A Star reporter called on Captain Pike immediately on the arrival of his ship at Windmill Point, and obtained some brief particulars. They had seasickness on board with little intermission on the voyage out, but the return one was peculiarly disastrous. They were over six months between Souribaya and Montreal, having left the former place on the 18th of May. Calling at Batavia they left several men in hospital. They then put to sea and were two and a half months when they made the Cape of Good Hope. After passing Madagascar a succession of westerly gales set in and the whole crew became laid up with intermittent fever. On July 21 two of the crew, Frederick Rister, of Sunderland, and James O'Brien, died and were buried at sea. The ship was then of the Cape of Good Hope, and matters were looking very bad, only the chief and second officers, one apprentice and the captain being able to work the vessel; a heavy gale at the time blew continuously. On the 30th July John Trotter, another of the crew from Sunderland, died and was consigned to the deep. The vessel then entered the South-East Trades and they had a respite from bad weather. On August 5th Thos. Brown, a native of London, died, his body being buried in the Atlantic with usual religious services. On the 11th they made St Helena where the remainder of the sick crew were tended for medical treatment and a new crew taken on. Sailing the following day they had fine weather up to 20th Sept. when the ship being in 27 north lat. and 41 west long., a terrible hurricane set in which lasted eight hours, carrying away all the sails. The rigging was much damaged and the bulwarks injured. Nothing further of consequence occurred till reaching the gulf, when a continuence of severe weather was encountered, greatly retarding the ship's progress. Other incidents related by officers of the vessel, though minor in themselves, show what terrible hardships they endured throughout.—Montreal Star.

TRAPPED BY FLAMES

Eleven Persons Imprisoned in a Burning Building—Fatally Injured in Escaping.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Nov. 3.—A dwelling house, occupied by Jas. Holt and Geo. Rogers and families, the former having a wife and four children, and the latter a wife and three children, was burned this morning. The fire originated in the lower storey, immediately beneath the occupants, who were in bed. Before they were awakened the usual means of egress were cut off, and they were obliged to escape through the upper windows. Holt threw out a chaff bed and then threw his wife and children out on it. Rogers assisted his wife to a short ladder which leaned against the house, and before she reached it the fire burst out of the side of the building and burned her hair and clothes completely off. He then threw his children from the second story window and followed himself by jumping. The house together with its contents were totally destroyed and the escaping inmates seriously injured, the children of Holt fatally.

Gold From Europe.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The steamer Oregon brought a million dollars in gold. The steamer Republic, which leaves Liverpool to-morrow, has half a million dollars.

The Canadians in Egypt.

WADY HALFA, Nov. 1.—The Canadian voyageurs are awaiting the arrival of further instalments of whale boats. Thus far they have successfully passed over all rapids they have met.

Coal Mine Fired by Incendiaries.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 3.—A fire has been in progress in the Knoxville coal mine, near this city, since Saturday. The flames are spreading, and a large number of cars have been destroyed. The fire was the work of incendiaries, who saturated the walls of the mine with petroleum.

Damages Against The Grand Trunk.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 3.—Lousia B. Klanowski got judgment in the Circuit Court, Detroit, on Saturday, against the Grand Trunk Railway Company for $5,000. On June 23rd, 1883, a train on that road ran over and killed her son. She sued for $10,000 damages.

A Sailor Drowned.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 3.—George D. Brush, a sailor on the sloop "Laura D," was struck by the main boom in a violent gale and knocked overboard near Button Bay, Wolfe Island. A rope was thrown to him. The third time he seized it, but when drawn within eight inches of the sloop he lost his hold and was drowned.

Hon. David Healy Resigns.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 1.—A special to the Express from Hornellsville states that Peck, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labour Statistics received a letter of resignation from David Healy, chief clerk of the Bureau, in which Healy stated he couldnot consistently remain in office under an administration unfriendly to the interests of labour.

Ballot Boxes Stolen.

The towns of Orangeville and Goderich have been thrown into a state of excitement by the discovery that ballot boxes, containing the returns of the Scott Act vote, were stolen on Sunday night, five boxes being taken in the former place and three in the latter. This stupid action, however, will have no effect upon the result, as provision is made in the law to meet such cases.

Suicide of a Lunatic.

Mary Ann Smith, an inmate of the asylum in Kingston, suddenly left her work on Saturday evening, and, rushing to the wharf, jumped into the water and was drowned. Another patient named Cadman launched a boat, but while going to the rescue the boat capsized, and he was nearly drowned also. He held on to the boat till rescued. The girl was bright and cheerful, and no one thought she would commit suicide.

Troubles Never Come Single.

QUEBEC, Nov. 3.—Three weeks ago a farmer named Morasse, of St. Raymond, on the line of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, lost all his summer crops by the burning of his barn. A few days since he left home with his horses and vehicle to get a load of shingles to cover a new structure. While on his way his horses became frightened, and started off at a full run, jerking Morasse from his seat. He fell under the hoofs of the horses and received such injuries as to bring on lockjaw, to which he finally succumbed, after a most intense suffering. A collection has been taken up in the parish for the relief of his desolate family.

He reached Berber, and only Col. Stewart was able to push further north, and Gen. Gordon started to return to Khartoum, and when near Shendy he learned that Khartoum had been handed over to the rebels. Gen. Gordon found himself unable to retire or advance, and was killed there.

MR. BLAKE'S AGENT.

MR. BLAKE found himself so destitute of adequate support in the House of Commons that he had urgent need of the services even of Mr. Edgar. Mr. Blake therefore arranged with Mr. Mowat to hire some member of Parliament to make a vacancy for his chosen lieutenant. Mr. Wheler accepted the offer of Mr. Blake's agent, and has now received his reward in the Bursarship of the Central Prison. It is hardly worth while to remark that this is an example of the practical use of the plank, that Dominion and Provincial politics should be kept distinct. We must admit that there was a precedent for this corrupt bargain, set by the way by Mr. Mowat himself, who hired in the same manner from the public Treasury Mr. Burke to make a vacancy for Mr. Blake, after his rejection by a popular vote.

REFORM MORALITY.

MANY Reform journals, in their comments upon the corrupt bargain between Mr. Hart and Mr. Mowat, are exposing with very injudicious effrontery the moral standing of their party.

They maintain that though Mr. Hart was elected by Conservative votes, he had given no pledge to support the Conservative party. They reported at the time that Mr. Hart accepted, after deliberation, the nomination of the Liberal Conservative Convention of the constituency, so their argument is tantamount to the assertion that such an acceptance was no pledge on the part of Mr. Hart.

They maintain that the Attorney-General was right in persuading Mr. Striker to cease proceedings for an infraction of the law against Mr. Hart, because he was going to vote for Mr. Mowat, not, even according to their own version, because there was any doubt of his criminality, or of the possibility of proving it.

This is much the same as if they were to maintain that Mr. Hart might accept the agency for one commercial company while working for another, or that the Attorney-General might enter a nolle prosequi against a swindler because he found that the culprit would help to maintain him in place and power.

It is well that the country should know, upon such undoubted authority, what the Reform party considers to be fair in political matters.

STEEL RAILS.

IN an article in reference to the recent purchase by the C. P. R. of steel rails in the United States, the Montreal Times endeavors to make a point against the National Policy by a gross misrepresentation of the facts. It represents the C. P. R. as being exceptionally favored in this matter, and the manufacture of steel rails as not being established in Canada, though enjoying the beneficial operation of the N. P.

Before writing upon this subject our contemporary should have made itself acquainted with the facts, if indeed it is not already aware of them. Both of its suggestions are absolutely untruthful and without foundation. The C. P. R. is not exceptionally favored in regard to the importation of steel rails, for no other railway company has one cent more to pay than the C. P. R. for any steel rails they may import. The manufacture of steel rails is not under the beneficial operation of the N. P., for our tariff imposes no duty upon imported steel rails. That the N. P. and the C. P. R. can only be be attacked by means of such falsehoods is evidence that there is little, if any, ground for fair criticism of either, or of the policy of the Macdonald Administration and of the majority of the people of Canada in regard to them.

The admission of steel rails free of duty is, perhaps, open to criticism by Protectionists, but is certainly not so by Freetraders, for it is in accordance with their own policy. For ourselves, we will frankly admit that we would gladly have seen such a duty placed on steel rails as would have established their manufacture in Canada, believing that internal competition would speedily have checked any temporary rise in price. But it may well be that the Ministry could not obtain satisfactory assurance that Canadian manufacturers were prepared to invest in the necessary plant for the manufacture of an article the demand for which is so fluctuating as that for steel rails.

We may learn one lesson from this transaction, that protection in the United States has reduced, instead of increasing, the price of steel rails.

Eating Pig's Feed.

A painful instance of the dire distress experienced by some families in Sunderland has just been discovered. A lady who kept a pig in the west part of the town, having her suspicions aroused, kept watch upon her stye, and was surprised at dusk to see a man and woman approach the trough and scoop out the bread, etc., which had been put in for the animal's meal. The lady followed the couple to their home, and after allowing a few minutes to elapse followed them into the house, and was surprised to discover five little children sitting round a table and readily devouring the food taken from her pig's trough.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THEN WHY CONGRATULATE MOWAT?

It is not the business of Reformers to congratulate a Minister who could stoop to a gerrymander bill in order to defeat his opponents.—London Advertiser (Ref.)

MOWAT'S CROOKEDNESS.

Up to the present satisfactory explanations regarding the alleged bribery of Mr. Hart, M. P. P. for Prince Edward, to support the Government he was elected and expected to oppose, have not appeared, and the evidence of "crookedness" is becoming more and more conclusive.—Newmarket Era (Ref.)

A REFORM LEADER.

Mercier, the leader of the Quebec Grits, is to be presented with a purse of money by his admirers. It is hoped that this may place him above the need of selling out his law suits.—Halifax Herald.

SOMEWHAT SIGNIFICANT.

Our Grit friends have achieved what they are pleased to style another "victory." We are told that its significance is very great. It is, indeed. They have succeeded in squeezing their candidate into Megantic by the pitable majority of 15. This is the county which returned the Hon. Geo. Irvine, Grit candidate, by a majority of 444 in the local election of 1881. A reduction of 329 in the majority, in three years, is very significant.—Toronto Mail.

IT WAS BRIBERY.

If a Tory should approach a member of the Legislature and say, "support our party and I will withdraw the petition against you," that would be bribery. But when Mr. Mowat approached Mr. Hart and said, "support me and I will have your petition dropped," that was all right, and Reformers "can afford to smile at it." The ordinary moralist will not see where the morality of the thing comes in, but the whole Reform party agree that the argument stands good.—Stratford Herald.

COULD NOT BE SPARED.

Sir John Macdonald has at least the confidence of the party which acknowledges him as their leader. And real leaders are so few and far between in any country that it is seldom that any of them can be spared without loss to the commonwealth as a whole.—Fergus News-Record (Reform).

WITH BOSTON O'BRIEN AS GENERAL.

This Jamaica business is becoming serious. The London Advertiser says that if the Imperial Government consent to the scheme for annexation it need not be surprised if it finds that it has lost the whole of its North American possessions. This means, we suppose, that the Ontario Grits and the Jamaica Negroes will get up a rebellion.—Winnipeg Times.

Trumped up Charges.

With a great flourish of trumpets our Grit friends entered suits against several prominent Conservatives of the District, to recover penalties for alleged acts of bribery and corruption. Notwithstanding the dire threats indulged in by our opponents, it seems that these suits were entered without a shadow of solid fact to rest upon, and on motion of Mr. Arnold, the Court dismissed the cases against Messrs. Fauquier, Mahaffy, Chantler, Roper and Dr. Shaw. There is every prospect that the suits against Messrs. Barwick, Marter, R. P. Perry and Nichols will also go by default. The whole proceedings were taken, not with a view to the punishment of crime—there was no crime to punish—but with the view to harrass and put to unnecessary expense men who are opposed to Grit principles. The fact that these cases have been abandoned is very positive proof that no damaging evidence could be brought against the accused, and a fair-minded public will at once come to the conclusion that these legal proceedings were nothing more than vexations and trumped up charges, unsupported by facts.—Muskoka Herald.

Shot by Mistake.

A sad accident occurred on Wednesday, in Somerville, at a place known as Bolton's crossing, on the Victoria Railway, about two miles north of Rettie' station. Mr. Robert English, a farmer of that neighborhood, was out hunting, and was looking for a bear which had been seen in the neighborhood. At the same time an Indian, named Spaniard, was also out hunting, dressed in a rough black coat. He had set some traps, and was stooping over one of them when Mr. English came through the woods looking for the bear. Seeing something black through the brush wood he levelled his rifle and fired. The ball entered Spaniard's side and came out near the shoulder. He gave one cry and fell to the ground, and died in about 40 minutes. The coroner, Mr. Maclaughlan, was immediately informed of the occurrence, but he did not deem it necessary to hold an inquest. The unfortunate man belonged to the Rice Lake Indian tribe, and his body was removed there on Thursday.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

The Prey of Panthers.

HUTTONSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Last Sunday evening Asbury Atwater, borrowed a buggy from his employer ostensibly for to visit his sister in Braxton county. Early in the same day a daughter of Mrs. Adams left her home to visit a week with friends several miles distant. Last night, a stranger returned the horse, which he had found wandering about in the woods, to Mrs. Adams. The buggy, broken to pieces, had been found in the road on Monday, about twenty miles from this place. A search about the spot discovered the dead body of the girl in the bushes a few roads away. It has since been discovered that it was the intention of Atwater and Miss Adams to elope, and that they met after leaving the house. The fact that there is no trace of Atwater is regarded by some as indicating murder, but the more beneral belief is that the pair were the victims of panthers, numbers of which have infested the woods in this region of late.

The Greenwich Meridian Accepted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The international meridian conference held a final meeting to-day. Minutes of the proceedings were submitted and approved. An official copy of the proceedings will be delivered to the Government of the United States, and will no doubt be made the basis of a treaty upon the resolution adopting the meridian of Greenwich for a universal initial meridian. Only one nation voted in the negative. San Domingo, France and Brazil abstained from voting. The proposition defining a universal day was almost unanimously supported

At Last Concluded.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 1.—The Challen inquest was closed last night, just one month from the time of the accident. After hearing a large amount of evidence the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by a railway train colliding with a vehicle in which he was driving, while the said train was running at an unlawful rate of speed. They further condemned the grade below Hotel street as too steep for the running of trains. The relatives of the late Mr. Challen will probably bring an action for damages against the Grand Trunk authorities.

The World's Exposition.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2.—The World's Exposition is to be formally opened on Dec. 16th. The demand for space largely exceed former years, and 760,000 feet additional accommodation has been provided. The main building is now completed, and other departments are well advanced. Jay Eye See, Phallas, and other noted horses will be on the grounds. The grounds and buildings will be lit by electricity, and an electric railway will make the circuit of main building.

Raid on a Town by Bandits.

LITIZ, Pa., Nov. 2.—The Buzzard gang of mounted bandits, ten in number, threw this town into a wild excitement yesterday. They robbed several houses and mills and attempted to gain an entrance into several stores. They secured money, stamps, and guns from White Oak post office. A party of armed farmers gave chase, but were out-ridden after pursuring the bandits ten miles. The posse will be doubled and another attempt made to capture them.

POLITICAL RIOT.

Six Negroes and Two Whites Killed in a Affray in Louisiana.

NEW IBERIA, Nov. 2.—Judge Fontelieu and eight or ten others left here yesterday morning for Lareauxville to hold a political meeting in the interests of Kellogg. After the crowd had assembled a disturbance was created by persons shouting "Hurrah for Gay." Joe Gilfoux rushed to the scene of the trouble and was fired at, the ball passing through his hat. He returned the fire and at that moment a general row ensued, in which Capt. Bell, a prominent sugar planter and Democrat, Joe Gilfoux, a prominent Gay man, and Oliver Bouttee, a coloured Kellogg supporter were killed outright. The wounded as far as known are: Jules Mostayer, Republican candidate for sheriff, thigh broken; ex-Sheriff Viator, shot twice in the abdomen, and about a dozen others slightly wounded. Six negroes were killed as far as known.

The perpetrators were surrounded and kept under guard until the sheriff arrived. A courier was despatched to this place, and in a few minutes after his arrival the town was in the wildest excitement. All drinking saloons were closed at four o'clock by order of the mayor. Fifty or seventy-five men from here left under orders of the sheriff for the scene of the trouble, armed with double-barrelled shot guns and rifles. They arrested the Fontelieus, Adolph Bienvu, and five white men, who are now in gaol. The first ball is said to have come from the Republican ranks, after which it is said a thousand shots were fired. A dozen horses are lying dead at the scene of the disturbance. It is impossible to learn the number of the wounded, but it is reported a great many wounded left during the excitement.

DEMOCRATS ACCUSED.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2.—Another account of the trouble at the political meeting at Lareauville says the meeting was broken up by armed Democrats, who fired at the speakers and into the assembled Republicans. Eight men were killed and wounded. It is asserted that the local militia arrested all the Republican speakers.

Train Wrecked.

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 1.—Passenge train No. 1, on the Baitimore and Ohio Railroad, due here at 5.58 this morning, jumped a frog near Alta, O., while going at the rate of forty miles an hour. The first two cars were not damaged, but the third car struck a freight engine on the siding and the cars following were telescoped and totally demolished. No one was killed, but 18 were injured. The accident was caused by a broken frog.

Fatal Blasting Accident

Details of a terrible accident which occurred at Bedford on Friday evening have been received. While John McCrimon and Alpheus Brown were engaged removing powder from a blast hole, thinking it was wet, it exploded, killing the former instantly and severely injuring the latter, burning his hands and face and splitting his lower jaw. Brown, who is a married man, will recover. McCrimon was a single man, 22 years of age.

PORT COLBORNE, Nov. 1.—The schooner sunk off Gull island turned out to be the schooner New Dominion. A tug went to her yesterday evening and examined her sails and got some articles off her which have been identified as belonging to the New Dominion. The New Dominion was laden with about 300 tons of coal for the gas works, St. Catharines, having loaded at Cleveland. She registers 152 tons, and was owned by Capt. James Griffith and Capt. John J. Daly. They were both of them aboard the ill-fated vessel. Griffith served as master and Daly as mate. A sailor named Daniel Murray and the captain's sister-in-law, who served as cook, formed part of the crew. There can be no doubt now but that the crew have all lost their lives. Capt. Griffith and Daley are well known along the lakes, having commanded a number of different vessels in the past twenty years. The former leaves a widow and family in St. Catharines and the latter leaves a widow an family in Hamilton, but formerly lived in St. Catharines. He sailed the schooner Laura before buying into the Dominion. The vessel was valued at $3,500 and insured for $2,500.

THE DUTY OF CHEWING FOOD.

This subject is dealt with by the Hon. E. Lyttleton in one of the Health Exhibition Handbooks. The veriest dullard, he says, who thinks for a moment on the daily task intrusted to our digestive machinery, how incessantly it occurs, and how serious are the issues involved in its fulfilment; and who has moreover learnt anything of the delicacy of those organs and their close relation to happiness, will understand the need of lightening that task as far as we can, and the cruelty of any wanton increase of it. Our system asks for food well chewed and well lubricated, and we give it dry nuggets, at rapidly recurring meals. The highest authority on disorders of the digestion and their far-reaching consequences has said that no constitution in the world can survive the neglect of this duty. The difficulty of getting the truth believed is that the fatal consequences seem to have so little connection with their cause. They follow late in time, but with the most inevitable certainty. Melancholia, loss of sleep, lethargy, ill temper, and a generally jaundiced view of life are among them, but are not the most serious. If any one doubts the value of the prescription, let him try it. I could name a lad of nineteen whose whole life was exhilarated by this and nothing else. I could name a dyspeptic, who travelled in search of a cure, all in vain, till a stranger told him to masticate his meat, and he obtained instant telief. But there is a better instance at hand rhan either of these. Mr. Gladstone is a man about whose physical vigor there can be no question. Men are known in troublous times to cavil at his statesmanship, but no one has anything to say against his digestion. Now as early as the year 1848, Mr. Gladstone formulated to himself rules for chewing food. Previously to that he had always paid great attention to this requirement of nature; but at that date he laid down as a rule for his children that 32 bites should be given to each mouthful of meat, and a somewhat lesser number to bread, fish, &c. It is also known that to get into a habit of following this example is as easy as can be. A little attention paid to it for two days will ensure of the duty being unconsciously performed through life, with the most beneficial results. Truly, history turns upon small causes! The philosopher of future ages may busy himself with pondering what the course of the world would have been had that number been 22 instead of 32.

The Window Garden.

Now is the time to re-pot all plants for the window garden, so as to insure their healthy growth during the winter, and also continued bloom. If possible, procure potting soil from a florist, as it will be well mixed and friable, but tell him for what varieties of plants you desire it, and purchase several kinds such as are suitable for roses, carnations and fuchsias; also geraniums, begonias, heliotropes, etc. The cost of this soil is but small, and it will be well returned to you in the fine growth of your plants. If a florist lives near, let him come and re-pot the plants. But if you must do it yourself first put small bits of charcoal into the bottom of the pot to act as drainage, keep the soil sweet, and increase the vigor of their roots. Then fill up the pot about half full, and put in the plant, striving to arrange the roots in the pot as nearly as possible as they grew before, and crowd down more soil upon them, pressing it tightly about the roots with the fingers, so that they will come in close contact with the earth, and the tiny rootlets will not wither. Shake the pot to settle the soil, or rap it down upon a bench or board, and then fill in more earth, which should be the richest you have in the garden, made friable with good, sharp sand, but not sea-sand. If you have a compost heap (which every amateur gardener should possess) take the oldest part of it, fill the pot a quarter or a third full of it, and put the rich, sandy soil on top.

On Business Principles.

"Yes, my dear daughter, I wish you would do your best to captivate the heart of our coachman."

"And elope with him papa?"

"Yes, my dear."

"Ah, I see, you dear, good papa, you want all the papers to say I am a fascinating beauty and the reigning belle."

"Well, of course, that will help a little, but that's not the main point."

"What is the main point, papa?"

"Well, you see, the papers will all say you are the daughter of a millionaire."

"Well."

"Well, that will enlarge my credit. See? Now run out to the stable, that's a good girl."—Chicago News.

Fourth Husband and Third Wife.

Mrs. Maria Rood, a thrice-married lady, of this city, who has resided at No. 42 Orange street, was again married on Monday. John Q. Walker, a Texan, is the fourth husband. Mr. Walker is a wealthy ranch-man, lives near San Antonio, and has had two wives precede his present one. The acquaintance was formed three years ago, and has been kept up by correspondence. The marriage was a surprise to the most intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Walker are on the last half of their century. They started for Texas Monday afternoon.—New Haven (Conn.) Palladium.

A Dog-Faced Boy.

An extraordinary being was to be seen lately at the American Hotel, St. Martin's street, Leicester Sqnare, London. A boy was living there whose face bore the most striking resemblance to that of a terrier dog. Every feature is hidden by sott silky hair, which is particularly abundant in the regions of his ears. His body is also covered, though less profusely, with hair. He is fourteen years of age, and is said to be the son of a savage who was exhibited some ten years as a dog man and who was caught with the child in a Russian Forest. The mother of this extraordinary creature is not known. The lad is on his way to America, where he is to figure in the show of Mr. Barnum.

Canada and Spain.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Sir A. T. Galt left yesterday for Canada. He takes with him the draft of the commercial treaty between the Dominion and Spain, for the negotiation of which Sir Charles Tupper was clothed with extraordinary powers by the Imperial authorities. While the details of the treaty cannot be made public until they have been submitted to the Dominion Cabinet, it is understood that the tendency of the treaty is to place Canada upon as favourable relations with the Spanish West India Islands as those now enjoyed by the United States.—Mail.

Crushed to Death.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 2.—James Farquhar met a horrible death yesterday by the caving in of a sewer in which he was working. He was completely buried, but his companions dug him out in ten minutes. He was horribly mangled, his face mutilated, and his body crushed. He moaned as if in excruciating agony, and died while being removed to the hospital. He leaves a widow and three small children on a farm two hundred miles west of Winnipeg. This is the first fatal accident on our sewers.

YOU may transplant trees or shrubs just as soon as the leaves begin to change color. It is the best time, because the roots will have a longer time to become settled in the ground.

FOR distemper in horses take a pail half full of wood ashes, fill up with water, stir up well, and when it settles pour off the lye on to your horse feed, and we will warrant it to cure a very bad case. We have cured with three doses.

A GEORGIA paper tells of a farmer who had a calf break its leg last February. The owner tried his surgical skill upon the broken limb and succeeded in cutting off the broken leg and curing it. He then attached a wooden leg to the stub, and reports that the calf has as good use of itself now as it had before the injury.

C. E. T. S.

A regular meeting of St. John's Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society will be held this evening in the chapel. All are invited to be present, whether members of the Church of England or not. A large and enthusiastic meeting is desirable.

To-Morrow Night's Concert.

A mistake occurred in a paragraph in last night's issue regarding the Oddfellows' Concert. The prices will be 25 and 50 cents. But there will be no mistake about the concert itself; it will be one of the best entertainments of the season. Secure your seats at once, if you have not done so already, and make sure of enjoying the treat prepared for those who attend.

New Rooms for the Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association have decided to lease the rooms over the post office, and will probably move into them this week. The Finance Committee have met with pretty good success in their canvass for subscriptions, having obtained about $700 or $800 so far. It is hoped that the public will come forward with the $500 additional needed for the current expenses in the ensuing year.

Capital Stock Increased.

A meeting of the Peterborought Skating and Curling Rink Company was held at the Grand Central Hotel on Monday evening. The President, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, occupied the chair. After the ordinary preliminaries of the meeting were over, the Rev. V. Clementi moved, seconded by Mr. F. T. Lewis,—"That the by-law as passed by the directors to increase the capital stock of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company to $6,000 be formally adopted."—Carried. The following is a copy of the by-law, which was numbered 15:—"A by-law to increase the capital stock of the Peterborough Skating and Curling Rink Company. Whereas it is expedient and necessary to increase the capital stock of the Peterborough Curling and and Skating Ring Company, be it therefore enacted that the capital stock of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company be, and the same is, hereby increased to from $2,000 to $6,000 by issuing four hundred shares of new stock at $10 each."

The "Pathfinder" Guide.

The Pathfinder Railway Guide for November is an unusually valuable number owing to the addition of a number of new tables and the complete changes in train and steamer schedules that take effect the first of this month, all of which are given in the accurate style for which the Pathfinder is noted. The two new maps seem to improve with each issue, and are by far the finest railway maps ever engraved. As the official organ of the General Passenger and General Freight Agents' Associations, reports of their meetings, with other interesting railroad topics, are given in the editorial pages. Every man in business, no matter whether he travels or not, will find this guide indispensible. All newsdealers sell single copies for 25 cents, or by sending $2.50, the subscription price, to Pathfinder, Boston, it will be mailed to any address for one year.

Equal to the Glass Hen.

An item has just come to hand on the chicken hatching question, which equals the celebrated glass hen and other artificial modes of bringing chicks into existence. At the beginning of last August Mr. John Garbutt, who lives about two and a half miles north of the town, in the township of Smith, drew some hay—it was a little damp—into his barn. He mowed it away, and, after a few days, brought in the rest of his hay and filled the mow. During the interval one of his hens had layed several eggs on the damp hay and they were completely covered by the additional hay afterwards put into the mow. After the usual time for hatching had elapsed Mr. Garbutt was surprised on entering his barn one day by hearing a chirping sound in the hay. He cleared away the hay until he met with the objects causing the sound—seven little chickens. It is supposed that the genial influence of the sun on the side of the barn caused the damp hay to be somewhat heated. The hay retained the steady warmth necessary to bring the embryo chicks into life, and they are now all alive and well, running around in Mr. Garbutt's barn yard.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

Lansdowne Lodge Celebrate their Anniversary and Organize a Second Degree Lodge.

On Monday the members of Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25, Sons of England, celebrated their first anniversary by a dinner in their hall, on the corner of George and Simcoe streets, and, at the same time, organized a Second Degree Lodge.

The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion with flags, mottoes, and other ornamentations. Among the mottoes was one particularly noticeable—that above the chair of the Worthy President. It was the representation of a lion, with the words "Old England" above, and the words "Beware How You Tread on His Tail," beneath.

At 7 o'clock the Lodge met for the transaction regular business, at 8.30 o'clock the Most Worthy Grand President, R. Croft Hulme, of Belleville, assisted by the Right Worthy Grand Secretary, John W. Carter, of Toronto, together with a number of members of the Second Degree from Lindsay and Port Hope, organized a Second Degree Lodge, with a fair membership.

When the business of the evening was finished a dinner was served by Messrs. Long Bros., which reflected credit on them as caterers. A company consisting of the members of the order and their friends, in all numbering over fifty, sat down to do justice to the repast. Bro. Wm. Brundrette took the chair, and Bro. E. Mannel the vice-chair. Bro. I. Richardson, Chaplain of the Lodge, said grace. The Chairman expressed regret at the absence, through illness, of Bro. Compigne, President of Lansdowne Lodge. After full justice had been done to the dinner, the Chairman proposed the first toast of the evening, "The Queen." The company sang "God Save the Queen," and Mr. J. Milner sang "Rule Brittania." "The Prince and Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family," was proposed by the Chairman, and was responded to by the Worthy President, who sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales." The Chairman proposed the "Governor-General," and the company sang "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," with an accompaniment by Prof. Doucet. "The Army, Navy and Volunteers," was proposed by the Chairman and the Grand Worthy Secretary, in response, sang "The Red, White and Blue." "The Grand Lodge" was proposed by the Chairman. The toast was responded to by the Grand Worthy President and Grand Worthy Secretary. "The Town and Trade of Peterborough" was proposed by the Vice-Chairman and was responded by Messrs. Geo. A. Cox and A. Rutherford. "The Worthy Presidents, Officers and Brethren of Visiting Lodges" was proposed by the Vice-Chairman. The toast was responded to by the Worthy Grand President and Secretary. Mr. Irwin favored the Company with a song, "The Merrie Men of England," and Prof. Doucet gave an organ solo. "The Kindred Societies" was proposed by the Vice-Chairman and was responded to by Mr. J. Minore in behalf of the Independent Order of Oddfellows and Mr. H. Rossiter for the Canadian Foresters. "The Officers of Lansdowne Lodge" was proposed by the Worthy Grand President and was responded to by several officers of the society. "The Ladies" was proposed by the Grand Worthy Secretary and was responded to by Messrs. E. A. Peck and A. Clegg.

Mr. T. Gunn sang a song and the company before dispersing sang "God Save the Queen," and gave three hearty cheers for Her Majesty.

Winter is at Hand.

The cold weather is at hand and ere long we will have a taste of our genuine Canadian winter, when the thermometer registers many degrees below zero. To keep the body properly clothed and thus protect it from the cold wintry blasts is absolutely necessary. Good warm underclothing and seasonable clothing are essential, and a comfortable overcoat is also a convenient commodity. There is no better place in Peterborough to purchase the above requisites than Habiliment Hall. The stock is both large and first-class, and the variety is abundant. The prices are reasonable and within the reach of every one. Your order will receive immediate attention and the work turned out is unsurpassed. This establishment is noted for its superiority of workmanship, and those in want of winter clothing, made up in the latest and most fashionable styles, will do well to call. A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street.

Mr. Brosseau has had over twenty years experience in the principal cities in Canada and the United States, and is a thorough and efficient tonsoric artist in every respect. Those who are unsettled in mind as to whom they will patronize should call at the Oriental Barber shop, and they are sure to become permanent customers.

JAMES BRALEY, Hamilton, says: "I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value; we have plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was as bad with bilious fever and indigestion as I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well, and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I feel better than ever I expected to be." Free trial bottles at John McKee's.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system. For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. BOARD OF EDUCATION.

SHALL THE CERTIFICATES OF ALL THE PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS BE PRODUCED?

Miss Fair Resigns—Communications and Reports—The Preparatory Department—More Male Teachers Desirable—Chemical Appliances Needed.

A regular meeting of the School Board was held on Tuesday evening.

PRESENT.—Mr. J. Stevenson, Chairman, and Messrs. Errett, Denne, Burnham, Stratton, Sawers, Kendry and Wrighton.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

ENQUIRIES.

Mr. DENNE asked (as he had not been at the last meeting) how long writing had been taught in the public schools, or had anything been done in the matter?

Mr. COLEMAN, Principal of the Public Schools, was heard and said that writing had been taught in the public schools since he came to the principalship, but that the proper copy books were being now introduced.

Mr. DENNE asked who had appointed Miss Errett as teacher, and asked if she had the necessary qualifications?

Mr. JAS. STRATTON, Inspector of Public Schools, said that she had successfully passed her third class examination, and had her certificate.

DR. BURNHAM asked if anything had been done in reference to the preparatory class-room.

The CHAIRMAN said that Dr. Tassie had told him that it was impossible to provide rooms upstairs, but that he recommended a further lighting of the rooms, and had also told him that Mr. McKee was getting more work to do. He thought the matter was virtually settled.

Mr. KENDRY said in his opinion the room was not fit fo teach in.

Mr. SAWERS said that he had been up to the school to-day, and that he had found no one in the room as it was too dark. Dr. Tassie was going to remove the preparatory class up stairs at an early date.

	No. on Roll.	Ave. Att
Central School	607	505
West Ward	144	123
South Ward	217	169

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Mr. JAS. STRATTON, I. P. S., presented the following report:—

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg leave to report that I have visited the different rooms in the Public Schools and have found everything in good order.

The paper used for dictation is of a poor quality and in some rooms fine pointed pens are in use to the injury of the penmanship of the pupils. Complaints were made of the poor quality of the ink supplied and of imperfect desks.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
JAS. STRATTON,
Inspector of Public Schools.

SCHOOL FEES.

Mr. ERRETT asked for a statement of fees received for the months of September and October.

The Secretary read the following statement:

Amount received for Collegiate Institute for September	$83 50
Amount received from Collegiate Institute for October	85 00
Amount received from Public Schools for September	10 00
Amount received from Public Schools for October is not fully reported.

FINANCE COMMITTEES.

Dr. BURNHAM read the following report of the Finance Committee:—

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—The Finance Committee beg leave to report,—That they cannot recommend the Board to grant Mr. Campbell a month's salary as asked for by him in his letter to the Board.

Your Committee cannot recommend the payment of Mr. O'Connor's account for services at the Entrance Examinations, but recommend the payment of Mr. Campbell's account for assisting at the same.

With regard to the accounts rendered by Messrs. Brown and Hutchinson for conducting the Intermediate Examinations, your Committee being in doubt as to the liability of the Board, instructed the Secretary to write to the Minister of Education for advice and until they get an answer from him cannot report on the matter.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
G. BURNHAM,
Chairman.

The SECRETARY read a letter from J. Davidson stating that the board still owed him $8.50 as balance on services in examinations of 1883. He had received $8.50 from the County Inspector, but had not received the balance. If the amount were not promptly paid it would be collected by law.

FILLING THE POSITION.

Mr. ERRETT said that there were not a sufficient number of male teachers in the Public Schools. In the central school there was only one male teacher and when he happened to be sick the boys were scarcely controlable.

Mr. KENDRY said that he was in favour of filling the position to be vacated by Miss Fair with a male teacher, but favoured leaving the matter until there was a more representative meeting.

THE TEACHER'S CERTIFICATES.

Mr. DENNE moved, seconded by Mr. WRIGHTON,—That the Treasurer be instructed to pay no teacher not engaged by this Board.—Carried.

Mr. SAWERS moved, seconded by Mr. KENDRY,—That the qualifications of Miss Errett be referred to the Committee on Appointments, and that the Inspector be required to produce her certificate.

Mr. ERRETT moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. STRATTON,—That the Inspector be instructed to produce the certificates of all the teachers engaged in the Public Schools.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Dr. BURNHAM,—That the matter of Miss Errett be referred to the Committee on Appointments.

Mr. SAWERS withdrew his motion, Mr. Errett withdrew his amendment, and Mr. Stratton's motion was carried.

CHEMICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Mr. HORNING was heard and requested the Board to grant him a holiday of Friday, for the purpose of going to the Cobourg Laboratory to obtain instruments for the proper experimenting in chemistry. If allowed to go to Cobourg he could make several of the required instruments at a much less cost than those bought, and as useful for all practical purposes. Fifty dollars had been set apart for this matter, and if he had the spending of it at his own discretion all the required instruments might be obtained.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. KENDRY,—That the request of Mr. Horning, asking for a special holiday on Friday, Nov. 7th, be granted, and that the Treasurer be instructed to cash his orders for chemical instruments to the extent of $50.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

The Result Still in Doubt, with Chances Favouring Cleveland.

The returns from the United States Presidential election are still incomplete. The following States have decided for Cleveland, the Democratic candidate:—Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Texas, which would give Cleveland a vote of 150 in the Electoral College. The following states went, Republican:—Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont, which would make a Republican count of 156. The vote required to elect either candidate is 201.

THE LATEST.

New York has given a plurality for Cleveland, and although full returns are not in the State may be counted for him. This increases the vote in the College for the Democratic candidate to 186.

LED ASTRAY.

We have been told by those who know Mr. Mowat personally that he is scrupulously honest in his private capacity. We are glad to be so informed, but the only conclusion we can draw is that in political matters he weakly allows himself to be led astray by bad associates.

It is certain that as Attorney-General of Ontario he has not acted honestly. As one instance of his lapses from rectitude we may mention his placing upon the bench a political friend who had mis-appropriated to his own use public moneys entrusted to him, and who has invested this stolen money abroad, so that it is beyond the reach of the robbed municipality. Mr. Mowat even justified in the Legislature this elevation to the bench of an embezzling treasurer.

Then, in at least two cases, Mr. Mowat has prostituted his patronage and misapplied public funds to purchase vacancies in the House of Commons for political allies, thus hairng Mr. Burke to make way for Mr. Blake, and Mr. Wheler to make way for Mr. Edgar.

The Prince Edward County case is another flagrant instance of his want of rectitude. He, the Attorney-General of this Province, whose especially duty it is to set the law in force against illegalities, actually procured the suppression of legal proceedings against Mr. Hart on a charge of illegal acts, for the avowed reason that Mr. Hart, who was elected as the nominee of the Conservative Convention of the constituency, had forfeited his pledges and would vote for the Attorney-General who was thus shielding him from the law.

We are the more disposed to think that in such acts Mr. Mowat is not following his natural inclination, but is yielding unwillingly to the pressure of bad associates, because we find that he sometimes has the grace to be ashamed of himself. For instance when his colleagues were sending informers and decoys to endeavour to entrap political opponents into bribery, Mr. Mowat contented himself with a general knowledge of the plot and left the dirty details to be arranged by others less scrupulous. When his colleagues were disfranchising Conservatives and buying up journals in Algoma, in fact committing a variety of outrages to foist upon the constituency the self-confessed fraud Lyon, the Attorney-General kept out of the way. Even when he drew the disgraceful clause which rewarded an informer and decoy by shielding him from the operation of the law that he had broken, he would not move it himself, but put up Mr. Harcourt to do his dirty work.

While these traces of sensativeness remain there is some hope that Attorney-General Mowat may return to honest courses, and follow the natural bent of his mind.

The Toronto Globe expresses its opinion that :—

"The feeling is still too general, it is true, that a man may do and say in political warfare what would be out of the question in private intercourse or in business transactions."

Our contemporary censures this feeling when evinced by politicians, but by its own constant practice the Globe plainly indicates that it regards this principle as a fitting one for the guidance of the journalist.

We learn from the chief organ of Messrs. Blake and Mowat that it regards one of the most important colonies of the British Empire as "foreign." Is this to be one of the planks of the platform they are endeavouring to construct, in consequence of the demand for the policy of the Reform leaders?

FISHERY SEIZURE.—Inspector Gilchrist seized on Tuesday twenty barrels of white fish and salmon trout—shipped from Midland, for being out of season. Druggist's Clerk Sentenced.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 3.—Dingman, the druggist's clerk, who was convicted of manslaughter, for putting up a wrong prescription, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. A Modern Miracle.

The old miracle of the supply of quails to feed the Israelites in the desert had its parallel in Georgia the other day, according to the Calhoun Times. The story goes that a good dame, who was entertaining a lot of ministers who were holding a revival in the town of Resaca, was sadly perplexed to find food for them one day, the crowd of people in attendance having consumed everything edible in the place. Not a solitary ham was to be had, and only one small chicken. While she was busy in the kitchen preparing the chicken and wondering how she could provide for her guests, a covey of partridges flew into the dining room, the doors were closed, a number of the birds caught, and the ministers regaled with a feast fit for the gods.

A strong and veteran statesman.—Montreal Times (Reform).

EVILS OF REPUBLICANISM.

The cost in money of choosing an Executive Officer for four years will, according to experts, reach a sum which, spread over the President's term, far exceeds the expense of any court in Europe. To this are to be added the loss of time and labor, the interruption of industry and the disturbance of commerce, the last of which items is most serious. But the expense is the least part of the matter where riches abound, as they do among the people of the United States. The greatest evils of the system are the venomous passions which it excites, and the evil agencies which it calls into play.—The Week.

Only a few weeks ago the great Grit calamity yawpers were yawping from the town of Welland that the N.P. had ruined that town; had well nigh obliterated the unfortunate place. RUNNING THE GAUNTLET.

The Way the Sioux Indians Initiate a New Member.

The pages of fiction scarcely contain so strange and thrilling a story as that narrated last evening by Sebastian Beck. He is a plain, honest-looking German, probably 50 years of age, and lays claim to being considerable of a linguist and capable of speaking seven langnages in addition to Sioux Indian, which he speaks with great fluency, apparently. During nearly ten years, Beck was a member of the Sioux tribe. His story, of how he ran the gauntlet, is thus told: "We did not know what fate awaited us. But we had scarcely arrived at the Indian camp than we were given to understand that we would have to run the gauntlet. This consisted in running between two lines of braves, five hundred in each line, and taking all the blows that these could give us while we made the run which was twice up and down the line. The lines were just far enough apart to give us room to run, a line of guns being placed along each side, between us and the indians, which could not be crossed by either us or the Indians. We were compelled to keep within this line, and the Indians were not allowed to leave their position in the line, but could inflict all the punishment possible while we were within reach of each of them in turn. The Indians were armed with sticks, moccasins, and everything that could be used to strike with of a nature that would inflict pain without doing great bodily injury, but cheifly with a kind of cat-o-nine-tails used by the Indians in riding their ponies. This is a terrible weapon, having a large number of strings on the end of each of which is a chunk of lead. There were a large number of squaws in the line in addition to the braves, who appeared to take as strong an interest in the matter as the latter. We were stripped naked with the exception of breech-clouts, which were given us. I was placed first in the line of twenty-five, the run being made by all together in single file. This was a decided advantage to me, as I could go as fast as I liked, not having to depend upon the speed of others. A friendly Indian, the one who had encouraged me at first, signalled me, giving me to understand that I was to run as fast as I could. I did not need the advice after I got well started, but it served me until I got past the first dozen as I started while they were chatting among themselves. But the rest of the way I got it, I tell you. I just ran for dear life, taking the blows as they came. I could not repress some exclamation of pain as the whips cut into my flesh but I managed to keep from disgracing myself in the minds of the Indians, although suffering terribly at every blow received."

"Did many of them miss you?"

"After the first dozen none that I know of. They laid on the blows as hard as they could, but conformed strickly to their law, which is not to leave their place in the line to inflict further punishment. When I reached the end of the line the first time I was covered with blood and thoroughly winded, being scarcely able to stand. We managed to get through with our lives, not one of the twenty-one failing or giving up. We were then admited to membership in the tribe."

Beck is now travelling among the Indians looking for his wife and children, whom he lost when captured years ago.—Denver News.

FOUND.—On the Lakehurst road between Lakehurst and Sandy Creek bridge a hat and whip was found by Mr. Jno. Elliot. Not even a detailed account will be requested from the loser.

PUBLIC OUTRAGE.—Last Friday evening, commemorate of "Hollowe'een," a number of the "small fry" of Buckhorn, took opportunity of the occasion, and whether as a means of avenging themselves on the civil interests of the place, or otherwise indulging in one of their freaks; they entered the school house, turned over the desks, upset the stove, broke the children's slates, tore the books, and also destroyed the register so as to render it unfit for use. This was a shameful act and the school authorities should be advised to make a dilligent search for the author or authors of such an action, and submit them to justice.

CONTRADICTION.—In the issue of this paper, dated September 26th last, an item appeared under the Harvey news, referring to the challenged race between Messrs. Parker and Hurl vs. Winters and Croly. Your correspondent, however, disclaims being the author of said article, and furthermore, having been blamed for the insertion, he claims your defence in the case. It can be safely asserted that no such race occurred at the place stated, and the statement itself regarded as a hoax. Let the laurels be attributed to those who are deserving of the honor.

PETERBOROUGH'S PROGRESS TOWARDS THE RANK OF A CITY.

The Large Amount of Business Operations in the Town this Year—Business Places, Churches, Factories and Dwellings—Over $200,000 Expended.

A review of the building operations of the town during this year shows conclusively what everybody acquainted with the town must have believed, that the total amount expended in the corporation during the year is in excess of recent years, if not unprecedented. Industrial establishments have been erected, churches have been renewed, business places erected and in course of erection, and dwelling houses have been built. Many of the new buildings are of a superior class. In the churches of the town $49,000 has been expended, showing that, while business and home comforts have been so well remembered, religious duties have not been forgotten.

The contractors of the town have had their hands full, and have during the year experienced a difficulty in getting enough men to prosecute their work as vigorously as was desired. Besides, several of the Peterborough builders have had large contracts outside the town, and the aggregate of the work done by one of them, Mr. J. W. Alford, outside of the town, is $35,000.

The aggregate of the amount expended on erecting new buildings and enlarging others previously built amounts to the large sum of $205,859. This is an exceedingly creditable record, and one that shows that the town is advancing rapidly towards the status of a city.

The following is a list of the operations of the year, as complete as it could be made, although some buildings may have been unintentionally omitted or overlooked:—

"I do not like thee, Dr. Fell,
The reason why, I cannot tell"

It has often been wondered at, the bad odor this oft-quoted doctor was in. FOUR young men who recently broke up a private party at Weidman, because they were not invited as guests, have been fined heavily by Judge Robinson of Sarnia.

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

THE secretary of the Montreal Society for the Protection of Women and Children has been committed for trial for abduction.

——"Why! What's the matter?"

Lady—(with face enveloped in roll of hot cloths)—"Oh! I'm crazy with neuralgia that continually troubles me."

——"Well, how foolish! Why don't you go to John McKee's drug store and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning? It cured me in less that one minute. I always keet a bottle in house. It only costs 25 cents."

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

Thanksgiving Day.

To-morrow, Thursday, is the day set apart by the Governor-General as a day of general thanksgiving, and it will be observed as a holiday. Business will be generally suspended, and the DAILY EVENING REVIEW will not be issued to-morrow evening.

Mass Meeting.

There will be held in Bradburn's Opera House to-morrow night a mass meeting of the Saved Army, when several of the delegates will deliver stirring addresses. The musical portion of the meeting is expected to be one of a rare character.

The Fire Brigade.

The members of the Fire Brigade have, collectively, decided to offer an additional inducement for the members, individually, to be regular in their attendance at the meetings of the Brigade and prompt in answering the call of the alarm. At the regular meeting on Tuesday night a resolution was adopted to purchase two gold badges, to be given to the two members of the Brigade who will be present at and answer to the largest number of roll calls during next year.

Court Little John.

Court Little John, Canadian Order of Foresters, met on Tuesday evening in their hall on Water street for the purpose of installing the officers for the ensuing year. The installing officers were Bro. W. Watson, D. D. H. C. R., assisted by Bros. J. Fanning, P. C. R., and W. S. Cocks, H. M. The following officers for Court Little John were installed:—

Bro. H. T. Holmes.....W.C.R.
" Geo. Rose.....V.C.R.
" John Livingston.....Chap.
" R. H. Lithgow.....R.S.
" Jno. R. Stone.....F.S.
" Chas. F. Manning.....Treas.
" Jos. Sanderson.....S.W.
" R. Mulligan.....J.W.
" Wm. H. Stevens.....S.B.
" W. J. Scollie.....J.B.
" R. King, M. D.....Court Physician

This Court, we are informed, is in a highly flourishing condition, both numerically and financially. New members are elected at every meeting of the Court and its proportions are gradually swelling.

To-Night's Concert.

Secure seats at Hartley's Music Store for the concert and entertainment this evening at the Opera House. See programme in another column. The Topeka Commonwealth says of the star, Miss Couthoui:—

"Miss Couthoui was the bright particular star, the magnet of the evening. She shone with the splendor which has so far eclipsed all other stars in the lady's chosen field, and where her genius, gifts, graces and culture stand forth peerless."

And the Alton Democrat says:—

"There was something about the reader that was captivating. Call it what you may, it was there, and its effect was felt throughout the entire audience. We have heard other readers whose ability was, we thought, unequalled, but never have we seen such grace of movement and perfect control of voice and feature as was manifest last night. The verdict which we have to offer is, she is inimitable."

The Champaign Gazette says:—

"Possessed of a graceful presence, a musical and cultured voice of wonderful capabilities and an unusual talent for both expression of feeling and mimicry, she held the audience in breathless silence, except in humorous selections, when she was frequently interrupted by the laughter she compelled."

Evidence of Good Times.

We hear of depression in the United States, of dullness in trade in England and of manufactories in these countries not doing as much business as is desirable. But we are more directly interested in our own country, our Canadian Dominion, and especially our own town of Peterborough. The reports of depression from other countries have led many to expect and suspect a similar unfortunate state of affairs here. But how is business in Peterborough? Let one of our manufacturers and business men answer; call on Mr. Belleghem, at his handsome furniture warerooms. Mr. Belleghem states that his business is good; that trade is lively; men working steadily and overtime; stock large and sales brisk, thus allowing no accumulation of old stock; and everything flourishing. There is no need, he says, of pretending that times are "hard" in order to announce low prices, for when trade is good, as it is, and sales brisk, small profits suffice and the prices are therefore low. Goods are marked down with him as low as they could be, no matter how "hard" times might be. The "hard times" are a myth, and people should not make that an excuse for not paying their accounts. The crops this year were good, and if the grain was marketed and accounts paid, even those who now imagine that times are dull would be surprised to see how brisk they would be. Messrs. A. L. Davis & Co.'s idea as to there being no hard times is correct. Mr. Belleghem's furniture van is constantly going to and fro, and it is evident that business is good. Mr. Belleghem has been so successful that he has made a present (given away—"free gratis") of about $500 worth of handsome brackets to customers and others, and they have found their way through the surrounding country and into Port Hope, Lindsay and other towns. His trade is extending. That is an evidence of prosperity, and this evidence is corroborated to to such an extent that the unanimous verdict must be that "busines is good."

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

Bro. H. W. Watson, of the Canadian Order of Foresters, Receives a Handsome Gift.

On Tuesday evening, after the installation of officers at Court Little John, Bros. W. S. Cocks, Geo. Rose, and R. H. Lithgow on behalf of Court Little John, presented the Deputy District High Chief Ranger, Bro. H. W. Watson, with a valuable gold locket, accompanied with the following address:—

November 4th, 1884.

To H. W. Watson, Esq., Deputy District High Cuief Ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters, of the County of Peterborough, Ontario.

We, the officers and members of Court Little John, No. 92, have marked with pleasure your zealous and increasing interest in the noble order of Canadian Foresters, and we take this opportunity of showing the unanimous pleasure which this Court feels in presenting you with this locket, as a small token of the esteem in which you are held by us as Father of our Court, and also in appreciation of your valuable services to the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Signed,
W. S. COCKS,
GEORGE ROSE,
R. H. LITHGOW.

Mr. Watson was taken entirely by suprise, but he replied in applicable words and feeling terms.

The locket was a handsome gold one, and on one side bore the following inscription neatly engraved:—"Presented to H. W. Watson, D. D. H. C. R., as a mark of esteem, by the members of Court Little John, No. 92." On the other side there was a representation of a stag's head, with the letters "C. O. F." above it and "L. B. C." under it. The gift was a beautiful one, and no doubt, owing to the circumstances under which it was received, Mr. Watson will prize it highly.

A New Industry.

Mr. Alex. Gibson, well known in Peterborough, some time ago purchased from Mr. Geo. Rumrell, the exclusive right to manufacture the Rumrell fire escape ladder. This ladder possesses the two desirable qualities of utility and durability. It is made of iron rods one foot long, joined together, and can be folded together in a compact form. The ladder can be hung from the building or it may be laid on the roof. Mr. Gibson has filled a great many orders for this excellent ladder during the past summer, and the demand is increasing. Among those buildings provided with this ladder are, St. John's Church, George Street Methodist Church, the Auburn Woollen Mills, and many of the large private residences. We understand it is Mr. Gibson's intention to introduce the ladder through Western Canada.

Oddfellows' Entertainment.

Winter is at Hand.

The cold weather is at hand and ere long we will have a taste of our genuine Canadian winter, when the thermometer registers many degrees below zero. To keep the body properly clothed and thus protect it from the cold wintry blasts is absolutely necessary. There is no better place in Peterborough to purchase the above requisites than Habilliment Hall. The stock is both large and first-class, and the variety is abundant. The prices are reasonable and within the reach of every one. Your order will receive immediate attention and the work turned out is unsurpassed. This establishment is noted for its superiority of workmanship, and those in want of winter clothing, made up in the latest and most fashionable styles, will do well to call. A. Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, can be cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effects result from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Circulars and testimonials sent free. Address, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

JAMES BRALEY, Hamilton, says: "I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value; we have plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was as bad with bilious fever and indigestion as I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well, and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I feel better than ever I expected to be." Free trial bottles at John McKee's.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you,

SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh,

CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

"Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882.

ULCEROUS SORES "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, P. F. JOHNSON."

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1884.

NOT IN PETERBOROUGH.

As an additional evidence that the asserted depression is not raging in Peterborough, if, indeed, it is elsewhere, we may mention the fact that every machine on every one of the five flats of the Auburn Woollen Mill is being run to its full capacity. So great, indeed, is the pressure to fill orders, that even on Thanksgiving Day there was no cessation. Neither is there any apprehension that this state of affairs is only temporary, as there is no sign of hard times in their business outlook.

We are glad to find that a number of our business men are coming voluntarily to us to repudiate the idea of hard times as connected with their own industries, and to express their indignation at the false and injurious cry of commercial depression that is being raised with so little foundation by those who do not hesitate to injure our trade to gain their own political ends.

Week of Prayer.

In accordance with a custom of some years standing the second Sunday in November and the week following will be observed by the Young Men's Christian Association as a week of prayer. On Sunday several clergymen will make special reference to the work among young men from their pulpits. The Association meetings will be held as follows, in their rooms over the post office, these on Sunday being open to all and those held throughout the week being exclusively for young men:—

SUNDAY, 9th Nov., 4 p. m.—The Lord our helper.—Psalms xx. Leader J. F. Holden.

SUNDAY, 9th Nov., 8.30 p.m.—God's appeal to me.—Jer. iii, 4. Eccl. xii, 1; Jer. x, 23. Leader, G. M. Roger.

MONDAY, 10th Nov., 8 p. m.—The fatal choice.—Gen. iii, 1-6; Rom. v, 12-14, 19-21. Leader, T. G. Bone.

TUESDAY, 11th Nov., 8 p.m.—Young men's Bible class.—Rev. A. H. Munro.

THURSDAY, 13th Nov., 8 p.m.—Two choices; which is mine?—Mark x, 17-22; Luke v, 27-28. Leader, Rev. E, F. Torrance.

FRIDAY, 14th Nov., 8 p.m.—The Apostle's choice and the Lord's promise.—Mat. xix, 27-29. Leader, Rev. I. Tovell.

SATURDAY, 15th Nov,, 8 p.m.—Choose life.—Deut. xxx, 15-20; Col. iii, 1-4. Leader, Rev. F. McAmmond.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Bibles and Prayer Books.

They desire also to thank their Protestant friends and the public generally for their liberal assistance.

COUNCIL OF WAR.

The Second and Third Days of the Saved Army Council.

The Saved Army Council of War met in one of the rooms of Bradburn's Hall on Wednesday. The various committees were struck as follows:

Printing—Bros. Sproule, Pollard and Harper.

Finance,—Bros. Wier, Stevenson and McGibbon.

Stationary,—Bros. Bartell, McDonald and Doxee.

Credentials,—Bros. Honor, Blodget and Phillips,

Petitions and Appeals,—Bros. McGowan, Hallington, Milward, Scott (Portsmouth), Bick and Campbell.

The Printing Committee was instructed to consider the question of enlarging the official organ, the Saved Army Trumpet.

The operations of the Army in Canada was divided unto three divisions, the eastern, from the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward eastward; the western, from the counties of York and Simcoe westward; and the central, between the eastern and western divisions.

Reports from several stations were read and received.

The auditing of the accounts of the different stations was referred to a special committee and the accounts of the Secretary Treasurer were read received and adopted. It was decided that the first Council of War for the western division should be held at Wingham; the first Council of War for the eastern division at Brockville (in about three months); that of the central division at Cobourg; and that the Executive Committee should meet at Peterborough in six months from date.

Capt. Auburn reported on the good work that was being done in the Western Division.

A Committee was appointed to frame rules for the government of Stations and Officers.

On Thursday night a mass meeting was held in the Opera House. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and was illuminated with the electric light. Capt. Auburn, of Winghan, and Capt. Willis, of Ottawa, conducted the meeting and short addresses were delivered by General Lindsay, the Rev. E. F. Torrance, and several of the delegates.

Wm. Mitchell, a blind boy from Ashburnham, about sixteen years old, read a portion of Scripture, using a Bible with raised letters.

We are informed that the Saved Army in Canada is in a prosperous state, so that the outlook for the future is very bright.

New Livery Stables.

Messrs. Connors Bros. have opened out a new livery stable in the old "Eastland" premises, and those recently occupied by Mr. Wm. Morgan. They have purchased the horses and rigs of Mr. W. Hopkins and intend to carry on a first class business. Commercial waggons, hacks, busses, phaetons and buggies, may behad in good order and short notice, and horses are all good roadsters.

The Effects of Hallowe'en.

It seems that Hallowe'en did not pass over so quietly in Ashburnham as it did in Peterborough. Bills are posted up, signed by Mr. John Wood, the village clerk, offering $25 reward for the apprehension of those persons who did on the 31st day of October smash stained glass windows in St. Luke's Church, stop up the key holes in the public school and for committing other depredations. Although everyone is licensed to ascertain extent on Hallowe'en, yet it is a pity that some persons should carry fun and jokes to such a disgraceful degree of destructiveness.

The Churches.

Thursday, November 6th, having been set apart for public thanksgiving, services were held in the various churches as follows:—At St. Peter's Cathedral, celebration of mass at 6.30 a. m. and 8 a.m. St. John's Church, early celebration at 8.30 a.m., prayers and celebration at 11 a.m., and in the evening at 7.30 o'clock full service. The lessons were read by the Rev. E. Seward and the Rev. J. W. R. Beck preached the sermon taking for his text St Luke xii, 15, "And he said unto them Take heed, and beware of coveteousness, for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of thing which he possesseth." At the Charlotte Street Methodist Church at 11 a.m. there was held a union service. The Rev. T. Manning delivered an address on the "Commercial and Spiritual Advancement of Canada." He reviewed the growing prosperity and the widening commerce of Cadada and contrasted with it the spiritual state. At the Baptist Church at 7.30 p.m. service was held. The Rev. T. Munroe conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. E. F. Terrance. The Rev. Mr. Munroe preached an able sermon on "Thanksgiving." At St. Andrews Church at 3.30 p.m. a service was held. The Rev. Alex. Bell preached on the offering of first fruits. At St. Luke's Church the services of the day at 11 a.m. and 7.90 p.m. were conducted by the Rev. Weston Jones, of Lindsay.

The Explosive of the Future.

The explosive of the future is undoubtedly blasting gelatine, the latest invention of Mr. Nobel. Already on the continent the manufacture of this new agent has assumed important dimensions, though here, owing to the stringency of the climatic test imposed by the government, its position is as yet scarcely established. Many of the later operations of the St. Gothard tunnel were carried out with pure blasting gelatine, and in Austria, the richest of all the European countries in mines except in Great Britain, the factories where dynamite was formerly made are now given over to its manufacture. It is simply dynamite, a base actif, containing 93 per cent. of nitro-glycerine, with a base of 7 per cent. of collodion wool, that is itself an explosive, in the place of the inert kieselguhr. As a blasting agent it is more homogeneous than dynamite, and on account of its elasticity is less sensible to outward impressions, while in handling or cutting the cartridges there is no loss of material, as sometimes occurs with dynamite. Its further advantages are that the gasses after explosions are lighter and thinner, and leave no dust, developing at the same time a more considerable power. Taking the power of dynamite at 1,000 and nitro-glycerine at 1,141, blasting gelatene is represented by 1,555, in addition to which superiority it is capable, unlike dynamite, of retaining its nitro-glycerine when brought in contact with water. Sir Frederick Abel has kept it for a year under water without its undergoing the slightest chemical change. It is a satisfaction to reflect that so complicated and delicate is the progress required for the production of this new explosive, it is never likely to be made by unskilled persons or concocted in a back shop in Birmingham. —Cornhill Magazine.

THE U. S. PRESIDENT.

Grover Cleveland, the Democratic Candidate, Said to be Elected.

It may not be out of place to point out in this place what the "Editorial College" is. Each State in the Union elects a certain number of representatives to the College, the number each State is allowed being in accordance with its population. These representatives elect the President, and thus, when the majority of voters in a State support a ticket, the whole electoral vote of the State is counted for the candidate so supported. According to the constitution even these electors need not be chosen by the popular vote. The legislature of each State is empowered to say how they shall be chosen. It would be quite within the constitution to have them nominated by the Governor, chosen by the legislature or selected by lot. As as a matter of fact, any such arrangement would be unprecedented and in the present election the popular election was the rule.

According to the latest despatches Grover Cleveland, the Democratic canditate, is believed to have been elected. The doubtful States were New York, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia and Nevada. Of these the Democrats claim 1,000 majority in New York, and 6,000 in Indiana, while the Republicans concede them 2,000 in the latter State. West Virginia has also gone Democratic, while Michigan and Nevada have decided for the Republicans. This would cause the electoral vote to stand 219 for Cleveland and would give him a majority on the electoral vote of 37 over Blaine and 18 more than would be necessary for his election, the Republican electoral vote being 182.

There is still a shade of doubt about New York, but it appears that Cleveland has a majority in that State.

REFORM "SUBMISSION."

We are told by their leading journal that the Reformers did submit to the National Policy and paid the fifty per cent. of additional taxation it exacted. We are also told on the same authority that the Reformers did not go into rebellion, much as they felt the folly and injustice of the policy adopted, but set about remedying the evil in the constitutional manner.

From this we may learn the value attached by the Reformers to a popular decision (when it is given against them), and what they mean by submission to it. If they stop short of rebellion, they are, it appears, to be regarded as submissive, and apparently they wonder at their own self-denial in not becoming rebels when outvoted.

We also learn from the leading organ of the party what in Reform ethics is a constitutional manner of opposing a policy adopted and ratified by the nation. We all know the manner in which the National Policy has been combatted by its opponents even since its ratification by a general election after some years' trial, and therefore we know what the Reform organ considers constitutional opposition. Among these methods are the following: Vilification of the statesmen chosen by the people to carry out the policy and of the great majority of the electors who chose them for that purpose; abuse of the manufacturers as robbers, and of the factory operatives as immoral and unskilful; the employment of "special correspondents" to visit the factories and publish such gross falsehoods to their discredit as to call forth a chorus of denials from Reformers and Conservatives alike; the persistent misrepresentation of the state of our trade and commerce to induce a panic if possible; the constant crying down of the credit of the country in order to deter capital from coming in; the endeavour to set Province against Province and class against class by stirring up prejudice against isolated features of the tariff; false representations to one set of men that their products have been reduced in prices and to another set of men that the very same articles have been increased in price by the N. P.

If this is submission to the popular verdict, the Globe is indeed right in assuming anything to be submissive that falls short of rebellion. What we would regard as submission to the popular verdict would be at least a fair trial for a time of the policy adopted, and a consent to aid in carrying it out so as to give that fair trial, just as in every organized body it is the frequent habit of the minority to assist frankly and honourable in carrying out the plans resolved upon by the majority. Efforts to frustrate the success of the adopted policy by placing every possible obstacle in its way may be constitutional (according to the Globe's reading of the constitution), but it certainly is not fair, honest or patriotic.

Reformers must, therefore, pardon us if we doubt that they desire an appeal to the people in order that the popular decision may be received with submission.

It appears that some time ago the members of the Dominion Cabinet committed the great fault, in Reform eyes, of remaining in Ontario and Quebec when they should have visited the North West. Not being persistent offenders, some of them have now visited the North-West. But it appears from Reform reproaches that they have thereby only committed another fault, for they should have remained at Ottawa. These critics are hard to please, and in fact we fear it is impossible for the Dominion Ministers to please them, the real cause of grief being that the people of the Dominion persist in entrusting the Administration of their affairs to Conservative statesman.

THE Globe abuses us for exposing its disgraceful fraud in representing us as expressing unwillingness that the question of Jamaica annexation should be left to the people, when in the very article to which it was referring we really expressed our willingness that it should be so left. Of course the Globe expresses no regret at thus falsifying our words, and does not even attempt to excuse its conduct. It is hardened in its untruthfulness.

A Bird Twelve Feet High.

The largest bird known to othnologists was found by Professor Herbert in the lower cocene deposits near Paris, France. It was 12 feet in height, and could have bitten a man's head off as easily a woodpecker can nip a cherry. We cannot be too sorry that this bird has gone out o fashion and existence. Ladies would have wanted to wear it on their hats, and men who sat behind such bonnet ornaments in the theatres would be unable to see whether a ballet or prayer meeting were in progress on the stage.—Boston Herald.

THE INTERMEDIATE STATE.

The Doctrine of the Catholic Church Called the Intermediate State—The Doctrine of the Romish Church Called Purgatory.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—When the Rev. Mr. Conway undertook to give a discourse upon what he called the middle state of punishment, he should have kept strictly to the subject in hand, and not have confused his hearers by treating of another entirely distinct subject. He has endeavoured, I should fear, rather to mislead his hearers than to enlighten them. He has made the intermediate state one with the Romish doctrine of purgatory. The Catholic Church has always held the doctrine of an intermediate state and still holds it. The Church of Rome did once hold it, but at the Council of Trent perverted this doctrine by turning it into purgatory. In order to prove the doctrine of purgatory Mr. Conway proceeds to prove that there is an intermediate state. He assumes that by proving there is an intermediate state he has proved the existance of purgatory. Surely he must rate the intelligence of his hearers at a low level.

I will endeavour to separate what has been so dreadfully mixed.

1. There is an intermediate state. The Church Catholic has always taught this, but Rome has made this a place of punishment, and this the Catholic Church has never taught. The preacher, to begin, takes his text from the Book of Maccabees, and in the course of his remarks says: "He could easily prove that it is a canonical book." This book and the rest of the Apocrypha was not regarded as a canonical book during the first four centuries of the Christian Church. None of these books are extant in the Hebrew. They were written for the most part by Alexandrian Jews, subsequently to the cessation of the prophetic spirit. Not one of the writers advances a claim to inspiration. They were not received into the sacred canon of the Jewish Church, and therefore they were not sanctioned by our Saviour; but the Council of Trent at its fourth session presumed to place them, except the Prayer of Manasseh and the third and fourth books of Esdras, in the same rank as the inspired writings of Moses. What then becomes of the argument from this book, which is not inspired, and which our Lord did not sanction?

The preacher stated that in the 16th century an effort was made to destroy the belief of people in this doctrine. I ask in what doctrine? We are asked to believe it was to destroy a belief in the intermediate state, for the argument is almost wholly directed to prove what is not doubted, viz.: the intermediate state. No such effort was made; the Church of England, which was especially prominent, made an effort, and a very successful one, to relieve her children from the false doctrine of purgatory, because it was Romish and not Catholic. And he further says it was believed by the universal world. What does the preacher call the universal world? It is not believed by the Greek or Eastern Churches, and never was believed by them, and when Rome made the first great schism and separated from the eastern part of Christendom, the Greek Patriarch ruled over more bishops and laity than Rome. A part is not equal to the whole, but a Romanist is weak enough to suppose so. But the preacher's facts are wrong, and his argument falls for want of foundation. The preacher tells us that the Church always taught the doctrine of a middle state of punishment. Why not call it by its right name and say Purgatory? I suppose he will believe Dr. Newman when he contradicts him about a fact of history. I quote from Dr. N.: "Purgatory was no received opinion during the first ages of the Gospel. Hardly one or two short passages of one or two Fathers for six centuries can be brought in its favor."

Clemens Romanus and other fathers are brought as witnesses for the intermediate state of punishment, but while they speak of an intermediate state, it is not of punishment, it is not Purgatory. How could the preacher make so untrue a statement?

Clemens Romanus says: "Those who have finished their course in charity, according to the grace of Christ, possess the region of the godly." Justin Martyr says: "The souls of the godly remain in a certain better place; the unjust and wicked in a worse, awaiting the day of judgment." Irenœus and Cyprian speak in the same way. Tertullian speaks of Paradise "as a place of divine pleasantness, destined to receive the spirits of the just." All this shews that the middle state of punishment, or purgatory, is a Roman, not a Catholic, doctrine.

But the practical abuse of this doctrine has been the shame and disgrace of the Romanists. They have used it for the purpose of filling the coffers of the Church, and of keeping up a Priesthood at the expense of the ignorant, until the patience of the Italian, the Spaniard, and other Roman nations has become worn out, and infidelity and vice have honey-combed the Roman Communions. A soul to be prayed out of purgatory has been a powerful appeal to mothers and fathers, and wives and husbands; the tenderest feelings have been raised by sorrow, and Rome has used them. "Money for the masses for the souls in Purgatory." When the money is wanting the prayer must cease, the father, or mother, as the case may be, must burn and suffer. The Mail told us the other day that the masses for Marie Antoinette had ceased, because there was no money. Will the world be gulled any longer? Surely it will not. And that is why Dr. Lynch and Mr. Conway preach diluted Romanism. They dare not put Romanism in its true light before their people. They mix it up with other things; they present it shorn of its horrors, and they give us sermons oftentimes so divested of the real doctrines of Romanism that one listens with a quiet wonder.

Yours truly,
CATHOLICUS.

A PROPELLER'S DANGER.

The Steamer Lake Ontario nearly Wrecked —Coolness of Officers and Crew.

The propellor Lake Ontario had a rough time on Lake Ontario on Tuesday night. She left Hamilton on the afternoon of that day loaded principally with apples. After passing Toronto the wind rose, and it required four men at the wheel to quide her right. Finally the captain was forced to head for the nearest harbour, which was Port Hope, and they made for it with the sea running mountains high, and the breakers dashing over the piers to a great height, the surf looking like immense banks of snow.

Inside the cabin all was confusion. Two women were shrieking and clinging to one another in tears. Dishes, bedroom sets, lamps and furniture were broken and strewn in all directions. Life preservers were being buckled on, and many a heart felt prayer was offered up. Outside, on the neck and other parts of the ship, although the gaff had been snapped, the gangway and scuttle blown off, to the honor and praise of the captain and crew nothing but the most perfect order prevailed. Every man stood to his post as they came bounding toward the lighthouse, all eyes strained to catch the narrow entrance through which they must pass or meet the inevitable smashing to pieces of the ship on either side. They were now within 160 or 200 yards. The captain gave the order to put on all steam. They bounded forward on the crest of an immense wave, then sank so far down that she struck the bottom with a thud, rose again on another wave, only to sink and strike again and again. Finally the boat was turned around and thrown stern foremost between the piers. Here their danger did not cease, as she was being carried out again, when one of the deck hands, with the daring of a hero, jumped from the deck unto the pier, which was being washed by every sea. Ropes were thrown to him, which he quickly made fast to the spiles, and gradually they were worked further into the harbour until in safe quarters.

INUNDATIONS.

Lower Quebec Submerged—Storm and Flood at Rimouski.

QUEBEC, Nov. 5.—The high spring tide visited Quebec this evening about 7 o'clock, and helped by the raging wind and snow storm of last night and to-day, swelled its waves until they reached 8 to 9 feet above the wharves all along the harbour. The cellars of all the warehouses in the lower part of the town, or what is commonly called Lower town, are flooded, and also nearly every building as far back as the cliffs. In some instances along the front streets the water reaches over the front floors. The extent of the flood cannot be fully ascertained. The principal streets flooded are Dalhousie, St. Peter, Sault au Matelot, St. Paul, Commissioner street, extending as far as St. Roche, the entire length of Champlain street—in fact all the lower portion of Quebec. The tide has now receded and the water is making its disappearance. It came so suddenly that none of the merchants were prepared for the flood. They were generally notified about the expectancy of unusal high tides, but this forenoon the tide was usual and gave no idea of the approaching floods, hence there was no precaution taken. The water rose to a depth of three feet on Dalhousie street and about one foot on St. Peter street. A great number of wharves and pontoons have been badly broken up and loosened.

RIMOUSKI COMPLESELY INUNDATED.

RIMOUSKI, Nov. 5.—The spring tides which are usually very high at this season of the year, visited this place last night and to-day, and helped by a raging snow storm and high north-east wind, have swollen tremendously, and the sea which is now running is the heaviest that has visited this vicinity for years. The whole town of Rimouski is inundated, and forms a part of the sea itself. A large number of houses, barns, and stables, as also various wharves, about fifteen to eighteen in number, have been carried away with their contents. So far as heard, no lives have been lost. Part of the Intercolonial railway track is inundated, and trains are retarded. People are leaving their houses in boats. The cattle have been turned loose, and have taken to the interior of the country. Several stores where goods here placed have become almost worthless. Further fears are entertained for the next high tide. The loss so far is estimated at between $25,000 to $30,000.

PROCLAMATION!

BULLETIN ISSUED FROM THE CITY CLOTHING STORE.

PERSONALLY we do not know every buyer of Clothing and Gents' Furnishings in Peterborough, but the constant and uninterupted flow of new customers who are daily making our establishment their headquarters for their wants, warrants us in believing that the public after once visiting the City Clothing Store, become SOLID customers. And what is more, they tell their friends and neighbours of the fair and square manner they are dealt with, and by this means we have gained the public confidence.

PERSONAL: H LeBRUN is never behind in anything he takes hold of, and in the Clothing Trade he has proved himself a shrewd buyer—purchasing nothing that would be an eyesore on the shelves, and taking none but a class of goods that the general public are in daily need of. The WORKING MAN is not forgotten by LeBRUN, who has constantly on hand a class of goods that the mechanic requires, such as Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, Gloves, Hosiery, Underwear, Umbrellas, Rugs, Water-proof Coats—in fact everything in the Gentlemens' Furnishing line.

A GOOD FIT IS EVERYTHING!

If a man buys a suit of Clothes, the first thing he will do is to choose a piece of cloth he likes—something suitable and pretty. That's right; the correct thing to do. But if that man does not get a good fit—if the Cutter makes a "botch" of the job—the cloth that looked so enticing to him before being made up, now becomes cheap-looking and he dosen't like it. MR. KILPATRICK, although only with the City Clothing Store about two months, is giving universal satisfaction, and he makes no mistakes nor botches no clothes, but guarantees a perfect fit and the most fashionable cut. In consequence our Order Department is having an unprecedented run. In BOYS' SUITS we are doing a grand trade.

JUST LISTEN TO THIS!

We have an extra large stock of Ready-made Overcoats for Men and Boys, and are determined to dispose of them immediately. So if you want a neat and nobby Coat cheap, call and examine ours.

In UNDERCLOTHING our assortment is very extensive, and the public will find on examination that it is one of the best stocks in town.

In GENTS' FURNISHINGS the City Clothing Store stands at the head of the class. Your every want is here, and if you cannot see what you want, ask for it, and presto! it is before you. The greatest feature in our store is the prices, they are ROCK BOTTOM!

KEENE

From Our Own Correspondent

TEMPLE.—The I. O. G. T. Lodge in Lang is at present resting on its oars, as nearly everyone in the locality belongs to it. There is some talk of starting one here, but as we are likely to have the Scott Act before long we won't need a Temple.

POOR POLICY.—A number of the School Trustees are trying to get a cheap teacher and thus save money. A poor teacher is costly at any price. We hope that the Trustees of the various School Sections will procure the best material at a reasonable price and give up the idea of cutting down the salaries.

BUILDING.—The Presbyterian Church is begining to look very fine. The Kerr Bros., of Norwood, and late of this village, have been painting this week, and are doing their work in their usual good manner. Dr. Harrison's house begins to look well. Mr. Lang's house is also ready for the plasterers and will look well when finished.

WINTER FUEL.—Coal is being largely used in the village, 40 tons having arrived at present and now 25 tons more are wanted.

PERSONAL.—Mr. M. Kennealy has been very sick, but is improving. Mr. McCarthy, of Millbrook, and a few friends have been camping as usual on Rice Lake and managed to get a fine lot of ducks. Mr. Young, the new miller, has leased the Keene mills and is now turning out some fine flour.

ORANGE.—The regular meeting of Keene Lodge, No. 494, will be held on Thursday evening next. A large attendance is expected, as business of importance will be transacted.

GRAIN MARKET.—Grain moves rather slowly. Mr. Bell, at the Keene station, is giving the best prices for wheat and barley and has even given above the Peterborough prices.

ALLANDALE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ENTERTAINMENT.—An Open Temple was held in the hall, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 29th. The Lodge Deputy occupied the chair. After the opening ceremonies, readings, recitations, and a dialogue were well given, each of which called forth applause. Mr. Sam. Armstrong gave us a good speech on the Scott Act, Rev. T. Sexsmith, Hiawatha, an excellent address on Temperance, and the Rev. J. Tozeland, Keene, made some appropriate remarks as the closing address. Music was furnished by the choir of the Temple. The Misses Sarah Carter and S. Hope presided at the organ. The hall was densely crowded, and all expressed themselves well plaased with the evening's proceedings.

I.O.G.T.—The following is the list of officers installed for the present quarter for the I. O. G. T. Lodge:—

Bro. S. Armstrong	W.C.T.
" Geo. Shearer	W.S.
" Robt. Eson	W.F.S
" Jas. Shearer	W.T
" Robt. Speirs	W. Chap
" Wm. Dinsdale	W.M
" Robt. Scollie	W.O.G
Sis. Edith Armstrong	W.V.T
" Susan Mark	R.H.S
" Annie Hastie	L.H.S
" Elizabeth Dinsdale	I.G
Bro. David Nelson	P.W.C.T

This lodge has now 102 members. Night of meeting, Saturday.

THE MAILS.—Mr. Geo. English is always at his post in all weathers, carrying the mail, twice each day, and with the same a large budget of REVIEWS to keep its numerous subscribers thoroughly posted on what is going on, advocating and encouraging the right, and exposing that which is not right.

SHIPPING GRAIN.—Mr. Chas. Bell continues to buy grain at the station, being assisted by Mr. Pat Foley. They have sent off a large number of car loads and have now 10 more car loads of barley waiting shipment, besides a quantity of wheat. We congratulate ourselves on the fact of having one of the most obliging and best station master on the whole line.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FORGERY.—Mr. Charles Courier was charged with forging Mr. C. Wynn's name to an order on Mr. T. Recroft, for a pair of boots, before Squire Hull on Wednesday last, and committed for trial by the Court of competent jurisdiction.

A SUDDEN CALL.—The workmen of the new dam at Lakefield were startled on Monday last by the news that Mr. James Smale, one of their number, was dead. Mr. Smale had worked all day on Saturday last. He complained of being chilly on going from work and was taken ill the same night. A doctor was called in on Sunday, but he was not thought to be dangerous, and on Monday at about 1 o'clock he died. Inflammation is said to be the cause. The deceased came to this place from England last spring and has been working for Mr. Chas. Wynn on the Lakefield and Young's Point dams for some time. He was a strong, industrious and quiet man and was liked by all whom he came in contact with. He leaves a widow and four children in a strange land to mourn his loss. Mr. Greenwood, the engineer on the Lakefield dam, went around with a subscription list on Tuesday in aid of the widow and children who lost their only support and in a short time succeeded in raising over $60 and hopes to obtain more. This was surely a noble impulse as the family are without means in the midst of strangers. Only a couple of individuals have excused themselves by saying that this family should go to the Council for assistance in the whole village. Surely a poor excuse for not doing a Christian's part.

HASTINGS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE PROVOKING WEATHER.—It is hard work getting up a shooting match here. When "Barkis is willin'" the weather isn't—must be a point of disagreement between D. V. and Mr. B. It was arranged, weather pemitting, we should have one on Wednesday, but

"First it rained, then it snew,
Then it friz, and then it blew.
Again 'twas wind, and now 'twas rain,
Then it blew and friz again."

FALLING LEAVES—A "POME."—Do you think the Star is going to be behind with with Autumn Pomes? Perish the thought. So in this week's issue we notice a very original one, on a still more original subject entitled "Autumn Leaves" by K. T., of Hastings, who at once plunges into the subject by saying "The autumn leaves are falling." People are never content, would you have them rise K. T.? Oh! would you have them rise? "I can see them from the window as I write," (then pull down the blind) "How often have I wandered with that school-mate frank and gay, to gather in the early morning light." Rising early to gather Autumn leaves "With their varied shaded hues" by the early morning light is neither conducive to the study of color, nor warm feet, better wait K. T. till the light is a little stronger, it would be much better walking "with that school-mate frank and gay" in the woods when the shadows are aslant, and the west-bound sun brings out the varied hues in all the glorious wealth of color which is so characteristic of our Canadian fall. Further on in the depths of the "pome," we are assured "still time pursues its course, fleeting years are just the same," (365¼ to the year) K. T. "Absent ones repining for a home; still possessed with joys and cares, some for sorrows unprepared, we journey up life's pathway one by one," the school-mate aforesaid being politely allowed to go first, to tell us from spiritland, what it's like to be "Free from all but calm terrestial joy," and to "Gather leaves of trust bound up by heavenly ties," all of which is plain to the K.T., but tell ignoble we what it is to be "repining for a home." "Oh! what is the use of repining?" was asked and sung long before you, K.T., felt sad in the fall.

"'I have an autumn poem here,'
The visitor observed.
A click,
A flash,
A shot,
A thud,
A dying groan,
A stream of blood.
The fate was well deserved."

AN INVASION.—A small party, just enough to make it interesting, you know, for whisk or poker, hailing from the capital of our Northumbrian land, and tiring of the never ending sameness of that frontier burgh; so poor, so proud, so Teuton in its name, said among themselves, "A plague upon grass-grown streets, pride, pedigree and poverty. Northward will we ream." So, hence to Harwood, where, from its many piers lie moored vessels of staunch keel and large proportions, the cheapest of which we think is the Isaac Butts, that Noachian relic, which erst, post fluvium lay derelict upon the waters of Rice Lake. Such our commands; see our behests obeyed. "Come wind, come rack—at least we'll bring you drivellings safely back." Thus spake the commodore of the Isaac Butts, the owner of the iron-yielding ores of Blairton. But alas for rashness, alas for youth, or the decay of it. The voyage from Harwood to Hastings was Homeric in its perils, the windows of Heaven opened, down came the storm of snow and rain, smiting the vessel in its strength, until she (Isaac) lies a mighty hulk not a league from here. Thus are the mariners storm-stayed on the rock-bound coast of the Trent, with naught to solace but 10c. a corner, anti-Scott Act proclivities, and getting too loo'ards.

Cheap Work don't Pay.

Those who engage in the construction of machinery should never allow a poorly executed article to pass out of their hands, if they desire to establish a permanent business. Many persons commit the egregious mistake of supposing that, if they only moke articles or machines cheaper than other parties, and sell them at lower prices—even if the workmanship is of inferior quality—they will be sure to get a large patronage and obtain a permanent custom. They may make large sales for a short period of time, but in the long run they will not obtain a good, fixed custom. Not many years ago a company with a large capital commenced the manufacture of a certain line of goods on a great scale, in one of our eastern towns; the principal manager conducted the business upon the wrong principle of making cheap and showy articles, irrespective of their quality. In about two years after they had commenced operations, the company was insolvent, and the stockholders lost nearly all their investments. Not many miles from the same place, a few practical mechanics commenced business in the same line and about the same time, with a very small capital; these men instead of going down, have been going up ever since; and to day they are doing a large, profitable and permanent trade. These mechanics began business with the resolve and the knowledge to do first class work, and they have therefore succeeded.—American Wood-Worker.

A Big Stick.

A correspondent writing from Mt. Sterling, Ala., to the Brewton Banner, says: I read, a few days since in the Star (copied from an exchange) of a large stick of timber manufactured by the Etheridge Bros., and delivered to the Mobile market. It was got out octagonal and is a large piece of timber, but I hauled a piece for Gaines & Slater at Tusahoma in Choctaw county last week that was 45 inches in the centre of the log, 86 feet long. These parties were young in the business and made this piece square edged and by the two-thirds rule measured 30 inches; it had four straight lines, nicely squared and worked; it had but one knot which was sound and only measured one inch in diameter. Now, if this stick had have been got out in ocotagonal shape it would have measured 40 inches in diameter. It was the finest piece of timber I ever saw, perfectly sound, straight, and of good heart, it would take the premium at the World's Exposition at New Orleans if exhibited. I would not be afraid to risk $100 that it will be the finest piece of wood that ever went to the Mobile market, or perhaps to any other market in the United States.

A Story of a Lumberman.

The following story is told by a writer in the St. Paul Pioneer-Press: "I heard a man suggest that Capt. Tainter, one of the heaviest stock holders in the firm of Knapp, Stout & Company, and worth individually millions, in all probability had been a sort of mascot to the big firm. He worked for them first until they owed him $600. He was a big, strapping, energetic fellow, who had looked after their drives and logging operations. He had a hard time in collecting the sum due him, but succeeded in securing payment. But the firm then known as Knapp, Stout & Co., got pinched and wanted just that $600. So they made a proposition to young Tainter to give him a fourth interest in the concern for that amount. He thought it a risk, but took the chance. Since then the bing lumbering firm—the biggest in the country—has multiplied its possessions rapidly. Capt. Tainter lives in a baronial mansion in Menomonee, a feature of which is a bathing tank 50 feet long, and proportionately wide."

WIT AND WISDOM.

A MAN looses his grip of good resolutions as soon as he gets tight.

To be agreeable in society it behoves one another not to see or remember a good many things.

"INDUSTRY must prosper," as the husband said when holding the baby while his wife chopped the wood.

FRIENDSHIP is a silent gentleman that makes no parade; the true heart dances no hornpipe on the tongue.

THERE is no rule for beauty; this enables every man to have a better-looking wife than and of his neighbours.

VALUE the friendship of him who stands by you in the storm; swarms of insects will surround you in the sunshine.

A LAWYER has composed a poem on "My Conscience." It ought to sell well. The public are fond of novelties.

WE are ruined, not by what we really want, but by what we think we want. Never go in search of your wants; if they are real wants they will come home in search of you.

FEELINGS come and go like light troops following the victory of the present; but principles, like troops of the line, are undisturbed and stand fast.

WE are proverbially assured that "Time is Money." Probably this is true, inasmuch as such a lot of folks take so much of it to pay their debts.

LET us never forget that every station in life is necessary; that each deserves our respect; that not the station itself, but the fulfilment of its duties, does honour to the man.

THE only way to shine, even in this false world, is to be modest and unassuming. Falsehood may be a thick crust, but, in the course of time, truth will find a place to break through.

THE records of life run thus:—Man creeps into childhood—bounds into youth—sobers into manhood—softens into age—totters into second childhood, and stumbles into the cradle prepared for him.

An old negro woman praying for a certain slanderer, said, "O Lord, won't you be kind enough to take the door of his mouth off, and when you put it on again just hang it on the gospel hinges of peace on earth and good will to men?"

A PARIS correspondent says that French boys continue to have an aversion to all games, such as football, which may entail any bodily hurt.

A GOOD TEST.—For over 16 years G. M. Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its salesare steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

"ICED goat," composed of goat's milk, gin, sugar, and cinnamon, is said to be the new drink for dudes. They imagine it makes them combatative.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

MURIATE of cocoaine, the new anæsthetic which has been found so useful in delicate operations on the eye, is muriatic acid combined chemically with the active principle of the South American cocoa plant.

INHUMAN CRUELTY.—It is a barbaric cruelty to torture the weak stomachs of chronic invalids with harsh purgatives and sickening drugs, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys in so agreeable and effectual a manner.

AT the Lord Mayor's dinner Mr. Gilbert responded on behalf of the drama, but he was very brief, as he said, "lest, not having prepared a speech, he might inadvertently express his real feelings on the subject."

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

A TUNNEL 5,000 feet in length has just been discovered on the Island Samos. It was constructed about nine centuries before the christian Era, and Herodotus says it served the purpose of providing the old seaport with drinking water.

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

NOTHING succeeds like success, is as true in medicine as in anything else. By the wonderful effect of Dr. Van Buren's Kidney cure in promptly alleviating the sufferings experienced in kidney troubles and producing a permanent cure in these distressing ailments, his fame has been carried over the four quarters of the globe.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

One of the Best.

The Midland Free Press says:—"Enlarged.—The Peterborough DAILY REVIEW has again been enlarged. It is one of the best evening papers in the province."

"Unity of Faith."

The Rev. Father Keating will preach a sermon in St. Peter's Cathedral next Sunday evening on "The Unity of Faith."

Was it Intentional?

A few remnants of dry goods were recently thrown into the garden of the Peterborough Protestant Home. The committee are in doubt as to whether the goods we intended for the Home or not. If the latter is the case the owner may have them by calling at the home and proving the property to be theirs.

Resolution of Thanks.

At a meeting of the Orangemen and True Blues the following motion, moved by Bro. Geo. W. Hall and seconded by Bro. T. Brown, was adopted:—"The True Blues and Orangemen of the county of Peterborough extend a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Tovell for the very able address that he gave us on Sunday afternoon, and also to the choir and stewards of the church for the assistance rendered on the occasion, and that a copy be sent to them and also to be published."

In the Gutter.

Two young gentlemen coming down George street on Thursday evening were surprised on crossing at the intersection of Simcoe street to hear a voice call "Please, sir, will you help me out?" They stopped, and on examination of the surroundings discovered that the voice proceeded from a woman at the bottom of the deep trench which is being dug along the south side of Simcoe street for a sewer. After considerable difficulty the woman was brought out of her rather humid position. She was not severely injured, but the fall might have resulted more seriously. After she had recovered she gave vent to her feelings in expressive language. These trenches should be better guarded at night.

Social at St. Andrews.

On Thursday evening a very agreeable social, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, was held in St. Andrew's Sunday School room. These informal gatherings have been increasing in popular favor, and on that night even good standing room was at a premium. At 3.30 a thanksgiving service, conducted by Rev. Alex. Bell, was held in the church, after which an adjournment was made to the school room, where an inviting and abundant repast had been laid out. As the evening advanced a contagious smile spread over the meeting, and by the time the programme was brought on every body was in the best of humor with himself and with his neighbor, so that the applause and encores were frequent and hearty. Miss Frein, of the Whitby Ladies' College, gave contributions to the programme which were a great treat. As to the rest, without particularizing, it will be sufficiently tantalyzing to those who were not present to know that Misses Wells and Huston sang some charming duetts. Mr. Galletly was in his happiest mood, and that Miss Clark, Miss Logan, Dr. Clark and Mr. A. Clegg also took part. The great success of the entertainment was largely due to the work of Mr. J.D. Tully. He was the presiding genius, and if success and appreciation give any satisfaction Mr. Tully must feel well repaid.

Evening Entertainment.

On Thursday evening a very interesting and enjoyable entertainment was held in the Murray Street Separate School, under the auspices of the ladies of No. Two Ward, connected with St. Peter's Cathedral. The entertainment was opened by an instrumental solo by Misses Lech and Lemay. Then followed a vocal duet by Misses Lynch and McFadden. Messrs. Wallbrook and Simons gave their Lancashire clog, and Mr. Dan. Donoghue appeared in some of his side-splitting Irish songs. Mr. F. Clark contributed to the programme by giving his musical act. Miss Simons rendered a piano solo and Miss Annie Dunn a vocal solo. The first part finished, an adjournment was made to the supper room, where tables had been decked out with taste and luxuriance. After a substantial repast the second part of the programme was commenced. It was opened by an instrumental duet by Misses Lech and Lemay, followed by a vocal solo by Miss Simons. Mr. F. Clarke gave a clever imitation of church chimes, and Messrs. Wallbrook and Simons again appeared, giving an Irish jig. By special request Miss Flora Lech played a piano solo. She was received with loud applause. Mr. Dan. Donoghue was loudly encored, and Misses Lech, Lemay and Simons were each time received with appreciation. The entertainment was an exceedingly enjoyable one, and the talent good. Without further particularizing the other performers received their due share of favor, and the entertainment was brought to a close by the company singing "God Save the Queen." The financial part of the entertainment, we are pleased to state, was most successful, about $100 having been realized.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

FRIDAY, Nov. 7.—John Farewell was charged by Chief Johnston with having been drunk and disorderly. The prisoner pleaded guilty but as it was his first offence he was allowed to go.

LARCENY.

John Smith was charged with having feloniously stolen and carried away one pair of pants the property of Oliver Gouley, a boarder of the City Hotel. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. The charge was proved and he was sentenced to three months in gaol. It appears that Smith had stolen the pants out of the City Hotel and had sold them at a second hand store for 50 cts. Information was given to Chief Johnston of the fact and he promptly apprehended the culprit and brought him to justice.

VAGRANCY.

Michael Kenney, an old man who has been wandering oround town for some months, was charged with vagrancy by P. C. Pidgeon. He was sent up for six months with hard labor.

The Voters List

The Judge's Court on the Voters' List of 1884, meets to-morrow morning at the Council Chamber at 11 o'clock. There are only twelve appeals to be disposed of.

Chit Chat.

—Somewhat warmer to-day.

—Ice two inches thick this morning.

—Chief of Police Johnston has returned from Detroit, where he has been visiting his son, who is doing well there.

—Don't forget the extensive sale of stock at the stock farm of Dr. Kincaid on Monday, Mr. Chas. Stapleton will have charge of the sale.

—There will be a meeting of the Fire, Water and Gas, the Appointments and the Finance Committees this evening.

—Mr. Drury, of the Peterborough Gas Works, informs us that some persons have been of late smashing the glasses of the street lamps. If caught, the culprits will suffer the penalty of the law.

Personal.

We have to thank Mr. C. Young, of Ashburnham, who is now in Colorado for the benefit of his health, for sending us a copy of the Denver Tribune, Republican.

Mr. R. J. Lee, so long and favourably known in Peterborough business circles, has entered into partnership with Mr. A. L. Davis. Mr. Lee has been in the dry-goods business for a number of years and was a success in every respect. No doubt he will prove himself equally successful in his new calling. The firm will still be known as A. L. Davis & Co.,

We regret to learn that Mr. Wm. Hamilton, who has for the past eight years carried on a whisk and broom business in Peterborough, has decided to go to Orillia to establish in that town a similar trade. Mr. Hamilton is a thorough master of his business, and is genial is temper and manner. He has our best wishes for success.

Winter is at Hand.

The cold weather is at hand and ere long we will have a taste of our genuine Canadian winter, when the thermometer registers many degrees below zero. To keep the body properly clothed and thus protect it from the cold wintry blasts is absolutely necessary. Good warm underclothing and seasonable clothing are essential, and a comfortable overcoat is also a convenient commodity. There is no better place in Peterborough to purchase the above requisites than Habiliment Hall. The stock is both large and first-class, and the variety is abundant. The prices are reasonable and within the reach of every one. Your order will receive immediate attention and the work turned out is unsurpassed. This establishment is noted for its superiority of workmanship, and those in want of winter clothing, made up in the latest and most fashionable styles, will do well to call. A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street.

Cheap Blotters.

A large line just received at A. L. DAVIS & Co's.

The Oddfellows' Concert.

The entertainment in the Opera House on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, was highly successful. After a well played overture by the orchestra, Miss Jessie Couthoui, the celebrated elocutionist, advanced and gracefully asked the kind consideration of her audience under the circumstances of her baggage having gone astray on the railway with her books and her dresses, so that she must appear before them in travelling costume, and must trust wholly to her memory for her recitations. The event proved that she neither required any prompting of her memory, nor any adventitious aids to render her charming. Her recitations were excellent and showed the versatility of her powers. In the tenderest pathos or the quaintest humour she seemed equally at home. "Sandy Macdonald's Signal" was racily comical; "Rock of Ages" was in strong contrast with its pathetic power; the description of Rubenstein's performance on the piano combined rollicking fun with the portrayal of the hearty, if uncientific, appreciation of the uncultivated auditor; and the "Rival Shoeblacks" was a tour de force of rapid utterance, the reiterated sound-tripping easily from her tongue. "Surly Tim's Trouble" again displayed her power of simple, unartificial pathos, as she feelingly narrated the sad tale. In "Money Musk" she depicted all the stir and dash of a spirited country dance, while she played most effectively the appropriate accompaniment on her violin. The concluding "Medley" again displayed her wonderful versatility as she rapidly passed from grave to gay, from pathos to humour. It was not surprising that the hall echoed now with laughter, now with applause, or that here and there a silent tear spoke as eloquently. Miss Clara Cluxton sang "The Bird that Came in Spring," and being deservedly recalled, bowed her acknowledgments of the enthusiastic applause. Her song in the second part, "I'd Rather Not," was even more charming, and in response to a warm encore she gave the ever favorite "Last Rose of Summer" in a manner to delight her audience. Careful and thorough training has developed the power, compass and flexibility of her rich voice, without in the least impairing the freshness and sweetness of her notes. Miss Brentnell sang, "Oh How Delightful," and "The Staccato Polka." Being encored for the latter she sang "The Three Maids of Lee." She was suffering from a severe cold, which probably did not allow her to do herself full justice. The entertainment was altogether one of a high order, and the Otonabee Lodge deserve the thanks of the community for making arrangements for it.

Consumptives, and all who suffer from any affection of the throat and lungs, can find a certain cure in Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Thousands of once hopeless cases now gratefully proclaim they owe their lives to this New Discovery. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. JAMES BRALEY, Hamilton, says: "I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value; we have plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was as bad with bilious fever and indigestion as I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well, and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I feel better than ever I expected to be." Free trial bottles at John McKee's.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1884.

PROGRESS IN BOOK-BINDING.

BEFORE the present year our bindery had hardly kept pace with the rapid improvements that have been made in every other branch of the business of the REVIEW Office. Although it seemed sufficient for the requirements of a mere country town in the past, we felt that it was hardly equal to the standard of what might be expected in Peterborough, now that it rivals many of our cities, nor adequate to modern requirements naturally more exacting now than in the past. It was, however difficult to procure good "all round" workmen, familiar with the latest work as it is now turned out in the cities. But as our business continually grew, and increased orders in greater variety came in, not only from our own town and neighborhood, but often from distant points, we felt encouraged to employ an extra staff of bookbinders so as to put new life both in the system and workmanship of this important department of the REVIEW Office.

Our new foreman book-binder has enjoyed an experience in large establishments in England, the United States and Canada, and has consequently acquired the modus operandi for turning out superior work in the most rapid manner. His assistants are carefully trained, each in their special branch of book-binding, at which they are most adept, and are more rapid in their particular branches than the quiet old-fashioned journeyman, who may be found in in some newly-started, half-starved country book-bindery, compelled to work hard while trying to accomplish the cheap work as well as the expensive labour, all by himself.

The change we have effected, embodying all the advantages of the present system of a division of labour is already bearing good fruits. It has been of the most pleasant character to to our customers, and has well repaid ourselves. Except in occasional cases, when orders pour in upon us unexpectedly and in unusual qualities, our customers can now get their work in reasonable time, and, generally, when they want it. Little if any fault is now found with the work—the occasional complaints of clumsiness, bad sewing, poor gilding or lettering, and lack of originality, which we heard in past years, have now entirely ceased. More finish, better style, greater solidity and fewer defects now characterize all our work. With these improvements we confidently solicit a continuance of the favours of the public.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Doubt Still Exists Concerning Cleveland's Election—Talk of Fraud.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Tribune still claims that Blaine has carried the State. Printing House Square in front of its office is packed with people. Returns received by the associated press from four more districts would indicate that, if the vote received by districts is correct, Blain's plurality in the State would be about 1,000, while the vote by countries, so far as received, would indicate a reversal of the figures, giving Cleveland about 1,000.

CLEVELAND'S ELECTION CONCEDED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Albany Evening Journal, a prominent and influental Republican paper, concedes the election to Cleveland. It says:—"There seems to be no longer a doubt but that Cleveland has been elected President. Every county has sent in its full vote, and after careful verification, the results assure Cleveland a plurality of about 1,000 in the State. The vote will not vary 200 on either side of these figures. New York gives Cleveland enough votes to elect him."

NEW YOK, Nov. 7.—The people of both parties are clamoring for a recount, in the hope of throwing out enough votes to turn the balance. In the meantime there is a feeling of intense apprehension. Open opinions are thrown out that the President-elect will require a hundred thousand bayonets to take him to the White House.

AN ALLEGED CONSPIRACY.

The Herald says:—"The Republican party clings to the power which the people have voted that it shall lay down. There is a conspiracy to steal the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States again for candidates whom the people have rejected. Eight years ago the robbery was done in Florida, Louisiana and South Carolina. To-day it is attempted in New York. Audacity is the Republican policy now as it was in 1876. Zachariah Chandler is dead, but Stephen B. Elkins and Jay Gould survive. During the last two days Gould, by false reports of election figures through his telegraph agencies, has been executing his share of the plot by preparing Republican partisans for a fraudulent claim that the vote of New York has been cast for Blaine and Logan. Yesterday afternoon, when Gould's work had been going on for twenty-four hours, it became ripe for Elkins and the Republican National Committee, which Elkins owns as absolutely as any gang of negroes ever was owned in the slave driving times. He issued a proclamation, advancing the plot to its second stage. This proclamation claims Indianna as well as New York for Blaine and Logan, avers to New York that there is "no ground for doubt" of the claim, impudently imputes an intention of fraud to Governor Cleveland and the returning officers, and summons the people to "Resistance." It is the old tale of the wolf and the lamb and the turbid water. The Republican wolf ate the lamb in 1876, but if we know the American people he cannot do that again in 1884, and if we know Governor Cleveland the wolf will find more than its match in strength and determination. Our counsel is for peaceful methods and careful abstinence from any others till the last extremity. But if the Republican national committee's call for "resistence" is ment to incite Republicans to resort to violent means to defend frauds on the pretext of preventing them, upon the heads of Elkino and his fellow members of that committee rests the responsibility for the stirring up of any violence that may ensue. The people of the United States have been cheated once by the Republican party in a Presidential count, and have submitted when the cheat was ratified by an arbitration. In the fifty-five million inhabitants of this country there are not fifty-five thousand, if they can read and write, who to-day do not feel in their hearts that from March, 1877, to March, 1881, the two men who exercised the offices of President and Vice-President never were elected to them fairly. There will be no arbitration this time, nor any submission."

MICHIGAN CLOSE.

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—The election in this state appears to be Republican by a small majority. The Democratic papers say it will take the official count to decide.

1,400 PLURALITY FOR CLEVELAND.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Associated Press issues the following,—"On a careful review of the figures by districts as furnished by agents of the Associated Press, corrected by returns received during the day so as to bring the record down to this time, the total vote of the State stands: for Blaine 558,426; for Cleveland, 559,886. There are eighteen districts from which returns are still behind or questioned. These in 1880 gave Garfield a plurality of 7,360. The counties in which the lacking districts are located are Essex, Maddison, Saratoga, Sullivan, and Ulster."

GOULD'S CONGRATULATIONS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—There was great enthusiasm when it was learned that Jay Gould had ent the following to Governor Cleveland at Albany: "I heartily congratulate you on your election. All concede that your administration as Governor has been conservative and in the larger field as President I feel that you will do still better, and that the vast business interests of the country will be entirely safe in your hands.

(Signed) JAY GOULD

The Republicans continue firm, however, and maintain that Blaine has carried the state.

MICHIPICOTEN RIOTS.

Rioting Renewed by the Rioters—A Reign of Terror Instituted.

The Port Arthur Sentinel of Monday, the 3rd inst., contains the following account of a renewal of rioting at Michipicoten after the departure of the Toronto police detachment:—

A gentleman just up from Michipicoten reports a desperate state of affairs as existing there. When the Toronto police detachment arrived they were met at the wharf by a majority of the rowdies against whom warrants have been issued, but the townfolk present would give the force no evidence as to their identity. It was several days afterward before any arrests were made. Four of the chief outlaws, among whom is a man named Wallace, formerly chief of police at Michipicoten, and another desperate character named McGillivray, escaped to the woods, where, it is positively asserted, they were supplied with provisions by citizens, to prevent their arrest. The Toronto police took away several prisoners to the Sault on Thursday evening last, and on the following day the four outlaws returned to town and instituted a regular reign of terror. Wallace wore in true bandit style a belt from which protruded the handles of four heavy revolvers and a huge bowie knife. He also carried a Winchester repeating rifle. The other three were also heavily armed. The men then boarded the steamer Steinhoff which was about leaving for the Sault. They clambered to the main deck and all four commenced a fusilade on the people ashore. Wallace yelled to the crowd to stand aside—they only wanted to shoot Mr. Macdonald the Canada Pacific Railway agent. That gentleman however got under cover. The Canada Pacific Railway building was fairly riddled with balls from Wallace's repeating rifle, which fires seven times without reloading. The ticket office was pierced with balls and a number of tickets and other valuable papers destroyed. The captain of the Steinhoff seemed powerless to do anything, but a telegram has been sent to the Sault ordering the arrest of the men as soon as the boat arrives there. It is said by an eye witness that the deck of the boat after the engagement was covered with cartridges, as all the men were well supplied with ammunition. The arrest of the party will not be easily accomplished.

Mr. McKenzie, who was shot in the hand, and who is still in Port Arthur, has finally had the bullet extracted. Mr. Moberly and a posse are expected at Michipicoten to-day.

CHOLERA IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—During the 24 hours ending 4 o'clock Thursday, there were four deaths from cholera at St. Antonie Hospital in this city. At Tenon Hospital there were seven cases and three deaths; elsewhere in the city four deaths. From Wednesday morning until noon to-day 21 cases and 13 death are reported. Every precaution is taken to prevent the spread of the contagion. It is officially stated that the cholera is now prevalent in France, and is of the genuine Asiatic type. The first victims were rag-pickers, who became infected from imported rags. It is expected that the present epidemic will not be severe, and will be thoroughly repressed by cold weather and rigid sanitary precautions.

A New Game for Children.

We mention this game, which we believe has never appeared in print, because not only many may take part, but, like really good games, amusement and perhaps some instruction may be derived in playing it; and any number may play at the same time. Let us suppose that ten children decide to play this game of "Names." Each player is provided with a long slip of paper and a pencil, and if one of the players has a watch so much the better; if not a clock must be used. One commences by calling out; "Girls' names commencing with A; two minutes allowed." Each player then writes down all the girls' names that he (or she) can recollect, at the expiration of the two minutes "time" is called. Then the oldest player reads from his (or her) slip all the names he or she has written down—say Amy, Amabel, Alice, Ann, Annie, Armanda Aileen, &c. All the other players as the names are read out, cancel any name read out. If, for instance, all have written Amy, all cancel Amy, and count one mark. Say six players have Amabel and four have not, each of the six count one mark, those who have not thought and written down Amabel get nothing for Amabel, and so on through the list. The object of the game is to teach the children all girls' and boys' names. When the marks have been allotted for all the names the total of the marks are read out and noted on each slip. The players then proceed in similar manner for all boys' names commencing with A, such as Alfred, Abel, Adam, Andrew, Arthur, &c. The game can be continued till all the letters of the alphabet are exhausted, but practically young players rarely care to "do" more than thirty sets, or or fifteen letters consecutively. Various names crop up, and the memory is well exercised, and children generally vote in great fun. Anyone introducing pet or fancy names, such as Pussy, Kit, Teddy, &c., forfeit two marks, unless it be arranged that they be allowed.—Little Folks Magazine.

LITTLE BUT NOT AFRAID.

THE Toronto World, which is a living proof that a little journal may be a good one, has the following reference to the attack upon us by the Globe in reference to the Jamaica question. Our contemporary, we imagine, has been somewhat led astray by the Globe's falsehood, for we are not doing battle for the annexation of Jamaica, not being ready like the Globe to express an opinion in advance of information upon which to form a reasonable conclusion. There are obvious advantages in such an extension of our Dominion, and there are equally obvious dangers of possible evils, and which would outweigh the other depends greatly upon the arrangements proposed. If ever it becomes a practical question we will be prepared to consider it in the light of the proposed arrangements, not pretending to make up our minds in the dark.

The World says:—

"Because the Tory press is silent on the Jamaica question the Globe says they are 'puny, feeble, and in every way contemptible.' It must be very pleasant indeed for the Tory press to know this. But why, because the Globe goes in heavily for discussing the Jamaica annexation project why it should expect the Tory press to do the same we do not quite see. The subject is altogether in nubibus at present.

"This gratuitous provocation on the part of the Globe reminds one of the formal slap on the cheek by which an antagonist attempts to force a rival to a duel. It has already tempted one little competitor into the lists in the person of the Peterborough REVIEW, and doubtless the REVIEW'S big brothers will be quite happy to look on complacently while their plucky relative does battle."

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The London Advertiser is equally determined with the Toronto Globe to evade a reply to our question, why they have not submitted to the popular decision as to the National Policy, since they pretend to attach so much importance to the voice of the people.

The Advertiser says:—

"If an election is had and a majority returned favourable to annexation, that majority will vote for it, and those who are returned against it will with equal fidelity oppose the union. We never heard it suggested that the minority were to turn round and vote with the majority until we observe it in this abstract from the REVIEW."

Of course we suggested nothing so absurd, as, the Advertiser well knows, but it utters this falsehood to evade the real point of our remarks. We do not expect the minority after a general election to turn round and vote with the majority, but we have a right to expect the minority, after the vote has been decided against them on an important policy, to assist loyally in carrying out that policy, without factiously thwarting it. That for instance is what the protectionists did in Great Britain when free trade was adopted. It is not what the Advertiser, the Globe and other Reform journals have done in regard to the National Policy, for on the contrary they have constantly endeavored, even by the basest means, to prevent its having a fair trial. We are therefore warranted in regarding their present clamour for an appeal to that popular voice, which they practically set at naught and contemn, as being a mere dishonest and factious pretence. Every day they are teiling the majority of the electors of Canada that they are either knaves or fools for supporting a Conservative Administration and the National Policy.

Energy in Life.

To live really is to act energetically. Life is a battle to be fought valiantly. Inspired by high and honorable resolve, a man must stand to his post, and die there if need be. Like the old Danish hero, his determination should be, "to dare nobly, to will strongly, and never to falter in the path of duty." The power of will, be it great or small, which God has given us, is a divine gift, and we ought never to let it perish for want of using on the one hand nor profane it by employing it for ignoble purposes on the other. Robertson, of Brighton, has truly said, "That man's real greatness consists not in seeking his own pleasure, or fame, or advancement, not that every one should save his own life, not than every man shall seek his own glory—but that every man shall do his own duty."—Smiles.

The Smallest Engine.

An engine, said to be the smallest in the world, has been made by a Philadelphia watchmaker. As described, the engine is of the upright pattern, and is made of steel and gold. It rests on a twenty-five cent piece, and can be worked either by steam or compressed air. The cylinder is little less than 1-16 of an inch in diameter, with a little less than 3-32 of an inch stroke, the balance wheel is ½ of an inch in diameter and can make something like 1,000 revolutions a minute. The wrist pin is a sapphire cut for the purpose.

"I do not like thee, Dr. Fell,
The reason why, I cannot tell"

It has often been wondered at, the bad odor this oft-quoted doctor was in. 'Twas probably because he, being one of the old-school doctors, made up pills as large as bullets, which nothing but an ostrich could bolt without nausea. Hence the dislike. Dr. R. V. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are sugar-coated and no larger than bird-shot, and are quick to do their work. For all derangements of the liver bowls and stomthey are specific

AN INFORMER AND DECOY.

How He Planned to Entrap Persons to Break the Law.

The Fort Macleod Gazette contains the following account of a parallel case in the Northwest to that of Messrs. Mowat, McKim, Dowling & Co. in Ontario:—

"Several weeks ago a black whiskered, square built man of medium height, insinuating and oily speech, named Bush, made his appearance at Macleod. Before he had been here long, he developed a very strong taste for whiskey, and was seldom seen without a bottle of it in his pocket. He was very free with it, and treated all who accepted without stint. Different parties were invited into his room at the hotel, and whiskey given them by this ruffian; others were approached with a pitiful story to the effect that he was travelling, was a stranger in town, had been drinking hard and wanted more to taper off on, and at the same time forcing money on them to get him whiskey, which in some cases was foolishly done. Stand Off was visited and much the same game played there, whiskey which he had helped to buy, being made a present to a gentleman there. He endeavored to make several people drink here, and attempted to leave bottles containing whiskey on their premises. Many other tricks were resorted to to entice innocent men to entrap themselves, and it is to be regretted that the low machinations succeeded. There was considerable excitement in town when a number of citizens were arrested last Thursday night, taken to the new fort and put in cells. Some of those men who had been invited into Bush's room at the hotel were brought up, charged with having liquor illegally in their possession, which they gave to Bush, and fined from $100 to $200 and costs, or six months hard labor. Although they were ready to swear (and they are men whose word we would prefer to this whiskey sneak's oath) that the only whiskey they had was that given to them by Bush, it went for nothing, and a man who should not be allowed to give evidence in any civilized court, by his unsupported evidence took the money out of these men's pockets.

An Indian recently confided to an interpreter that Bush had given him whiskey and had also fired four shots at him. An information was at once laid, charging Bush with giving intoxicating liquor to an Indian, and with shooting at the same Indian with intent to do bodily harm. Bush is now in the guard room, and is to be tried to-morrow."

MOUNT ATHOS.

A Town Where no Birth or Marriages Ever Takes Place.

"Haggion Oras," the holy mountain of all who profess the Greek faith, occupies a most commanding position on the western shore of the Ægean sea. Rising abruptly from the water to a height of 6,200 feet, at the extremity of a narrow peninsula, it seems to be keeping watch and ward over the sea path to and from Saloncia and the approach to the Dardanelles, much as Gibralter does over the straits leading to the Mediterranean. The peninsula is about forty miles long and has an average breadth of six. It is connected with the great Chalcedoman Peninsula by a narrow neck of sand, through which the Persian monarch Xerxes cut a canal for vessels of light draught, vestiges of which yet remain. Besides "Haggion Oros" is Mount Athos. Even before the days of Christianity, Mount Athos had its recluses, for the solemn grandeur of the great bare peak and the wierd aspect of its surroundings are well calculated to harmonize with minds given up to wild and mystic thoughts. The new doctrine gave a great impulse to this desire to withdraw from the world, and in the course of time the whole peninsula came to be occupied by Greek monks, who, under the Byzantine Emperors, enjoyed the privalege of governing themselves and their possessions without the interference of any secular control whatever. There was thus formed a sort of ecclesiastical autonomy that has endured to the present day. The only indication of Turkish authority in Mount Athos is the presence of a "caimakam," who however, enjoys not the slightest power, his functions being limited to that of a mere observer. This official has two "zaptiehs" (gendarmes) under his orders, but they are more to do honor to his position than to represent any force at his command, the community having its own police in the shape of a body of stout Albanian guards. The administration is carried on by a council of representatives, presided over by one of their number, who is termed "Proteros," or "the first man of Athos." This office is held by each of the members of the council in succession for a period of three months. The months follow the rule of Basilius. No woman is allowed on any pretence whatever to set foot in the district. The prohibition extends even to female creatures of every kind, so that not a hen, cow, she goat or any other animal capable of giving birth to its kind is to be found at Mount Athos. There is but one village, where a fluctuating body of seculars reside, who assist the monks in their agricultural and other labors. It is the only place in the world resembling a town in which no marriage or birth ever takes place.

Ladies, Turnbull's is the house to leave your orders for Ulsters, a choice range of neat patterns in extra quality now in stock.

Is The Moon Inhabited.

"At the astonomical observatory of Berlin," says a translation from Nya Pressen Helsingfor "a discovery has lately been made which, without doubt, will cause the greatest sensation, not only amongst the adepts in science, but even amongst the most learned. Professor Blendmann, in that city, has found, beyond a doubt, that our old friend, the moon, is not a mere lantern which kindly furnishes light for the loving youth and gas companies of our planet, but the abode of living, intelligent beings, for which he is prepared to furnish proofs most convincing. The question has agitated humanity from time immemorial, and has been the object of the greatest interest. But the opinions have always differed very widely, and no two minds held one and the same. Already in ancient times the belief prevailed that the moon was inhabited by some higher organized intelligent beings, somewhat resembling man, and in order to communicate with them, the earthly enthusiasts planted rows of trees several miles in length, so as to form the figure of the Pythagorean theorem. The celebrated astronomer, Schroder, in the beginning of the present century, fancied he could detect places on the surface of the moon which periodically grew light and darker, and from this fact he derived the conclusion that the phenomenon was the proof of existing vegetation. During the last few decades, however, the idea of life on the moon has been held up to ridicule, and totally scourned by men of learning. But nevertheless, it has now been proved to be correct. By accident Dr. Blendmann found that the observations of the moon gave but very unsatisfactory results, owing to the intensity of the light power of the moon's atmosphere, which is so strong that it affects the correctness of the observations in a very high degree. He then conceived the idea to make the object-glass of the refractor less sensitive to the rays of light, and for this purpose he darkened it with the smoke of camphor. It took months of experimenting before he succeeded in finding the right degree of obscurity of the glass, and when finally found he then with the refractor took a very accurate photo of the moon's surface. This he placed in a sun miscroscope, which gave the picture of fifty-five and a half feet. The revelation was a most startling one. It perfectly overturned all hitherto entertained ideas of the moon's surface. Those level plains which were formerly held to be oceans of water proved to be verdant fields, and what formerly were considered mountains turned out as deserts of sand and oceans of water. Towns and habitants of all kinds were plainly discernible, as well as signs of industry and traffic. The learned professor's study and observations of old Luna will be repeated every full moon when the sky is clear."

Needless Criticism.

What is the good of seeing holes in people's coats when we can't mend them? Talk of my debts if you mean to pay them; if not, keep your red rag behind your ivory ridge. A friend's faults should not be advertised, and a stranger should not be published. He who brays at an ass is an ass himself, and he who makes a fool of another is a fool himself. Don't get into the habit of laughing at people, for the old saying is, "Hanging's stretching, and mocking catching." Jesting is too apt to turn into jeering, and what was meant to tickle makes a wound. It is a pity when my mirth is another's misery. Before a man cracks a joke he should consider how he would like it himself; for many who give rough blows have very thin skins. Give only what you would be willing to take; some men throw salt on others, but they smart if a pinch of it falls on their own raw places. When they get a Roland for their Oliver, or a tit for their tat, they don't like it; yet nothing is more just. Biters deserve to be bitten.—Spurgeon.

Smoky Chimneys.

From a paper read by Mr. J. P. Seddon before the health conference in London last month, the following abstract is made:—Chimneys smoke from five causes: (1) Because air is not supplied to houses systematically, like water, but is, rather, excluded. (2) Because fire places are illy constructed, being drawn over from the openings of the fire place to the flues in such a manner as to provide large vacant spaces above the grates, which contain cold, stagnant air, in contact with which the smoke becomes chilled and is prevented from being drawn into the flues. (3) Because flues are usually made too large. They should seldom be more than nine inches square. (4) Because no provision is made for down-draughts of air to expend themseles before reaching the fire-place. (5) Because architectural guards are not constructed at tops of chimneys against wind. Mr. Seddon depreciates the use of cowls.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

I BELIEVE.

The world is vexed with many creeds,
Nor bettered in their holding
Where dogmas blossom not in deeds,
A noble life unfolding.

What shall it make that I believe
The Bible, or just Nature,
If with their lessons I receive
No growth of moral stature?

A hundred articles of faith
On bended knees repeated,
May be but wearied, wasted breath
By life's defaults defeated.

Though God and Christ are in my creed
And life, or death, forever,
This may be mine, though sinful greed,
That through its conquest—never!

I will not then of creeds make boast,
Which every lip may fashion,
Nor let my soul be torn and tossed
By fierce polemic passion.

Enough, that I this faith maintain,
Which God, within me, teaches:
Who conquers self through Christ and pain,
The Life Eternal reaches!

THE POULTRY YARD.

Fowls cooped up all winter in a house poorly ventilated will not lay eggs that will hatch, and will lay but few eggs. It is absolutely necessary that they go into the open air, or that the house be thoroughly aired each day, if we would have healthy and early broods of chickens. Sulphur must be fed once or twice a week, and clover hay fed.

If your houses have not been whitewashed this season, do it at once. But first smudge the houses faithfully by making carbolic acid, turpentine and sulphur, and firing the same, confining the smoke for two hours. Then air and whitewash, and you will save the fowls from the liability of lice, save feed, get more eggs, and have a clear conscience of duty done to your stock.

A correspondent of an exchange says:—"I have never had the least injury occur to my fowls, in consequence of anointing with kerosene, or liberally wetting all the perches with it. I have put it on chicks a few days old only without damage, and with satisfaction. Soft food, too liberaly fed, is dangerous, so far as my experience goes, especially in summer time, when green food is plenty: a fair proportion is beneficial either in summer or winter, but I am quite opposed to its reckless feeding, as some poultrymen recommend. It produces diarrhoea and debility if fed in excess."

POULTRY KEEPING FOR PROFIT.

Cleanliness is the best remedy for all insect vermin. Insects of this class breed in filth. Lice and the red mites harbour in the gathered manure and hide in the crevices of the roost and nests. Their cast off coats may be seen like a grayish mold upon neglected houses, all over the roofs and in the corners of the buildings. Here, too, the bloodthirsty red mite hide during the day, to rally around the fowls at night and torment them past endurance. At times the wretched fowls may be found humped up in a corner, slowly drained of their life blood by these miserable pests. No flock can thrive when left to suffer from them. And yet is remarkably easy to free a house and a flock from them. Remove their hiding place and they seem to abandon the premises, or otherwise the fowls are able to free themselves from their tormenters. It is this that makes it peremptory to have no doors, no crevices, cleats, patches, or fiancifual ornamental nests and other worse than useless trappings about a poultry house. A smooth, even interior, covered twice a year with hot lime wash, with plain perches hitched to the scantlings at the rear, so that they can be raised to the wall all at once, as has been previously described, is the very best arrangement possible. Then a weekly cleaning of the house, with a can of kerosene oil and a barrel of lime left to air slack slowly in a corner of the shed, will secure perfect freedom from these vermin. The clean house affords no harbours; the kerosene poured at the weekly cleaning on the hinges and joints of the roosts, and a liberal dusting with the fine lime dust, complete the business. After learning how to get rid of them the fowls can be handled and one can visit the house and explore the nests with comfort.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Beets and carrots should not be exposed to hard frosts.

There is no profit in sheep over six years old, except to feed and kill.

Plants that have been out of doors through the summer need a gradual change to confined air and heated rooms.

Every business has its low tide, but it will surely rise again, and they who hold onto their sheep will be gainers in the end.

For a supply of parcely in winter take up the roots, plant them in a box of soil which is to be set in the kitchen window.

Corn stubble intended for oats or barley in the spring can often be plowed to better advantage in the fall than in the spring.

Honey should not be kept over in the hopes of receiving better prices, as old honey is not preferred to that which is new.

The great point in keeping onions through the winter is to get the dry, and keep them dry and cool. A damp, warm cellar is one of the worst places.

This is the best time to deepen and clean open ditches. The grass and weeds that grow on their sides should be all removed, so as to leave a free course of water.

At the approach of winter all the poor cows, old horses and otherwise depreciated stock should be disposed of. They cost as much to winter as stock that will increase in value, besides the danger of losses in wintering.

Flax will grow on any kind of soil that produces wheat, oats, barley, corn or potatoes, but it thrives best on a mellow soil, or one not to wet or too sandy. It also produces well on new timber clearings, especially where the timber has been burned off, wood ashes being an excellent fertilizer for it.

Acreage Required for a Cow.

How much land is required for the support of a cow? This question depends for an answer so much on circumstances of the soil as not to admit of a very definite answer. In a dairy competition in Jefferson County, N.Y., in 1857, the first prize dairy of sixteen cows was kept on thirty acres of land; the second premium dairy of eighteen cows, on sixty acres; the third dairy of thirteen cows on thirty acres; the fourth of twenty-nine cows on fifty-five acres; the fifth of twenty-eight cows on ninety acres. Mr. Schull of Little Falls, N.Y., estimates the land in pasture and hay requisite for the support of a cow, three acres; and this is the estimate of Mr. Carrington for moderately good farms in England. In Belgium ten acres of land support two cows, one heifer and one yearling or calf; but when the calfs are sold off young, and cows in full milk only are kept, the proportions is two cows to seven and one half acres. Colman estimates three acres of pasturage as requisite for a cow in Berkshire county, Mass., while in some towns two acres of pasturage are sufficient. Mr. Farrington, in the report of the American Dairyman's Association, thinks that on the average, four acres are required per cow for summer and winter keep; while Mr. X. A. Willard thinks that in Herkimer county, N.Y., and one and one half or two acres of pasturage per cow will answer, and in some exceptional cases one acre.—Scientific American.

Gaol Breaking in Michigan.

Detroit, Nov. 6.—As Turnkey Gilchrist entered the gaol at Big Rapids, Mich., to lock up the prisoners, four in number, two of them hidden by a partition wall seized the gaoler and overpowered him, and before Mrs. Frederick, who was in the corridor, could close the door they threw her down and made their escape. They were A. Mecosta, a thief, and Frank Lamson, under arrest for attempted felonious assault. The other two prisoners made no attempt to escape.

Big Blaze at Ogdensburg.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Nov. 6.—A fire at 11 o'clock last night destroyed Adams' shingle mill, McGillis' furniture manufactory, Maguire's carding mill, Adams' provender store, Patterson & Usborn, grocers; Ashley's meat market; Dixon & McVean, grocers. The total loss is probably $50,000; partly insured.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

Five Buildings and Many Men Blown to Atoms.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 6.—The dynamite works of H. W. Stump & Co., near Stumpsburg, blew up this afternoon, shaking up the country for a distance of ten to twenty miles. The works consisted of five buildings, the timbers of which were sent flying in all directions; nothing remaining but the foundations. All the men in the buildings were killed. The cause for the explosion will never be known. The buildings contained an unusual quantity of dynamite, and a terrific shock was heard at Reading, 20 miles away. Windows were broken in many houses in Stouchesburg, three quarters of a mile distant, and people were knocked off their feet. Mirrors and pictures were shaken off the walls, and a church and several houses were unroofed. The victims were literally blown to atoms. At Robesonia, ten miles from Stouchesburg, a number of masons were working at the bottom of Ferguson & Co's. furnace smoke-stack, which they were relining with new fire brick. The stack was probably a hundred feet high and nearly completed. Ten or fifteen men were in the stack; some at the bottom, others on the scaffolding above. Just as the shock of the dynamite explosion was felt the stack quivered, there was a rumbling noise, followed immediately by a great deluge of bricks completely burying six men in the bottom of the stack. If not instantly killed they must be burned to death, as the scaffolding is burning and they cannot be reached.

FROM ALL OVER.

The French Senate has abolished life senatorships.

Dr. Low's Worm Syrup will remove worms and cause, quicker than any other medicine.

The Marquis of Londonderry died on Thursday at the age of 63.

"Teaberry" whitens the teeth like chastened pearls. A sample settles it.

The Anarchist Theilman has been arrested in Bohemia for high treason.

Destroy the worms or they may destroy the children. Use Ereman's Worm Powders, they expel all kinds of worms.

Lord Wolseley on Thursday invested the Mudir of Dongola with the insigna of Knight Commander of Michael and George.

Twenty-five cents invested in "Hub" Cough Cure saves sweating under a cough. It stops a cough quick and sure. Think the price for a cough. Ask J. D. Tully.

The water famine in Quebec still exists, and prices are somewhat advancing. As high as $2.50 has been paid for a single barrel.

A Good Test.—For over 16 years G. M Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its salesare steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

A detachment of 400 men of the Royal Scots Regiment embarked from Woolwich on Thursday for the Cape, to assist in keeping the Boers in order.

Weather Probabilities.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

A severe snow storm fell at Lucan on Wednesday night, lying thirteen inches on the level. There was no snow at Parkhill, 15 miles west, nor at Stratford, 25 miles east.

Inhuman Cruelty.—It is a barbaric cruelty to torture the weak stomachs of chronic invalids with harsh purgatives and sickening drugs, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys in so agreeable and effectual a manner.

A curious result of the advertising spirit of the present day is to be found in the London Standard, where the merits of a patent medicine are set forth in Greek.

Beautiful hair is on of the most pleasing of characteristics and can be obtained by the use of Cingalese Hair Renewer. Well known are its virtues in restoring grey hair to it natural color and then preventing it from turning grey. Sold by J. D. Tully.

A little girl whose instincts and training had made her unusually polite for a child, startled the family by announcing, "Mamma, the swill lady is at the back door."

A half or whole bottle of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water of the bath is of great use to invalids and all delicate or nervous persons, as it revives and braces up the failing strength, and soothes the most irritable nervous system.

Everybody should keep such a thing as Zopessa in the house, and by regulating the bowels and system, keep away headache, heartache, dejection, indigestion. Zopessa invigorates the liver, makes the family happy by making health.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in properly cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

A Remarkable Discovery.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

There is a church being built in Michigan in which the seats will be opera chairs of cherry, mahogany finished, with a tilting back, each seat provided with a hat, shawl, cloak, book, umbrella and cane rack, and a foot-rest.

Useful to Know.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

Trial proves that honesty is the best policy in medicine as well as in other things. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine preparation, an unequalled blood purifier, decidedly superior to all others.

A Good Record—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

Nothing succeeds like success, is as true in medicine as in anything else. By the wonderful effect of Dr. Van Buren's Kidney cure in promptly alleviating the sufferings experienced in kidney troubles and producing a permanent cure in these distressing ailments, his fame has been carried over the four quarters of the globe.

It is indicative of the strong musical taste of the Bohemians that nearly 500 inhabitants of the town of Warndorf (population 15,000) lately chartered a special train to take them to Dresden to hear a performance of "Lohengrin."

If you should be so unfortunate as to burn, scald or wound yourself in any way, the proper thing to keep clean and heal it is McGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerate. Insist on having and be sure you get McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Price 25 cents. John McKee, druggist, has the genuine.

——"Why! What's the matter?"

Lady—(with face enveloped in roll of hot cloths)—"Oh! I'm crazy with neuralgia that continually troubles me."

——"Well, how foolish! Why don't you go to John McKee's drug store and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning? It cured me in less that one minute. I always keet a bottle in house. It only costs 25 cents."

Oh! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

MYSTERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Farmer Falls From a Train and Is Run Over—His Injuries Prove Fatal.

Hanover, Nov. 6.—Christian Bruder left Chesley this morning by the mixed train for Hanover. He did not reach Hanover, nor was he missed off the train. When the express train, coming down a short time afterwards, at Dr. Lightbody's crossing, a short distance from station, the engineer saw the glimpse of a man near the track, and concluded his engine had struck him, and when the train stopped he reported the matter to Mr. Sutherland, the station agent, who immediately ran to the spot, accompanied by his brother, where they found the poor fellow lying in water near the track with his leg terribly broken below the knee. It had been run over in some unaccountable manner by the train, and the fragments of bone were driven through his bootleg. Dr. Lightbody was at once summoned and had him removed to his sister's near Cnechlel's mill. Dr. Landerkin was then summoned, and he with Dr. Lightbody amputated the leg below the knee about six hours after, but the poor fellow did not survive the operation long. He died in the evening. How he got off the train no one knows. The affair appears to be very mysterious. An inquest will probably be held.

Scripture and Shakespeare.

There are some curious parallel passages which show that the "Bard of Avon" was familiar with the scripture and drew from them many of his ideas. For instance:—

Othello—Rude am I in speech.
Bible—But though I be rude in my speech.—II. Co. xi, 6.

Witches in Macbeth—Show his eyes and grieve his heart.
Bible—Consume thine eyes and grieve thine heart.—I. Sam. ii, 33.

Macbeth—Life's but a walking shadow.
Bible—Men walketh in a vain show.—Psalm xxxix, 6.

Banquo—Woe to the land that is governed by a child.
Bible—Woe to thee, O land, when thy king is a child.—Eccles. x, 16.

Timon of Athens—Who can call him his friend that dips in the same dish?
Bible—He that dipeth his hand with me in the same dish, the same shall betray me.—Matt. xxi, 24.

Macbeth—We will die with harness on our backs.
Apocrypha—Nicanor lay dead in his harness.—II. Mac. xv, 28.

A Riot in Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—A small riot occurred late last night while Father Chiniquy was lecturing in Russell Hall. The place was surrounded by a couple of thousand excited young French Canadians, who broke every window in the hall. Chief of Police Paradis and his constables had a lively time of it for an hour or so, but finally drove the crowd away, permitting Mr. Chiniquy and his friends to go home in peace. Extra precaution will be taken to-night against any further annoyance.

Was It Murder?

The trial for murder of Capt. Dudley and the mate of the wrecked yacht Mignonette, for having killed the boy Parker to keep themselves alive, concluded on Thursday. The jury brought in a special verdict, finding the facts and referring the question of law, as to whether a murder had been committed, to the Superior Court.

It is stated that Prince Bismarck has entered into a secret agreement with France to propose to the Congo Conference a recognition of the African Association as to the sovereign state of the Congo, and that Germany share with France the right to purchase the territory of the Association if that organization should dissolve.

PROCLAMATION!

BULLETIN ISSUED FROM THE CITY CLOTHING STORE.

PERSONALLY we do not know every buyer of Clothing and Gents' Furnishings in Peterborough, but the constant and uninterupted flow of new customers who are daily making our establishment their headquarters for their wants, warrants us in believing that the public after once visiting the City Clothing Store, become SOLID customers. And what is more, they tell their friends and neighbours of the fair and square manner they are dealt with, and by this means we have gained the public confidence.

PERSONAL: H LeBRUN is never behind in anything he takes hold of, and in the Clothing Trade he has proved himself a shrewd buyer—purchasing nothing that would be an eyesore on the shelves, and taking none but a class of goods that the general public are in daily need of. The WORKING MAN is not forgotten by LeBRUN, who has constantly on hand a class of goods that the mechanic requires, such as Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, Gloves, Hosiery, Underwear, Umbrellas, Rugs, Water-proof Coats—in fact everything in the Gentlemens' Furnishing line.

A GOOD FIT IS EVERYTHING!

If a man buys a suit of Clothes, the first thing he will do is to choose a piece of cloth he likes—something suitable and pretty. That's right; the correct thing to do. But if that man does not get a good fit—if the Cutter makes a "botch" of the job—the cloth that looked so enticing to him before being made up, now becomes cheap-looking and he dosen't like it. Mr. Kilpatrick, although only with the City Clothing Store about two months, is giving universal satisfaction, and he makes no mistakes nor botches no clothes, but guarantees a perfect fit and the most fashionable cut. In consequence our Order Department is having an unprecedented run. In BOYS' SUITS we are doing a grand trade.

JUST LISTEN TO THIS!

We have an extra large stock of Ready-made Overcoats for Men and Boys, and are determined to dispose of them immediately. So if you want a neat and nobby Coat cheap, call and examine ours.

In UNDERCLOTHING our assortment is very extensive, and the public will find on examination that it is one of the best stocks in town.

In GENTS' FURNISHINGS the City Clothing Store stands at the head of the class. Your every want is here, and if you cannot see what you want, ask for it, and presto! it is before you. The greatest feature in our store is the prices, they are ROCK BOTTOM!

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows :—Moderate winds, mostly south and west, fair weather, slightly higher temperature.

St. Paul's Church.

It is expected that Rev. J. Fraser Campbell, M.A., who has been for come years missionary in Mhow, Central India, will preach in the Opera House to-morrow, morning and evening. The Rev. E. F. Torrance will preach the anniversary sermons in Hastings on that day.

Big Potatoes.

Any one interested in seeing what our North-West can produce may examine at this office samples of potatoes from the Turtle Mountain District in Southern Manitoba, which Mr. H. H. Smith has left with us as a proof of the fertility of the soil. One of them weighs 2 lbs. 4 oz. and another 1 lb. 13½ oz.

Don't Forget.

Keep well in mind the Grand Complimentary Benefit Concert which will be given to Messrs. Clarke, Simons and Wallbrook on the evening of Monday, November 17th. The services of Mrs. Chambers, the well known soprano, have been secured, and some of the best local talent will also take part.

A Treat in Store.

Many of our readers will be pleased to learn that the old Peterborough favorite, Mr. Jas. Taylor, will again appear in Bradburn's Opera House. Mr. Taylor's reputation as a comedian is well established and needs no comment. This time he will appear in the play "Tempted, or Trials of the Turf." See adv.

More Voters.

The Judge's Court of the Voter's List for 1884 was held in the Council Chamber this morning at 11 a.m., His Honor Judge Dennistoun presiding. The following are the names of those whose appeals were allowed, and who were thereby added to the Voters' List for this year :—Messrs. A. D. Browne, Wm. Buller, J. H. Burnham, Michael Calnan, James Coughlan, W. H. Coulter, Wm. H. Dayman, Robert Easton, Henry Snider and Michael O'Donnell.

Barnardo Home, Hazelbrae.

The authorities of the Hazel Brae Home acknowledge with gratitude the kindness of the Orange Brotherhood in devoting the proceeds of the collection taken up at the George Street Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon last, to aid the funds of the institution. The substantial sum of twenty-five dollars and eighty cents was handed over to the Superintendent Mr. Edward Duff. The present opportunity is also taken to acknowledge Dr. Kincaid's gift of a cow for the benefit of the Home. The following donations in kind are also gratefully acknowledged :—Mrs. Wallis, fruit and vegetables ; Mrs. Hamilton, parcel of clothing ; Mr. Payne, vegetables ; Miss Gamble, parcel of clothing ; Miss Semple, parcel of hats.

Obituary.

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Charles Kempt, who died at Detroit on Thursday, of diphtheria, after but a very short illness. The late Mrs. Kempt was a daughter of the late Geo. E. Shaw, who held for a number of years the position of manager of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Bank. The news of the death of Mrs. Kempt fell suddenly upon a large circle of friends in this town, and her demise is generally regretted. The body arrived per Ontario and Quebec Railway on Friday night and the funeral took place this afternoon.

We have just been apprised of the death of the wife of the County School Inspector, Mr. J. C. Brown. She died at Mr. Brown's residence, in Asphodel, on Friday, after a lingering illness. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon.

Our Market.

The season has now arrived when our market assumes its largest proportions. This morning the square presented a rare scene of activity, bustle and business. The whole square was crowded both inside and outside with sellers, and the purchasers were in numbers correspondingly large. The annual fall movement in hogs and butter for shipment has commenced, and the market scales were kept busy this morning in weighing. Another feature in this morning's market was the appearance in considerable quantities of wood, thus putting the consumer in mind that the cold weather is close at hand. The following mentioned articles were sold at the annexed prices :—Chickens per pair, 40 cents ; ducks per pair, 50 cents ; geese, 50 cents ; turkeys, 80 cents ; butter per pound, 22 cents ; eggs per dozen, 20 cents ; apples per bag, 60 cents ; potatoes per bag, 40 cents.

Cabinet Photo Frames.

We have just received a nice assortment of these Frames at very low prices. A. L. Davis & Co.

Tom Darcy's Oysters

Are still the "favourites" by long odds. It's the size of them and the way he gets them up that takes. Try a stew or a plate of raws.

"Nor' West" Ale.

For a pure, wholesome Ale, made from Peterborough barley and Nor' West hops, call at the Croft House. This is the kind of ale to give you a good appetite, and put the flesh on your bones. Just try it.

Some very fine Scalettes now in stock at Turnbull's. As these goods are much sought after, call and secure a mantle early.

Weighing Accommodation of the Market.

We call the attention of the Market Committee to what might almost be termed a nuisance—the present position of the scales on the south side of the market building for weighing hogs and butter. This morning the whole south side was literally blockaded with piles of firkins of butter and dressed hogs, allowing scarcely any passage for marketers. This matter should be attended to at once, as the market will be crowded from this time forth during the fall, and the consumers will be put to great inconvenience if the matter is not adjusted. The scales might be removed to a more convenient place.

Dufferin Literary Club.

At the regular meeting of the Dufferin Literary Club on Friday evening the following subject was debated :—"Resolved, That an advocate is justified in defending a person whom he knows to be guilty of the crime with which he is charged." The leaders of the debate were, Mr. J. H. Long on the affirmative and Mr. W. A. Stratton on the negative. The question was decided in the affirmative by the President. The Society decided to adopt the "Mock Parliament" idea, and Mr. Horning was appointed Premier and Mr. Long leader of the Opposition. The parties will be organized during the week and it is expected that the next meeting of the Club will be a session opened by a Speech from the Throne. It is intended to discuss practical questions that are now interesting Canadian political circles.

Chit Chat.

—Surely this must be Indian summer.

—There was a large number of people in town to-day.

—This afternoon George street was thronged so much that an outsider would almost think there was a circus in town.

—The stores of the merchants were also crowded and each and every one seemed to drive a rushing trade.

—The wheat has fairly commenced to move towards market. Long lines of teams and waggons, loaded with grain, might be seen at the various storehouses awaiting their turn to be unloaded.

—Mr. Levi, of the red store, adopted a rather novel way of advertising to-day. A 'bus was placarded setting forth the news of his departure from Peterborough and in the 'bus were seated the Fire Brigade Band. They played through the various streets.

—The water column at the Grank Trunk Railway station has been encased in a little frame house.

—The frame of the new skating rink is now up and the brick work is started. It presents a huge appearance.

—Building operations are being vigorously pushed forward. The builders and contractors are taking advantage of the fine weather.

The Chief Aims of Life.

Leaving out of consideration the higher or religious aim of life, to what do the great majority of people devote the larger part of their time, labor and life? It is to obtain money. If they are not compelled to do so by circumstances, they do so voluntarily in order to accumulate riches. If a man is ambitious, and desires to become prominent in his country, he must secure a certain amount of wealth to form a spring board from which he leaps and dives into the sea of worldly glory. If a man loves ease, and longs for the time when he can cease work or retire from business, he must economize and save money to support him while he reclines under the shadows of the evening of his life. If a young man is in love, and his heart palpitates for the young lady of his choice to light the fires, cook his breakfast and sew on buttons, he must, if he is a prudent young man, lay by enough of the filthy lucre to start them in housekeeping. Or if a man desires money simply from the love of the gold, he must save the same as the others. All desire wealth, although their objects may be different. Now, no matter how necessary it is for a gentleman, young or old, to be economical, he must have clothes ; he must keep himself dressed, especially at this season. This being the case he desires to know where he can purchase good goods at low prices. He can easily find just such a place, namely, at A. McNEIL'S Habiliment Hall.

Turnbull is now showing a choice range of Astrachan Mantles made from the best of stock. Inspect before purchasing.

Farmers Furnishing Their Homes.

Farmers who have just built new houses, and others who intend to discard their old furniture and furnish with new, would find it to their best interest to call at Mr. D. Belleghem's Furniture Warerooms, on Hunter street, Peterborough. He has everything in the furniture line that a person could desire, and at a low range of prices. If you are in need of furniture go to his establishment and make comparison of his goods and prices. His prices are astonishingly low for the quality of the goods. People living within twenty miles of the town will have their goods delivered free of charge, safe and sound, neither scratched or damaged. This last mentioned inducement is a great one. The customers may walk into the wareroom, leave their orders, and have the goods promptly delivered at their homes twenty miles away. Farmers sell your wheat, put money into circulation, and let the wheels of business revolve without grinding and growling. If you need household furniture you can't do better than lay out your money at Mr. Belleghem's. He is pushing a flourishing, yet careful trade, and can sell cheaply on account of his keenness in purchasing his materials. A word about his prices. He doesn't say they are lower than anybody else's, but that they're as low, as comparison will prove. Go and price his goods and look through his large establishment. You will be pleasantly received, and the various articles to which you may take a fancy will be shown you with pleasure. Be sure you are in the right place. You will know Mr. Belleghem's place by the ornamental front. If you don't buy ask for one of his celebrated ebonized wall brackets, which will be given to you free of charge.

I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was as bad with bilious fever and indigestion as I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well, and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I feel better than ever I expected to be." Free trial bottles at John McKee's.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1884.

NORWOOD.

MISSIONARY SERVICES.—The Rev. A. Sutherland, D. D., of Toronto, missionary secretary, preached missionary sermons in the Methodist church, here, on Sabbath, Nov. 2nd. The Dr. is an eloquent speaker and the attendance at both services was unusually large. The missionary meeting on Monday evening was also largely attended. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Dr. Suthealand, and Rev. I. Tovell of Peterborough, Superintendent of the District. The choir furnished some excellent music. The collections taken up were quite equal to those of former years.

HYMENEAL.—St. Mary's Church was on Nov. 4th the scene of one of those happy events which occasionally occur in our little town, when Mr. O. A. Brennan, of Ridgetown, Ont., son of Mr. D. Brennan, of this place, conducted to the altar of Hymen, Miss Nellie, youngest daughter of our esteemed townsman, M. Mullins Esq. The bride was accompanied to the altar by Miss Annie Brennan, while Mr. Fred. Brennan served the groom in a like capacity. The Rev. Father Quirk officated. The bridal party left for the west, on the wedding trip by the evening train, accompanied as far as Peterborough by a party of friends.

A WONDERFUL IMPROVEMENT.—We clip the following very favorable notice of our village from a recent issue of the Newmarket Era:—"Dr. Scott and wife, accompanied by their son, have just returned from a week's visit at the thriving village of Norwood, in the county of Peterborough, the Dr.'s former field of labor, where they had an enjoyable time. They found after 16 years' absence, a wonderful improvement in the way of substantial brick blocks, and handsome private brick residences. Their many friends had not forgotten them but extended a hearty welcome, which will not be soon forgotten. The new and handsome Railway station on C. P. R., together with the large and substantial elevator, just erected by Messrs. Roxburgh & Rork, at a cost of over $5,000, will give a new impetus to the place. They speak in the highest praise of the great advantage the new road is for the convenience of all going east which for speed, politeness, and superiority of cars, cannot be excelled."—Register.

MANVERS.

OBITUARY.—Owing to what of the particulars we were unable last week to notice the death of Mr. Thos. Pritchard, an old and much respected resident of Manvers, who departed this life calmly and peacefully on the morning or the 25th ult. at the age of fiftyfour. Deceased was from youth a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church, and was esteemed by all who knew him for his strictly moral and Christian principles of character, and his name had almost become proverbial in the community for honesty and unrightness in all his transaction with his fellowmen and the county at large seems conscience of the loss it has sustained. But to his own loving family on whom he bestowed unlimited care and attention will his lost be felt the deepest. A wife, seven sons and two daughters being left to morn his death. The remains were on Monday, Oct 27th interred in the Milbrook Presbyterian cemetery.—Omemee Herald.

Poisonous Cheese.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—All the prisoners in the county gaol at Jackson were poisoned last night from eating cheese which one of the prisoners sent for and purchased. A coloured man, who was not allowed free access to the lunch, afterwards stole a large piece which he ate, and from the effects of which he came near dying. The gaol physician cannot determine what poison the cheese contained, but pronounces it of a deadly nature. He thinks the lives of all will be saved.

Disasters in the Gulf.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Nov. 5.—In the two gales of Saturday and the previous Thursday terrible havoc was wrought to the shipping on the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts. The British brig Dugarg was lost, with all hands, on Western head, Fort Esu. At Blanc Sable the schooners Topsey and Julia are total wrecks. The crew barely escaped. Eleven other vessels are total wrecks.

THE CHINIQUY DISTURBANCES.

A Mob Scattered by the Police.—Stones Thrown and Windows Broken.

The Montreal Star of Saturday gives the following account of the disturbances in that city on Friday evening:—Contrary to expectation the disturbance last evening in Canning street was of a comparatively trivial nature. Owing to illness Rev. Mr. Chiniquy, who was advertised to preach, did not put in an appearance. The service which was held in L'Eglise du Sauveur, was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Laufleur. In anticipation of trouble, thirty or forty theologicial students from the Presbyterian College, armed with heavy walking sticks, filled the lobby of the church and preserved order. The congregation was a comparatively small one, and consisted of young people, evidently attracted by curiosity, only a few ladies being present. On the outside the police had their hands full. Chief Paradis at the head of upwards of sixty men was stationed close at hand, prepared for any emergency that might arise. A sullen crowd soon collected and straggled along the opposite side of Canning street, from the railway track to St. Joseph street. All the neighboring windows were filled with occupants, who stared through the darkness at the exciting scene below. Finally as the gathering began to assume rather dangerous proportions, and as angry threats were shouted with alarming frequency, the Chief decided to take some action. His command to the motely crowd to disperse was met with derision, when the order to charge being given the policemen started in pursuit at the double. The transformation which followed was surprising and ludicrous in the extreme. The crowd parted in two directions and a moment later a dense shouting mass of humanity rushed pell-mell for safety, several unfortunates who were not gifted with adequate powers of locomotion were left as victims for the police, who mercilessly clubbed all stragglers. A few minutes later the crowd, which was exceedingly orderly on the whole, urged on by some daring leaders, marched back to the vicinity of the church. The police had scarcely got back into their old positions when a whizz, followed by a crash, was heard as a stone went through a front window of the sacred edifice. The guardians of the law made fruitless efforts to discover the authors of the act Chief Paradis had a narrow escape, as the missile flew past in dangerous proximity to his beaver hat. Four or five stones were thrown a moment later, when the congregation, intimidated by the noise, started to leave. There was, however, very little danger inside, as the windows were carefully curtained. At this juncture the crowd made a move with the object of getting behind the church. The chief, who expected this movement, sent a body of his men around by St. Joseph street. The mob, however, warned by sentries who whistled at the approach of the police, escaped in safety. Sub-Chief Clancy knocked a stick out of the hand of a young man and captured it, but it was afterward returned to the youthful owner, who proved to be a son of the pastor of the church. When the service was over, and the policemen drawn up ready to march, the men were saluted by a voley of stones. Thus the disturbance ended."

PERILS OF THE SEA.

Sufferings of a Shipwrecked Crew—Three of Their Comrades Drowned.

CHATHAM, N.B., Nov. 9.—The three masted schooner, Vigilant, of and from Bathurst, with laths for Boston, was driven on shore in a snow storm on Wednesday, at Tabusintac beach. The anchors held for a time, but she rode badly and dragged into the breakers. She struck about noon, and fell over on her beam ends at dark. She upset, and the men crawled upon the house that had floated off and part of the deck, where they remained until rescued at 10 o'clock next morning by W. A. Loggie and David Hutchison, with a canoe and ropes from Loggie's lobster factory, after 22 hours of great suffering and heroic endurance. The coloured cook was washed off and drowned when the vessel struck. Capt. Chase's son, 17 years old, was drowned by jumping off the raft to aid his father when the latter was in the water, and Daniel McKendy, Douglastown, Miramichi, died at sunrise from cold and exhaustion. The schooner is a total loss.

The survivors reached here to-night. One of them, a Portuguese, is almost helpless, and another has injured his arm. Three men were seen by the shipwrecked crew at daylight industriously piling up laths from the wreck, and these, although they had a boat, went on rescuing the laths, leaving the mariners to perish. They subsequently helped hauling in the canoe, to which a long rope was attached, and asked pay for it. The schooner was insured. She belonged to John Windsor, K. F. Burns, and others.

Cheap Goods and Dear.

Talk about dear goods these times! Why, everything that farmers have to buy, from a pound of nuts to a reaping machine, and from a yard of factory cotton to a man's best suit or a woman's silk dress, is now phenomenally cheap. Tea, coffee, sugar and groceries generally were never so cheap here since Canada was a country.

But some articles are dear notwithstanding. True, but just come down to details, if you please, and tell us what they are. Such articles of necessary household use are as dear now as every one of those things that Canadian farmers produce and have for sale. Take your choice: name to us those necessaries of life that can be called dear at present, and we warrant you they are all the produce of Canadian farmers. Never before did the articles that farmers have to sell bring so much money, taking all kinds of produce in a lump together; never before were the things that farmers have to buy so cheap. Toronto World (Indep. Ref.).

Alleged Fraud in Albany.

ALBANY, Nov. 8.—The Evening Journal says:—"The returns of two districts in 12th ward, Albany, have disappeared and when a Journal reporter hunted them up to-day the figures were altered so as to elect a Democratic County Treasurer by ten votes. The figures from the 12th ward given to all the papers in the city on the night of the election elected a Republican County Treasurer." The Journal says 120 votes were changed to count out the Republican. The matter is in the hands of ex-Senator Harris. If the ward is thrown out Cleveland will lose 388 votes. The Journal calls for a prompt investigation, and says it suggests the campaign methods of the Democracy which must be met with in the State.

An Absconder Dupes His Creditors.

QUEBEC, Nov. 8.—The supposed suicide at Montmorenci some weeks ago turns out only a humbug. The young man Blanchet, it appears, had run heavily in debt, and probably wishing to elude his creditors, skipped over the line, taking with him $180 belonging to his father, and leaving notes in his hat, etc., beside Montmorenci cataract to make out that he had committed suicide. A young lady is said to have left with him to share his ill-gotten gains. The father of the decamper is a man of very limited means, and this loss has affected him very much. He is too old to work, being 76 years of age.

The Dominion Premier.

A special despatch to the Mail from London, dated Nov. 9th, says: "Sir John Macdonald is almost entirely recovered from his late indisposition. His appearance is greatly improved, and the treatment of Sir Aedrew Clark, the premier asserts, has given him a new lease of life. He has satisfactorily settled both his private and public business, and he intends leaving England for Canada on the 22nd inst.",

BRASS work can be polished by rubbing the metal with finely-powdered tripoli mixed with linseed oil and applied with a rubber made from a piece of old hat or felt; or a mixture of glycerine, stearine; naphthaline, or creosote mixed with diluted sulphuric acid, can be used.

THE value of crushed ice as a dressing for burns and scalds, first pointed out by Sir James Earle, is confirmed by Dr. Richardson. The ice, after being reduced by crushing or scraping to a fine state of division as dry as possible, is mixed with fresh lard into a paste, which is placed in a thin cambric bag and laid upon the burn. This is said to banish all pain until the mixture has so far melted that a fresh dressing is necessary.

MILK TOAST.—A good way to dispose of dry bread is to make it into milk toast. Toast the bread a short time before it is wanted. Set a half pan of milk on the stove and let it get scalding hot. Put in a little salt, spread the toasted slices with butter and put them into the hot milk, and in a few minutes remove to the table. If the toast is put in to soon the bread will fall in pieces, and is not so nice to serve. There should be plenty of milk for the amount of bread.

MASHED TURNIPS.—Wash the roots well, then pare and cut into slices, when in a stew-pan with just enough cold water to cover them, boil until tender; when ready, turn them out on to a sieve and press out all the water, then mash with either butter or cream and season with pepper and salt; put the mixture into a lined saucepan and stir over them over the fire for a few minutes; heat a basin, pour in the mash, and turn out on a warmed vegitable-dish. The addition of a yolk of an egg improves it very considerably.

THE COAL DUTY.

IN an article on "The Coal and Flour Duties" the Monetary Times uses an argument, not for the first time, in favour of free trade that seems to us to be fallacious. It says:—

"That a duty on coal or any other commodity does not add to the price is a proposition that will not bear discussion. The denial has sometimes been used as a subterfuge; but it is a denial of the rule of addition; and if we are to accept it there is no mathematical demonstration which might not be similarly treated."

From this and previous utterances it seems to be of opinion that the amount of the duty is added to the price of an article. If it extends this theory to home products, not imported but protected, it is transparently incorrect, for in many cases the price is far lower than the cost abroad with the duty added, and in some instances the price has even been less in amount than the duty itself. Even if it confines itself to imported goods it is still incorrect, for men in any line of business could tell it, as we can ourselves from our own experience, that it is common to receive offers of foreign goods with a special allowance to pay the duty—an allowance greater than could be obtained before the change of tariff. This arises from the foreign producer making an extra sacrifice in order to secure our market, for which purpose he and not the importer or consumer pays the duty, which therefore should clearly not be added to the price.

This is undoubtedly true of coal among other commodities. If it were not, the price of Pennsylvania coal in Ontario would be constantly higher than on the other side of the lake by the amount of the duty and the extra cost of transport. It has been shown over and over again that this was not so. The Pennsylvania mine-owners have been willing to throw off the duty, or a part of it, in order to retain our market. At first this was sometimes done by a special rebate on the invoice to cover the duty, but subsequently the same end was attained by fixing a special price that gave the same advantage. Hence the price has not, as a rule, been increased by the duty, which is paid by the mine-owners. People sometimes blind themselves to this fact by the assumption that the price would be lowered if the duty were remitted. This would certainly be the case as regards coal in bond, in transit or for which contracts had been made for a certain price, because, in fact, the amount of the duty would then have been taken off twice, but this would not occur in the case of any future purchases. The price would immediately be raised by the coal-owners, so as to have the present effect of keeping nearly the whole of the Ontario market for Pennsylvania, while obtaining the highest price possible without letting in Nova Scotia coal. As it is, a certain amount of Nova Scotia coal has found a sale in Eastern Ontario. To that extent the duty has been protective, and beyond that the effect has been to make Pennsylvania pay the duty.

The operation of the duty in tending to stimulate the development of the coal mines of the North-West is another point worthy of consideration.

BREAD made from the same kind of flour used in leading Canadian cities is sold at 3c. to 4c. per loaf cheaper in Liverpool and Glasgow than in the Dominion. So much for protection! It is a beautiful institution for robbing the working man.—Port Perry Standard, Nov. 6.

The Reformers, on the other hand, always argue that the duty on wheat could not give the farmers a higher price except in a year of scarcity, when he would have so little to spare that the extra price would be of little advantage.—Port Perry Standard, Nov. 6.

The above paragraphs, taken from the same issue of a Reform paper, have an air of inconsistency about them. Bread is made here; it is not imported and no duty is paid on it. Consequently the only way the tariff could increase the price of bread would be by raising the price of the article from which it is made. But the Standard contends that the price of wheat is not increased by the tariff, and therefore it does not make bread dearer. Either the price of wheat is increased by the tariff, or the price of bread is not increased by it. Reform journals get terribly mixed in trying to make people believe that the duty works two ways.

MAKING another vain attempt to drag us down to its own level, the Globe again accuses us of wilful falsehood because in a column of "Opinions of the Press" we quoted with due credit a statement by the Philadelphia Call as to the relative price of coal in that city and Winnipeg. It is just possible that the Call may know more than the Globe about the price of coal in Philadelphia.

Was She Kidnapped.

TRENTON, Nov. 7.—A girl named Mandy Fidwell, living in the third concession of Murray, has been missing since the 29th of last month. On that day she started to walk to Wooler post office, but her whereabouts since has been a mystery.

INDEFINITELY IMPRISONED.

A Prisoner Eighteen Months in the County Gaol for Contempt.

While the Grand Jury were inspecting the county gaol the other day, they had their attention called to John S. Ramsay, a debtor, who has been incarcerated therein for eighteen months. It seems that Ramsay, who is an experienced master weaver, was brought to this country by a company in Allison. The business did not thrive, and Ramsay's salary was away behind. It was then proposed to give him stock in the concern to the amount of his unpaid salary. Shortly after this the firm became bankrupt, and Ramsay found himself responsible for about $2,000 of its liabilities. Being penniless at the time he was unable to meet this claim. Later on he received a legacy from Scotland, and a speculator who became apprised of this bought up the claim against Ramsey, and sued him for the amount. He was commanded to appear before a judge at Osgoode Hall for examination and came to this city for that purpose. The old man got on a little jollification when he reached here and failing to appear at Court was committed for contempt. That was a year and a half ago and during the varying legal proceeding which have been set in motion since, old Ramsay has been a constant inmate of the gaol. The trouble seems to be now that Ramsay will not disclose where his money is placed and his enemies will not consent that he be liberated until he does. The old fellow has got his Scotch stubbornness aroused, and declares he will rot in prison before he will satisfy those who put him there. The point that seems to concern the citizens of Toronto most is that although he is a debtor from another country he has been living at the expense of Toronto ratepayers for the last eighteen months, and from present appearances this state of things threaten to continue.—Toronto Globe.

AN IMPORTANT LEGAL CASE.

A law case of great interest to the residents in the County of Haliburton will come on for trial at the present setting of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, in Toronto. It relates to the assessment for municipal purposes of the property of the Canadian Land and Emigration Company. The Company owns nine townships in the County of Haliburton, containing something like 350,000 acres of land, and the whole of this property is included in the Municipality of Dysart. The local assessor assessed the property at a sum somewhat exceeding $100,000, and made the assessment in such a manner as to give according to his judgment a proportionate rate to the assessment of the individual settler residing in the Dysart municipality,—of whom it must be remarked there are but few. To this assessment exception was taken by the settlers, and one of them appealed to the Court of Revision, contending that the Company's assessment as compared to that of the individual settlers, was unfairly low. The Court of Revision, having examined the witnesses, raised the Company's assesment,—raised it considerably,—raised it to a sum which is equivalent to about 75c per acre on the whole of the property. With this decision the Company were dissatisfied, but instead of appealing, as in the usual course, to the County Judge went to the higher Court and obtained an injunction to restrain the municipality from collecting any rate, the allegation being that the members of the Court of Revision had improperly entered into a conspiracy to unduly tax the Company's property. The municipality has consequently been unable to collect any rate for the present year, and as the municipality of Dyarst contributes a large proportion of the County revenue,—somewhere about five-eights of the whole,—the entire county is deeply interested in the case. The municipality have placed the matter in the hands of Mr. Hudspeth, of Lindsay, who, in conjunction with Mr. Dalton McCarthy, will represent the Council in Court, and Mr. Gordon, of the firm of Wells & Gordon, of Toronto, will appear to conduct the case for the Company. As the case is now sub judice, it would be improper to make any remarks upon it, but the result, which ever way the Court may decide, cannot fail to have a most important influence on the fortunes of the entire County.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

LINDSAY.

FREIGHT SHED.—New freight sheds at Lindsay are to be erected almost immediately. No site, however, has been decided on so far as we could learn, but it is very probable it will be on the site of the old or near it. The proposed new building will be considerably larger and narrower.

HANDLE IT CAREFULLY.—As Miss Brown, of Brown's restaurant, was handling a bottle of ammonia near a stove on Friday evening the cork suddenly blew out and the liquid flew into her eyes. For a short time it was supposed her eye sight was totally lost, but it was subsequently found that though badly burned the eyes themselves were uninjured. She is now improving fast, but it was a narrow escape from blindness. People cannot be too careful how a bottle of ammonia is handled round a stove.

THE LATE FIRE.—We learn on what we consider good authority that the Grand Trunk Company have signified their intention of paying the loss on all goods burned in the late storehouse that had been received in or outwards during the whole of Saturday. They will also make good the loss on all goods for which weigh bills were issued during the whole of Saturday, but for the value of those issued on Friday or earlier they will not hold themselves responsible. This must be considered very fair on the part of the railway company and will practically reduce the loss of our merchants to small amounts. The railway authorities will be heavy losers taking everything into account, although the storehouse and freight cars were partially insured.

RIVER NOTES.—We learn upon inquiry that it is expected the Esturion will cease her trips from after about the 10th inst. The past season has not been up to the average for passenger travel, which may perhaps be accounted for by the unusually cold summer we have had. The Eva ceased her trips some time since. The route apparently cannot yet support such a fleet as we have running between Lindsay and Bobcaygeon, at all events from opening to close of navigation. During their sojourn in winter quarters the crafts will be thoroughly overhauled and upon the opening of navigation the Esturion will run out of Lindsay in the morning, returning in the evening, for the accommodation of the Lindsay people, while the Beaubocage will make the railway connection necessary for Sturgeon Point and Bobcaygeon—Warder.

LEAP YEAR MARRIAGES.—The offer of the Post free to young ladies who proposed during leap year was claimed and admitted in just 37 cases. It was a most pleasing and satisfactory proposition, and will be repeated next leap year if all is well. There's time yet for a good many offers, as leap year has two months yet to run.

THRICE ENLARGED.—For the third time within the last two years Ingle's planing mill and factory has been enlarged. This time it is the planing department that has outgrown the space allotted to it. The addition to the building will allow of stock lumber and custom work being handled all under cover.—Post.

BOBCAYGEON.

ROOTS.—Some of the farmers in the neighborhood have housed their roots, but the bulk of the crop is still out. As a rule, the crop is exceptionally good. Mr. Thos. Bick, who is turning his farm in Harvey to stock raising, especially for his village business, has four acres of turnips, from which he will take 2,000 bushels. Mr. J. L. Read will have 4,000 bushels of mangolds, turnips and carrots, for feeding purposes. Mr. Chas. Fairburn has taken 3,000 bushels of turnips and carrots from one field. He had a quantity of both seeds, that he was not sure of, so he mixed it, and sowed liberally. Both turned out good, and made a splendid catch. Turnips weighing 35 lbs. were common.

CATTLE.—There is a depression on the cattle trade this fall, in comparison with recent years, and prices are much lower than they were. Owing to the good market, and importations of thorough-bred stock, the stock of this neighborhood has been wonderfully improved the last two years. The buyers have exercised some little influence in this direction by abandoning the old system of paying the same price for any animal. As an instance, Mr. T. Beck recently paid $25 each for a pair of three year old steers, and $36 each for a pair of two year olds. Farmers in this way soon see the advantage of good breeding. If the storekeepers would take the same course, instead of paying the same price for all qualities of butter, and other farm produce, it would be a great advantage to everyone.

ST. JOSEPH'S.—His Lordship Bishop Jamot visited the R. C. Church, on Wednesday evening, and conducted service, assisted by the popular parish priest, Rev. P. McEvay, and likewise by the Rev. Mr. McCloskey. A large congregation welcomed the Bishop, and were pleased and instructed by the admirably fraternal and Christian address by His Lordship. The aim of the Bishop is to induce people to live and conduct themselves as Christians, not to accord mere lip service to our Master, but to govern our daily thoughts and actions by His commands. Bishop Jamot, when speaking generally, may always be listened to with advantage by other than those of his Church.—Independent.

The supper was prepared in Mr. Martin's first class style, and in which he maintained the well earned reputation of the house. The successful completion of the stone abutments of the new iron bridge was the cause of the entertainment. The pleasing features of this contract was the good feeling and harmony which existed between the employers and employees during the work on the contract. After the supper had been partaken of, the company adjourned to the parlour where several hours were pleasantly spent in songs and music.—Herald.

THE REVIEW BOOK-BINDERY

THE SCENERY OF SCOTLAND.

Respectfully inscribed to Isabella Valency Crawford, of Toronto, author of numerous beautiful poems, for the extremely kind and unexpected note, sympathizing with me in my trying affliction, namely, the failure of my sight. She hopes that if it should be my sad lot to sit in darkness, the gift of the muse will be still permitted to flow, so that through the columns of the REVIEW she will still have the pleasure of reading my productions upon the dear old land. She earnestly requests me to try a few lines upon the scenery of Scotland. I know that I am unqualified to do justice to such a subject, and I hope that she will forgive the weak attempt that I have made, trusting she will look beyond the simple language, and appreciate the spirit in which I have written.

AULD SCOTIA.

Mirror of Nature guide my humble lays,
Assist while I Auld Scotia praise;
Not her fair daughters, nor her sons so brave;
No bloodstained fields, nor Scottish martyr's grave,
I feel my pen is quite inadequate
To paint Scotch scenery, so grand and great;
No poet's pen, no painter's high art,
Can show the beauties Scotia's scenes impart;
Her towering cliffs, bold, lofty, grand and free,
Worn by the wild waves of the Northern sea;
Her pebbly beach, or dangerous rock-bound shore,
Where hapless sailors sink to rise no more.
The spreading trees — oft underneath their boughs,
The true Scotch lovers pledged their love—their vows;
Her shaded groves afford the quiet retreats,
Where amorous Jock his winsome Jenny meets.
Ascend her mountains, where the tourist spies,
Romantic landscape pleasing to the eyes;
While plots of wild shrubs the hillside adorn;
Through them the swift deer bounds with antler'd horn,
Her grassy plains, laid out by Nature's skill,
While through their centre glides the gurgling rill,
Rising and rushing o'er the shelving rocks,
Where panky shepherds tend their fleecy flocks.
Tall stands the broom, nodding from side to side,
Rich blooming heather, every Scotchman's pride;
Meek mountain daisy, all the wild flowers spread,
Primrose and cowslip, with its clustering head;
Her ancient abbeys, by time's hand deformed,
Where Friars and Monks their sacred rites performed;
Old crumbling castles, with their turrets grey,
Where princes pined, royal blood ebbed away;
Her lochs and lakes, famed for their glossy form
Or foaming waves, when tossed before the storm;
Escaping prisoners in the midnight hour
Sailed o'er those waters, free from tyrant's power;
The slippery craigs, oft speeled by Scots so brave,
Or rude built cairn, to mark some martyr's grave.
The banks and braes are bonnie now, as when
They brought sweet strains from oor ain Bobbie's pen.
Behold that glen, view that round hollow there;
Oft from that spot went up the solemn prayer
Of those who hid from persecutor's reach;
To little bands did guid John Paden preach.
Her mountain pass, where bloody troopers rode,
With panting steeds pursue the man of God;
Some hanging rock, or secret cave he knew,
Secured his safety, hid him from their view.
Scenery of Scotia, rugged, yet so fair,
No lands with her, historic, can compare.
Her shaded nooks, green knowles and flowery dales,
Have furnished topics for romantic tales.
No lovelier scenes, stamped by creative hand,
No fairer spots exist in any land,
No greener sward watered by mountain flood,
No soil on earth drank so much martyr's blood;
Nae healthier breezes blaw o'er hills nae free,
Nae bonnier burns rins wimplin' tae the sea;
Nae sweeter roses 'mang the woodbine curled,
Nae dearer thissle blooms in a' the world;
The Scot in youth that trod her heath clad hill,
Where'er he dwells, in heart he loves her still;
Her dear green valleys, and her birken shaws,
Live in his memory while a breath he draws.

EDUCATIONAL SERMONS

Are Preached in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church by Prof. Burwash.

On Sunday, morning and evening, Dr. N. Burwash, professor in Theology at Victoria University, Cobourg, preached sermons in the interest of education at the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. At both services the church was well filled :—

In the evening the rev. gentleman took for his text, Mathew, xviii, 5.

"And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receveth me."

The words of Christ, he said, are remarkable at once for their profound depth and their wide range. In His teachings are the expression of great principles of truth, far reaching and universal in their influence and application. One of those principles which our Saviour at times illustrated in his recorded discourses, and upon which He seemed to love to dwell, was this—that the service to God and the service to man are one, that duty to God and duty to humanity is identical. A philosophy of our day has imitated this, but it does so by debasing the Deity to the level of humanity. Christ announces His principle by lifting humanity to the lofty dignity of the sonship of Deity. God is not merely an inmate of some cloistered habitation. He is everywhere. He hath made His presence universal in the persons of all his children, and wherever you can find one of these you can do homage to God by blessing man.

Christ says. "Whoso shall receive one such little child in My name receiveth Me." But it was not one particular child that Christ meant, it was the child world. The child world are weak and helpless and it is our duty to strengthen them. According as they are guided by us so will the world be centuries hence. Apart from duty we may apply it from the selfish standpoint. If these children are educated morally, intellectually and socially, the business of the next age will prosper and be secure.

But let us first consider the principle of here presented ; secondly, the practical direction as to the exhibition of this principle ; and thirdly, the importance of this principle and practice in their results on the world's history and the Kingdom of Christ. The principle of duty to which appeal is here made is to the Lord Jesus Christ. We have heard men say, "Why should I be called upon to educate other people's children? I am willing to educate my own children and to provide an elementary education for all children, so that the whole state may not fall into a mass of ignorance, and inasmuch as I do not wish to live in the midst of savages I am willing to be taxed for as much education as will prevent the masses around me from falling into a savage state. Especially in the question of higher education does it become a matter of individual interest, and those who want an education above the average must pay for it, as they are benefitted by it." But the question should not be, "How much will this benefit me?" but, "How much will it benefit Christ?" Let us look back to the days of our childhood, at the heritage to which we fell heirs at the day of our birth. Looking in the single direction of religious education it must be admitted that the men of the present generation, whether from the past strong religious faith, a comparatively pure moral and religious literature, a Christian philosophy and a science grandly religious in its influence, and institutions of learning which the Church of God endeavoured to combine intellectual culture with moral and religious training. This heritage came to us by the expenditure of noble lives, holy toil, consecrated wealth, and the blood of the patriot and the martyr. For eighteen centuries it has been handed down by heroic toil of men such as Anslem, Luther and Wesley. And what has been true of the Word of God holds along an entirely different line of our noble Christian literature. From the first ages downward immorality and infidelity have poured their streams of impurity into the great river of human thought. But the good sense and moral intergity of our forefathers have allowed the mud and dirt to sink to their merited oblivion in the buried strata of the past, and the pure and good has rolled onward with increasing volume to bless the generations to come. What do you owe to Christ?

YOUR DEBT COMMENCES AT YOUR BIRTH.

Oh, what a difference, being born in the genial atmosphere of a christian home, or in the wigwam of the wild Indians, in the hut of a frozen Esquimaux, or in the kraal of a Hotentott. Go back to the memories of childhood. The old fireside, before which stood the mother's chair, and around which was gathered the infant circle, of which it was your privilege to be a member. Then call up in your mind the hymns which your mother sang, the lessons of God's Word, which she instilled into your memory, the church theology taught from the catechism, and the holy earnestness with which she appealed to your young heart to consecrate yourself to God. When ideas began to be formed and love for herself commenced to be manifested, she directed them heavenward to the Father which is above all earthly parentage. You are then led forth to the house of God on a Sabbath day by your father's hand. It is the first time you have been in the holy sanctuary. You are surrounded by solemnity, and day by day you grow up in the atmosphere of religion and the Spirit of God which stamps its impress upon your plastic nature. A little further you are led to school. The public schools are a work of the state, but where was born the idea of the school system? It sprung from the fundamental necessity of the Christian religion. They were established so that the people might read and understand the Bible — in Germany by Martin Luther, and in Scotland by John Knox. Mark the programme of these Scottish schools "Civility, Godliness, Knowledge and Learning." And shall it be that Christianity which gave schools to all the people, training rich and poor in the practice of good manners and pure morals, in religion and elements of necessary learning, be bid stand aside that a bald secularism and intellectualism may take possession of its birthright? Woe, woe, woe, to the generation upon whom the responsibility of doing this shall rest.

OUR DEBT.

Our heritage is great and our debt of gratitude is correspondingly large. To whom? To the living Christ who marshalled all these powers of goodness and truth and carried forward through ages of toil, battle and darkness that grand array of blessed privileges which at this end have fallen into your lot. You owe, tonight, your liberty, civilization, culture, morality, and above all your glorious religion, to the Lord Jesus Christ. Were you stripped of these privileges you would be naked savages fighting fiercely with the elements. How can you pay this debt? By singing psalms? By building monuments? No, no. But by handing on to the generations to come unbroken and increased with interest all the privileges which you now enjoy. Christ sets up to-night in your midst the little child, the emblem of all generations, and bids you pay your debt by working for these.

But we must have home religion. Upon the character of the man depends the future of the country and church. It should be the highest interest of human society, but the innovation of modern society are pushing out the old fireside religion, where the worship of God was pressed upon the little hearts and holy resolutions to do right were first made. There are so many socials, concerts and lectures to attend by the mother, and the father it crowded with business from morning till night, and from Monday till Monday. The work of religiously educating the young cannot be done by proxy, it must be done by the parents. The church can do without many ordinances, but this one is indispensible. The future men who fill the pulpit, who stand on the platform, who occupy the editor's chair, or instruments in the hands of God in other ways, will not be the offspring of your fashionable ladies. Their mothers will be those who are unseen and unknown, prayerfully teaching their children to walk firmly on the path of life. The Church is going forth to conquer the world, but it is meeting with difficulties such as is never met with before. To-day the struggle is for secular education. In the last century literature was not so current as it now is. The people used to study the Bible then, and the generality of them could discuss profound questions equal to our modern theologians. But now what is the state of things? Everyone is intensely interested in the questions of the day. An ordinary man would about as soon do without his breakfast as without his morning paper. People now discuss the Egyptian question, the state of Ireland, and a great many other subjects. The is changed with worldly affairs. When our forefathers came to the House of God they thirsted for something to think about. Their attention was fixed on the minister to hear what he had to tell them. Not so the modern man. He is intensely interested in public questions and affairs that affect the public mind. If an election is held he will sit and listen to the political speeches until late at night and early in the morning. But when he goes to church it requires extraordinary ability to obtain his hearing. This the church has to battle with. Her preachers must be able, cultivated, and educated. We require to strengthen all the educational institutions which the Christian church has planted. If ever there was a time when the colleges and religious schools should be maintained in all perfectness and power this is the time. If we are faithful in our duty to the coming generation the glory will come although we may not live to see it. No one can tell what the world will be like in fifty years. Some of these children here present may see it. Its future depends upon you and upon me. It will be what we make it. Although not so fruitful in its products as some southern climes our country is able to sustain strong minded, vigorous men and women.

But the interests of eternity depends upon our fidelity. We have now our beautiful homes, and elegant carriages, and libraries filled with the choicest literature of the day, and hundreds of other comforts, but how long will we have them? When we pass into the grave the question will not be "what was your social standing in society?" but it will be "how faithful were you to the responsibility which God laid upon you?" "Did you leave the world any better by your living in it?" These will be the questions. The missionary work is a great one and I do not wish to disparage it, but our educational work must go forward. What is the use of establishing missionary stations in China and India if you are going to let Christianity weaken in its power and influence at home—to grow weak in the great centre. There is no one work which is more important for carrying on the work of the church than this, the great work of educating ministers and laymen. The missionary work and the work of education must go side by side, and if we discharge our solemn responsibilities, on the great day of judgment, we will receive our eternal reward.

BURGLARY.—About one o'clock on Saturday morning some one crawled through the pidgeonhole of the Queen's Hotel bar and carried off about one dollar and fifty cents in change out of the till and a box of cigars. They did not touch the "Curse of Canada." During the same night the bar-room of the Turner House was broken into and several hundred cigars and a quantity of liquor stolen. No clue to the miscreants.—Guide.

PROCLAMATION!

BULLETIN ISSUED FROM THE CITY CLOTHING STORE.

PERSONALLY we do not know every buyer of Clothing and Gents' Furnishings in Peterborough, but the constant and uninterupted flow of new customers who are daily making our establishment their headquarters for their wants, warrants us in believing that the public after once visiting the City Clothing Store, become SOLID customers. And what is more, they tell their friends and neighbours of the fair and square manner they are dealt with, and by this means we have gained the public confidence.

PERSONAL: H LeBRUN is never behind in anything he takes hold of, and in the Clothing Trade he has proved himself a shrewd buyer—purchasing nothing that would be an eyesore on the shelves, and taking none but a class of goods that the general public are in daily need of. The WORKING MAN is not forgotten by LeBRUN, who has constantly on hand a class of goods that the mechanic requires, such as Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, Gloves, Hosiery, Underwear, Umbrellas, Rugs, Water-proof Coats—in fact everything in the Gentlemens' Furnishing line.

A GOOD FIT IS EVERYTHING!

If a man buys a suit of Clothes, the first thing he will do is to choose a piece of cloth he likes—something suitable and pretty. That's right; the correct thing to do. But if that man does not get a good fit—if the Cutter makes a "botch" of the job—the cloth that looked so enticing to him before being made up, now becomes cheap-looking and he dosen't like it. MR. KILPATRICK, although only with the City Clothing Store about two months, is giving universal satisfaction, and he makes no mistakes nor botches no clothes, but guarantees a perfect fit and the most fashionable cut. In consequence our Order Department is having an unprecedented run. In BOYS' SUITS we are doing a grand trade.

JUST LISTEN TO THIS!

We have an extra large stock of Ready-made Overcoats for Men and Boys, and are determined to dispose of them immediately. So if you want a neat and nobby Coat cheap, call and examine ours.

In UNDERCLOTHING our assortment is very extensive, and the public will find on examination that it is one of the best stocks in town.

In GENTS' FURNISHINGS the City Clothing Store stands at the head of the class. Your every want is here, and if you cannot see what you want, ask for it, and presto! it is before you. The greatest feature in our store is the prices, they are ROCK BOTTOM!

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Late Mrs. C. Kempt.

We learn that the fatal illness of the late Mrs. Charles Kempt was bronchitis, not diphtheria, as was at first reported.

Just in Time.

This morning about 11 o'clock a despatch from Norwood reached town, asking the authorities to detain a team of horses, which had been driven here by a man who is said to be insane. Chief Johnston recovered the horses just as they were being backed into a car for Toronto. They were lodged in a stable in town and the owner notified by wire.

To Subscribers of "Picturesque Canada."

We take pleasure in informing subscribers to PICTURESQUE CANADA, that we are prepared to bind the work in various styles, at the lowest possible prices. We make the binding of PICTURESQUE CANADA a specialty, having secured artistic covers and having an experienced binder and gilder, who is prepared to produce the work as it should be. Parties at a distance desiring the work bound can send them to us and we will return to them when bound, paying express charges both ways.

St. Peter's Cathedral.

The work of the restoration of St. Peter's Cathedral is being pressed vigorously forward. Columns of alternate cut and broken stone are being built on either side of the building, and the stone cutters are being kept necessarily busy. It is estimated that an additional four thousand dollars will be spent on the cathedral this year with what is already expended. The work will be carried on as long as the weather permits. Next year further improvements will be made.

James Taylor.

This well and favorably known comedian will again appear before a Peterborough audience to-morrow night. Every time Mr. Taylor has visited Peterborough he has been greeted with crowded houses and we bespeak for him this time a similar reception. Miss Ada Alexandra, a favorite in Peterborough, will also appear in one of the leading characters, and a strong company will support the two chief actors. The play which will be put on the boards is "Tempted; or, The Trials of the turf," one of the most popular plays of the day.

The Registry Office.

Not long since the County Court Office was improved and enlarged and now the Registry Office comes in for its share of attention from the hammer and trowel. Mr. Wm. Aldridge has been engaged for the past week in changing the position of the door which faced the west to the place of the window facing southwest. The window now takes the place vacated by the door and the people now enter the office from the south side, corresponding in that particular with the County Court Office. Internal improvements have also been made. The positions of the counters have been altered and the place rendered more comfortable.

Personal.

Mr. H. H. Smith, Inspector of Dominion Lands Agencies in Manitoba and the North-West Territories, is in town for a few days on his way to Ottawa, where he has official business connected with his office. We are glad to see that his residence in the North-West has apparently agreed with Mr. Smith. He gives a favourable account of the progress and present condition of the country, and reports that all the settlers from the district where he has been are doing well.

Professor N. Burwash, of Victoria College, Cobourg, departed for home this morning. While in town he was the guest of Mr. Geo. A. Cox.

Mr. Wm. M. Hamilton went to Orillia this morning for the purpose of establishing his broom factory in that town.

Mr. J. A. Richardson, Canadian Passenger Agent of the Wabash line of railway, is at the Grand Central Hotel.

St. John's Church.

The attendance at both morning and evening services held in this church on Sunday was large. The church wardens have provided a form of service for strangers visiting the church to encourage responding and make the service more hearty. Sidesmen stand at the door and give these pamphlets out to those who may not be provided with a prayer book, and the result is already manifesting itself. The reverend gentleman took for his text on Sunday evening the 19th verse of the Second Epistle General of St. Peter:—"We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts." The sermon was listened to with marked attention by those present. In the anthem hymn, "Weary of Earth, and Laden with my Sin," Miss Clara Cluxton sang the second and fourth verses as a solo, and as usual acquitted herself admirably. At the conclusion of the services Mr. Chas. W. Ewing, the efficient organist, played "The Dead March in Saul," as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Mrs. Chas. Kempt, who was a member of the church. Many of the congregation remained seated until the last strains of the grand and solemn piece had died away.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

D. & D.

George Northey was charged by P. C. Adams with having been drunk and disorderly. The prisoner acknowledged his having been drunk but did not think he was disorderly. He was fined $1 and costs.

SIMPLY DRUNK.

J. Keenen was charged by P. C. Adams with having been drunk in a public place. The prisoner pleaded guilty. The Court stated that as had not been disorderly he would impose only the small fine of $1.50 without costs.

Brilliant Waltzes.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds, between south-west and north-west; fine comparatively mild weather.

C. E. T. S.

A meeting of St. John's branch of the Church of England Temperance Society will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of re-organizing for the season. A meeting of the Band of Hope will be held on the same evening at 7o'clock.

Sweet Apple Cider.

We take pleasure in announcing to our numerous patrons and the public generally that we still hold the exclusive agency for the Belleville Cider Works. This Cider needs no comment from us, as the quantity we sold last year is sufficient proof of pureness and delicacy of flavour. CARTON, BROS., opposite Market Square.

Week of Prayer.

The week between the 9th and 15th of November inclusive having been set apart as a week of prayer for all Young Men's Christian Associations throughout the world, the Peterborough branch, in accordance with all the other branches, commenced the celebration on Sunday. On Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock a meeting was held in the new rooms over the post office. The topic was "The Lord our Helper." Mr. Geo. E. Williams conducted the service. In the evening at 8 30 o'clock Mr. Geo. M. Roger led the meeting in the topic, "God's Appeal to me." This evening Mr. Thos. G. Bone, of Lakefield, will conduct the service, which will be held at 8 o'clock. The topic for this evening is "The Fatal Choice."

The Churches.

The Rev. J. Fraser Campbell, returned missionary from Central India, preached before St. Paul's Church congregation on Sunday morning. He took his text from St. Matthew ii., and part of the 9th and 10th vs.: "Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." He dwelt on the missionary work in India and the great good arising therefrom.

At St. Peter's Cathedral the Rev. Father Keating preached on the "Unity of Faith." He took his text from Galations i., from the 6th to the 12th verse.

At St. Luke's Church the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw preached on the "Intermediate State." He took his text from Rev. xiv., 13: "And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours."

The Chief Aims of Life.

Leaving out of consideration the higher or religious aim of life, to what do the great majority of people devote the larger part of their time, labor and life? It is to obtain money. If they are not compelled to do so by circumstances, they do so voluntarily in order to accumulate riches. If a man is ambitious, and desires to become prominent in his country, he must secure a certain amount of wealth to form a spring board from which he leaps and dives into the sea of worldly glory. If a man loves ease, and longs for the time when he can cease work or retire from business, he must economize and save money to support him while he reclines under the shadows of the evening of his life. If a young man is in love, and his heart palpitates for the young lady of his choice to light the fires, cook his breakfast and sew on buttons, he must, if he is a prudent young man, lay by enough of the filthy lucre to start them in housekeeping. Or if a man desires money simply from the love of the gold, he must save the same as the others. All desire wealth, although their objects may be different. Now, no matter how necessary it is for a gentleman, young or old, to be economical, he must have clothes; he must keep himself dressed, especially at this season. This being the case he desires to know where he can purchase good goods at low prices. He can easily find just such a place, namely, at A. MCNEIL'S Habiliment Hall.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Peculiar Result of a Mill Accident.

The Duluth Tribune makes the following statement: "It was more than three weeks ago that John Johnson, a laborer in the Duluth Lumber Company's mill, was injured by being struck in the head by a stick flying from a saw. The stick broke the skull just over the right eye brow, and when Dr. Davis dressed the wound he took out a piece of skull about an inch and a half large, exposing the brain. For some time Johnston's recovery was very doubtful, but he improved, and is now doing well. The peculiarity of the case lies in the fact the wound has not entirely healed yet, and that it appears as though it would not heal; for the wound reached the nasal cavity, and now the patient actually breathes through that hole in his skull—that is, he can breathe so when he chooses to. He is now doing well, and promises to fully recover, except that he will always have the choice of breathing through his nose, his mouth, or the hole in his forehead."

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. E. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: "I was afflicted with lung fever and abcess on lungs, and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 lbs." Call at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all lung diseases. Large bottles $1.00.

GENTLEMEN,—

Our New Fall and Winter Tweeds and Suitings are all in Stock, and on our shelves, where you or we can lay our hands on them in a jiffy.

They all have one object in view. To keep out the WIND and the WINTER—and to give you at the same time a stylish and gentlemanly appearance.

We'll skip stuff, cut, trimmings and buttons and much about styles, to say:—There's one way of telling you about them that touches your hearts, for it touches your pockets. THEY COST LOW and they're worth all they cost—and more.

And Mr. Peter Simon, the varsatile, scientific, stylish and mathematically correct Cutter shall carve for you the goods.

PROGRESS IN BOOK-BINDING.

BEFORE the present year our Bindery had hardly kept pace with the rapid improvements that have been made in every other branch of the business of the REVIEW Office. Although it seemed sufficient for the requirements of a mere country town in the past, we felt that it was hardly equal to the standard of what might be expected in Peterborough, now that it rivals many of our cities, nor adequate to modern requirements naturally more exacting now than in the past. It was, however, difficult to procure good "all round" workmen, familiar with the latest work as it is now turned out in the cities. But as our business continually grew, and increased orders in greater variety came in, not only from our own town and neighborhood, but often from distant points, we felt encouraged to employ an extra staff of book-binders so as to put new life both in the system and workmanship of this important department of the REVIEW Office.

Our new foreman book-binder has enjoyed an experience in large establishments in England, the United States and Canada, and has consequently acquired the modus operandi for turning out superior work in the most rapid manner. His assistants are carefully trained, each in their special branch of Book-binding at which they are most adept, and are more rapid in their particular branches than the quiet old-fashioned journeyman who may be found in in some newly-started, half-starved country Book-bindery, compelled to work hard while trying to accomplish the cheap work as well as the expensive labour, all by himself.

The change we have effected, embodying all the advantages of the present system of a division of labour, is already bearing good fruits. It has been of the most pleasant character to to our customers, and has well repaid ourselves. Except in occasional cases, when orders pour in upon us unexpectedly and in unusual quantities, our customers can now get their work in reasonable time, and, generally, when they want it. Little if any fault is now found with the work—the occasional complaints which we heard in past years, have now entirely ceased. More finish, better style, greater solidity and fewer defects now characterize all our work. With these improvements we confidently solicit a continuance of the favours of the public.

THE REVIEW PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY, (LIMITED).

The Chief Aims of Life.

Leaving out of consideration the higher or religious aim of life, to what do the great majority of people devote the larger part of their time, labor and life? It is to obtain money. If they are not compelled to do so by circumstances, they do so voluntarily in order to accumulate riches. If a man is ambitious, and desires to become prominent in his country, he must secure a certain amount of wealth to form a spring board from which he leaps and dives into the sea of worldly glory. If a man loves ease, and longs for the time when he can cease work or retire from business, he must economize and save money to support him while he reclines under the shadows of the evening of his life. If a young man is in love, and his heart palpitates for the young lady of his choice to light the fires, cook his breakfast and sew on buttons, he must, if he is a prudent young man, lay by enough of the filthy lucre to start them in housekeeping. Or if a man desires money simply from the love of the gold, he must save the same as the others. All desire wealth, although their objects may be different. Now, no matter how necessary it is for a gentleman, young or old, to be economical, he must have clothes; he must keep himself dressed, especially at this season. This being the case he desires to know where he can purchase good goods at low prices. He can easily find just such a place, namely, at A. McNEIL'S Habiliment Hall.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

Democrat Regiment of Volunteers Formed—Negro Outrages Feared.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Tribune says that letters and telegrams have been received corroborating the statements heretofore made that the votes cast for Butler and St. John electors have not been counted for them, and presumably have been counted for the Cleveland electors. The same thing, it is alleged, has been done in this and adjoining counties. A careful inquiry is to be made into the matter by Republicans.

WILL STAND BY CLEVELAND.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Tribune says a regiment of Democratic volunteers has been formed here to see that Cleveland is inaugurated. Col. Andrew Govan is commander.

FRAUD DECLARAD IMPOSSIBLE.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Attorney-General O'Brien (Democrat), in a speech to-day, said the laws of the state were too perfect to admit of fraud, and the people of New York too much in earnest to tolerate it. The votes given by the people of this state will be honestly counted and the result truthfully declared.

THREATENED NEGRO OUURAGES.

GYNTHIANA, Ky., Nov. 10.—This is great excitement here on account of the warlike attitude of the negroes. Many are drunk and threaten to burn the propery of the Democrats. John Paymond's house, near Indian Creek, has been burned on account of a political quarrel between him and a negro.

MILLIONS OF METEORS.

The Great Globe Rolls into the Fiery Path of Cosmic Wanderers.

The earth, as she swings her ponderous bulk in her orbit, encounters about Nov. 13 the meteor zone. This gigantic hoop or eclipse consists of a swarm of particles following Temple's comet in its orbit. This unfortunate visitor from the star depths on arriving within the solar domain unwarily ventured too near the planet Uranus. The planet captured the comet and forced it henceforth to revolve within the boundaries of the solar system, the event occurring probably in the second century of the Christian era. The perihelion of the comit s orbit rests on the earth's orbit, where she passes Nov 13, and its aphelion extends beyond the orbit of Uranus. A process of disintegration is going on, and the debris of the comet and the swarm of meteors are gradually scatteing through the whole zone, only one-tenth of which is now filled densely with the meteor swarms. The period of revolution is about 33 years, and a grand display occurs only at these intervals, when the earth crosses the densest portion of the zone. The last memorable display was in in 1866 67; the next is expected in 1899.

Observers on the nights of the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th will be sure to see a few meteors radiating from the constellation Leo, and there is always a possibility that an unexpected number of falling stars may make the heavens resplendent with their fiery trains.—Providence Journal.

ANNEXATION OF JAMAICA.

Debate in the Legislative Council—The Proposition Squelched.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 10.—The steamer Beta, from Jamaica, brings Jamaica papers containing reports of the debate of the Legislative Council on the Canadian annexation scheme on October 27th.

Mr. SOLOMON moved the following resolution:—"That in the opinion of this Council it will be for the general interest of this island that steps should be taken for negotiating and concluding arrangements for the political and commercial confederation with the Dominion of Canada."

Mr. Palache seconded the motion, not because he endorsed the sentiments expressed by the hon. gentleman or concerned in the resolution, but because he thought the matter of such importance that it should be brought before the Council for discussion.

Messrs. C. S. Farquharson, Wm. Malahre and George Henderson, having spoken against the resolution, it was put to the Council, and His Excellency declared it lost.

Hon. Mr. Solomon demanded that the votes should be recorded, which was done with the following result:—Aye—Mr. Solomon. Nays—Messrs. Palache, Malabre, Levy, Craig, Henderson, J. M. Farquharson, Barrett and C. S. Farquharson.

THE U. S. ARMY.

Gen. Sheridan's Report on its Condition—The Unprotected Seaboard.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The annual report of Lieut.-General Sheridan has been made to the Secretary of War. He says the army has enjoyed almost complete rest from active field operations, but its other duties, consisting of the occupation of posts upon the frontiers of Canada and of Mexico, with stations near the Indian agencies and the protection of Indian reservations, have been important and in some places very active, laborious and annoying, especially in guarding Indian territory. After referring to the national guard and other matters, Gen. Sheridan says, excepting for ocean commerce and the seaboard cities he does not think we should be much alarmed about the probability of wars with foreign powers, since it would require more than a million and a half of men to make a campaign upon land against us. He earnestly invites attention to the perfectly defenceless condition of our seaboard cities and harbors against foreign naval attack, and recommends the early beginning of a general system of improved sea coast fortifications. The nation, he says, is growing so rapidly that there are signs of other troubles which probably will not come upon us if capital and labour will only be Conservative. It should be remembered that destructive explosives are easily made, and the banks, United States sub-treasuries, public bulildings, and large mercantile houses can be readily demolished, and the commerce of entire cities destroyed by infuriated people with means carried with perfect safety to themselves in their pockets. Gen. Sheridan reports the discipline of the army excellent, and says that he has no system to present for its re-organization. He calls special attention to the cavalry service, and recommends the establishment of a government breeding ground for horses on the Kansas reservation. He says if improvements in guns should continue as rapidly as during the past fifteen or twenty years, and magazine rifles be finally attained, battles will become so destructive to human life that neither side will be able to stand up before the other. Both sides will cover themselves by entrenchments, and any troops daring to make exposed attacks will be annihilated.

The Alabama Claims.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Décision was rendered by the Supreme Court to-day in the Alabama claims case of the Great Western Insurance Company against the United States. This was a suit to recover $305,695 with interest alleged to be due from the Geneva award fund on account of war risks taken by the appellant upon vessels destroyed by the Confederate cruisers. The Court of Claims dismissed the appellants' petition upon the ground that it had no jurisdiction. The Supreme Court affirms judgment, and holds that the Court of Claims was prohibited from taking jurisdiction by express statute. As to the merits of the controversy between the appellants and the United States arising out of the Geneva convention the court declines to express any opinion, for the reason that a special tribunal has been created for the determination of such questions.

MINISTERIAL PROGRAMME.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—At the Lord Mayor's banquet Earl Granville stated that although France and China, at different times, were willing to accept the mediation of England, those countries had not been simultaneous in their propositions. Referring to the Congo Conference, Earl Granville said the Government entertained no jealousy towards the German scheme of colonization in that country, especially if it is accompanied by freedom of navigation and and commerce. In relation to matters before Parliament, Earl Granville stated it was impossible for the Government to produce the redistribution proposals until it was known what the Conservatives desired.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1884.

THE Brockville Recorder has found another reason why Ontario was successful before the Privy Council on the Boundary Question. It says that Attorney-General Miller, of Manitoba, "made a poor defence for his Province." The Recorder should be more careful and not detract from the "brilliancy" of the "victory" of its hero, Attorney-General Mowat, in that way.

A CONTEMPORARY says that, when it is considered that the Presidential contest across the lines was really for a "throne" and "a sceptre as absolute as that of the Czar of Russia," and that the "very living of tens of thousands depended on the issue," the peacefulness of the contest is creditable to Democracy. But is it very creditable to "Democracy" that the President is really as absolute as the Czar of Russia, or that the very living of such a large number of people depended on their party being sustained?

IT is stated in a Reform paper that a book, under the joint authorship of two well known writers of recognized ability, will shortly be issued, entitled "The Life and Times of Hon. Oliver Mowat." This will be an interesting biography if it is impartially written. It will be especially interesting to residents of Haliburton and Prince Edward, as it will no doubt give full particulars of how the Attorney-General appointed the notorious S. S. Peck to the bench in the former County and how he prevented Mr. Hart, M.P.P. for the latter County, from incurring law expenses and at the same time secured a supporter for himself.

IN its daily attack upon us the Toronto Globe of Monday says:—

"The Peterborough REVIEW says that town is so prosperous and so busy, 'that even on Thanksgiving Day there was no cessation.'"

This is a new falsehood on the part of the Globe, for, as our readers well know, we did not make the statement as it is put by our contemporary. The fact is that the Globe has repeatedly found itself unable to refute our arguments or to show any inaccuracy in our facts, so it systematically garbles our utterances. Our evidence that Peterborough is prospering, also contributes to the irritation of the Globe, which hates to see any part of Canada prospering under a Conservative Government, and does its best to prevent any such prosperity.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Progress of the Work on our Inland Navigation at Fenelon Falls and Buckhorn.

Since our last notice of the canal here the contractors have pushed the work and completed the first or entrance lock. It was their intention to raise the wall of the upper lock to such a height that a permanent bridge could be put on; but a sudden and unexpected turn in the weather has taken place, and, having no reliable weather prophets to consult, they fear that they will have to close work for the season. The long talked of mill-race has as last been decided upon and we are informed that the rock excavation will be gone on with this fall, and that next summer it will, as proposed, be connected with the canal and made part and parcel of the Government work. In order, however, to cut the mill race, the present temporary bridge will have to be removed, and another one built across the canal facing Colborne street. There is also a stone pier to be built for the swing bridge on the railway line, and the railway authorities intend, we believe, to avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded to build piers of stone and put on an iron bridge in place of the present wooden structure. The lock which is completed has been admired by all who have visited the Falls, the only fault found, as far has we have heard, being that the wall has not been raised to the height of the rock excavation; but we have no doubt that this rock face will be removed for some distance back, or in some way be made to present a better appearance before the work is handed over to the Government. We are informed that the gates will be built and put in their places as early as possible next season and if the contractors make as good progress as they have made this year, boats will be able to pass through the canal by the fall of 1885. The single lock at Buckhorn has been completed, and Mr. Ross has been engaged with his dredge and scows, to remove the remaining portions of the dam. The gates are not made yet, but stop logs have been placed in position, and it is expected that the coming season will see that part open for navigation. We must now await the next session of Parliament to see whether the other portions of the Trent Valley scheme will be gone on with.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

What he Escaped.

"Where have you been for the last three months?"

"I've been in Europe. I was in Marseilles, and had the cholera. Nobody knows what I suffered."

"Well, you were in luck. That accounts for your looking so well. Suppose you had remained here, and gone through all this Presidential election, as I have had to do. You would be in your grave now. You don't know what suffering is."—Siftings.

STILL A MYSTERY.

The Inquest on the Death of John Johnston Resumed and Again Adjourned.

The inquest on the death of John Johnston, who was shot in the woods in Anstruther, it is believed on Oct. 5th, was resumed on Monday evening in a room in the C. P. R. Hotel. Dr. Fife, coroner, conducted the inquest, and Mr. C. W. Sawers appeared for the friends of the deceased.

THOS. G. EASTLAND was sworn. He said that on the morning of Oct. 5th he was camped on the south shore of Eagle Lake at the Narrows. After breakfast, at about 8 o'clock, they moved their camp to Wolf Lake, south from Eagle Lake. Had dinner on shore at Wolf Lake, and after dinner moved up to their camp on Wolf Lake. His party consisted of G. W. Coon, P. Shewen, Daniel Mahar and himself. None of them were out hunting that day at all, and none of them were shooting that day. Coon went to Apsley that day. His rifle and the one Coon had were No. 44 Winchester rifles; Shewen's and Mahar's 38 Ballard rifles. About 8 or or 9 o'clock Mahar went with Robert Clifford and a man named Harris to go to the head of Eagle Lake, after a man named Steele, whose father was sick. Coon went to Apsley, because they heard there was a fire there, and they felt anxious to know what it was. He did not know John Johnston, and did not remember of having ever seen him. He knew nothing whatever of the circumstances of his death. None of their party hunted near Serpentine Lake.

The WITNESS asked the coroner whether he could allow him anything for his expenses in coming from Apsley? He could not well afford to lose time and expenses.

The CORONER said he regretted the trouble and expense he was caused, but he knew of no provision by which he could allow him expenses.

G. W. WESTLAKE was sworn and said that he knew nothing of the circumstance of the death of John Johnston. He was at his son's home in Cavendish on Oct. 5th.

To Mr. Sawers—He visited John Cochrane at about 5 o'clock on that Sunday afternoon. His (the witness') son was home the whole day. His gun was a 44 Winchester rifle. He was not out hunting that day; did not hunt on Sunday. Huston and Copeland live in that neighborhood; they were not likely to be hunting that day. He told some rumours which he had heard since Johnston was found; there were a great many rumours. He did not tell Louis Fobert that he knew a great deal more about Johnston's death than people thought.

ROBT. B. MCKEE was sworn. He was shown the bullet which was found in Johnston. He thought it was a 38. They had sold a large number of 38 cartridge; sold them for Winchester, Ballard and Allen guns. A 38 rim fire cartridge might, he thought, be fired out of a 44 rifle, but he did not think it would go straight. There are small fire arms that would fire bullets of the same calibre, but the cartridge would be different. They would carry a hundred yards; about 25 yards was a good shot for a pistol.

WALTER CASEMENT was sworn. He said that on Oct. 5th he was camped on the portage between Eagle and Deer Lakes. Laughlin-Nolan, G. Steele, B. Elliott and Jas. Buckley belonged to the party. There was another party camping near there, to which Mr. Boyce, L. Steele, Buthernut, John Isbister, and Jas. Moore belonged. On the morning of Oct. 5th, George Steele paddled Ben. Elliott down Eagle Lake, intending to go to Mr. Boyce's camp, as it had been moved that morning. On the way they met one of the party. He then came back, reaching the camp about 8 o'clock. Some of the party then went to Deer Lake. Elliott and Steele paddled them to the shore opposite the Island in Deer Lake. Laughlin Nolan and witness got out there on the east side of Deer Lake. The witness had a rifle that took a 38 ball; it was a rim fire rifle. Nolan had not a rifle with him. They went into the woods to put out the dogs. One dog got on the scent of a deer, and after it had run for some time they thought it was going to the shore, and they started for the shore. Shortly after they started they heard two shots fired. They struck the lake again near where they started from it. Nolan called for the others and, receiving no answer, the witness fired a shot towards the camp, over the lake. They walked up the shore to a point opposite the camp, where the witness fired a shot and they heard a shot in return. Geo. Steele or B. Elliott came across the Lake for them and took them to the camp. It was about two o'clock when they got to the camp. They found that the result of their hunt was a deer killed. After they heard the two shots they heard two more shots in the direction that Elliott was from them. He had heard rumours while in the camp and on the way down.

The inquest was then adjourned, to be resumed in the Council Chamber at 7 o'clock on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 25th.

THE FUR COUNTRIES.

Where Furs are Obtained, and Where They are Sent.

North America is the great fur country, though a number of valuable furs are obtained in Russia. The fur-catching season begins about November 1st, and continues through the winter. A great many minks and foxes are caught in Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire and the provinces. Raccoon is caught mainly in the West and South, though the best raccoon fur comes from Michigan. Squirrel furs come entirely from Russia, the American and Canadian not being worth anything. Fox skins are being furnished by Northern New England and the provinces, but the most valuable comes from Canada, including the very costly silver grey, the black and the white fox skins. Canada sable comes from various parts of the Dominion. Bear skins come mainly from the Rocky Mountains, and, though black is the most important description, many grizzly and cinnamon skins are also received. Canada furnishes a great many bear skins.

Canada also furnishes considerable beaver skins, and some are furnished by Northern New England, but the bulk of these comes from Montana and the Rocky Mountain region. The beavers of the Snake river, Montana, have a peculiar light shade, and all these skins are sold in this country. The bulk of otter skins comes from the South, though some are from New England and the provinces, which are, however, not so good as the Southern. Muskrat skins are obtained all through New York and New England and the Middle States, as are black marten or skunk. Sea otter comes from the South. Lynx skins come mainly from Canada, very few being obtained in the United States. Seal skins, the most important of all, are obtained in Alaska. They are packed in casks, about sixty to each, pickled in salt, and shipped to London via San Francisco and New York.

London is the great fur market of the world, and the great bulk of all skins are shipped there. There are two large sales of furs, one in October and one in March, at each of which the skins are bought by agents for American account. Many of the skins are shipped to London from this country and at the next sale bought for American account and shipped back, thus losing the freight charged, there being no duty on raw skins. The only reason for this is that London is the fur market and fur collectors will ship there. There is an additional reason for the shipment of seal skins to London. The gray hairs of these skins have to be carefull plucked out, and the skins have to be dressed and dyed.

The business of plucking, dressing, and dying has been long established in London, and is done much better than elsewhere. There are two or three dyers in New York and one plucker. The packing is now done by machinery and not by hand as formerly. In time, the Americans will undoubtedly be fully as able to dress and dye skins as the English. There are but few collectors of furs, or but few firms that deal in furs exclusively. In Boston there are only three such. What the catch of skins or furs will be this winter is problematical, though dealers think it will be a good one.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

A Judicial Disgrace.

The most disgraceful appointment ever made to a judicial position in Ontario was that made last year by Mr. Mowat in connection with the Provincial county of Haliburton. Mr. S. S. Peck, while treasurer of the Provincial county, had embezzled a large amount of the funds, but through political influences escaped a criminal prosecution. At the general election last year he was rejected by the people of the county, but immediately the election was over, Mr. Mowat appointed this embezzler and rejected of the people as Stipendiary Magistrrte of the district! Since that time the people have had the edifying spectacle of seeing justice dispensed by a man who, a large number of them believed, ought to be in penitentiary, if justice had been properly meted out. Having secured an appointment to the office in defiance of public opinion, this model Stipendiary evidently thinks his influence with the Mowat Government is great enough to permit him to do as he pleases, and so we are informed that each summer, while drawing his salary as a Stipendiary in Haliburton, he goes farming in Dakota, coming back for the winter months to attend to judicial duties!—Owen Sound Times.

Mr. Mowat's Morality.

Mr. Mowat has been assured by his own supporter, Mr. Striker, that Mr. Hart obtained his seat by the use of illegal means. Does the Attorney-General care for that? Not a fig! So little did he care for it that he interferred to prevent Mr. Hart from being unseated, on "party grounds." On that account Mr. Mowat would not only "fight the devil with fire," but condone any of these shortcomings and gross irregularities which Mr. Striker had denounced in his petition, and which he was prepared to adduce in evidence. The "purity" of Mr. Hart's election was a matter of some moment to Mr. Striker, but Attorney-General Mowat did not care the traditional "button" whether he had been elected by good or by bad means, so long as he "voted right." And this is just the extent to which Grit morality extends. Any wrongdoing is at one justified or excused in the interests of the "party."—London Free Press.

R. S. DAVIDSON, Chairman

The report was adopted.

Councillor KELLY, chairman of the Committee on Appointments made a verbal report stating that the Clerk had been instructed to advertise for a Chief of Police.

CHIEF OF POLICE.

Councillor CAHILL said that this proceeding was illegal as the committee had power only to report.

Councillor KELLY said that the Committee had power to do as they deemed the best interests of the town.

TOWN CLOCK.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the cost of placing net wire over the town clock would cost in the neighborhood of $100. If the matter would be referred to him he thought he could devise means to rid the clock from the pidgeons at a much less cost.

SPAULDING'S BAY.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Clerk write to the Town Commissioners requesting them to furnish to the Council at its next meeting a copy of the deed and agreement conveying Spaulding's Bay and adjoining property to the town and to show the amount of land still held by them, together with a statement of all sales and money received.—Carried.

RAILWAY WHISTLING.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the Town Solicitor be instructed to prepare a By-law to suppress the nuisance caused by railway trains running on Sundays and the nuisance caused by whistling or otherwise. The By-law to be prepared in accordance with the statute in that behalf.

Councillor YELLAND said that he would support the motion if the mover would put in a clause preventing the livery stables from hiring horses on Sunday. Young men were in the habit of going to the stables and hiring horses on Sunday which they would drive through the country and shamefully abuse them.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the livery stable nuisance was one which needed to be attended to, but this one should be looked after immediately.

Councillor HARTLEY said he had heard that some ministers had to stop preaching on Sunday for a time on account of the railway whistling.

The motion was put and carried.

SIDEWALKS.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That the Street Inspector be authorised to raise and otherwise repair the sidewalks near St. Paul's Church.—Carried.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor YELLAND,—That the petition of William Cluxton and others be granted, and that the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Comittee sign the agreement with the Electric Light Company for the same, at prices quoted by Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, viz. 25 cents per light nightly, until twelve o'clock midnight, and 25 cents per light for four lights from midnight until daylight, and that the Clerk notify the Peterborough Gas Company to discontinue their lights to the extent of fifteen light jets in the vicinity covered by the proposed electric light, such discontinuance to take effect on the first day of December next. Also that the Clerk first ascertain if the required number of names are on the petition in order to make a special tax.—Carried.

A SPECIAL TAX.

Councillor MILLAR moved, seconded by Councillor GREEN,—That the Clerk be hereby instructed to furnish to the Council at its next meeting a statement showing the total amount of taxes levied upon the ratepayers situated on George street, from Brock to Charlotte streets, also that portion of Hunter and Simcoe streets situated between Aylmer and George streets, such statement to cover both real and personal property and to be taken from the last revised assessment roll.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned for three weeks.

Canadian Woollens.

Following the small sample consignment of Canadian woollen goods sent to England early in the year, another and larger quantity has been sent, which is expected to find an equally ready sale. The chief difficulty is in obtaining repeat orders, the length of time which necessarily elapses before the goods can be made here and shipped to England placing Canadian manufactures at a great disadvantage as compared with those on the spot. Still the result of the first shipment was sufficiently satisfactory to justify this second trial on an extended scale, and if this proves as successful, further developments in the exports will probably follow.—Montreal Star.

THE CHINIQUY DISTURBANCES.

Another Mob Attack on Saturday and Sunday Evenings.

Attempts to mob the Rev. Mr. Chiniquy in Montreal and to render ineffectual his utterances to those who would hear them, still continue to be made by the gangs of roughs who have been before the public so much of late. On Saturday evening the scene of action was the French Methodist Church on Craig street, where Mr. Chiniquy was announced to preach. Being indisposed, however, that gentleman was unable to attend, and the service was gone on with by the Rev. Mr. Beaudry. This fact did not prevent the crowd, which had gathered, from interrupting the proceedings, and before long the police had to be summoned. Order was now restored inside the building until the service was concluded, but no sooner had the building been vacated by the congregation than the doors were soon surrounded by the crowd, which continued to shout and jeer until driven away by the guard, which had been turned out from the Central Police Station. The rioters then formed in procession and marched to and fro, singing and yelling furiously. As a finishing touch to their little performance they serenaded the police station, after which they apparently disappeared. Before long, however, they were again heard from, it being reported to the police that they made another attack on the church. This time the constables advanced to the attack with determination, and after vigorously applying their batons the gang dispersed. No arrests were made.

L'Eglise du Sauveur on Canning street, the scene of a former riot, was visited again on Sunday night by crowds of rioters, who surrounded the building during the service. The Rev. Mr. [illegible] preached on temperance, and was [illegible]res subjected to insults in the way of [illegible]ons. Large squads of police were on [illegible]e street in the vicinity of the church, [illegible] several ineffectual attempts to drive [illegible]e delinquents, who collected in constantly increasing numbers. For a time there was little or no trouble, but the ball was opened by a shower of small tin discs which came crashing against the wall, from which they flew in all directions. The police made a bold attempt to drive the crowd away, but were received with stones. The Rev. Mr. Chiniquy now entered his carriage, and as it rolled away, the windows were smashed and the vehicle otherwise damaged by flying missles. The police were continually attacked during the performance of their duty, and many have sore heads as a result. The mob gave three groans for the police before dispersing.—Montreal Star.

FEARFUL OUTRAGES IN CHINA.

Christian Places of Worship Demolished—Priests and Clergymen Driven Away.

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 10.—Chinese mobs have been committing fearful outrages on places of Christian worship and persons at Canton and interior points. In the province of Kwang Tung one Roman Catholic and five Protestant Churches were destroyed and 120 houses of resident Christians looted and the occupants driven away. In Namhoi three Catholic chapels and convents, with the houses attached, were pillaged, the priests and occupants being beaten and the women outraged. At Shihung the English chapel was destroyed. The mob tore the clothes from the preacher's wife, and shamefully treated her. At Chantsung a Wesleyan chapel was destroyed. The Christians are fleeing from the province to Hong Hong. The Chinese gave them the alternative of sacrificing to idols or leaving home, and they preferred the latter. Many women were caught by the mob and outraged. Twelve Cantonese villages have issued notices that all Christians must leave. Fifteen churches in these villages have already been destroyed and several stores looted. Many persons are homeless. Although the attention of the Chinese authorities have been called to these acts they refused to take any notice. At Kitevung a mob and soldiers destroyed all the Roman Catholic, English and Presbyterian churches. At Swatow the Roman Catholic priests were ordered to leave. After they had left the Chinese soldiers broke into their houses and ravished the female converts. Mr. Bagnall, colporteur of the Americas Bible Society, was murdered in the province of Shanting. The riots began at Hong Kong on September 30, and lasted three days. The trouble began through the refusal of the Chinese workmen to help load a French vessel. They were taken to court and fined. They attempted to resist, when one was shot dead. The others fled from Chinese territory.

SEAS MOUNTAINS HIGH.

The SS. "Lake Nepigon's" Boisterous Passage—The Ship Shrouded in Ice.

"I never experienced anything like it, sir, in my whole twenty-five years of sea travelling in various parts of the world."

This was spoken to a Star representative on Monday by Capt. Campbell, of the SS. "Lake Nepigon," as he politely invited him to take a seat at the table in the saloon of the ship and proceeded to narrate to him, as per log book, an account of the voyage from leaving Liverpool to mooring at the Beaver Line wharf here on Sunday morning.

"We certainly met with no serious mishap, owing in a great degree to the stability of the vessel, but I tell you I don't want to encounter it again. We left Liverpool on the 23rd October, and from the first had heavy gales nearly up to reaching the Straits of Belleisle." The captain then continued seriatim. They passed through the straits with comparatively fine weather. On the 5th November, in the Gulf, they encountered a tremendous gale—a perfect tornado of wind and snow—lasting twenty-four hours, with mountainous seas. Ship hove to during twenty hours, during which jib and try sail were swept away. After midnight of the 5th the gale moderated suddenly and sea went down, wind springing up from the northward. The ship was then kept away. Received pilot off Father Point at 8 a.m. of 6th and proceeded with strong winds from west and hard frost, the vessel shipping heavy seas and covering herself over with ice. They finally reached Quebec at 1 a.m. of 7th and Montreal the 9th, Sunday. There was no serious sickness on board and the passengers stood the tempest tossing heroically.—Mortreal Star.

TWO MARRIAGE CEREMONIES.

Married to get Insurance—Another Ceremony to get Presents.

About fifty invited guests assembled at the residence of Mr. H. M. Boyce, on Wednesday evening, 29th Oct., to witness the marriage ceremony of his youngest daughter, Carrie, and Mr. Thomas Mills. At the appointed hour, to the astonishment of mostly all present, Rev. H. I. Allen, Methodist Minister of Canifton, rose and stated that he had performed the ceremony on the 21st of January last, in the presence of some relatives and friends. It was not a secret to the family, nor to the Rev. A. Browning and lady, who were among the invited guests. We believe the ceremony was performed in order to obtain the insurance from the Marriage Aid Society. The happy couple were the recipients of many valuable presents. Mr. and Mrs. Mills took the 8 o'clock train for the west to enjoy their honeymoon.—Campbellford Herald.

A Dog that Eats Glass.

People have an idea that dogs are frequently killed by having broken glass given them in their food, and this may be true, but there certainly is one dog that is glass-broof; in fact, he relishes a glass meal wonderfully. This dog is a fine large pointer and belongs to Col. Wetmore, of Livingston, Ala. While at Livingston a few days ago a friend told us of this dog, and having confidence in his veracity we believed him, although the tale was just a little steep. Before leaving, however, the dog himself appeared on the scene and very quietly ate a piece of glass that was thrown him. His favorite glass is broken window panes. We were informed that the dog has been eating glass for a long time, and the fact was well known to the citizens of Levingston. The little boys on the streets frequently amuse themselves by feeding the dog on glass. No evil effects have followed his strange indulgence, and this peculiarity of diet can certainly be numbered among the wonders of dog life.—Enterprise Courier.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

P. B. C.

A meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club will be held in Mr. E. B. Edwards' office this evening at 8 o'clock.

C. E. T. S.

A meeting of the St. John's Branch of the C. E. T. S. will be held at 8 o'clock this evening to re-organize for the season. The Band of Hope will meet an hour earlier.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to moderate winds between west and north-west; fair weather, with a few local showers, mostly in the north-western portion; not much change in temperature.

Stock Farm.

This morning a car load of stock went over the Grand Trunk Railway bound for Haliburton. The stock belongs to Mr. J. M. Irwin, of this town, and were taken from his farm near Nassau. He will establish a stock farm in Haliburton, and, in addition to what he has already sent, more thoroughbred stock will follow. It will be known as the "Burton Farm."

To-night at the Opera House.

Mr. James Taylor and Miss Ada Alexandra, supported by a specially selected company, will appear to-night at Bradburn's Opera House in the racing drama "Tempted, or The Trials of the Turf." Mr. Taylor and Miss Alexandra are well known to the Peterborough theatre-goers and they will no doubt be met to-night with a full house, as is usually the case when they appear here.

Week of Prayer.

The services in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association of Peterborough, for the Week of Prayer, observed by the Associations throughout the world, was held last night. The topic was "The Fatal Choice." and the meeting was conducted by Mr. Bone, of Lakefield. To-night the Rev. A. H. Munro will conduct the usual Tuesday evening Bible Class meeting.

Gone to Norwood.

Mr. Wm. Rutherford, for a consider able length of time an efficient clerk in Messrs. Ormond & Walsh's drug store, has decided to strike out into the deep waters of commerce for himself. He departed on Monday for Norwood, where, together with his partner, Dr. Ford, he will carry on business in the stand lately occupied by Mr. J. Stewart. Mr. Rutherford has our best wishes for success in his new field of operation.

Near to Death.

While George and Thos. Stenton were sliding on the ice on the pond near Messrs. J. Whyte & Co's foundry at about 4.30 o'clock on Monday afternoon, the younger brother broke through, and fell into the water. His brother ran to his assistance and kept him from drowning until Messrs. John King, J. Lynch and J. Babb came to the rescue. When taken out of the water the boy was in a very weak state. He was carried to a neighboring house where restoratives were applied.

Temperance Entertainment.

The second of the series of entertainments to be given by the St. Luke's Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society was held in the school room of the Church on Monday evening. There was a large attendance and a good programme was presented. Instrumental (piano) solos were given by Miss Revel and Mr. G. Schneider, and by Mr. Jas. Hannah on a mouth organ; songs by Mrs. Bowman and Mr. John G. French; readings by Miss Grundy and Mrs. Bowman; club swinging by Mr. Thos. McNaughton, the illuminated club swinging being greatly admired; and the entertainment was concluded by the singing of the National Anthem. The entertainment was a very successful one in every way and the Society is to be congratulated on the growing interest taken in these gatherings.

The Great Stock Sale.

Dr. Kincaid's immence stock sale, which was advertised in our columns, took place on Monday at his stock farm, about two miles south of the town, and was in every respect a complete success. Over two hundred head of fine stock was sold at high prices. To show that the state of the country is in a highly flourishing condition we may state that we are informed by the book keeper that no less than three thousand dollars was paid in cash. The attendance at the sale was very large, all parts of the country and some of the neighboring counties being represented. The sum realized for the stock is in the neighborhood of five thousand dollars. The sale was conducted by Mr. C. Stapleton in his usual successful way, ably assisted by his son, Mr. Harry Stapleton. The result must be highly satisfactory to Dr. Kincaid, who is thus partly repaid for the large sum of money which he has expended on his stock farm, and ought to be an example to some of our cattle raisers to go and do likewise. Mr. Stapleton informs us that this stock sale was the largest ever held in the county, that the bidding was spirited and that it was most satisfactory to himself as well as to his employer.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

Entertainment.

A concert and social will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, in aid of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral, on Thursday, November the 13th. Admission 25 cents; tickets to be had from the members of the committee or at the door.

Wood! Wood!

In passing the Midland station yesterday there was to be seen twelve car loads of the finest maple wood standing on the track. The townspeople should give T. Fitzgerald a bonus for supplying them with such first class wood and at a reasonable price, considering the rate at which wood has been sold for the past year.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Keating Narcisse Fauchier, Alexander Armour and Philip Hearn, jointly charged with criminally assaulting Mrs. Davey at Campbellford, on Oct. 3rd, took place at Cobourg on Saturday, Mr. Justice Galt presiding. MIDLAND.

FIRE PROTECTION.—The by-law to raise $5,000 to purchase a steam engine with all the necessary hose, reel, &c., was voted on at Midland on Monday and carried by a majority of 113, only 11 voting against it. A fire hall and hose tower will be built at once, and the new fire brigade will have every facility at their command to speedily extinguish any fires in the future.

FENELON FALLS.

BISHOP JAMOT.—During the heavy rain last Tuesday afternoon, Bishop Jamot, of Peterborough, drove to the Falls from Victoria Road, where he had gone to consecrate a new cemetery. His lordship delivered a lecture in the R. C. Church here on Tuesday evening, and celebrated Mass next morning, after which he left for Bobcaygeon and Ennismore, and thence home.

ENCOUNTERED A BEAR.—Early on the morning of Friday, 31st ult., a party of nine, viz., George Whisaile, E. R. Edwards, Geo. Cunningham, Benj. Bowman, Dr. A. Wilson, W. H. Simpson, Henry Junkin, Wm. E. Ellis and Geo. Ellis, left Fenelon Falls bound for Bark lake, about half way between Minden and Haliburton. Their mission was the extirpation of all the deer and other game in that vicinity. On Monday Mr. Simpson had an exciting adventure, of which very exaggerated accounts have been circulated here. It appears that he went into the woods without a weapon, and put out some dogs, and stepping over a log, almost trod on a bear, which made a dab at him with one of its forepaws, slightly tearing his trousers but not touching his flesh. Bruin ran in one direction and Mr. Simpson in another, dragging off the hounds, which wanted to follow the bear; but he feared that if he allowed them to do so they would be killed.—Gazette.

Doing Splendid Work.

A special despatch from Cairo to the Mail, dated Nov. 10th, says:—The troops are advancing, but only advancing slowly, owing to the difficulty in forwarded the supplies in sufficient quantities. Gen. Wolseley is still confident that the Nile route is the best, but this opinion is not shared by many of his brother officers, who think that a more expeditious movement could have been made by way of the Nubian desert. The Canadian voyageurs are doing splendid work. Capt. Aumond, who has command, says that the weather is not hotter than it was last year in Canada, and that the men find the difficulties of the cataracts easy to surmount.

Two Fires in Midland.

MIDLAND, Ont., Nov. 10.—At about three o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the only building saved from the large fire of September last. A new engine which is here on trial was promptly on the spot, and the flames were soon under control. At 11.30 this morning another fire commenced some distance from the railway station, and four horses belonging to the British Canadian Lumber Company were consumed. The remainder of the row was saved. The loss on the B. C. L. Co's. houses is about $2,000. As far as can be ascertained there is no insurance.

Cotton Crop of the United States.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—The final report of the National Cotton Exchange was issued today. It estimates the cotton crop of the United States for the current year at 5,726,000 bales. In Texas there was a large decrease, and in the Mississippi valley the crop was not quite up to last season, but the Atlantic States and Alabama show gains to offset these deficiencies.

The Railway Rate War.

KEEP OUT THE WIND AND THE WINTER!

GENTLEMEN,—

Our New Fall and Winter Tweeds and Suitings are all in Stock, and on our shelves, where you or we can lay our hands on them in a jiffy.

Too many to give separate accounts of, too many patterns to eulogize, too many lines to mention all.

They all have one object in view. To keep out the WIND and the WINTER—and to give you at the same time a stylish and gentlemanly appearance.

We'll skip stuff, cut, trimmings and buttons and much about styles, to say:—There's one way of telling you about them that touches your hearts, for it touches your pockets. THEY COST LOW and they're worth all they cost—and more.

And Mr. Peter Simon, the varsatile, scientific, stylish and mathematically correct Cutter shall carve for you the goods.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1884.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

Six Votes in Favor of Blaine and Sixty for Cleveland.

RETURNS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Additional returns put Henley (Democratic) for Congress 20 ahead. Full returns expected will place the candidates about even.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Niagara Company board of County Canvassers met this morning and adjourned until to-morrow on account of incomplete returns.

The New York Aldermen met at noon as a Board of County Canvassers. Alderman Kirk offered a protest against the counting of the votes for Grace for Mayor on the ground that the latter is not a citizen. The Board then adjourned till to-morrow.

NO ALTERATIONS.

BUFFALO, Nov. 11.—An official count of the vote cast in the late election had to-day in about two-thirds of the counties of the State does not materially alter Cleveland's prima facie plurality—1,124. All the large counties are yet to be heard from.

NO ERRORS DISCOVERED.

JAMAICA, L.I., Nov. 11.—The Queen's County Supervisors met this morning to canvass the electoral vote. Both sides were represented by counsel. The returns of several districts in North Hempstead and Flushing were objected to by the Republicans because the grand total were not stated. No errors affecting the result as already given were discovered. It is doubtful if the result will be announced to-day unless the rejected returns are corrected this afternoon.

IN CLEVELAND'S FAVOUR.

The canvassed returns received this evening by the Democratic State Committee from twenty-four counties indicated a change of six votes in favour of Blaine, against sixty (in Livingston county) in favour of Cleveland. No returns had been received by the Republican National committee.

THE LATEST RESULT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11, midnight. — Up to this hour the result of the ballot for the Presidential election has been declared in 33 of 60 counties of this State. Taking the last previous reports of the County Clerks, it is found that the Democratic plurality according to them was 1,280; to-day's canvass has made changes in 11 of these counties, but only trifling ones. The result of the canvass shows a net loss to Blaine of four votes. The remaining 27 counties have, with two exceptions, reported that progress was being made. They will for the most part report a result of their canvass to-morrow. To-day's reports speak of several irregularities as to the form, which have compelled the return of ballots to the supervisors for the corrected lists in legal form, but none mentioned any serious discrepancy in the count. In New York and King's counties the indications point to a long and tedious count. Several of the counties, which did not to-day complete the official canvass, reported that there was no reason to believe that when completed the figures would show any change from those already reported. These figures have not, however, been taken into account in the statement above made.

MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING AFFRAY.

An Unknown Man supposed to be Wounded—A Woman the Cause of It.

A shooting affray, the principals in which are at present unknown, occurred shortly after 12 o'clock on Monday night on Dalhousie street, a short distance north of Walton-ave. Residents in that locality state that at the time mentioned the stillness of the night was broken by male and female voices engaged in a stormy altercation, and on looking out of the window they saw five young men and a fashionably dressed young woman standing on the sidewalk. One of the men had his left arm around the woman's waist, while with the other he excitedly brandished a stick. Two of the other men were endeavouring to restrain one of their companions, who seemed to be intent on fighting somebody while all were talking very loudly, the woman coming in for her share of the abuse. The whole party moved gradually northward, and on reaching opposite No. 109 Dalhousie street the party came to a stand. Here two of the men clinched each other, and commenced a rough and tumble fight, while the woman still continued to move slowly northward, followed by two of the men. When they had gone a few doors up a shot was suddenly fired by one of the men accompanying the woman. One of the men who were fighting reeled off the sidewalk as if wounded, and the shot was promptly returned by another of the party. This was the signal for a general fusilade, and six shots were fired in all. The firing attracted the attention of some employees of a livery stable near by, who came up on the run, and the party took their heels, two of them assisting their apparently wounded companion around the corner of Wilton avenue. The rest of the part, including the woman, went north and were driven away in a hack. The cause of the affair is at present a mystery, no arrests having been made, but from what was seen it seems to have been a case in which jealousy was was principal factor. It is somewhat remarkable that such an affair should have taken place without some of the parties to it being known, but no policeman appeared on the scene until all the parties had retired.—Globe.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE CUTE YANKEES.

The United States will never be a free trade country. They are a shrewd people, and full of business cunning.—St Catharines News (Ref.)

BUT NOT AN IMPROVEMENT.

This statement is a—well, we will call it the latest invention.—Belleville Intelligencer.

WHO ARE THEY?

Those who advocate the annexation of Jamaica.—Brockville Recorder.

LOST THE TRACK.

The St. Catharines News, Grit, seems to have lost track of the policy of its party, and makes strong arguments in favor of protection. It thinks that free trade as a theory "is very beautiful;" but that the "purely selfish resort," protection, is the proper caper for almost every country. "Correctly speaking," says the News, "there is only one commercial country in the world of any importance that can be said to enjoy or indulge in free trade as a fiscal policy, and that is the only country in which free trade can be said to be or could be said to be an advantage." It is perhaps needless to explain that that one commercial country is not Canada.—Hamilton Spectator.

SELF-CONVICTED.

Out of the mouths of the Grits themselves, Mr. Mowat stands convicted of bribery and Mr. Mowat's party of arrant hypocrisy. If we mistake not, several quotations made by the Mail are destined to become almost as famous in the political literature of this country, as have the writings of John Madiver, Edward Blake and George Brown, and the confessions of Senator Simpson, H. H. Cook, M. C. Cameron, and other distinguished purists. Nothing can be more comical than Grit literature relating to bribery and corruption. It reveals the 'organized hypocrisy' party better than anything else can.—Halifax Herald.

THE DOMINION'S HISTORY.

Since Confederation our political history may be divided into three distinct periods: the first, a period of prosperity; the second, a general depression caused by a change of government; the third, the inauguration of the protective tariff, followed by a rapid development of all the resources of the country and by a great increase in public and private wealth.—Le Courrier du Canada.

THIS CANADA OF OURS.

We live in a free country. Not only a free country, but the best governed country on God's footstool. While there are wars and rumours of wars in other lands, in Canada we are at peace. We all have our party leanings, our political differences, but, notwithstanding that, we are a united and happy people. Whether we be Grit or Tory, Papist or Protestant, the sunshine of contentment drops "gently as the rain from heaven" upon us all. Nations may come, and nations may go; but while we Canadians have the blessed privilege of breathing the pure air of unrestricted liberty that now surrounds us, we shall not envy the lot of any of them.—Ottawa Sun.

ENGLAND AND EGYPT.

If Great Britain rescues Gordon and retires from the Soudan, establishes the Khedive firmly on the throne of Egypt and retires from Egypt, it is safe to say that the price the people will have paid for it will be regretted before as many years have gone as have elapsed since those other very recent campaigns.—Montreal Witness.

RUN TO EARTH.

Wallace of Michipicoten Arrested at the Sault.

A day or two ago the Sentinel contained an article depicting the terrible state of affairs existing at Michipicoten, and how the outlaw Wallace, formely chief of police there, had with three of his companions, taken possession of the steamer Steinhoff and threatened death to all who interfered with them. Mr. Wallace and his friends got down as far as the American Sault on the boat and then they got drunk and commenced relating their outlawish exploits at Michipicoten; whereupon the American authorities arrested them, and passed them across the line. There trial comes off on the 11th, and it is safe to say their reign of terror is over for seven years. Instead of Winchester rifles and huge revolvers, they will probably, for several years to come, handle the pick and shovel in the Kingston quarries. The whisky traffic is being put down with an iron hand, and since Magistrate Moberly's arrival there no less than nineteen boarding house keepers have come forward and paid fines of $100 each and costs for selling liquor. The newly appointed chief, Joe McKinnon, will, with the assistance of Magistrate Moberly, likely make it warm for law-breakers, and doubtless a better state of things will soon exist at Michipicoten.—Port Arthur Sentinel, Nov. 6.

Gallant Rescue.

It has come to light that during the late terrible storm here the crew of the propeller Cultivateur, which plies between Quebec and Whitehall, would have certainly lost their lives but for the heroism and humanity of a few gallant men belonging to the portion of Quebec known as Cap Blanc. It appears that the Cultivateur was at anchor on the Fly Banks, having on board at the time her owner, Mr. Hyacinthe Gouin, of St. Ours, Richelieu county, and his two sons, and a cargo of 115,000 feet of lumber, which was to be conveyed next day across the river to Etchemin. During the whole of Tuesday night the position of the vessel and of the three men on board was of the most dreadful character. Unable to raise their anchor, so that they might at least drift to a safer berth in shore, they had to anxiously, but helplessly look on, while the huge wave washed over them and gradually filled the propeller, until her rail was almost level with the surface of the water. Neither could they leave her to her fate and save themselves, as the small boat at the stern had been smashed to pieces by the wind. At daylight they hoisted signals of distress, which, happily for them, were perceived on shore by Thomas Bell, Thomas Chevalier, father and son, and Jean Dupre. Without a moment's hesitation, these four hardy, gallant men determined upon a rescue at the risk of their own lives. They quickly launched a small boat, and after much difficulty got on board the sinking steamer, which, by raising the anchor, they, after a time, got into a place of safety with all on board.

A Runaway Elephant.

An elephant, said to be even larger than the famous Jumbo, was being taken recently to the Zoological Gardens from Paddington, London, Eng., when it became unmanageable, and, breaking away from his keeper, took the direction of Harrow Road for Chapel street. Two vans and a couple of waggons impeded the beast's progress, just as he was entering the Harrow Road. He then turned on one side, and forced his way through the passage of the premises in the Edgeware Ward, where he got fixed, and could not turn. The inmates were greatly alarmed, as it was feared he would bring the premises to the ground. In this position he remained nearly an hour, meantime being liberally fed with biscuits, while means were being devised for his release. It required a great deal of persuation, however, to get him back into the street. When this had been accomplished he, by coaxing and a liberal supply of sweet biscuit, followed his keeper quietly, and proceeded on his way to his destination. Fortunately no accident of any kind occurred, owing to the admirable conduct of the police.

DAVITT IN SCOTLAND.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Mr. Davitt in his address at Coatbridge to-day, predicted there would be greater danger for England when, the passage of the Franchise Bill having augmented the Irish party in Parliament the Government refused to allow Home Rule in Ireland. Mr. Davitt denied that he urged the crofters to armed resistance, but said they had right upon their side, and will ultimately succeed.

ON TRIAL.

DUBLIN, Nov. 11.—The trial of Frederick J. Allen, Vice-President of the Young Ireland Society, began to-day. The prisoner was cheered when he entered the Court. Mr. Healy, M.P. for Monaghan, appeared for Allen. He demanded that letters which Allen had written to the Fenian headquarters at Paris giving details of the Fenian organization in Ireland, be marked so as to prevent the possibility of any additions or abstractions being made. Crown Counsel protested against the innuendo implied in this demand. The Magistrate ordered the documents to be marked, but reproved Mr. Healy for his intemperate remarks.

LORD MAYOR'S BANQUET,

LONDON, Nov. 11.—At the Lord Mayor's banquet last night Sir John Macdonald said Canada was proud of the fact that she was no longer the cause of trouble and weakness to England. He looked forward to the time when some form of confederation would be brought about between England and Canada. If a great confederation should be made of England and all her colonies, he thought any power which comes into collision with England would be obliged to count on the resistance not of England alone, but of all her auxiliary kingdoms.

THE FRANCHISE BILL

LONDON, Nov. 11.—In the House of Commons to-day the Franchise Bill passed its third reading without a division. During the debate Mr. Goschen expressed regret that the Conservatives had been influenced by Conservative success in South Warwickshire to persist in the opposition to the bill. As long as Conservatives refused to indicate there attitude with regard to Mr. Gladstone's proposals the Government would be unable to introduce the Redistribution Bill. Mr. Gladstone remined the Opposition that Sir Robert Peel's refusal to compromise on the reform questions resulted in the humiliation of the House of Lords. If they were not destined to have peace, the Government would leave it on record that they deserved peace. (Liberal cheers.) Sir Richard Cross (Conservative) replying in behalf of the Opposition, said the Government must proceed on its own responsibility.

The court was composed of Chief Justice Hagarty, and Justices of Appeal Burton, Patterson and Osler. In each case the learned rota judges, Chancellor Boyd and Chief Justice Cameron, disagreed at the trial, and special cases were stated under the Act for the opinion of the highest provincial court.

Juvinile Fiends.

LYNN, MASS., Nov. 11.—This morning fire was discovered in the basement of Ingall's school. The fire department promptly responded, and the flames were soon under control. There were 775 children in the school, the majority of whom were at recess. The others were gathered together by the teachers, and despite blinding smoke were soon placed in safety. There was great excitement. The fire started in a lot of kindling wood, and was doubtless the work of malicious boys.

A WISE DECISION.

ALTHOUGH the decision arrived at by the Directors of the West Riding of Peterborough Agricultural Society with regard to the selection of a site for a show ground was not unanimous, yet we venture to think the more the selection made is canvassed the greater will be the consensus of opinion in favor of the selection made.

As this is a matter of considerable importance to both our country and town readers, it will not be out of place for us briefly to call attention to some of the reasons which, we think, justify the conclusion arrived at.

In the first place it is important to bear in mind that no site could be satisfactory which does not render at least twenty acres available for exhibition purposes, and that is not conveniently located for those expected to frequent such exhibitions. Now with regard to the first point, inasmuch as Mr. Cox's offer only covered ten acres, at $200 per acre, with additional land at a reasonable price, and as there was no land adjoining available for exhibition purposes, as is the case in connection with the Morrow property, to comply with the first condition which we have laid down as a sine qua non it would have been necessary to purchase at least another ten acres at at least $200 per acre, which would bring the total purchase money either to be provided, or upon which interest would have to be paid, up to $4,000. Now in the case of the Morrow lot, the Society obtains the full and entire control of say twelve acres with the right of use for exhibition purposes, upon terms which practically cost the society nothing, of an additional and adjoining sixteen acres, properly and amply enclosed, with horse ring, judges' and spectators' stands, &c., all provided thereon, for at least the next nine years, if not for all time to come, for an annual rental of, for the first four years of $100, and for the last five of $150, with the right of purchase at the end of the term for $500 per acre, or, say, $6,000 in all. Now let us see how these two propositions compare, simply in a dollar and cent point of view: Taking the money as worth six per cent., we have the cost of the Cox site, just as it stands to-day, $240 per annum for nine years, or $2,160 for interest or rental; in the other case we have four years at $100, and five years at $150, making, for the nine years, $1,150 for interest or rental, making a direct difference of $1,010 in favour of the Morrow property—but this is not all. During the first four years the society would have to pay for interest or rent $560 more under the Cox offer than the Morrow, which would be equal to at least $200 more by the time the nine years had expired; then during the next five years $450 more would have to be paid under the Cox offer than under the Morrow, which would be equal to at least anot er $60, making the total difference in the amounts paid for rent or interest during these nine years $1,270. That is: assuming that ten acres could be added to Mr. Cox's offer at $200 per acre, and that the whole purchase money could be carried forward for the nine years at six per cent. per annum, payable annually at the end of each year, the society upon the same annual outlay would have $1,270 on hand at the end of the nine years to pay the $6,000 required for Mr. Morrow's twelve acres, as compared with nothing on hand to meet the $4,000 then payable for the Cox twenty acres, an apparent difference in favour of the Cox site of $730 in cash and eight acres of land. But the cost of the land as it stands is not the only thing. Before any ground is available for exhibition purposes, it has to be fenced for the purpose, and, besides the buildings requisite for exhibits, the ground must be clear of stumps and stones and a ring suitable for the displaying of horses must be provided. In the case of the Cox property all this has yet to be done; in the other case the fencing is already largely done, there are no stones or stumps calling for immediate removal, and the horse ring with judges' and spectators' stands are already provided. Let us see how these items would make the comparison stand. We understand the fencing of the Driving Park (16 acres) cost $800; at the same rate twenty acres would cost $1,000. Of the Morrow property one side is already fenced, and the remaining three sides should not therefore cost more than $500—immediate saving on fencing therefore $500. Then we think we are within the mark if we estimate the cost of preparing the ground and horse ring on the Cox property for even a West Riding Exhibition, at $500, which, with the fencing, brings the immediate difference in these respects up to $1,000 in favour of the Morrow property, and which, with interest added, would, at the end of nine years, amount to at least $1,660. Consequently at the end of nine years, instead of there being $730 and eight acres of land in favour of the Cox site, the result, on these very moderate figures, would be that we would have to pay nearly $1,000 in cash for the extra eight acres. So much for that point.

We now come to the relative convenience of the two sites. Although measured on the ground the difference in the distance from, say the market square, is not very great, yet, in other respects, the differences are all in favour of the Morrow property. The railway facilities are all in that direction—the main line of the Midland almost touching the west end of the Driving Park. The water communication is also very convenient, while for wheeled vehicles in conveying visitors from the centre of the town there is simply no comparison. Moreover, as there is little doubt but that George street will eventually be opened up to this property, the distance to it will in future not only be shortened but the exhibition ground will be brought within sight of the market, and lastly, when we get a street railway, as we are destined to do, it is certain to run to the Morrow property, whereas it never could to that of Mr. Cox. As these are all important factors in bringing in the quarters on the show days, and upon the number of which both the ultimate success of the whole undertaking, and the benefit to be derived by the town therefrom, must largely depend, we have had no difficulty in coming to the conclusion that, if somewhat slow about it, the directors have in the end arrived at a decision which is the very best possible under all the circumstances, and we sincerely trust they will meet with that hearty support from the public which is all that is required to make Peterborough the chief exhibition centre between Toronto and Ottawa, and to give us our turn of the Provincial Exhibition.

THERE are juries and juries. In Hamilton an inquest was commenced on the death of a young man, and an adjournment was found necessary, but when the time came to resume it a further adjournment was necessary on account of the absence of jurors. In Peterborough a coroner's jury have held four sessions, one near the middle of the day, two from 7 until 11 o'clock at night, and one until midnight. Feeling a sense of their duty the coroner and jury do not intend to abandon the inquiry so long as there is any hope of discovering how the unfortunate man, John Johnston, came to his death, and they will, therefore, hold at least one more session. Coroner's juries do not receive pay, and these jurors deserve credit for their good intentions and their devotion to their duty.

A PRESIDENTIAL PALACE.

The White House at Washington—Its Cost and Construction.

The corner-stone of the Republican palace was laid October 13, 1792, with the "pomp and circumstance" of the Masonic ceremonial. President Washington was present at the head of the leading men in the administration of the Government, and thousands of enthusiastic citizens witnessed the event. During the next seven years the graceful pile, which at this time is second only to the capitol among the numerous fine structures in Washington, slowly rose from its well chosen site, the centre of a plot of twenty acres, sloping gradually down to the river at the rear of the mansion. At the end of that time it exhibited the same exterior as now—two stories and a basement, a length of 170 feet and breadth of 86 feet, a large portico of Ionic columns in the front, a circular colonnade at the back and surmounted by a wide balustrade. The building material was Virginia forestone painted white. Hence the name by which the executive mansion is best known. Washington died before it was ready for occupancy, but it was so nearly completed a few days before his death that he and his wife made a visit of inspection to it. The cost of the White House was not large. By the time when the hurried expedition and retreat of a portion of the British army desecrated its privacy, in 1814, less than $350,000 had been spent on it. After that deplorable event congress authorized the expenditure of $300,000 on its renovation. It was reopened Jan. 1, 1818. Large sums have been expended on the building and its furnishing since that date. It was partially refurnished when John Quincy Adams became occupant, and wholly with the beginning of President Grant's administration. As it now costs the government $89,000 to maintain the White House, exclusive of what the occupant pays out of his salary of $50,000 for personal servants, household supplies, horses and carriages, the difference between expenditure in the infancy of the republic and in these days is shown in a striking light.—Detroit Free Press.

THE DEADLY CLIMATE OF PANAMA.

Over Four Hundred Canal Workers in Hospitals.

Just before Mr. Dingler left Panama for France, he says 10,000 men were at work. The wet season is now in, and to-day not more than 7,000 of all ranks are employed. Quite recently, owing to the very sickly season, 440 of the 7,000 were in the hospital, apart from nearly 160 under treatment at home. This tells its own story about this deadly climate. The laborers now are nearly all Jamaicans. At Gorgoma, a canal camp, between Saturday last and Monday noon three canal chiefs had died. We hear of the deaths of chiefs—as for the men, they die on the line and are buried, and no attention is paid to the matter. Two American carpenters are in an unnamed grave near Emperador. The death rate a few months ago, from a careful estimate, was 100 and a decimal, nearly 110, per 1,000 for all ranks. Yellow fever kills the whites, malaria the natives and negroes. Many an able-bodied, well-built negro is cut off from 24 to 36 hours after his seizure. Many are placed in the ambulance cars of the canal company and die en route. None but those living here and familiar with such painful sights can form any idea of this country.

To return to the appearance of canal works. Lack of spirit and lack of energy were everywhere observable. Heavy rains interfered greatly with work. Earthworks are swept away by the tropical downpour. A few hours' rain caused a small stream to rise in such a manner that a railway bridge was swept away, stopping canal work there. One may safely say that during the long rainy season, from May to the middle of December, fully half the time originally calculated on by DeLesseps is lost, owing to the rains, small floods and the stubborn fact that, while the company claimed to have 16,000 in its employ at the close of the dry season, only 7,000 are working. Some contractors are losing money, and a great deal of it. One firm of Americans threw up its dredging contract rather than lose men and money.—Correspondence Montreal Gazette.

Trade Relations with Japan.

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Mr. Henry W. Denison, English secretary of the Imperial Japanese Majesty's legation at Washington, to-day had an audience with Sir Leonard Tilley, at which he presented a letter of introduction from Mr. West, British Ambassador to the United States. Mr. Denison's business here was in connection with the Japanese Steamship Company, about which I telegraphed the Mail some time ago. As at the time Sir John transferred the letter of the Japanese Steamship Company's president, to the president of the Canada Pacific Railway Company, Sir Leonard recommended Mr. Denison to confer with the Canada Pacific Railway on the matter, and accordingly he has gone to Montreal. The Japanese Government have an interest in the steamship company, and desire to develope trade relations with this continent and Europe via the Canadian Pacific Railway, and want to know what combined action of the Government of Japan and the Government of Canada—or, if not the Government, the railway company—will be necessary to secure the end desired.—Mail.

A Mysterious Tragedy.

CAMERON, Tex. Nov. 8.—At Byrant station Bernard Schiller, an old Bohemian, with his wife and three year old daughter, were found murdered, lying near a straw stack. Schiller and his wife were shot through the head. The child's skull was crushed. They had been dead several days when found. The crime is a mystery.

LOOKING FOR HIS RELATIVES.

Grover Cleveland Hunting for Cousins—He Finds one at Kingston.

A few weeks ago we received a letter at this office from a gentleman named Cleveland, at the city of Cleveland, asking us if we could give any information concerning the whereabouts of Deforno Marshall and his wife, who are said to have left Oswego some time ago for Kingston. Mrs. Marshall, he writes, is a Cleveland. We made enquiries for about a week, and then inserted a paragraph in the paper which had the desired effect, as Mr. Marshall saw it the night the paper was issued. He now lives on King street with his family, near the Grove inn, and, being a carpenter, during the winter was engaged working on the new hotel at Cape Vincent. Since the foregoing transpired it has been learned for a fact that Mrs. Marshall is a full cousin of Grover Cleveland, the supposed President-elect, and that the latter is now tracing up all his near relatives, but with what view it has not been stated. The letter received at this office has been answered by Mr. Marshall, and a reply has been received. We hope there is something good in store for him and his wife, as they are worthy of it, being highly esteemed and respected by all who know them.—Kingston News.

THE CHOLERA.

Terrible Spread of the Disease in Paris—Persons Stricken on the Streets.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Between noon and 11 o'clock, last night, 97 fresh cases of cholera and 11 deaths were reported. These do not include the cases and deaths at the hospitals. At the asylum for old men there were five deaths, with hardly a premonition. Many persons were stricken on the streets, in omnibuses and other public places, or when about their ordinary duties. The cholera hospitals are full to overflowing and others are being prepared. There are many cases among the troops. In nearly all the barracks some of the soldiers have been attacked. If the epidemic continues the public schools will be closed. The eastern and central portions of the city are most affected. The residences occupied principally by English and American people are in the most excellent sanitary condition. No cases have occurred in the quarters of Passy, Neuilley, or the Champs Elysees and the west end. The supply of water in those places is good and abundant.

MADRID, Nov. 11.—The Government has ordered that all persons arriving from France shall submit to ten days quarantine.

The Crown of England.

The crown of England is believed to be the finest piece of regalia in the world. The lower part of the band is a row of 129 pearls, the upper part of 112; between them, in front, is a large sapphire; behind is a smaller sapphire, with six others and eight emeralds. Between the two great sapphires are ornament containing 286 diamonds. Above the band are eight sapphires, surmounted by eight diamonds and eight festoons, containing 160 diamonds. In the front of the crown is the ruby given to the Black Prince by Pedro, king of Castile. This is set in a Maltese cross, and forming the cross are seventy-five large diamonds. Three other crosses are round the upper part of the crown, containing altogether 386 diamonds. Between the four cross-s are four ornaments with four rubies in their centres, and containing respectively eighty-four, eighty-six, eighty-five and eighty-seven diamonds. From the Maltese crosses rise four arches composed of oak leaves and acorns, the leaves containing 728 diamonds. The thirty-two acorns are each of a single pearl, and are set in cups made of fifty four diamonds. Above the arches stands the mound, containing 548 diamonds, and above the mound is the cross, containing a very large sapphire, four very large and 108 smaller diamonds. The value of the whole is variously estimated, but is commonly believed to be about $1,500,000.—Detroit Free Press.

The Presidential Election.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Mr. Commissioner C. Whitney, speaking with regard to the contest in New York last night, said the claims of errors are about equal on both sides with balance in favor of Mr. Cleveland as against Mr. Blaine. In Chatauqua County there is an irregularity amounting to over 400, principally in Jamestown. In Delaware County one of 100, while in Richmond, Saratoga, and other Counties mistakes appear which tell in favor of Mr. Blaine, and if corrected would largely increase Mr. Cleveland's plurality. If the matter were taken into the Courts for adjudication of technicalities, the ultimate result in the state would increase Mr. Cleveland's plurality.

The Grand Jury were yesterday engaged in inquiry into election matters. The assistant District Attorney says startling developments will be made in a day or two.

Strange Hallucination.

A large and imposing Senator from a Western State was walking up and down the Senate Chamber behind the chairs. His hands met at the small of his back, and one of them held the other. His step was stately, and his head leaned forward a trifle. On his face was the far away abstracted expression which is usually interpreted to mean that the owner of it is in deep thought. On a sofa in the corner of the Senate Chamber sat a senator from another Western town talking to a friend. Pointing to the senator who was pacing back and forth in full view of the galleries, the sitting senator said to his friend:—"There's a man who is laboring under a very strange hallucination." "What is it?" enquired the startled friend. "Why, he thinks that he's thinking."—Washington Republican.

Awful Good Taste in Wives.

Some years ago the Board of Exposition Commissioners issued a large number of season tickets to "Mr. So-and-so and wife." It so happened that one of these tickets was given to a well known advertising solicitor, who is an old widower, but who is blessed with half a dozen lovely daughters. He used his ticket a great deal, in fact every evening, and each time he would be accompanied by one of his daughters, the girls taking turns. Finally the turnstile keeper noticed that the solicitor changed his wives pretty often, and one day, just as the Exposition was drawing to a close, he stopped him and asked, confidentially:

"Say, boss, I should judge that you're a regular Mormon, but you've got awful good taste in the matter of wives."—Cincinnati Star.

Timely Warning.

"Darling," he whispered, as the clock sadly struck two, and still he sat there trying to impress her with his love, "there is one thing I so much desire. Would you let me take something that would be eternally sweet to my remembrance?"

"I don't know," she coyly replied, making a move as if to fall on a 30-cent shirt front; "but there is one thing you could take that will fill my happy cup to overflowing."

"What is it, loved one?" ready to catch her; but only a cold answer came that sounded like the bottom of coal-box in December.

"You might take your leave."

Interesting Items Regarding the Peterborough Association.

We take the following items regarding the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association from the November Association Notes, a paper published monthly by the Association :—

THE PROVINCIAL CONVENTION.

As the local and other press had full reports of the proceedings, and as the Watchman will have an account also, it will not be necessary for us to dwell much on what took place during the days the Convention was sitting—Oct. 23-26. It was a very good Convention in the opinion of experienced delegates, and the favorable results as regards our local work, it is impossible to estimate. Our workers, without exception so far as we have learned, were wonderfully blessed, and we go forward on the winter's work much stronger in the Lord. The Sabbath services were full of spiritual power, and resulted in the conversion of some young men, and in the re-consecration of many Christians. Many have told us that they intend to be more more active in the work during the coming winter. We find also that many of the business men think far more favourably of our work now than formerly. We are praying that the spiritual interest awakened may go on increasing, so that in the ensuing season many young men may be led to accept Christ as their Saviour. We hope and believe that not only our local work but that every Association and place in the Provinces, represented at the Convention, may be greatly blessed through their delegates. We were glad to see that Lindsay and Campbellford were represented, and hope, if it is the Lord's will, that Associations will soon be at work at these places. Lindsay, we are pleased to learn, has been having well-attended undenominational young men's meetings for a number of weeks past. The Convention was not a large one (the delegates from other places numbering 47), but, as Mr. Morse said, it was good in quality. A large number of business men were prevented from attending by pressure of work at the last moment. Much of the success of the Convention was due to the presence of Messrs. Morse and Ingersoll, of the International Committee. Our Committee would warmly thank those who so kindly entertained delegates, and also the Trustees of the George Street Methodist Church for the free use of their building. The Entertainment and Reception Committees worked well, and deserve special mention.

COMMITTEE FOR 1884 5.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee held on 13th October, the following committees were appointed. They all have power to add to their numbers, and if any young men who are not on any of them, would like to help in the work, in any one of its branches, the Chairman of these Committees would be glad to hear from them.

FINANCE COMMITTEE :—J. F. Jeffers, D. B. Gardner, J. C. Turnbull, Sheriff Hall, W. W. Johnson, Melville Millar, Dr. Fife, W. J. Minore and J. F. Holden. Chairman, D. B. Gardner, DEVOTIONAL COMMITTEE :—I Richardson, M. Cummings, Geo. M. Roger, H. Rossiter, John S. Hall, Jos. Batten, W. Beattie, W. Sykes, Chas. N. Brown, G. J. Early, R. Holland and J. D. Collins.—Chairman, I. Richardson.

INVITATION COMMITTEE :—J. H. Stephens, jr., T. Chapman, H. Edmundson, J. Fraser, F. Tyler, Ed. Webb, A. W. Jones and W. A. Smith.—Chairman, J. H. Stephens, jr.

LECTURE AND ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE :—Dr. Fife, J. F. Holden, A. D. Russell, Dr. Clarke, J. W. Bennett, W. W. Johnson, D. B. Gardner and W. J. Minore.—Chairman, Dr. Fife.

NOTES.

TWELVE new members were elected at the meeting of the Executive Committee held 13th Oct., and ten at the meeting on 3rd Nov.

DURING the coming winter we intend having more privileges for members than we have ever had yet. We shall be glad to receive a large accession to our membership. Among the privileges proposed are a members' parlor, social receptions at intervals, and courses of informal ectures.

IT has been proposed that we start a branch of the Chatauqua Literary and Scientific Circle. Will any one, whether members of the Association or not, who would like to join the Circle if started, kindly drop us a postal card, so that we may know whether it would be likely to succeed.

SINCE the Convention several have asked us to write to other Associations, requesting them to look after friends. We very willingly do this, and if this meets the eye of any who are interested in young men in other cities, we will gladly do the same service for them. At the Convention several remarkable instances of good, done in this way, were brought forward

SEVERAL of our members have evidently read and acted on the request in last issue, to propose their friends for membership. A number of applications have been received this month and we hope this will continue.

BOYS! We hope to be able to start the Boys' meeting again some time this month. Notice will be given through the newspapers. All boys are invited to come in and read the boys' papers during the day.

NEW ROOMS.

Our Committee have decided to lease the three rooms over the Post-office, and we will take possession of them before Nov. 8th. The location and general appearance of the rooms are far better than those of our present quarters, and the space at our disposal will be nearly double. We expect to have one room nicely furnished as a parlor for members. The others will be used as a reading room and a room for meetings. The leasing of these rooms will, of course, add to our expenses, but we think the estimated requirements for the year, $1,300, will be forthcoming. At the close of the Convention, the Finance Committee set to work, and $700 or $800 are already secured. We trust that those interested in the welfare of young men will give us the balance of the amount necessary. As the $1,300 includes a deficit from last year of $200, it will be seen that we are not extravagant. We give a very hearty invitation to all young men, and all interested in our work, to call on us in our new quarters. In leaving the rooms occupied by us for three years and a-half, we would again express our thanks to Mr. Geo. A. Cox for having given them to us free of charge during that time.

MARMORA.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEWS NOT PLENTIFUL.—It is rather hard, Mr. Editor, to furnish much news in a place where you need only to put your nose outside the street door of your house and see nearly all over the village. Therefore, like Micawber, I have to wait for "something to turn up."

THE WEATHER.—Is the clerk of the weather male or female, Mr. Editor? Female, methinks, by the changeableness. Monday, 3rd, fine and soft, almost summer; Tuesday, high winds and a pelting snowstorm lasting till noon, then a steady downpour of rain until late in the evening; Wednesday, cold with snow; Thursday, clear and very cold, and to-day (Friday) soft and mild with a slight rain.

A PUZZLE.—Our local nimrods, anxious to show their skill in shooting, organized under two leaders who selected their men, and agreed on a number of points each head, tail, ear or foot of bird or animal should be reckoned at, the losers to treat the winners to an oyster supper. All right so far, Mr. Editor, but I am dreadfully puzzled and will tell why. What puzzles me, Mr. Editor, is this, eight front legs out off one porcupine were brought before the judge to be counted. It was not the number of them that bothered me, but how it could carry and use them all at the same time was what laid me out. Please enlighten me.

ACCIDENT.—John McKennon, section foreman on the O. & Q. Railway, was thrown off a hand car, his ankle was badly bruised by the wheels running over it, and was badly shaken up besides. It will be quite a while before he can use his foot.

THE RAILWAY STATION.—The Union Station, about four miles from Marmora, is all but completed and presents a good appearance.

Dying of Fright.

It cannot be doubted that every year thousands of people are frightened into their graves by unfavorable reports on the condition of their lungs. Each vital organ has disorders and weakness peculiarly its own; and the lungs have their full share. Pain in the chest is always attributed, by persons affected, to diseased lungs, and the influence of the imagination upon this vital organs is so powerful that the malady may be quickly increased. There are some forms of malarial fever which induce terrible aching in the chest. The victim, knowing nothing of pathology, attributes the cause to either pneumonia or consumption, and begins at once to break down. Consultation with an ordinary country practitioner usually verifies his fears and unless he dines at a well-spred table and has a good appetite—which seldom accompanies malaria—he either give up and dies or hurries away to a heathen resort for consumptives. Heart disease is another popular humbug which physicians too often support. The heart is the most vital of the physical organs, but, like all the others, it can and does endure a good deal of abuse.

It is very easily affected sympathetically, so any temporary disorder of stomach, lungs or liver may make its action irregular or cause pain, which seems to be located directly in the heart. Almost every one has many acquaintances, apparently healthy, who have told him in strict confidence that they have heart disease. The natural deduction from this is that no person should keep up the fears regarding the heart, the lungs, or any vital organ until he has first tried the effect of absolute regular and intelligent physical habits. Plenty of well cooked food, a few or no stimulants, regular rest, frequent bathing, and either steady work or plenty of moderate physical exercise have in a short time restored to health thousands of persons who have been given up to die of vital disorders. Such treatment costs no more than the ordinary methods of life, and as soon as fairly begun it becomes very pleasant. Beyond doubt it is far preferable to dying of fright.—New York Hour.

DOMINICA, Nov. 11.—The Legislative Assembly has adopted a resolution declaring that the only solution of the present difficulties to admitting the produce of the colony free into the United States will be to cede the island to America, and memorialize the British Government to follow that course.

PROCLAMATION!

BULLETIN ISSUED FROM THE CITY CLOTHING STORE.

PERSONALLY we do not know every buyer of Clothing and Gents' Furnishings in Peterborough, but the constant and uninterupted flow of new customers who are daily making our establishment their headquarters for their wants, warrants us in believing that the public after once visiting the City Clothing Store, become SOLID customers. And what is more, they tell their friends and neighbours of the fair and square manner they are dealt with, and by this means we have gained the public confidence.

PERSONAL: H LeBRUN is never behind in anything he takes hold of, and in the Clothing Trade he has proved himself a shrewd buyer—purchasing nothing that would be an eyesore on the shelves, and taking none but a class of goods that the general public are in daily need of. The WORKING MAN is not forgotten by LeBRUN, who has constantly on hand a class of goods that the mechanic requires, such as Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, Gloves, Hosiery, Underwear, Umbrellas, Rugs, Water-proof Coats—in fact everything in the Gentlemens' Furnishing line.

A GOOD FIT IS EVERYTHING!

If a man buys a suit of Clothes, the first thing he will do is to choose a piece of cloth he likes—something suitable and pretty. That's right; the correct thing to do. But if that man does not get a good fit—if the Cutter makes a "botch" of the job—the cloth that looked so enticing to him before being made up, now becomes cheap-looking and he dosen't like it. MR. KILPATRICK, although only with the City Clothing Store about two months, is giving universal satisfaction, and he makes no mistakes nor botches no clothes, but guarantees a perfect fit and the most fashionable cut. In consequence our Order Department is having an unprecedented run. In BOYS' SUITS we are doing a grand trade.

JUST LISTEN TO THIS!

We have an extra large stock of Ready-made Overcoats for Men and Boys, and are determined to dispose of them immediately. So if you want a neat and nobby Coat cheap, call and examine ours.

In UNDERCLOTHING our assortment is very extensive, and the public will find on examination that it is one of the best stocks in town.

In GENTS' FURNISHINGS the City Clothing Store stands at the head of the class. Your every want is here, and if you cannot see what you want, ask for it, and presto! it is before you. The greatest feature in our store is the prices, they are ROCK BOTTOM!

Interest Manifested.

A meeting of the lady members of the various churches was held in one of the new rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, over the post office, on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of devising means for the furnishing in a comfortable manner of the new rooms. The meeting was a large and representative one, about forty ladies being present. Committees, consisting of members of the different churches, were appointed, and it was decided to canvass vigorously for sufficient means to furnish the rooms.

THE REVIEW PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY, (LIMITED.)

A False Alarm.

A few nights ago a George street dry-goods clerk was musingly and meditatively strolling homeward enjoying the fragrance of a ten cent cigar. In passing a certain place of business at the south end of the street, he saw a dim light and a suspicious looking object moving around in the store. Having met the proprietor of the place going up street, the idea "burglars" at once suggested itself. He flung the cigar (ten cent) to the winds, and took to his heels after the proprietor. When he overtook him he breathlessly gasped, "there's burglars in your store, I saw them." "Oh," said the proprietor, "I guess it was the boy you saw sweeping up the place for the morning." Please imagine the feelings of the dry-goods clerk.

Grand Benefit.

The arrangements for the complimentary benefit concert which will be tendered to Messrs. Clarke, Simons and Walbrook are progressing favorably. An unusually interesting programme is now being printed. The very best local talent will appear at this concert. The services of Mrs. Chambers have been secured, and this of itself is a great attraction. But the concert will suit all tastes. Mr. T. McNaughton will give an exhibition of artistic club swinging; Mr. D. Donohue will appear in his side splitting comicalities and Irish songs; trios will be sung by some of the leading tenors and baritones, and the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw will read selections. The concert will be made up of many more attractions and those who attend will doubtless enjoy a treat.

At the Opera House.

The James Taylor Company appeared at Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening in the comedy drama "Tempted, or Trials of the Turf." The scene is laid in England. Sam Snuffles, the hero, is a favourite jockey. His father bets heavily against the horse which Sam rides, and, together with the guardian of Sam's sweetheart, they tempt him by alternate threats and tears to sell the race. Sam, convinced that his father will be ruined if the horse wins, sells the race, but from that day he goes down in the sportsmen's calling until he at last come to be a stable-man. He had married his sweetheart, Nance Hawthorn, and she cheers him in his menial position. Mr. Conquest, the former guardian, goes abroad and amasses, after several years, great wealth, repents the injury he has done to the jockey in tempting him, asks and is granted forgiveness, and endows the now old couple with a competence. Mr. Jas. Taylor assumed the leading role as Sam Snuffles, and the supporting characters were well drawn. After "Tempted" had been presented the Company played the popular play "Simon" in which all the company acquitted themselves well, but especially Mr. J. H. Chapman as old Flint the lawyer; Mr. Taylor in his character changes, and Miss Ada Alexandra as the Dutch girl.

THE STOLEN FURS FOUND

TWO OF THE SUPPOSED BURGLARS NOW IN CUSTODY.

The Goods are Found in a Barn in the Southwest Part of the Town—Identified by Mr. Mills.

It will be remembered that some weeks ago several burglaries were perpetrated in town, among the stores robbed being Messrs. Mills Bros.' fur store, and Mr. McKee's hardware store. The goods taken from Mr. McKee's were discovered the next day.

On Friday last Chief of Police Johnston received information which led him to believe that were in Mr. Edmund Chamberlain's barn, which is on the outskirts of the southwest part of the town. Men were engaged to watch the premises, and by alternately relieving each other a was constantly kept on the barn, both day and night. A search in the hay led to the confirmation of the information which the Chief had received, as a quantity of fur goods were discovered, buried in the hay in a bag and a valise. Along with these goods were which leads to the supposition that the same parties burglarized both the fur store and the hardware store. The watch on the barn did not reveal anything further, as the thieves did not return to remove the goods.

THE STOLEN FURS

STRICT WATCH

TWO REVOLVERS,

However, certain parties were suspected, from information received, and a watch was kept upon them. A warrant was got out this morning and was executed just before noon, when one of the suspected parties

WAS ARRESTED.

The person who was arrested is a young man named Noble, Another of the suspected parties is John Ferguson, who is having been previously committed for trial on a charge of having stolen a watch last summer from Henry Noyes.

NOW IN GAOL,

The articles which were found in the barn were removed soon after found to the vault in the town offices. They were kept there until this morning, when they

WERE IDENTIFIED

by Mr. Joseph Mills, and a portion of them were taken back to his store. The remainder were kept by the police to be used at the trial of the prisoners. All of the furs were not recovered, as Mr. Mills still misses from those found in the barn Persian lamb caps, gloves and other articles. However, the articles still missing are not numerous, and the bulk of the goods have been recovered.

It is now the impression that the robberies have all been committed by persons living in town. If this is true, and if the youthful prisoners or any of them are of the party, the gang is in a fair way of being broken up, a thing greatly to be desired.

We have been aware for some days of the fur goods having been found, but, at the request of the authorities, have withheld it from publication.

A NICE variety of medium priced Colored Dress Goods. Also a lot of Scotch All Wool Trrtans or Plaids. Black Dress Goods in Cashmeres, and other New Fabrics, all good value. JOHN ERSKINE.

"Have you seen our new stock of Christmas Cards," said Bob Sailsbury, the popular bookseller and stationer, to a REVIEW reporter this afternoon. The Chief Aims of Life.

Leaving out of consideration the higher or religious aim of life, to what do the great majority of people devote the larger part of their time, labor and life? It is to obtain money. If they are not compelled to do so by circumstances, they do so voluntarily in order to accumulate riches. If a man is ambitious, and desires to become prominent in his country, he must secure a certain amount of wealth to form a spring board from which he leaps and dives into the sea of worldly glory. If a man loves ease, and longs for the time when he can cease work or retire from business, he must economize and save money to support him while he reclines under the shadows of the evening of his life. If a young man is in love, and his heart palpitates for the young lady of his choice to light the fires, cook his breakfast and sew on buttons, he must, if he is a prudent young man, lay by enough of the filthy lucre to start them in housekeeping. Or if a man desires money simply from the love of the gold, he must save the same as the others. All desire wealth, although their objects may be different. Now, no matter how necessary it is for a gentleman, young or old, to be economical, he must have clothes; he must keep himself dressed, especially at this season. This being the case he desires to know where he can purchase good goods at low prices. He can easily find just such a place, namely, at A. MCNEIL'S Habilliment Hall.

The Unknown Element in Life.

No man's plans for his own life are ever quite free from the influence of an unknown quantity. However careful may have been his calculations, however comprehensive his preparations to meet unforeseen possibilities, it is always possible that a new and unseen element may be introduced, which will completely revolutionize the whole plan, or which will materially change the proposed results. Here is God's chosen place for ruling among the actions of men. The wicked may gather together for their own purposes, but an unforeseen element comes into the play of their plans; for "they know not the thoughts of the Lord, neither understand they his counsel," and lo! their gathering together works out the plans of God. This unknown element in life is not in man's power, but in God's, therefore man's duty is simple with that which is known or which may be foreseen. For the unseen possibility God cares; and that unforeseen possibility can never work any real harm to those who love God, and who have committed their way into him.—Ex.

The Duchy of Brunswick.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—The North German Gazette publishes a circular issued by the Duke of Cumberland, which has been addressed to all German sovereigns except the Emperor William. The circular has not been forwarded to the Emperor because he refused to recognize the notification issued by the Duke to the Brunswick ministry assuming the Government of the Duchy. The present circular demands that the Duke's proclamation shall be countersigned by the council of the regency. The duke maintains that the validity of his succession is fairly established; that his hereditary rights of succession have not been contested, and that it is impossible for the empire to refuse him the right of assuming the Government without encroaching upon the laws and justice which formed the foundation of the Empire. Herr Wind Thorst, the ultramontane leader, declares that the Duke of Cumberland's right to the crown is undoubted and indefeasible. Slight importance is attached to the manifesto and circular.

A Child Burned to a Crisp.

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—A distressing occurrence, attended with loss of life, happened at 11 o'clock to-day. The fire brigade were called out by an alarm sounded from the corner of Somerset and Arthur streets, Ashburnham Hill. When the reels arrived at the scene it was discovered that a small frame house situated on Bell street was in flames. The house was occupied by Godfrey Ouellette, a fisherman, who is at present out of the city and engaged at his occupation at Bocham's point on the Ottawa. Mrs. Ouellette was visiting a neighbour's house when the fire originated. She left three of her own children and a three year old child belonging to Mrs. Patrick Kelly, who lives on Eccles street, by themselves. The children set fire to some shavings which were in a box. A woman who lived next door saw the flames and heard the cries of the children. She succeeded in saving the three Ouellettes, but didn't notice the boy Kelly, and was not aware he was there. The consequence was that the little fellow was burned to a crisp. Mrs. Kelly, who is a widow, was employed as charwoman in the buildings, and was at work when the fatal accident happened. No insurance on the building.

GENTLEMEN,—

Our New Fall and Winter Tweeds and Suitings are all in Stock, and on our shelves, where you or we can lay our hands on them in a jiffy.

Too many to give separate accounts of, too many patterns to eulogize, too many lines to mention all.

They all have one object in view. To keep out the WIND and the WINTER—and to give you at the same time a stylish and gentlemanly appearance.

We'll skip stuff, cut, trimmings and buttons and much about styles, to say:—There's one way of telling you about them that touches your hearts, for it touches your pockets. THEY COST LOW and they're worth all they cost—and more.

And Mr. Peter Simon, the versatile, scientific, stylish and mathematically correct Cutter shall carve for you the goods.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1884.

KEENE

From Our Own Correspondent.

WEDDING BELLS.—A very nice quiet wedding took place in our northern village on Wednesday last at the residence of Mr. James Douglass. The contracting parties were Miss Douglass, youngest daughter of Jas. Douglass, Esq., and Mr. Alex. Anderson. The Allandale boys were on hand with their band as usual. On the same evening in the village of Keene there was another. The contracting parties were Miss Mary Kindred, youngest daughter of Jno. Kindred, Esq., and Mr. Vyvian, of Midland City. The supper was spread in the town hall, and the Victoria Brass Band furnished music for the occasion. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. R. Barker. The bride was dressed in nun's veiling trimmed with cream colored satin. The bridesmaids were Misses Mary McIntyre and Bella Howson, who were dressed as usual in a similar manner. The groomsmen were Mr. T. Kindred, brother of the bride, and Mr. Harry English. The presents were both costly and numerous, and showed good taste on the part of the donors. The amusement was kept up until the early hours. We, together with other friends, wish both couples a long and happy life as man and wife.

APPROACHING COMPLETION.—The new Presbyterian Church is fast approaching completion. The plasterers are at work and the spire is getting into shape. The foreman who has charge of the work understands his busines and is doing the work in first class style.

BUILDING.—Building is still going on in our growing village. Men can not be got except as a favor, in spite of the reports of starvation and distress we hear of in some papers. Mr. Laing's house is plastered outside and will soon be finished. Dr. Harrison's is also getting on very rapidly. A few more houses are wanted but cannot be procured. Five or six houses to rent in the village would pay the owners well, as a number will not come to this place because there are no houses to be secured.

RIFLE MATCH.—The annual rifle match of No. 4 Company, 57th Batt., was held on Thursday last and was a success, although the weather was very unfavorable. The prizes were very well selected and cost upwards of $30. The following is a complete list of prize winners and their scores:

VOLUNTEER'S MATCH.

1	Sergt. McIntyre	33
2	Pt. Wedlock	29
3	Pt. Dickson	23
4	Pt. Laundreville	22
5	Lieut. Campbell	20
6	Capt. Birdsall	18
7	Sergt. McFarlain	17
8	Pt. Miller	16
9	Pt. J. C. Read	14

ASSOCIATION MATCH (400 YDS.)

1	Wm. Wedlock	25
2	Robt. Laundreville	22
3	R. B. McIntyre	22
4	Capt. R. E. Birdsall	21
5	Jas. Miller	18
6	B. M. Wylie	18
7	Lieut. Wm. Campbell	16
8	A. Dickson	15

SWEEPSTAKES.

1	Sergt. R. B. McIntyre	20
2	F. Thompson	13
3	Wm. Wedlock	12

Considering the wind and weather generally the scores were very good.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. W. R. Barker, formerly pastor of the Methodist Church here, has been in the village. Mr. M. Kennally is improving; all are glad to hear that he will soon be around again. A large number from Lang visited our genial friend Frost at the American House on Wednesday evening last and spent an enjoyable time. Report says that Mr. Kenward Mark will leave Allendale and take charge of the Keene school after New Years. We welcome him to our thriving village.

QUESTIONS.—These questions are often asked: Firstly, are we ever going to have a new set of councillors? Secondly, is Keene ever to have a representative at the council of this township? Thirdly, where is the Keene correspondent of the Hastings Star? Let's hear from you before long.

PETERBOROUGH ORCHESTRA.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I see by posters that the Peterborough Orchestra is engaged to appear at the Cricket Club entertainment in Lakefield this evening. I desire to say that the Peterborough Orchestra have not been engaged to appear at that entertainment, and if any person has made an engagement under that name they should not have done so, as the orchestra of which I am director have always been known by it.

Yours, &c.,
A. FREEMAN,
Mus. Director Peterborough Orchestra.
Peterborough, Nov. 12th, 1884.

How the U. S. Treasury is Drained.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The annual report of the committee of pensions shows 322,256 pensioners on the list at June 30th, including 3,898 survivors of the war of 1812, and 19,512 widows of those who served in that war. $5,690,800 was disbursed during the year, making the total amount paid since 1861 $678,346,000.

Accidental.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—The jury to-day acquitted the prisoner David Welsh, who shot John Cameron on the morning of the 25th of October. The shooting was proven plainly enough, but the jury seem to have considered it accidental.

MANY TONS OF BALLOTS.

A Fanciful Study in Statistics Applicable to the Presidential Election.

Here are facts and figures not usually appended to election returns. The history of past elections teaches that this vote of the nation advances from president to president by steps measured in numbers by 10 per cent. The total vote of 1868 was 5,724,654; of 1872 was 6,464,805; of 1876 was 8,412,733; of 1880 was 9,210,970. Add 10 per cent to this last total and the estimate for the vote going into the ballot boxes to-day will be 10,312,067, an approximation borne out by other calculations, and which will be found not far out of the result. A ballot is a piece of paper averaging four inches wide and ten and a half long. One hundred and fifty ballots will weigh about a pound. Two hundred and fifty ballots laid on each other will measure about an inch. To prepare these bits of paper at a reasonable profit costs 90 cents a thousand. If the ballots cast to-day were placed end to end they would reach in a continuous line from Washington, D.C., to El Paso, in Texas, or they would stretch from Eastport, Me., to New Orleans, as the crow flies. If one end of the long line of paper were made fast to Cape Flattery, the extreme northwestern promontory of Washington Territory, the other end would pass Kansas City, with enough miles to spare to reach Sedalia.

This has to do only with the ballots actually voted. The number of ballots actually printed, of course, is tremendously larger than the amount voted. In St. Louis, for instance, the Democrats have had 900,000, the other parties in all 700,000, making for the one town a total of 1,300,000. It is generally admitted, however, that the vote of St. Louis will not, at the outside, make more than 500,000. Here, then, is a surplus of twenty-six ballots for each one cast. This makes the total of ballots offered to the people throughout America at this election 260,000,000. It would require eighty-five freight cars to move this load of paper, whose weight his 1,716,000. The white paper and printing of the mass has cost $234,000. Pasted end to end there would be paper enough to go entirely round the globe, leaving 19,000 miles to spare for a gigantic double bow-knot, which would cover the greater part of the two Americas, or if one preferred to keep the string in the United States there would be miles enough to wrap the streamer thirty-nine times around the State of Missouri and still leave enough to reach from the Post-Despatch buildings to Governor Cleveland's private office in the State House at Albany.—St. Louis Post-Despatch.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

No Definite Result Announced—Roscoe Conkling's Views.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Roscoe Conkling, being questioned yesterday regarding his views on the Presidential canvass in this State, said:—"My information now extends to some fifty counties. In twenty-three the Boards of Supervisors met to-day and concluded their task. No changes were made worth noting, but with straightforward honesty the fact was certified, as it had already appeared by returns filed in offices of county clerks and published days ago. In the other twenty odd of the fifty counties heard from there seems no ground of controversy or doubt, but everything indicates that in these counties also the Boards of Supervisors will declare what the filed returns have from the first shown. In this city and Kings county there seems no reason to apprehend any serious difficulty, or question about the number of votes given to the Presidential ticket. That number is already known far and wide. As to writs of mandamus or other extraordiary proceedings, I cannot discover any need or excuse for them so far, nor any justification for prolonging or haggling over the matter. Indeed it seems to me that any one who seriously intended the various rumoured attempts must have been imposed upon as to facts. It will surprise me if all are not finally satisfied when they learn what seems already past doubt. It seems quite obvious that the State of New York has appointed electors favourable to Cleveland and Hendricks, and the sooner the fact is accepted the better it seems to me it will be for the whole country.

AN ERROR DISCOVERED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—There is no excitement at political headquarters. Both are patiently awaiting the result of the official count. A change favorable to Blaine of 233 votes in the 17th election district of the second assembly district, as against the press returns published on Wednesday morning, was made by the board of canvassers of New York county to-day, but on a careful comparison being made between each of the election districts of police returns and those of the press it has been found that the difference will be made up in the districts yet to be canvassed.

Iron As a Precious Metal.

Iron and copper were the only metals known to the natives before the arrival of the Europeans, and they were both called in the Herero language by the same name. The civilized Heros now use foreign words for copper, silver, and gold, while lead was received its name from the bullets into which it was cast. The pastoral tribes of the Hereros and Ovambandierus have but few smiths of there own, but are served by itinerant smiths from other tribes, who wander around, working in small companies, among the chiefs, till they have earned enough cattle to justify them in returning to their homes. Sometimes they are political refugees, who have excited the anger or jealousy of their chiefs in Ovamboland, and are compelled to turn their backs upon their homes till a change of dynasty takes place. These Ovambo smiths brought iron from their native country, where the art of extracting that metal and copper from the ores is understood, and rich ores are found. Iron could formely be got in Ovamboland only at the cost of great labour, and the smith had then to carry his store on his back some fifteen or twenty days' journey. The metal, therefore, commanded a very high price. As late as 1840 a simple bracelet of iron wire was an adequate guest's present, and a large fat wether could easily be bought with a span of the old hoop-iron with which trunks were bound. The natives were greatly astonished at seeing the costly metal wasted by the Europeans in boat-nails. Iron had thus the value of a precious metal, and rusting and changing but little in in the dry climate, was worn inornaments by the Hereros, while other tribes preferred copper and brass. The native smiths now use European iron, and seek out good steel, such as is found in files and bayonets. But iron forged in the old-fashioned way into ornaments and weapons has still considerable value.—Popular Science Monthly for November.

Burglary.

MILTON, Nov. 12.—The postoffice and registry office here were burglarized last night. Entrance to the postoffice is supposed to have been effected by means of a skeleton key. The safe was drilled and about a hundred dollars' worth of stamps and a number of registered letters taken therefrom. The letters were opened, the money taken out and the letters left in the office. At the registry office the doors, which are made of iron, were pried and twisted until the lock gave way. The burglars then made a careful search, not for deeds and mortgages, but for money, and broke every lock in the office and got about three dollars and twenty-five cents in stamps and silver.

Women in Politics.

WEST RUNNEY, N. H., Nov. 12.—An election bet between two extremely fleshy ladies was paid here last night, the loser wheeling the winner 25 rods in a barrow. A procession of 100 torchlight bearers accompanied the ladies, firing salutes and cheering. A meeting was organized and speeches made, after which the ladies were escorted to their homes amid great enthusiasm.

KEY TO THE SITUATION.

DONGOLA, Nov. 12.—Major Wardley and four attendants have ridden across the desert via Selimah. They report it impossible for a hostile force to use the route to cut the English off from their base. Any force attempting to pass from Kordofan to Upper Egypt would be obliged to strike the Nile at Dongola. Dongola is thus the strategical gate to Egypt and whoever controls it possesses the key to the situation.

THE CHOLERA IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Cholera has appeared amoung troops at the Government barracks, and it has also broker out in the House of detention at Melun. The authorities have forbidden the use of cabs to convey such persons to hospitals lest the spread of the cholera would thus be aided. It is not clearly known how the cholera originated in the Bretenil Asylum for old people. It is supposed it was brought by an inmate returning from a holiday. So far 44 deaths have occurred in the Asylum. The mortality is greater among men than women. There are two hundred and fifty inmates in the Asylum. The district round about is healthy. The nuns fearlessly attend the patients. The troops will be removed to the barracks outside of the city. M. Jules Valles in the Cri du Peuple urges the people who dwell in the slums to migrate to the wealthier parts of the city, occupy the fashionable houses that are deserted and help themselves to wholesome food. Three deaths occurred in prison at Melun. In Paris, yesterday, exclusive of hospitals, there were 152 fresh cases of cholera and 56 deaths. At the hospitals 132 cases were admitted and 51 patients died, 271 are under treatment.

DAILY SKIRMISHES.

HONG KONG, Nov. 12.—The Chinese are still besetting Keelung, and the situation of the French in Tonquin is daily becoming more perilous. The outposts are subject to constant attacks, and great difficulty is experienced in procuring provisions. Between Hanoi and Sontay daily skirmishes take place. The health of the troops at Bacninh is bad, and a number of men are unfit for service.

A DEPUTY IN TROUBLE.

PARIS Nov. 12.—The clerks in the Ministry of the Interior sent a deputation yesterday to Deputy Laguerre to demand a retraction of his statements made by him in the Chamber of Deputies, accusing the clerks of malfeasance. M. Laguerre declined to retract. M. Schoenfield, leader of the deputation, thereupon challenged M. Laguerre to fight a duel. M. Laguerre refused, but sent a challenge to M. Welderck-Rousseau, Minister of the Interior, in case the latter considered himself insulted. M. Rousseau declined to consider the matter.

The Liberals are indignant over the affair.

Saved Army Notes.

We find the following in the last number of the Saved Army Trumpet:—

One of the most pleasing and notable features in the Councils of the Saved Army is the thorough harmony prevailing through all its deliberations and on all the questions brought forward. It shows plainly that God is blessing this means of evangelistic work, and that His Spirit is fully in accord with the principles of simple truth held forth by them. When men representing nearly or every christian denomination can meet together to legislate where it is all but impossible that, under ordinary circumstances, heart-burnings and little differences must occur, it is gratifying to record that the deliberations of the Saved Army Councils are carried on without a single hard word or thought, not a look nor action evidencing other than one feeling throughout. It is a notable fact, and one worthy of notice, that one of the objects of the Saved Army is the ultimate uniting of all christian bodies into the Grand Body; such is the Saved Army's teaching, and when this is accomplished there will be no further need of it, as all will then be peace and good will towards all men. May God hasten the day.—Amen.

"REFORM" IN THE LAW COURTS.

THE Reformers as a body are in the habit of keeping up a constant howl against the asserted corruption of the Conservatives, hoping by the continual clamour to persuade the ill-informed that the Reform party is pure and the Conservative party is corrupt. But the records of our law courts offer indubitable evidence that this pretended Reform purity is mere hypocrisy, under cover of which systematized corruption is common. The courts have over and over again stript off this disguise, and yet the Reform organs, with brazen effrontery, continue to shout "corruption" against their political opponents.

We have now a fresh addition to the historic cases of Reform corruption, those of Cameron, Walker, Cook, &c., &c. The present instances are the protested elections in East Simcoe and East Middlesex, which have just been before the Court of Appeal. In both cases there is the usual result, that the judges hold that there was corruption by Reformers. There is, however, a distinction between the two cases.

In East Simcoe the judges find not only that there was corruption, but also that it was so gross as to vitiate the election. It is only fair to remark that Mr. Drury, though he was found to have been placed in the seat that rightfully belonged to another, is not himself implicated in the corrupt proceedings. There are Reformers and Reformers, Mr. Drury being one of the exceptions to the general corruption. It is not forgotten how he covered himself with credit by leaving the House in disgust rather than vote for Mr. Mowat's disgraceful clause to snatch Mr. Dowling from the clutches of the law, in reward for his service as an informer. Mr. Drury would not countenance this iniquity, though it might have conduced to his own advantage.

In the East Middlesex case the judges also found that there was Reform corruption, but as it was not absolutely proved that it was sufficient to effect the result, a majority of the judges gave Mr. Mackenzie the benefit of the doubt, and did not deprive him of his seat, in spite of the corrupt means used to seat him.

We observe that the Globe puts forward a legal quirk as a reason why the decision of the judges should not take effect. It even says the matter can only be cured by legislation, and has the audacity to add, "which we have no doubt will be promptly passed at the next meeting of the Legislature." The Globe may be right in supposing that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues would not hesitate at promptly legislating to seat supporters whom our judges have decided not rightfully to occupy their seats, thus overriding by enactment the judgments of our law courts, and legalizing judicially condemned corruption. We doubt, however, whether the Globe is right in assuming that such disgraceful legislation would be promptly passed. The gross misconduct of Mr. Mowat and his supporters in thus abusing their position to insult the judiciary, to veto their judgments, and to reward corruption by legislating away its penalties, excited so much indignation and such just condemnation from impartial sources, that we doubt if even Reform members will be willing again to place themselves under the lash of criticism for such an iniquity.

THE WRECKS IN THE GULF.

Details of the Loss of the "Emelie"—From Eight to Fourteen Lives Lost.

QUEBEC, Nov. 11.—The schooner "Emelie," wrecked in the Gulf, had sixteen men on board and was on her way up to Quebec from Perce. Ten men are reported to have been saved through the exertions of Charles and James Jourdain, of Pointe de Monts, who lost all they were worth in the act. These men are on Caribou Island, near Pointe des Mont, and are entirely destitute of provisions. It is not known here whether all the ten on the island have been saved from the schooner, or whether six of the number are the survivors from the wreck of the "Nanna." At all events there are reasons to fear that the loss of life will be from eight to fourteen souls. Fears are also entertained that Victor Fafford, son of the lighthouse keeper at Pointe de Monts, who is missing, has been drowned. Urgent telegrams have been received here, applying for provisions for the destitute. At Pointe de Monts and Trinity Bay adjoining buildings, bridges, vehicles and boats have all been swept away, and fishermen and others reduced to pauperism. The platform was washed away from around the lighthouse and the sea beat into the tower. At Point de Monts it is believed that serious disasters have occurred all along the coast.

Export of Straw Braid.

The manufacture of straw braid in Essex county is increasing every year, says the Record, and the bulk of the braid goes to Detroit. There is an average of 50,000 yards received every week at the United Stated bonded warehouses, at the foot of Randolph street, aside from that which is brought over at the two ferry landings and appraised to those places.

The Scott Act in Lennox.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

OUR INTEREST.

Unless reciprocity between Canada and the Republic can be arranged on terms profitable to us, Canada should make no reduction in her tariff.—Port Arthur Sentinel.

CANADIANS AND THE NILE.

The Canadians are performing invaluable service in navigating the boats of Gen. Lord Wolseley's expedition over the cataracts of the Nile, and England is more than likely to derive great benefits from their employment for the relief of Khartoum. Wolseley's experience in Canada, years ago, taught him the value of Canadians as boatmen, and it is now thought that their skill will enable his force to pass safely over the cataracts of the great Egyptian river, whereas, without them, the passage might be extremely difficult, if not impossible. They pronounce the task laborious and tedious, but not dangerous, and the advance has begun with confidence in a successful result. And all the Queen's subjects in America will feel an interest in the expedition which would not be excited were not Canadians assigned an important part in the campaign on the Nile.—Plattsburgh Telegraph.

REFORM "PRINCIPLES."

But the Reform party is different from all others: it scorns imitation. It builds its party, and then adapts the principles to the party. It is said that when a Virginian would construct a habitation he first builds a chimney. If the chimney draws well, he adds a house to it. The chimney is the principal feature of the establishment. If the house burns down, the chimney stands and a new house may be constructed. It is so with the reformers: you may demolish their principles, but the fume and smoke belchers remain. All that is needed is to get a new set of principles out of the nearest available timber, and behold the establishment made tenable once more.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE FOOLISH JOURNALS.

The Reform press should now imagine that Sir John A. Macdonald wants to annex Zululand to Canada and proceed on that basis to assault the public with articles "proving that the annexation of Zululand will not benfit the pocket-handkerchief and tailoring industry of Canada.—Toronto Mail.

INTERESTING RELICS

Specimen of Canadian Journalism in the Year 1764—Old Engravings.

Mr. Thomas Bates, a Government official in Montreal, is the fortunate possessor of a unique relic of the birth of Canadian journalism, which demonstrates what an insignificant origin it had; as compared with the vast development of the press throughout the Dominion in the present era it is like a tiny acorn groming into a forest of stately oaks. The memento, to which your correspondent's attention was called by an Episcopal clergyman whose taste are decidedly for the antique, is a copy of the first newspaper published in this Canada of ours, entitled the Quebec Gazette, which made its appearance on the 4th of May, 1794. It is in a state of excellent preservation, and measures about twelve inches long by six inches broad, one half being printed in English and the other half in French. The first page contains a salutation to the public, claiming support for the enterprise. Its old world news was dated three months before publication, so that it must have been an arduous undertaking to cross the Atlantic at that time. Part of the English news was to the effect that the British Government had resolved to impose a duty on tea entering the ports of the eastern colonies of British America. The resolution must have remained in abeyance for fourteen years, as it was not carried into effect until 1776 when the colonies revolted. There is only one solitary advertisement in the publication. The copy which Mr. Bates prizes so highly was found in a box in an old warehouse belonging to an importing firm here, and had evidently came out from England packed around some kind of goods. The present owner has had several liberal offers for this first specimen of a Canadian journal, but he rates it at the sum of twelve hundred and fifty dollars, which of course it far beyond the mark. Another antique find has also been made of two hundred engravings of large size, executed in London, England, about half a century ago as, illustrative of Hawkin's History of the city of Quebec, published at that time. The picture, which is very finely executed, represents the old city, with views of the gallant Wolfe's military exploits in the foreground. The original price of the engraving was over five dollars, twenty-one shillings, but those lately discovered are selling rapidly here at two dollars and a half each.—Mail.

THE WHEAT HARVEST.

A Montreal Firm to Purchase Over Two Million Bushles in the North-West.

The shipments of wheat from the North-West are already very large, and millers are buying freely. The Oglivie Milling Co. express their intention of buying two and a half million bushels, and are taking in at the rate of 14,000 to 16,000 bushels per day. They have already shipped 200,000 bushles to Port Arthur by the Canadian Pacific Railway. At Port Arthur the wheat was taken on the steamers of the line, which have special facilities for loading grain, and carried them in to Owen Sound, whence it came forward by rail. Of the 400,000 bushels, 150,000 have come down to Montreal, and the company hope to ship out at least 400,000 bushels before navigation closes. The quality of the wheat has fortunately improved very much since the first receipts and is also much better cleaned. This latter point is one that farmers have neglected too much for their own advantage and one that will effect them greatly. The Toronto millers are said to be looking into the laws affecting the classification of wheat, so as to compel the farmers of the North-west to clean the grain thoroughly

Among Montreal merchants the opinion is expressed that the farmers are making a mistake in holding back for higher prices and consequently keeping business very quiet and dull. The crops this year were on an average double those of last year and farmers would get from a quarter to a third as much more than they did last year, and yet they were holding back in expectation of getting the same prices as last year, with double the quantity. If they were wise they would sell out quickly for the price they could get, and not wait till values went down, as they certainly will do.—Montreal Star.

The Queen and Her Servants.

A touching event took place one Sunday lately, indicating the interest taken by the Queen in the personal concerns of her servants at Balmoral. A young man the son of Mr. Thomson, the superintendent of roads and walks on the estate of Balmoral, died a few days before, and his remains were interred in the churchyard of Crathie on that Sunday afternoon. The Queen, who was accompanied by Princess Beatrice, left the castle in an open carriage at the hour appointed for the funeral, and took up a position on the east side of the grounds at a point where the cortege passed, and watched the solemn procession to the old kirkyard. Her Majesty sent a beautiful wreath to the parents of the deceased lad to be placed upon his coffin. A wreath was also sent by Princess Beatrice, and several smaller wreaths by the ladies of the household.

SCARED HALF TO DEATH.

Awful Experience on a Trestle Bridge Near Yale.

"Did you ever get scared half to death?" asked a man on the corner this afternoon. "No," replied one of a crowd of listeners. "Well, I did," replied the man, "and I'll tell you fellows how it happened. As you know, I came down from Yale last week. Some distance above that place there is a trestle bridge, over which the train runs. I have often crossed it by daylight, and know the place well. The bridge crosses a gulch about 50 feet deep, and on my way down to Yale last week I came to this bridge. It was quite dark at the time, but as I knew my way so well I had no hesitation in crossing. Just as I had got half way across I heard the train coming, and seeing I could not reach the other end, I left myself down under the stringers and hung by my hands as I have done a hundred times when a boy. Somehow my arms are not as strong as they used to be, and they ached long before the train came. In my haste I got into an uncomfortable position before it was necessary. Finally the locomotive struck the bridge and went thundering over my head. My hold was weakening every minute, and I soon realized that I could not hold on much longer. I believe that train was a mile long. The perspiration fairly streamed from me as I thought of the awful plunge I must soon make. Then my head reeled, and my nerveless fingers slipped from the stringer, and down I went—about six inches. They had been filling in the gulch with earth, intending to make an embankment there, and I had not noticed it in the darkness. If you fellows see any gray hairs in these auburn locks of mine you will know how they got there."—Victoria, B.C., Post.

Beau Nash and the Porter.

The celebrated Nash, being in a market town in the country, had occasion to employ a porter about some buisness, in which he blundered egregiously, and put Nash in a passion, who scolded him severely. "Zounds, sir," said the fellow unable to bear his reproaches any longer, "tell me what you'd have, and I'll get it for you." "Then get me, you puppy, a greater fool than yourself," said Nash. Away went the porter, and, meeting with the Mayor of the town, told him that Mr. Nash was at the inn and wanted to speak to him. Nash was greatly surprised when his Worship told him the reason of his visit, and, to excuse himself, fairly confessed what had passed between him and the porter, upon which, the Mayor set out in a passion, and immediately ordered the fellow to the stocks. As soon as Nash was informed of this, he repeated the lines in Pope.—

"Unhappy wit, like most mistaken things, Atones not for the mischief that it brings."

And then said he would go and comfort the poor fellow. When he came to the place where the delinquent was confined he thus consoled him: "Sirrah," said he, "being a poor man, what business have you with wit? It is an ingredient the rich cannot but manage to their disadvantage." And turning around to one of his friends, "My lord ——," says he, "has so much wit that he can never keep a guinea in his pocket; and Colonel ——, because of his wit, can never keep a friend. Wit is ever dealing in difficulties; you see it has brought this man to the stocks, who, if a fool, might have been mayor of the town and sent others here." Then giving the porter a guinea, he said, "There, friend, is something for you; now go home and study stupidity." "That I will, master," replied the fellow, "I'll study the whole corporation!"

A Horse Problem.

Color in regard to constitution is a problem which some casual students of horsebreeding are trying to solve. As usual in such cases, when the information vouchsafed by those who are in the position of knowing something is not submitted to the test of cross-examination, it is not reliable. For a long time all those who have been engaged in working horses have been of the opinion that brown horses lasted the longest, and were the best to withstand wear and tear. Bays and blacks were next fancied, then came animals of lighter shades of color. We have no good reasons for believing this, however for any single opinion on the subject expressed without reasons or facts is not reliable enough. We have known the oldest horses—horses that have done the hardest work in the centre of a Clydesdale district, where chestnut is despised—to be pure chestnuts, and the best and oldest horse of the opposition firm almost next door to be a pure black. There is danger, therefore, we say, in raising discussions on this subject without material. In fact some horsemen are color blind to all but bays and browns.—Live Stock Journal.

Striking Ohio Miners.

Columbus, Nov. 11.—The Governor to-day issued a proclamation to the citizens of the three counties in which depredations have occurred on account of the strike among the miners. He assures them if the disturbance continues it will be suppressed, if it requires the military force of the State.

THE BEST YET.

Maud S. Does Another Wonderful Performance—Her Best Record Lowered.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—The day at noon was warm and sunny, with the track in good order, and under the eye of her owner, Robert Bonner, Maud S. was sent down the track, for the Woodburn farm cup, to lower her record and beat the fastest time ever trotted.

After a little exercise trot around the track she came down under the string like a steady going tornado in horse hide. Every muscle was in perfect play. The speed was simply terrific. Bair signalled for the word. Bonner gave it with a nod and a gesture, and down the track she sped while a great crowd of turfmen and many ladies held their breath. A subdued hum of admiration rose spontaneously as she passed the first quarter in 32½ seconds, and sped on like a swallow without a break down the track toward the half mile post. This she reached in 1.04. Here she was joined by her running mate, and with a terrific burst of speed she flew along the home stretch. She left the third quarter behind in 1.37. Many enthusiastic turfmen declare the sight of the beautiful mare, skimming down the home stretch at the fastest speed ever attained by a trotter, the most beautiful sight they ever enjoyed. Everybody held his breath in admiration, and only caught it when the mare shot past the Grand Stand and under the string in 2 09½.

The cheer that then arose was deafening. The handsome reeking mare, gentle as a lamb, seemed to understand that it was meant for her, and with drooping head and nervously moving ears she received congratulations on every hand. Bair, her trainer and driver, was delighted. So was Mr. Bonner, who was the recipient of numerous congratulations on owing to the fastest trotter in the world.

The Woodburn farm, which offers the cup, is the one on which she was raised. This lowers her record a ½ second.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Board of Health.

A meeting of the Board of Health will be held on Friday evening. The meeting will be an important one, as the annual report will be presented.

Week of Prayer.

On account of the prayer meetings in the various churches there was no service held in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association last night. This evening the Rev. E. F. Torrence will conduct the meeting, the topic being "Two Choices—Which is Mine."

Attractive.

The window of the store of Messrs. Sailsbury, Bros., has attracted general attention during the afternoon. The objects of attraction are his large variety of Christmas cards which he has opened out to-day to the inspection of the public. The cards are indeed handsome and no doubt the sales will be numerous.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds, increasing to moderate gales in some places from the south-west and north-west; fair mild weather, with a few local showers.

Another Stock Sale.

Another stock sale took place at Stapleton's Repository on Wednesday afternoon. The stock offered for sale consisted of young well bred horses. They were raised by Mr. T. Bradburn on his various farms throughout the county and were produced by well bred horses. The bidding was lively and good prices were realized.

Extension.

We understand it is the intention of the Grand Trunk Railway Company to enlarge their present freight accommodation. The fifty foot shed at the south end of the freight department, and formerly used as a covering for the official car, will be added to the freight shed. This will give almost one quarter more room for freight.

An Old Resident Gone.

Another of the old settlers of Otonabee has been removed by the death of Mrs. Knox, who came from Scotland to that township in 1847 with her husband and family. She survived her husband fourteen years, but leaves two sons and a daughter married to Mr. William Drummond. She was much respected, and her loss is deeply regretted by all her neighbors.

A Valuable Span.

Mr. J. J. Daly, one of the proprietors of the Grand Central Hotel, recently purchased from Mr. M. McGregor, of Norwood, a very handsome span of horses to be used as an omnibus team. They are both iron grey, they weigh a little over twenty-seven hundred pounds, and stand sixteen hands high. The price paid was four hundred and fifty dollars.

Notorious Newbold.

A despatch from Detroit says that Nevielle alias Newbold, is on the Court calendar at Toledo for Friday. C. J. Whiting, of Detroit, and Attorney Moore were on Tuesday in consultation with the Prosecuting Attorney. It was decided to call the case on the 25th. A number of witnesses will be summoned from Toronto, Newark, N. J., and Detroit.

Adjourned.

The case of Queen vs. Ferguson, in which John Ferguson is charged with stealing a watch from Henry Noyes, was brought up before his Honor Judge Dennistoun this morning at eleven o'clock. As the prosecution was not ready to proceed, the case was adjourned until Tuesday, the 25th of November. The witnesses were bound over to appear on that day.

Our N.P. Parcel Express.

Messrs. Porter Bros. have built for the REVIEW Office a new delivery cart for carrying parcels and mail matter to and from this establishment. The rig is a handsome one, and at the same time strong, convenient and durable—the builders having made a special good job of it seeing it was for a good Tory newspaper office. On each side is painted in attractive shaded letters the word REVIEW, executed by the artistic brush of Mr. Watson. It will now be in order for other printing establishments to imitate the REVIEW as usual.

Our Wood Supply.

It seems as if our wood supply this season will not be, as it has been in former years, entire dependence on local production. Mr. H. Calcutt has brought from Rice Lake numerous scow loads of first class hardwood, and he intends to continue bringing the wood until navigation closes. But wood is coming into town through another channel. On Wednesday morning Mr. Aaron Cox received over the Grand Trunk Railway eighteen carloads of fine hardwood from Fenelon Falls. We understand that he intends, during the season, to introduce into the wood market in all about one hundred car loads. Other wood dealers are being supplied from various sources.

A Great Specialty.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large lot of handsome Wool Squares, Shawls, Jerseys, Nubias, Polka Jackets, Hoods, etc., being manufacturers samples, at about half price.

ANOTHER ARREST MADE.

Three of the Supposed Burglars Now in the Grip of the Law.

During Wednesday afternoon the police were on the watch for Robert Duncan, another of the alleged persons who committed some of the recent burglaries. This morning P. C. Pidgeon went to the home of the prisoner and made the arrest in a quiet way. Duncan says that he did not try to elude the police in any way, and when he heard of the matter he fully intended to give himself up. The arrest was made at 8 o'clock and the matter was brought before the Police Court at 10 o'clock.

The friends of Noble speak confidently of his innocence. He has been in several places of trust, and has always, so far as is known, acted honestly.

The lad Ferguson, who is also charged with having been an accomplice in the crime, is now in gaol on a charge of having stolen a watch from Henry Noyes.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting—Satisfactory Report —Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough St. Andrew's Society was held on Wednesday evening. There was a very good attendance.

Mr. C. CAMERON, Secretary, read his annual report, which showed the affairs of the Society to be in a flourishing condition. From the report we learn that at the commencement of the year there was a balance on hand of $166.88. During the year subscriptions were received from 108 ordinary members, and seven honorary members. In addition to that $8 was received from the church collection at the time of the annual sermon, and $3.90 for interest. The total receipts were $72.90; disbursements (charity), $57.13; balance on hand from the transactions of the year, $15.77; total balance on hand, $181.15. The membership fee was last year reduced from $1 to 50 cents, and considering this, together with the fact that every deserving case of charity was attended to, the result of the year's transactions is very satisfactory.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

PRESIDENT—Duncan McLeod.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—John Erskine.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—Melville Millar.
3RD VICE-PRESIDENT—Alex. Stewart.
CHAPLAIN—Rev. E. F. Torrance.
TREASURER—Thomas Menzies.
SECRETARY—William Cumming.
BARD—William Telford.
PHYSICIANS—J. T. J. Halliday, Duncan Fraser and R. W. Bell.
PIPER—Donald McDonald.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Town of Peterborough—D. D. Galletly, Peter Connal, Stewart Masson, John Logan, jr., Richard Hall, W. W. Johnston, John Patterson, Andrew Hewie, D. Fraser, M.D., Walter Paterson, jr., Geo. Noble, Jas. M. Masson, Archie Moffatt. County of Peterborough—W. E. Roxburgh, Norwood; John Breckenridge, Westwood; Joseph Tully, North Monaghan; Wm. Rutherford, South Monaghan; Charles Davidson, Smith; John Millar, Otonabee; David Rose, Dummer; Donald McFarlane, Keene. Ex-Officio—President and officers and all ex-Presidents.

POLICE COURT.

LARCENY.

THURSDAY, Nov. 13.—Two young men, Duncan and Noble, were charged this morning by Chief of Police Johnston with having, on or about the 27th day of September, feloniously taken, stolen and carried away a quantity of furs from the premises of Joseph Mills.

The prisoners pleaded not guilty.

Mr. C. W. SAWERS appeared for Duncan and Mr. R. E. Wood for Noble. The Counsel decided not to allow the case to be tried summarily.

Mr. C. A. WELLER, County Attorney, stated that he was not ready to proceed and asked an adjournment for one week.

Mr. R. E. WOOD requested the Magistrate to name the amount of bail necessary to allow the prisoners liberty during the intervening time.

The MAGISTRATE said that the charge, so far as he knew of it, was a serious one in its nature, and if the prisoners were guilty of it they were guilty of a serious crime. Therefore he did not feel disposed to take any bail.

The case was adjourned for one week.

Chit Chat.

—The weather

—Still continues fine.

—The construction of the new skating rink is being continued with unabated vigor.

—Large shipments of barley are being made daily over the Grand Trunk Railway to Albany, New York.

—It is probable that a new time table will be issued by the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk at an early date.

—The building belonging to Mr. Jas. Stevenson at the corner of George and Hunter streets is being tuck pointed.

Inquest at the Gaol.

On Wednesday morning at about 2 o'clock a man named Owen Dowling died at the county gaol. On the afternoon a jury was impanelled to investigate the case, Dr. Bell, coroner, presiding. The evidence of the galoler, turnkey, and several of the prisoners was taken. Dr. Kincaid, gaol surgeon, testified that the man was in a weak condition for some time past and the jury retured a verdict that the man came to his death from natural causes, namely paralysis. Owen Dowling was quite advanced in in age, being 78 years old. For the last eight years he has been a pauper, and has been several times committed for vagrancy. The old man has, during the last two years, been very infirm and has been a continual occupant of the gaol during that time. On Saturday morning he took sick and was take to the bed, out of which he did not rise again.

Another New Industry.

Gradually and steadily new industries are being added to the list of manufactories established in Peterborough, and the latest is one of considerable importance. Messrs. Porter Bros. & Gibson have commenced the manufacture of carriage tops at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets. This is an industry which has heretofore been confined principally to the larger cities, but the gentlemen who compose this firm believe that Peterborough is advantageously situated for such an establishment, and having the courage of their convictions, they have commenced the manufacture of these articles. Mr. A. Gibson, of the firm, has had considerable experience in the business in some of the leading factories in the Dominion, and he will personally supervise the work. Care will be taken in the selection of material, only the best being used, and their work will doubtless be of a first-class character. They have fitted up commodious premises for the factory, and we wish them success in the enterprise.

A DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Shakes the Earth for Many Miles Around —Narrow Escape of the Men.

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—A Toledo, Ohio, special says:—At 10.30 this morning Toledo was startled by a terrific shock, which shook the buildings and shattered glass, and created a panic in many of the schools. It was caused by the explosion of the nitro-glycerine factory and storehouse of A. J. Rummel & Co., of Toledo, located about four miles up the river outside the city limits. Five men were at work in the establishment at the time, and singular to relate, none were killed, but all more or less injured. There were 20,000 pounds of dynamite and 3,000 pounds of gunpowder stored in a magazine. Rummel & Co. lose about $10,000. No insurance. The damage throughout the city will amount to many hundreds of dollars. The result of the explosion in its vicinity was simply terrific. Large trees were twisted off the ground and torn up, and everything presents a deplorable scene. Windows were shattered in the House of Refuge near by. In Perrysburg, five miles distant, windows were broken, the school house walls cracked, blackboards thrown to the floor, and everybody rushed out of the building. The shock was felt at Detroit, and various Canadian towns across the lake, and even as far east as Cleveland. At each of these distant places it was supposed to be an earthquake shock.

Ladies! Do you realize the fact that you can buy Untrimmed Felt, or Velvet Hats at Turnbull's from 30cts. to $1.00 worth in the regular way from $1.25 to $2.50.

NEARLY CONCLUDED.

The Count in the Presidential Election —Three Counties to Hear From.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Tribune says the Democrats are now claiming a plurality in New York and Kings of 58,836. If this is sustained it would leave Cleveland a plurality of 1,112 in the State. It seems certain that the official count will diminish this, but how much cannot yet be known. None of the counties in the interior, from which the State and National Committees were led to expect corrections, seem so far to have made material changes. Ulster and Albany, especially, failed to confirm the reports on which Blaine's plurality had been increased. Nearly all the facts, therefore, showing what may be the probability of further important changes, are now in the hands of lawyers before New York and Kings County Boards. Precautions have been taken to prevent any tampering with the election returns or corrupting the inspectors of elections. Inspector Byrnes was present all the day in the chamber of aldermen and in the ante-room adjoining. He had a force of men in plain clothes in the chamber or vicinity. Whenever messengers were despatched for inspectors they were followed by some of Byrnes' men, and the actions of both noted. No suspicious actions were reported. Counsel who approached the canvassers while they were performing their work, or attempted to touch the returns, were promptly warned off. Members of the Republican National Committee say they have no idea of conceding Cleveland's election until entirely satisfied that Blaine has been honestly defeated.

NEW PARTY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Sun says some Independent Republicans talk about setting up a permanent party of their own. It also says that Chairman Jones has given up all personal hope of Blaine's election, and expresses the belief that the North will promptly pass under Southern rule. The treasury will be depleted to reimburse slaveholders for the loss of their slaves and to discharge the debt of Confederacy.

NEARLY FINISHED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Associated Press issues the following:—The vote of New York by counties gives Cleveland a plurality of 1,254 votes, in the case of six counties, however, where the canvassers adjourned owing to some technicality, and where the pluralities may be changed, unofficial figures are given. There is no material change in the majorities. Since yesterday Blaine has gained one vote in Columbia and two in St. Lawrence counties, and lost two votes in Schuyler, making a net gain of one vote. Cleveland has gained six votes in King, and lost ten in Oneida, making a net loss of four votes. This reduces Cleveland's plurality by five votes, making it now 1,264. Only three counties have not yet furnished the official result, Franklin, Greene, and New York.

AFTER THE SPOILS.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Thousands of applications are being prepared for places under Cleveland.

BELLEVILLE.

FIRE.—A frame house on Foster avenue, owned by Mr. Peter Merville, and occupied by Benj. Flagler, was totally destroyed by fire on Thursday morning about 3 o'clock. Flagler's children had a very narrow escape. The fire is supposed to have been caused by an overheated stove. Loss about $1,000, fully covered by insurance.

Bound, Gagged and Robbed.

MANSFIELD, Pa., Nov. 13.—Masked robbers entered the residence of Capt. Jno. Morrow last night, bound and gagged Mrs. Morrow and a lady friend named McCoy and secured $500 in cash and other valuables. Both ladies were terribly injured; Mrs. Morrow will probably die.

Earthquake in Essex County.

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—A shock of earthquake was felt in Colchester and Kingsville, Essex County, Ontario, this morning about ten o'clock. In the former place it was quite severe, and greatly alarmed the people of the village. In Kingsville the glass in a few windows was broken. It was also felt in Toledo, Ohio.

Friendish Ill-Temper.

MCPHERSON, Ks., Nov. 13.—August Tuxhorn, a farmer in this county, set fire to his house, barn, and granary, and blew out his brains with a shot gun. The buildings were destroyed with $4,000 in money in the house. He intended to murder his wife and four children, but his plans were frustrated by his wife. No cause is assigned except violent temper.

Must Stand by Their Signatures.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13. — This afternoon the Secretary of State received an answer from the Supreme Court to the question put by the Governor-General in council as to whether parties who signed the Scott Act petition had a right to withdraw their names or not. The court has decided that, there being neither fraud nor misrepresentation, the signers had no right to withdraw names.

Our N. P. Parcel Express.

Messrs. Porter Bros. have built for the REVIEW Office a new delivery cart for carrying parcels and mail matter to and from this establishment. The rig is a handsome one, and at the same time strong, convenient and durable—the builders having made a special good job of it seeing it was for a good Tory newspaper office. On each side is painted in attractive shaded letters the word REVIEW, executed by the artistic brush of Mr. Watson. It will now be in order for other printing establishments to imitate the REVIEW as usual.

A Processionist Shot.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Democrats of this city and vicinity celebrated the election of Cleveland and Hendricks to-night by a torchlight procession. While the procession was passing the negro quarters a coloured man standing on the sidewalk shot into the column, the bullet striking a torch bearer named Sullivan in the temple. A number of processionists charged on the crowd of colored men who surrounded their man and in the confusion the latter escaped but was afterwards captured by the police. Sullivan will die.

Coon Adventure.

John Downs, a well known game destroyer, had a hair breadth adventure with a coon in an Eramosa swamp on Monday. Mr. Downs armed with a stick, climbed a tree after a coon. On getting within reach he began prodding the animal with the sharp end of the stick. Not liking this treatment the coon dropped on to Mr. Downs' back and clung tenaciously to it. Mr. D. was forced to slide down the tree with unwelcome companion in rather close proximity. On reaching the ground Mr. Downs and his dog succeeded in dispatching the coon. It weighed nearly 35 pounds.—Guelph Herald.

Burglary of a Post-Office.

A gang of burglars broke into the frame post-office building at Watford about four o'clock on Thursday morning, and ransacked the furniture and contents. An explosive was used to effect an entrance to the safe, but the result was evidently far more violent than the perpetrators contemplated, for the heavy iron door was wrenched completely off, the contents of the room seriously damaged, and the windows of the building shattered. After securing a number of registered letters, etc., the rogues decamped, leaving their tools scattered about the floor.

Four Men Drowned.

KINGSTON, Nov. 13.—Yesterday a number of Wolfe Islanders went to Cape Vincent to witness the political demonstration. The skiff containing T. Horne, R. Rattray, W. Hamilton, and W. Watts left the Cape at one o'clock this morning to cross the American channel, and the boat and men have not been seen or heard of since. The impression prevails that the men perished in the gale which blew at the time. A skiff has been found at Carleton Island near Cape Vincent. One oar was found adrift, and this is regarded as placing the fact that the four men have been drowned beyond a doubt.

Star Route Frauds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—George Douglass, Assistant Attorney to the Department of Justice, who was detailed to take charge of the management of the Star route civil suits to-day, submitted a preliminary report, in which he says:—"Letters were addressed to the different District Attorneys, carefully explaining the character of the cases and requiring their prompt advices as to the practicability of successfully prosecuting cases in their respective districts. As their replies were received the cases were promptly taken up and the Post Office Department called upon for documents and data that each case required. The cases were then prepared and transmitted to the district attorneys with instructions for the prompt commencement of proceedings." Douglass says he has complied with the instructions of the Attorney-General to use the utmost diligence in these cases consistent with that degree of care and accuracy which their importance demands. Fifteen suits have been finally acted upon by the department, and instructions issued to the District Attorney to bring suit, which has already been done in two cases. One case has been referred to the Court of Claims. There are about fifteen cases still under consideration.

Telephonic Troubles.

A case of interest to the legal fraternity, and to the public generally, is now going on in Toronto, and was advanced a step on Monday of this week by the hearing of arguments before a Judge in Single Court. It appears that the Toronto Telephone Manufacturing Co., a Company with a capital of $2,500, desires to manufacture telephones which are presumably infringements on the Bell Telephone Company's patents, and in defence of its action declares that the Bell Campany's principal patent is void through non-compliance with Patent Act. The Bell Company is anxious to have this question finally disposed of in the usual manner by the courts, and the taking of evidence in the usual way, but the Toronto Company desires to bring its case before the Minister of Agriculture, which the Bell Company assert would not result in a proper trial of the question at issue as no sworn evidence could be received and the result, even if in favor of the Bell Company, would leave it still open to any other individuals to harass this Company in the same way, by suits of exactly the same character. Hence the novel application of the Bell Co. made on various grounds, to the Courts, to issue an order prohibiting the Minister of Agriculture acting as Commissioner of Patents from hearing the Toronto Company's application. The Bell Company was represented in Court by Messrs. McMichael, Q. C., H. Cameron, Q. C., Maclennan, Q. C., McCarthy, Q. C., Lash, Q. C., and S. G. Wood, and the Toronto Company by Messrs. Frank Arnoldi and J. R. Roaf.

HASTENING THE ADVANCE.

DONGOLA, Nov. 13.—General Wolseley left in a pinnace to-day to inspect the depots and hasten the advance of the troops.

SICKNESS AMONG THE TROOPS.

CAIRO, Nov. 13.—Dysentery prevails among General Wolseley's advance guard at Ral, and a mild form of small pox has made its appearance among the troops at Dongola.

HAVOC AMONG REBEL FORCES.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 13.—A Government clerk from Khartoum has arrived. He states that General Gordon has made frequent attacks upon the Mahdi's forces and has created fearful havoc among them. The Mahdi has ordered his troops not to kill General Gordon, but to take him prisoner, that he may be used as a hostage to secure the surrender of Arabi Pasha.

GORDON REPORTED DEAD.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—M. Ferry communicated despatches to the Cabinet this morning, from which it would appear that General Gordon was shot dead while passing from Khartoum to Berber.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Government believes M. Ferry's despatch about the death of General Gordon are a revival of the old rumors.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Lady Colin Cambell, who secured a legal seperation from her husband some months ago, has decided to bring a suit for absolute divorce.

THE FRENCH HARVEST.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Special reports of the harvest for the year show the following yield:—Wheat, 111,141,000 hectolitres, against 103,753,000 in 1883; rye, 25,847,000 hectolitres, against 24,842,000 in 1883.

BECHUANALAND.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The Government has ordered the formation of an irregular mounted force of 500 men for service in Bechuanaland.

THE THUNDERER GIVES ADVICE.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Times urges Canada to reduce the duty on sugar imports from the West Indies. Canada would thus open the West Indian market to her own products, such as corn, fish and timber, which she is able to export as cheaply, and in as large quantities, as the United States. It would also enable Canada to compete with America in sugar refining and other manufactures, by obtaining a cheap and plentiful supply of raw material. It rests with the Canadians themselves whether they will allow America to keep the monopoly of the West Indian trade.

THE FIRST READING.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—In the House of Lords this afternoon the Franchise Bill passed its first reading.

BRITISH DEFENCES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A blue book published shows that the Government has sanctioned an expenditure of £464,000 for the speedy manufacture of the latest patterns of breech loading ordinance, £417,000 for works and armaments of defence at Aden, Ceyloy, Singapore, Hong Kong, Simons Bay, Sierra Leone, St. Helena, Mauritius, Jamaica and St. Lucia.

DYNAMITE.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Six additional arrests were made to-day at Monteau-les-Mines in connection with the recent attempt to blow up the house of a mine foreman. A dynamite cartridge was exploded yesterday in the house of a mining engineer at Besseger, causing considerable damage to property, though no one was hurt.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—Allen, Vice-President of the Young Ireland Society, has been committed for trial.

GORDON HEARD FROM.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—This evening the Marquis of Hartington read a telegram from Gen. Gordon of the date of Aug. 26th, as follows:—"Khartoum has provisions for five months; shall send Stewart with the French and English consuls to relieve Dongola after destroying Berber." Lord Hartington then moved the question upon the appropriations for the army and naval expenses incurred in sending a force to Bechuana, and said the Government did not intend to diminish the available forces for the protection of Natal and Zululand. The navy credit for Egypt and the Poor Law Guardian Bill for Ireland were adopted. The Bechuana expedition starts from Capetown in six weeks. It is expected that Sir Stafford Northcote will next week move a vote of censure upon the Government's Egyptian policy. A belief still prevails that a compromise will be effected between the two Houses of Parliament, based upon the proposal that the House of Lords postpone the operation of the Franchise Bill.

SPREADING RAPIDLY.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Cholera seems to be spreading gradually throughout the city. Precautions of every kind are being taken. Many people have already left the city. A continuous string of vehicles filled with people are now in the streets leading to the railway stations. Physicians think that strong and healthy people need have small fear of being attacked. None of the attendants at the hospitals have been seized. Many consider the disease not contagious. The slums are being flushed with water and carbolic acid. Three cases have occurred at the police depot. The depot contains many prisoners. The rooms in which they are huddled together are extremely filthy, and reek with the foulest odors. They are now being cleansed and disinfected. Death from cholera has occurred in each of the outlying villages of Aubervilliers, Vichy, Boulogne, and Pantin. At Marseilles, three friars of the Ecole Chrentenne have died of cholera. It is reported that Austria will establish a sanitary cordon at the frontier.

Negroes Accused of Incendiarism.

EUFAULA, Ala., Nov. 13.—The fire which destroyed $100,000 worth of property here yesterday is believed to have been started by negroes, who think the whites intended to put them back into slavery. This was the fourth incendiary fire here within a week.

I have seen a great many cases cured with Shaker Blood Syrup—some who have tried all sorts of treatment. In fact, I have never known it to fail when taken properly. I sell a large quantity of it, and for all diseases that are dependant on blood poison or skin humor. It cures PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES ON THE SKIN, and the makes complexion fair and rosy. As for blood taint, there is no such word as fail. PETERBOROUGH BELIED.

THE Toronto Globe after various unsuccessful attempts in its editorial columns to prove us in the wrong by falsifying our words, is now trying its luck in its correspondence department. In its issue of Thursday, Nov. 13th, it has the following letter :—

"SIR,—I see that the Peterborough REVIEW claims business as booming in Peterborough. I have as a traveller done business in Peterborough for over six years. I was in Peterborough during last week, and I never heard such complaints from business men in that town before, merchants and manufacturers. I never left the town with as few orders, fully 50 per cent. less than the same season before, and I heard some complaints in several other lines.

TRAVELLER.

Toronto, Nov. 10th.

This precious production evidently has its origin in one of two sources. It may have been concocted in the editorial rooms of the Globe, which certainly would not be deterred from such a fraud by any consideration for honesty. Or it may be the work of a disappointed traveller, so incompetent himself, or the agent of so inferior a house that he was unsuccessful in pushing their goods, and therefore bewails these shortcomings under the cowardly shelter of a nom-de-plume.

We have in our own business a number of travellers call upon us, and we are brought in contact with many in other lines. From one and all we hear the same story, that their connections with Peterborough are most satisfactory, and that our town gives every evidence of prosperity. And this is in spite of the fact that there is an extraordinary number of commercial travellers visiting our town. For instance on the very day this mendacious letter appeared, we were informed by the representative of an institution of the highest standing, that he could not find room the previous night at our largest hotel, so crowded was it with commercial travellers. In conversation with them he heard from them the same story of the satisfactory business in Peterborough. Of course with such competition incapable agents or inferior houses will have a poor chance, and may vent upon our good town their spleen at their natural want of success.

Whether the Globe obtained this letter from some such croaker, or whether it fabricated itself, its publication affords another instance of the little regard of the Globe for the truth, and of its bad habit of running down its own country since it has committed the mortal offence of choosing Conservative rulers.

CORRUPT REFORMERS.

FOLLOWING rapidly upon the heels of their corrupt exploits in East Simcoe and East Middlesex we have new revelations of "Reform" corruption in Lennox. The blatant howlers against asserted corruption in others, the loud-mouth utterers of Pharasaic claims to purity, have again been shown in their true colours before one of our courts of law. Mr. Allison, the Reform candidate for Lennox, has had his election declared void for general and systematic corruption by his agents. Arrangements were proved to have been made for the almost open employment of a "drover," who was conducted around the constituency under the charge of leading Reformers, in order to purchase "cattle," the Reform name for Canadian electors. His appointed pilot was instructed not to recognize him, nor to keep within hearing while the "drover" was bargaining but it was the avowed understanding that there was to be wholesale bribery.

Mr. Blake was not dilatory in owning that the seat was lost, but this haste to close the case and check further revelations was unsuccessful, since the charges of personal corruption against Mr. Allison were still pressed.

These exposures of the grossest and most deliberate corruption among Reformers are so common as to attract too little attention, but to those who are not swayed by prejudice they inspire contempt for such combined hypocrisy and corruption in these self-styled Reformers, who are constantly reviling more honest men for faults that they themselves commit without compunction.

Protecting Rev. Mr. Chiniquy.

Rev. Mr. Cruchet, pastor of L'Eglise du Sauveur, has written to Mayor Beaudry asking for police protection for Rev. Mr. Chiniquy, who preaches to-night. His Worship immediately issued orders that an ample number of men be sent to the scene to enforce order. The necessary arrangements have been made by Chief Paradis, who will attend in person. The Chairman of the Police Committee has instructed the Chief to afford the evangelist the fullest protection, at the same time stating that the most rigorous steps will have to be taken in order to prevent a repetition of the disgraceful disturbances.—Montreal Star, Nov. 12.

An Unmusical Ear.

"My dear, I wish you would tell the servant to stop moving the furniture around in the parlor. I'm sure she has broken some of the vases and Sevres ware." "I hear no noise, Cristopher." "There! She has dropped the clock! I heard the shade smash." "Why, Chistopher, how silly you are! That's not the servant moving the furniture; it's Birdie practising a Wagnerian sonata."

PREPARED FOR AN EMERGENCY.

Twelve Policemen Escort Toronto Students to Their Homes.

College students have given considerable trouble in Toronto lately. One night, when singing along the street, one of their number was arrested and another received a severe blow from a policeman's baton. On Hallowe'en they frightened almost the whole city by firing cannons. The following from the World tells how they are watched now when they congregate :—A force of about twenty policemen, some of them in plain clothes and armed with stout sticks, were detailed on Wednesday night to meet the meds., after their dinner at the Rossin house, and see that order was maintained in the streets. About seventy of the students filed into King street at 2 o'clock on Thursday morning. An order was given to fall in four deep was given, and the party was about to start up an anthem. Two big policemen in plain clothes shot through the ranks and disorganized the column. A start was then made in irregular file towards Yonge street, but no further attempt at singing was made. At Yonge and King streets some ten policemen distributed themselves among and in rear of the party. To the tunes of Captain Jinks and John Brown's Body the students wended their way northward through Yonge street. At Queen street half the policemen dropped off, as it was evident there would be no disturbance. At Gerrard and Yonge streets the party broke up. Half a dozen students lingered on the corner, and soon got the command to "move on." One tall young fellow did not seem in a hurry to go, and an officer gave the young man a shove which brought the young man to his knees in a hurry. He picked himself up and moved off westward on Gerrard. This was about the only tilt that occurred on the march. At 2.30 Yonge street was entirely destitute of students.

WALKING ON THE WATER.

A Yarn from Kingston of a Practical Joke Played by a Lad.

A ludicrous incident occurred on Sydenham Lake, near Mace's Point, a few days ago. A young lad by the name of Barnes, who is an employee of Mr. A. Bond, of Inverary, and a confirmed practical joker, started in a boat with the ostensible purpose of crossing the lake. When a few rods from the shore he purposely capsized the boat, and, clinging to it, cried loudly for help. A number of persons at attracted by the young scamp's cries rushed to the rescue. Several plunged boldly into the water and swam towarks the apparently fast sinking lad. Imagine their astonishment to see the young fellow get up on his feet and deliberately walk over the surface of the water to the opposite side of the bay so as to be as far as possiole from the crowd, while he made the air ring with his selfish laughter to the discomfiture of his would-be rescuers. He apparently felt amply recompensed for his ducking by the gratification afforded him by the similar perdicament in which his mischievousness had placed them. As soon as he reached terra firma he started on a run for the village, followed by the most blood-curdling expletives which the English language affords, from the victims of his deviltry. The seeming phenomenon of the lad being able to walk is explained by the fact that he had on a pair of his employer's boots secured in such a manner that the water could not enter them. The weight of the volume of water displaced by the boots being equal to the weight displacing it enabled the young vagabond to walk with impunity over the bosom of the deep.—News' Cor.

A GOLCONDA.

Immense Deposit of Silver Taken from the Silver Mountain Mine.

The excitement occasioned by the remarkably rich find of silver on the mountain which now bears the name of the precious metal, is without doubt unparalleled in the history of Canada. And no wonder! The deposit is not to be compared with any other discovery in the Dominion, and the most ambitious prospector could wish for no better indications than those shown at the now famous Silver Mountain. The vein, which runs through the hill with a regular precision, shows throughout a heavy and valuable deposit of silver upon the surface, and when it is stated that Captain John Trethewey this week dislodged in a single day over a thousand dollars worth of metal some idea may be gained of the worth of it. The ore thus obtained was brought into town a couple of days ago and is now lying at the Captain's house. It has been seen by a number of mining experts who declare it to be the richest show of silver ever secured in one day. On Wednesday both Captain John and Captain Richard Trethewey left town for the mine. A new road to the mountain is being cut and arrangements are being made to commence an immediate and thorough development of the vein. At present there is only one small hut erected on the spot, but it is the intention to commence the construction of a large boarding house for the miners at once.—Port Arthur Herald.

NORWOOD.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—The wife of Mr. Hendren, of this village, met with a serious accident while driving home from Hastings on Thursday. It appears that in getting out of the vehicle a portion of her clothing caught on one of the wheels, causing her to fall heavily on the frozen ground. At first she supposed she had escaped without serious injury, but on examination it was found that her left arm was severely sprained. The pain from this is almost unbearable and it is feared that the injured member will have to be amputated.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—On Saturday night the report was current around the village that one of the Newall boys had been shot dead by a man named Linton. P. C. Hill, on visiting the scene of the supposed murder, for the purpose of arresting Linton, ascertained that Newall had not been shot dead as reported, but had only received a "close call," the bullet having ploughed a gash three or four inches in length above his left ear. Linton, however, was brought to town and lodged in the lock-up. It appears that Newall visited Linton's and demanded admittance, and on being refused, tried to force an entrance. Not succeeding in this he produced a revolver and fired several shots through the door. Linton thought that this was carrying it a little too far, and arming himself with a revolver went to the door and requested Newall to take his departure. Newall paid no attention to this request but still persisted in his attempts to break in the door. Linton thereupon opened the door and shot Newall, the bullet taking effect above the left ear as above described. On Sunday Linton was released, the magistrates not thinking it necessary to detain him. On Monday Newall refused to prosecute and the matter dropped.—Register.

CAMPBELLFORD.

BOOMING.—Mr. Smith's flouring mill is in constant motion, and as he says "booming." The machinery is kept moving day and night, grinding the grists which are constantly pouring in. It is work, sleep and eat with the millers.

ANOTHER RIB BROKEN.—Mr. Moses Stephens, a resident of Seymour, near the confine of Campbellford, fell against the end of a plank while he was busy at work at his home one day last week, and broke one of his ribs. The fracture produced a stinging sensation, but did not prevent him from moving about. Mr. S. met with a similar accident some years ago.—Herald.

An Important Capture.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 13.—On the information of a carter, who had carried a number of trunks for his brother-in-law from Toronto to Hamilton, the police made an important capture early this morning. A man had hired the carter to bring the trunks to this city, but the latter being suspicious, notified the police, and the stuff was seized. It was found to be over $1,000 worth of watches, jewellery, furs and silks, supposed to have been stolen in Toronto. The Chief of Police has gone to Hamilton to investigate.

THE IMPORTANCE OF A SUPPLY OF WOOD.

No one who is at all familiar with forests and their products, needs to be reminded of the importance of having at hand an abundance of wood of various kinds, or how much it contributes to the general welfare and happiness of a nation. But there are those who have not paid much attention to this subject who claim, and no doubt honestly believe, that the great progress made of late years in the use of iron in the place of wood in building houses, bridges, piers, ships and other structures, are but indications of what is to follow and that in few years there will be no great demand for wood.

The building of railroads which reach almost every part of the country has aided in the distribution of coal, and made this in a great measure a more convenient and in many instances a cheaper fuel than wood, but in building these roads a vast quantity of wood has been used, and of the best kinds, not only for ties, of which nearly or quite three thousand are put down per mile, but on many of the roads wood is still used for fuel. There is now nearly or quite one hundred thousand miles of railroads in the United States, and we have only to multiply this by three thousand to ascertain that three hundred millions of ties have been used in their construction, leaving out of account the thousands of wooden bridges and other structures, in the building of which more or less wood has been consumed. The railroads may have assisted very materially in checking the consumption of wood for fuel, but they have probably more than balanced the account in the amount used in their construction, besides the three hundred million of ties must be duplicated every ten years, for the average life of railroad ties will scarcely exceed a decade, and with nearly all kinds, except the best oak, it is a year or two less.

The demand for railroad ties is not likely to decrease, but increase, although as timber becomes scarce and prices advance, preserving processes will doubtless be employed to prevent rapid decay. Stone, brick and iron will also come into more general use for buildings, but the increase in population will also tend to increase the demand for wood for other purposes besides that of buildings.—American Agriculturist.

What Part of a Car is Safest?

"The middle car of the train is the safest," said the conductor, "because it is the furthest removed from a collission either in front or behind. Even if the engine plunges into an open draw-bridge it might not take more than a car with it. Coupling would be likely to break, you know. Always sit in the middle of the car, because when cars telescope they are apt to telescope many feet. As you can't tell which end will telescope, and as both ends will telescope, take to the middle. Whatever car you go in sit on the right hand side of the car, which is to say, the side furthest from the other track, because it sometimes happens that freight projects too far beyond a flat car and rips the windows out of passing trains."

"Do railroad men observe all these precautions when they ride?"

"They take no precautions at all. Those that I have mentioned are sensible, but you can't always sit where you like, and there are plenty of people unlucky enough to be killed wherever they sit. Railroad men never consider the possibility of accidents. They could got be railroad men if they did."—New York Sun.

GOD BLESS THE FARM.

God bless the farm—the dear old farm,
God bless its every rood!
Where willing hearts and sturdy arms
Can earn an honest livelihood—
Can from the coarse and fertile soil
Win back a recompense for toil!

God bless each meadow, field and nook,
Begemmed with fairest flowers;
And every leaf that's gently shook
By evening breeze or morning showers—
God bless them all—each leaf's a gem
In Nature's gorgeous diadem.

The orchards that, in early spring,
Blush rich in fragrant flowers,
And with each autumn surely bring
Their wealth of fruit in golden showers,
Like pomegranates on Aaron's rod—
A miracle from Nature's God.

And may He bless the farmer's home,
Where peace and plenty reign;
No happier spot 'neath Heaven's high dome
Does this broad, beauteous earth contain,
Than where, secure from care or strife
The farmer spends his peaceful life.

Unvexed by toil and tricks for gain,
He turns the fertile mould;
Then scatters on the golden grain,
And reaps reward a hundred fold—
He dwells where grace and beauty charm,
For God hath blessed his home and farm!

GATHERING APPLES.

Apples, and in fact all fruits, should be gathered as soon as they are ripe. Better two days too soon than a day too late. Yet fruit is not to be gathered when green; the trees and vines must be watched closely, and, as soon as ripening is completed, the fruit taken off. After fruit has once ripened, every day it is left on the tree or vine lessens its keeping quality. This is eminently true of apples. No other fruit keeps so well as the winter apple, yet carelessness surely reduces the time of preservation of any other fruit.

It would seem needless to say anything about care in handling. Every farmer and fruit grower surely knows that a bruise is easily given, especially if the apple is ripe, and that the bruised apple is sure to rot. Yet not a few are careless in handling the fruit. It is remarkable how many sin in this direction. Whether the fruit is for market when gathered, or the next spring, or to be stored for home consumption, it is but right to handle it so carefully that bruises will be avoided.

If it is necessary to climb up in the tree, remove the boots before doing so. The injury to the bark may not be at once apparent, but you cannot climb about a tree with heavy boots or shoes on your feet without injuring the tree. An old pair of rubber boots or over-shoes will protect your feet and occasion no injury to the tree.

The old arrangement of a sack tied about the neck and shoulders seems to be the best that can be devised, though it is dangerous. If a pointed stick is inserted in the mouth of the sack to keep it open it will be found a great help. A high trestle that will just pass under the lower limbs will enable you to gather all the apples from almost half of the tree. A long, light ladder is required to reach the high, outside branches.

As the apples are gathered put them in piles in the orchard if you do not desire to have stock in the enclosure. Otherwise, put them in some cool, airy, dry shed. Apples should not be put in the cellar or pit as soon as gathered. If put in piles in the orchard cover with boards to ward off the rain. Do not use any straw about them; the straw will imbibe moisture and hasten the decay of the apples.

Leave in the orchard or under the shed, as the case may be, till there is danger of their freezing if left out of the cellar or pit. The longer you can leave them in the place where they are stowed when gathered, the better.

When put in heaps after gathering, apples go through a sweat; while in this sweat they should not be disturbed.

It will save many bruises to tack several thickness of old cloth in the buckets or measures used in handling the apples.—Exchange.

BETTER BUTTER.

The statement which appeared on Monday, that a Brockville dealer had sent out word to his buyers to offer lower prices for butter, shows the necessity for makers to take the utmost care to keep the quality up to the highest possible standard in order that they may command the best market price. We are glad to know that Brockville butter bears an excellent reputation, but there is no question that a great deal yet remains to be done in the way of improvement. Some of our readers may have heard of Cork butter, which is a favorite brand in the English market, and commands 140s. per 112 lbs., while the best Canadian sells for 100s. We may not be able to reach such a high standard, but we can aim at it. How such a standard has been reached, with what scrupulous care the food of cows, the very soil on which they graze, the position of the factory, are each chosen, is illustrated in the description of a Cork factory recently published.

"The first care," says the narrator, "is with regard to selecting for preserving, for which purpose the butter must be the produce of land not over rich. That of good, sound, stiff land, has the best keeping qualities, and in no one part of the world, we believe, can there be found a district more suitable, both in climate and the character of its pastures, for making such a product than the district from which the supplies for this factory are drawn." Next as to manipulation, the butter has to be thoroughly freed from milk, but this must be done without overhandling or too much working, which would injure the grain. "It is in this process, and in the packing into tins, that the system and appliances are most perfect. The butter is by them made to form one solid, homogeneous body, completely filling the tins—without crevices, and it is of uniform make, color, and body throughout. The tin plates used are the very finest charcoal plates, costing more than double the price at which inferior tin could be purchased. These insure a perfect coating of tin inside the can, so that at no part shall the iron come into contact with the butter. To such particularity is this carried out that even the cut edges of the cars are re-tinned after the can is formed and before filling it with butter. It is then hermetically closed, with only one seam at the closing edge, thus giving the greatest security from leakage or or air holes."

Our dairymen have learned that in the manufacture of cheese too much attention cannot be paid to the minutest details. Let them carry their experience into the manufacture of butter, and there is no reason why the quality of that product from Leeds and Grenville should not approximate the Cork article.—Brockville Recorder.

A FEW drops of ammonia will be effectual in removing grease from the dish-pan, and it is a good plan once in a while to add a little to the water used to cleanse the sink.

To tell when meat is cooked, says Miss Parloa, don't put in your fork, for that spoils the meat. Press it with the back of the fork or a spoon, and if it is spongy it is not sufficiently done.

TOMATOES, in addition to their excellent esculent qualities, possesses the virtue of removing stains of ink, wine and fruit from linen. The stain must be dipped in pure tomato juice, which must be let dry on. If the first application does not answer, try a second or third.

A REMEDY for neuralgia, and one said to give permanent relief, is a well-roasted apple, separated from rind and core, mixed with some strong tobacco. The mixture is laid between two folds of thin linen and applied hot, at night, to the part affected. It should remain on six or seven hours.

To thoroughly clean silk, lay it on a clean deal table, and following the grain of the silk wash it with a thin lather of soft soap and rain water. Rinse it frequently in cold, hard water, and roll in a cloth to dry. On the following day sponge with sour stout, and iron it while wet, having a thin cloth interposed between the silk and iron.

AN ELEGANT CUSHION.—Make a square cushion, the top of which shall be one-half plush and the other half satin. These pieces are sewed together diagonally across. The under portion may be of silesia. The whole is to be stuffed with cork shavings, procurable at any fruit dealer's, and finished with a satin plaiting round the edge. The satin slip for this plaiting must be cut about three inches wide, fringed out on both sides, and plaited in double box plaits through the centre. On the satin corner of the cushion can be placed a pretty bow of the ribbon; or, if you like, you can transfer some pretty design to the satin portion, but this must, of course, be done before the whole is made up.

MACARONI SOUP.—Boil together the bones and stuffing of a roast chicken and a steak bone, with half an onion and a bit of red pepper. The next day take off all the fat and put the stock on to heat. When it boils, add salt to taste and two sticks of macaroni, broken in short bits and soaked an hour in tepid water. Grate into the soup one good-sized potato, half a small turnip, half a carrot. Boil well, and add a dessert-spoonful of Harvey's sauce.

Freaks of Electricity.

The fouling of a telephone wire of the Bell Telephone Company with an electric light cable on Monday afternoon produced a strange effect. The telephone of Messrs. J. B. Rolland & Sons being on the circuit in question, the bell attached to the instrument began to ring in a muffled sort of way, the summons being quickly responded to. The clerk who answered the call was surprised to see a volley of sparks follow his attempt to turn the handle. At Messrs. Benny, Macpherson & Co.'s the same stroke did not produce such a strange disturbance, but the telephone box caught fire. An attempt to ring the bell produced a similar effect to that noticed in the other case. The employes of both establishments were completely at a loss at first to account for the singular occurance.—Montreal Star.

TRADE WITH THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

The following letter appears in the Quebec Chronicle:

SIR,—A glance at the statement of shipments of lumber from the St. Lawrence to the ports of the Argentine Republic for the past season, will, I doubt not, prove interesting to all that have at heart the development of Canada's foreign trade.

On reading over the statement above alluded to, one must necessarily be struck with the immense increase in value of the exports of lumber over the preceding years, but while acknowledging with pleasure this fact we have also deeply to regret that our enterprising manufacturers have as yet taken no steps whatever towards introducing the results of their labour to the markets of this fast growing and progressive Republic. The port of New York alone exported to the country referred to, during the past year, $4,000,000 worth of manufactured goods, nearly all of which are produced in this country. These consisted mainly of agricultural implements, edge tools, machinery of all kinds, barb-wire, fencing, nails, tacks, boots, shoes, prints, twillings, shirtings, preserves of different kinds, canned goods, and an infinity of other articles, most of which are manufactured or to be found in Canada. The question must therefore present itself: Why does Canada not participate in this important export trade?

The Argentine Republic is one of the most prosperous countries of the day; its exports and imports are immensely on the increase. New harbors are being opened; new cities built; railway lines traverse the country in all directions; ships of all nations crowd its ports and a steady tide of immigration is fast peopling the country. Seven hundred large steamships visited its capital, Buenos Ayres, during the past year,—in a word everything in and about the country proclaims activity, energy, and a spirit of progress hardly appreciable to anyone unfamiliar with this favored country.

It therefore behooves our Canadian manufacturers to at once take the necessary steps towards introducing their wares in this Republic, which in a very short time will be made a large and valuable consumer. All information regarding the cost of transportation, duties, etc., etc., can be obtained at any of the Consulates of the Republic in the Dominion, and I shall be more than pleased to give not only all the information in my power, but will also personally assist by every possible means the favorable introduction of any of Canada's products, and the development of a trade in manufactured goods between the two countries.

With many apologies for trespassing so much on the space of your much-read paper, and thanking you sincerely for the previlege accorded me.

I have the honor to remain,
Sir,
Your obd't servt.,
J. ARTHUR MAGUIRE,
Consul-General of the Argeutine Republic in Canada, etc.

Quebec, October 31st, 1884.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Mr. B. J. Throop, representative of the Bell Telephone Company, was in town this week.

Mr. A. S. Marchand, Travelling Passenger Agent of the Canada Pacific Railway, is at the Grand Central Hotel.

Week of Prayer.

A devotional exercise was held in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms on Thursday evening. The topic was, "Two choices—which is mine." The Rev. E. F. Torrance conducted the service. This evening the Rev. I. Tovell will conduct the service. The topic will be "The Apostles choice and the Lords promise."

Our Local Talent.

The Port Hope Guide, in speaking of a concert given in the town hall, Millbrook, on Thanksgiving Day, says :—

"Solos were sung by Miss Annie Howden, of Millbrook, and Miss Cottingham, of Peterborough. This was Miss Cottingham's first appearance before a Millbrook audience, and judging from the loud applause her fine singing was appreciated. She has a rich contralto voice of great compass, and her several solos were well rendered."

The Benefit Sale, now going on at Turnbull's, should be attended by all who want a Bargain in Milljnery.

Port Hope Wants Some.

The following paragraph is from the Port Hope Times :—

"Electric lights to burn all night are offered to Peterborough for 50c. a night. This is very cheap, and we would like to see the Peterborough company take hold of Port Hope. We have no doubt most of our merchants would become subscribers if a good cheap light was offered, and a number of lights on Walton street would enliven the appearance of the town. Mayor Hugel should communicate with the officials of this company, which is furnishing a good light at a very low price."

Law Association.

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Law Association recently held in the law library on Water street the following officers were elected :—

PRESIDENT,—C. A. Weller.
VICE-PRESIDENT,—D. W. Dumble.
SECRETARY-TREASURER,—E. B. Edwards.
TRUSTEES,—A. P. Poussette and W. H. Moore.

The annual report was presented, showing that the affairs of the Association were in a very satisfactory state.

A Short Runaway.

Shortly after twelve o'clock to-day a span of horses attached to a load of lumber, and belonging to Mr. John Hooton, of the township of Cavan, were driven into the shed of Snowden's Hotel. Mr. Hooton had scarcely dropped the lines when the team backed out of the shed, ran towards the gate of the yard, and sped wrstward along Simcoe street. At the intersection of Aylmer street the horses veered toward the south side of Simcoe, crossed the sidewalk, and were caught between the sidewalk, which is somewhat raised, and a board fence. The horses were extricated from their pent up position.

First Annual Dinner.

The first annual dinner of the Peterborough Law Association was held at Chamberlain's Hotel and Restaurant on Thursday evening. Mr. C. A. Weller, President, occupied the chair, and Mr. D. W. Dumble occupied the vice chair. The gathering was essentially a social one. The lawyers, to the number of about fifteen, sat down around the board and indulged in the delectable viands furnished by mine host Chamberlain, and enjoyed pleasant conversation until the evening had slid into night. All formalities were dispensed with and the dinner was thoroughly enjoyed by those who were present.

The Poultry Association.

The annual meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Association was held on Thursday evening in the office of Mr. Wm. Cumming. The financial statement was presented, which showed a surplus and that the Association was in a good financial state. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year :—

PRESIDENT—John McClelland.
VICE-PRESIDENT—Thos. E. Bell.
SECRETARY-TREASURER—Joseph McClelland.
DIRECTORS—J. R. Cobb, J. Dormer, D. Mason, M. O'Brien, N. Lush, R. Meade, Wm. Logan and H. J. Baubes.

A vote of thanks was passed for the retiring officers and to the secretary, and the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the President.

Evening Entertainment.

An evening entertainment was held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the ladies of Ashburnham connected with St. Peter's Cathedral. The entertainment was opened by a short concert, in which Messrs. F. Clarke, D. Donoghue, H. Neil, and Meyers. Simons and Wallbrook took part. The performers were all well received. Mr. H. Neil's character stump speech was particularly amusing. After the concert an oyster supper was held in the same place. The attendance was large, and the people all seemed to be well pleased with the manner in which the evening was spent. The financial part was very satisfactory, and the amount realized will be applied to the Building Fund of St. Peter's Cathedral.

A Pointer to Business Men.

Dinner will be served for business men from 12.30 to 2.30 every day at Faucher's Restaurant and Bodega.

A Great Specialty.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large lot of handsome Wool Squares, Shawls, Jerseys, Nubias, Polka Jackets, Hoods, etc., being manufacturers samples, at about half price.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows :—Moderate winds, fine weather, not much change in temperature.

How it is Done.

It may be interesting to subscribers to know that the binding of Picturesque Canada has already commenced in the REVIEW Bookbindery. Various styles are chosen by subscribers. We have two new embossed designs in gold leaf for the sides, both of which are very handsome and appropriate for the work. Morocco or Calf is generally selected, the favorite colors being black, dark brown, dark red, dark blue, and dark green, either of which produce very striking effects. Parties anxious to have their volumes bound within a limited period should send in their books now, to give the binders time to finish the work properly.

The First Pole.

Although the resolution authorizing the Electric Light Company to place lamps on George street was passed on Monday night, still the work of erecting the poles for the lamps has already been begun. This afternoon workmen are engaged in putting up the first pole opposite the Post Office on George street, and in a few days more the six lights ordered by the Council will be in operation. The poles are of cedar in an octagon shape and painted white. At the top an iron bar runs out to the distance of twelve feet from the pole, and on the east end of the bar there is a pulley. A wire cable runs through these pulleys and as the lamp hangs at the extreme end of the bar, it is lowered or raised at the convenience of the operator by a crank and ratchet placed in a box attached to the pole at a distance of about four and half feet from the ground. The poles cost about $20 apiece, and were constructed by the electricians in the employ of the Company. They are unique, and are pronounced to be superior to those used in Toronto, both in appearance and utility. A lamp will be suspended from this pole to-night or to-morrow night.

Chit Chat.

—It is now the season for gardeners to clothe the shrubs and garden plants in their winter garb.

—House moving is also in order at this season.

—Mr. J. Simons, Travelling Passenger Agent for the Grand Trunk Railway, was in town yesterday.

A Public Benefit.

Habiliment Hall has, since its establishment in Peterborough, proved to be in very many instances a public benefit, inasmuch as you can purchase everything that is needful in the gents' furnishing line at all seasons of the year, without running from store to store for your wants. The trade of this house has been steadily growing, until now it has assumed very large proportions. The tailoring department is under the sole supervision of Mr. Andrew McNeil, who has had years of experience, and no work is turned out that is not first class in every respect. The same care is bestowed upon cheap and costly suits alike, and the verdict of the patrons of Habiliment Hall is that the cut and fit—which is a good deal—are both A 1. At the present time the store is exceedingly well stocked with gents' plain and fancy underwear in profusion. There is also displayed a splendid assortment of Cardigan jackets, all wool mufflers, silk mufflers, winter hose, ties, gloves, etc., etc., in varieties and styles to suit everybody. Mr. McNeil has spared neither pains nor money to make an unusually attractive and elaborate display for the holiday trade. A look through the store will repay one, and is almost invariably the means of tempting you to open the "money bag" and buy freely. The motto of Habiliment Hall is "First, be sure you're right, then go ahead!" and in buying the present stock for the winter months the proprietor felt that he was right in considering the wants of all, and consequently the store will be found literally crammed with everything that a purchasing public may require. A. McNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street.

Turnbull having bought at a big sacrifice a Wholesale Agent's entire stock of Hats and Bonnets in every conceivable shape, is prepared to sell Millinery at Unheard of Prices.

AN EVENTFUL PASSAGE.

Outbreak of Smallpox on an Ocean Steamship—Mutiny of Cattlemen.

QUEBEC, Nov. 13.—The steamship Scotland, Capt. Luckhurst, from London, just arrived in our port, had quite an eventful passage. She left London the end of last week, with a general cargo, for Quebec and Montreal, and five passengers. Among the hands on board were eighteen cattlemen. After the ship had been a few days at sea one of these men was taken down with smallpox, but of a modified form. The captain of the ship promptly had him isolated, and one of his companions was told off to wait upon him. Fortunately the disease did not spread, and the man and his attendant have been landed at the quarantine station at Grosse Isle, where the ship was twice thoroughly fumigated, and the clothing burned. On arrival here the vessel was promptly boarded by the port physician, Dr. Rowand, who, after inspection and ordering another fumigation of the ship, allowed her to proceed on to her destination at Montreal. No one, however, was permitted to land here.

Some days ago the cattlemen became mutinous and broke into the mess and store rooms, appropriated the liquors, and created a high old racket generally. Their insubordination was, however, of short duration, as six of the ringleaders were promptly placed in irons, and they will now have to face the Montreal justice for their mutinous proceedings on the high seas.

Cholera And Rags

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Secretary McCulloch to-day received a petition in regard to the importation of old rags from European ports, signed by a number of New York physicans, urging immediate decisive action, owing to the danger of introducing Asiatic cholera through their unrestricted importation. The secretary said he was fully alive to the grave responsibility resting upon him, and proposed to do what seemed to be for the best interest of all concerned.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

SATURDAY, Nov. 15. — Alfred Baker was charged by Charles McGinnity with having been drunk in a public place. The prisoner pleaded guilty, urged the first offence plea, and told the old, old story of having gone with a friend to take a quiet glass, but took one too many and was overcome.

The Magistrate said, considering that it was his first offence, and that as he was not raising a disturbance, he would allow him to go, but that if he ever appeared again he would receive different treatment. He admonished him to abstain from the "quiet glass."

OUR TOWN CLOCK.

To the Editor of the Review

SIR,—The regular irregularity of our public clock has been a subject of talk for some time. I think, as taxpayers, we have a right to expect something better than its present record for an expenditure of $600 and an annual charge of $40 for being kept in (dis)order. It had better be sold or stopped, as it is a deception to the public. Let us see what our worthy Council will do in the matter. Thanking you for insertion of this.

I am yours, &c.,

The Snake and the Partridge.

T. C. McKechnie, teacher, of Washago, was out hunting. He shot a partridge which at the distance he was from it, seemed to be in some trouble. An examination proved that a small snake, nine or ten inches long, had played boa constrictor by winding its coils around the partridge's neck so tightly that, although killed by Mr. McKechnie's shot, it was with difficulty that the gentleman removed the diminutive representative of Eve's tempter.—Barrie Advance.

Horrible Accident.

DETROIT, Nov. 14.—A horrible accident happened this morning, at Baugh's steam forge, Spring Wells, a suburb of Detroit. A young man, named Benjamin Davis, employed at the forge, accidentally fell astride of two cog wheels, which stripped the flesh from the navel to the knees in a frightful manner. Davis was taken to the hospital. The doctors say he will die from the shock. If he does not, amputation of the leg at the thigh would become necessary, and that would certainly prove fatal. Davis is 19 years old, unmarried, and came from England only a few weeks ago.

Murder in Prison.

VICTORIA, B. C., November 13.—Intelligence has just reached here of a cold blooded murder perpetrated in the Provincial penitentiary in New Westminster, on Tuesday, the 4th inst. About half past six in the morning C. J. Rogers, one of the prison guards, killed another guard named William Sterry by shooting him four times with a revolver while the latter was washing. Another guard named Roberts, who was dressing in the adjoining room, hearing the shots ran and opened the door and discovered Rogers standing over the prostrate body of his victim, and was told "You keep your mouth shut, Roberts, or I will shoot you too." The murderer then quietly procerded to the goal, rang the bell and gave himself up, stating that he had shot Sterry because he had slandered him by calling him a thief. Both men were natives of Staffordshire, England. Rogers is aged about 25 and Sterry 23.

AN INSANE ASYLUM SCANDAL.

A Man Claiming to be Sane Confined for Six Years in a Lunatic Asylum.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 14.—An American named Bruce, who was formerly a Baptist clergyman in New York city, and previously a schoolmaster in Illinois, has been for the past six years confined in the Brockwood Lunatic Asylum. On several occasions he has protested in various ways against his detention there, and at times his conduct and appearance have been such as to justify the suspicion that he might be sane. Once he succeeded in sending a telegram to the Queen, complaining of the injustice of his confinement and demanding his release, and for this he was locked up and deprived of many of the privileges of the institution for several months. Bruce recently read a speech of Minister Lowell, delivered at Birmingham, and at once determined that Mr. Lowell was the only man who could secure his release. Owing to Bruce's exemplarly conduct during the past year, and as he displayed traces of sanity rather than insanity, the asylum officials allowed him to dress in such clothing as he pleased and permitted him to grow his hair and beard, both of which were quite gray. Bruce, with his long curly locks hanging about his shoulders, became a conspicuous figure about the asylum as he performed the duties of assistant warder. He was allowed to visit the town, pay bills, make purchases, etc. On Monday last he paid his accustomed visit to the town, but instead of returning escaped to the woods, where he hid himself in the bushes until night, when he walked to the Crystal Palace, in the vicinity of which he sought out a Baptist minister, who was reputed to be very charitable, and telling him the story of his confinement, asked him for food and shelter. The minister took him in and after keeping him over night went with him to the American legation, where he introduced Bruce to Minister Lowell. Mr. Lowell promised to demand an enquiry into the case, but told Bruce that as he might subject himself to prosecution for stealing the clothes he was wearing, he had better return to the asylum and await the result, adding that Bruce's return would furnish additional proof of his insanity. Bruce returned and surrendered himself to the asylum authorities, but has since heard nothing that would indicate that Mr. Lowell has asked for an investigation in his behalf. Bruce complains bitterly that Mr. Lowell decoyed him back to the asylum, and was not sincere in his promises to aid in obtaining his release. His memory is excellent and he details his interview with Mr. Lowell and the incidents of his escape with minute exactness. A great deal of interest is manifested in the case, and many believe that Bruce has been unjustly confined. On the Friday previous to his escape Bruce appealed to the visiting justices to release him, but, finding them obdutate, he then resolved to avail himself of the first opportunity to escape.

A PATHETIC STORY.

An English Orphan's Search for a Brother in Canada.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—There arrived at Winham last evening a youth who has experienced considerable hardship of late. His name is Walter Hayes, and he is only thirteen years of age. He resided at Birmingham, England, and a short time since his parents both died, leaving him alone and destitute. Having heard his parents speak of a brother living in Canada, the lad determined to seek him, knowing nothing of his whereabouts except that his letters came from Wingham. After a toilsome tramp from Birmingham to Liverpool the boy managed to conceal himself on one of the great ocean steamers and came to America as a stowaway. He was concealed seven days before he was discovered, and as he had fainted from his sufferings it was at first believed he was dead, but after considerable difficulty he was resuscitated. The passengers raised a purse for him, and on reaching Baltimore the British consul was induced to interest himself in the lad, who was provided with a ticket to Wingham on the London, Huron and Bruce. He came through in perfect safety, but by mistake was carried as far as Chatham. However, on Thursday he was brought back and taken to Wingham, when it was learned that his brother lives within ten miles of that place. The little fellow in answer to questions stated that he liked this country much better than England, pathetically assigning as the cause that he would go hungry a long time in England before anybody would give him any money or anything to eat, and seemed very grateful for the kindness he had received. —Mail Cor.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

The "Tribune" on the Majority—Cleveland's Plurality About the Same.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The Tribune says the Democrats claimed a plurality of 58,957 in New York and Kings Counties, which has not been reduced by the official count more than 351. The Tribune makes Blaine's apparent plurality, outside of New York and Kings County, 57,734. According to its figures Cleveland's plurality in the whole State is 872. The other papers apparently ignore the changes that have been made in New York County, and still give Cleveland over 1,200 plurality in the whole State.

THREE COUNTIES YET TO HEAR FROM.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—All the counties in the State have sent in official reports excepting New York, Erie and Monroe. If there is no change in the pluralities of these three counties from what was reported by their county clerks just before the canvass of their returns began, Cleveland's plurality in the State will be 1,268. The fifty-seven counties which have reported show gains for Cleveland of 27, losses for Cleveland of 40, gains for Blaine of 13, and losses for Blaine of 14. The canvass in New York for the six districts already reported is as follows:—Cleveland's gains, 12, Cleveland's losses, 160; Blaine's gains, 79, Blaine's losses, 61; net gain for Blaine, 1,660.

Murdered His Wife.

BUFFALO, Nov. 14.—About 11.30 this morning Peter L. Otto, a German confectioner, twenty-eight years old, entered his old house, No. 206 Broadway, and found his wife in the kitchen washing clothes. Whether there was any conversation between the two could not be learned, but Otto drew a pistol almost immediately and fired at the woman. She rushed into a front room, when he followed and fired at her again. She staggered out of the room and fell in the hallway and expired in a few minutes. Her son, by a former husband, named George Cramer, aged ten years, was in the yard chopping wood at the time. He said his father came in, and the first thing he knew began shooting his mother. Otto went to work about 7 o'clock this morning, and appeared perfectly rational. It is not known that there had been any quarrel between the two, and no motive could be ascertained for the murder. The murderer was arrested this p. m. at Hearn's candy store, where he worked. He was very much intoxicated. He stated that he had not lived happily with his wife and had frequent quarrels.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1884.

THE N. P. SUITS US.

THE London Advertiser though it still evades our question, whether it would submit to the voice of the people as expressed through their representatives, gives a practical answer by vehement denunciations of the tariff policy adopted by the people and by the Parliament of Canada. In a long editorial it divides the space pretty equally between misrepresentation of the REVIEW, and abuse of the National Policy and its advocates.

The Advertiser, after quoting our remarks that we might expect "the minority after the vote has been decided against them on an important policy, to assist loyally in carrying out the policy without factiously thwarting it," says:—

"What vote does the REVIEW refer to? Not the vote of Parliament but the vote at the popular election."

We did refer, as the Advertiser well knows, to the vote of Parliament, the constitutional way of ascertaining the voice of the people on any question, after an appeal to them on the subject. Such an appeal was twice made to the people of Canada on the National Policy—once when there was a question of adopting it, and again when there was a question of maintaining it after a trial. On both occasions the people pronounced in its favour, and on both occasions this approval was shown in the constitutional manner by the votes of the majority of their elected representatives. We maintain that then, after the parliamentary vote, which was the constitutional manifestation of the voice of the people, the minority, if they had been loyal to their country, or even honest, should have submitted to the decision of the people, and should have aided in giving the policy adopted a fair trial.

The Advertiser audaciously pretends that the National Policy has had such a fair trial, though it has been one of the foremost among the Reform journals in factious opposition to it, by misrepresentation, abuse, and every device to frighten capital from coming to Canada, or to make people look upon our tariff policy as unstable and unlikely to be continued.

In this very article the Advertiser gives an instance of its factious and dishonest opposition to the will of the people and its unwillingness to submit to their decision. Besides other abuse of the majority of the people of Canada, of the statesmen they delight to honor, and of the policy they have adopted, the Advertiser says:

"The REVIEW knows that it has failed; that it has proved a fraud and a delusion," &c., &c.

The REVIEW knows nothing of the kind, but it knows that the National Policy has proved successful to an extent that is wonderful when we consider the unpatriotic exertions of the Advertiser, the Globe, &c., to injure the trade and decry the credit of the country. The Advertiser may have some slight excuse for its ignorance of the good effects of the National Policy, for, according to its own account, it is somewhat disadvantageously situated. In fact, London, if the Advertiser is to be believed, is somewhat sleepy and behind the age. The National Policy may not be able to do much for a city that last winter held its communications with the outer world by means of stages, and which does not seem to have heard of lightening its darkness by means of electricity. It must excuse Peterborough, if situated as it is on the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways, and with its fine places of business resplendent with the electric light, it is flourishing under the beneficial influences of the National Policy, of which it is not too slow to avail itself. The National Policy may not be able to invigorate London, but it suits the flourishing and progressive town of Peterborough.

THE Campbellford Herald having stated that a flouring mill in that village is so crowded with work that it is running night and day, it will be in order for the Globe to misrepresent what the Herald said and then proceed to attack it.

UNITED STATES OF COLUMBIA.

Peace Restored Between the Two States—Horrible Atrocities Committed.

PANAMA, Nov. 14.—Peace has been restored in Cundinamarca and Stantander through the intervention of the Federal government. The town of Guadaus, captured by the rebels, who subsequently laid down their arms, was the scene of many atrocities. A picket of 25 men, who had defended the schoolhouse, were slaughtered after surrendering. The body of the commander was exposed to terrible indignities. A number of houses were sacked and burned. Numerous assassinations of a fearful and cowardly character were perpetrated. The Conservative or church party are promoting revolutions in the hope that they will lead to the restoration of their properties, seized by the Republic.

A SENSATIONAL ROMANCE.

Adventures of a Self-Styled Countess—The Bride of a Canadian Indian Chief.

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 13.—The arrest of Henry Martin, a young Indian of the Mohawk tribe, has revealed another sensational chapter in the remarkable career of an adventuress who disappeared from here under highly romantic circumstances two years ago. The Indian has been arrested in California for an attempt to blackmail one Sayonna, an alleged Indian princess and the veritable wife of Juanita, a Canadian chief of considerable renown. The trial of the blackmailer has developed the fact that this Indian princess, Sayonna, is none other than Madame Barabo of this city, and that the threat to expose her true name and character unless she paid the Indian $500 was his offence. Under cross-examination the Princess Sayonna admitted that she was from Erie and that she had been the wife of a blacksmith here; also that she had subsequently married Andrew Johnson, a full cousin of President Johnson, while living in Erie.

Madame Barabo, claiming to be a countess in her own right, came to this city from France twenty years ago as the wife of a humble blacksmith, who led a miserable life with his alleged blue-blooded wife. Her claims to nobility soon made her a conspicuous personage; and she succeeded in obtaining a position as teacher of French at the Erie academy, the principal of which at that time was a young man who has since become well known, Judge Albion Tourgee. Under Mr. Tourgee Madame Barabo, or the countess, as she insisted that the faculty should call her, taught for some time and was finally dismissed, because of her arrogance in requiring an autocrat obeisance upon entering or quitting her presence.

After the death of Barabo the countess succeeded in winning the heart of Andrew Johnston, of this city, a cousin of the president, and a very wealthy man, aged 82. The old gentleman was passionately devoted to her and fully believed in her nobility, not only deferentially according her the title of countess himself, but making all his servants address her as such. With wealth at her command the countess held quite a little regal court, her receptions being attended by the best society. But in a few years this magnificence came to an end rather abruptly. A son of her aged husband, getting possession of some of her secrets, followed them up until he laid the whole story of her life, with all its deceptions, before his father. Shocked at the duplicity of his dashing bride, Mr. Johnston left her and never returned. The fine residence on Walnut street was made over to her, and for some time she existed solely on her former grandeur.

In the spring of 1882 a party of Indians came to Erie from Canada to play lacrosse on William L. Scott's property. Among them was Chief Juanita. The countess was present at the exhibition and sought an introduction to the chief. She dazzled him with her bold and brazen beauty, and, although he was old enough to be her father, she accepted his attentions and consented to become an Indian bride. She disappeared at the time the Indians left, and, as it now appears, she was wedded by Indian rites when the party returned to Canada, she being gayly attired as an Indian princess. Having succeeded in getting the chief to convert his property into cash, she left him a much poorer man than she found him. The young Indian arrested is the son of that chief, who dogged her from Canada across the continent to Sacramento, in the hope of making her disgorge some of his father's money.

A STRONG SWORD-FISH.

He Drives His Blade Through Nine Inches of Copper and Wood.

A very remarkable event has occurred in the recent experience of the three masted schooner Themis, of Boston, commanded by Capt. N. E. Kendrick, and now lying in Ship Island Harbor. The Themis sailed from Mobile on Aug. 3 with a cargo of lumber for Tampico. She was a tight vessel, taking in but very little water and requiring but very little use of the pumps. On the fifth day out from Mobile Capt. Kendrick himself tried the pump and found no water—that is, none above the five inches play allowed between the lower end of the pump and bottom of the hold. An hour or two afterward the mate happened to try it, and to the great astonishment of the captain, reported 20 inches of water. The water was pumped out, but was soon found to be running in again at the rate of 12 inches an hour. This was near the bottom and of course the rate of leakage would diminish as the elevation of the surface of the water and the extent of its cross section would increase. It was enough, nevertheless, to create alarm, and to keep the crew continually employed at the pumps during the passage to Tampico, and while discharging the cargo these efforts were redoubled. It was fully ascertained that the leak was not near the water line—as had been hoped—but at the bottom of the vessel. Finally the mate, groping and exploring about the bottom, reported that he had found a horn sticking in the ceiling or inner lining of the timbers, which he could not remove. He was told to break it off, and at length brought up about two inches of what the captain at once recognized as the end of the blade of a sword-fish.

On further examination it was found that the blade had penetrated, in the first place the copper sheating of the schooner, then the outer timbers of the hull, four inches in thickness; next a vacant space of nine inches between the outer and inner timbers, or ceiling, and lastly four and a half inches more of solid wood constituting the ceiling, altogether nearly nine inches of plank and copper, with eleven inches of vacant space, including the two inches of the end broken off. How much of the sword remained outside has not yet been ascertained. The blow was struck from below, in a direction nearly vertical, and some idea of its amazing force may be found from the figures above given. The point of impact was a little forward of the mizzen mast, about three feet from the keel, on the starboard side. By tearing away part of the ceiling Capt. Kendrick was enabled partially to stop the leak and bring his vessel first to Appalachicola and thence back to Ship Island, where he was sent for quarantine, although he had a clean bill of health. This is, no doubt, the most extraordinary case of piscatorial swordmanship on record. There is no room for question of its entire truthfulness. The fragment of the sword is still sticking in the bottom of he schooner, and will be available for examination when she comes to be docked for repairs.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Ferocious Wild-Cat in Arthur.

The wild cat which did so much damage, and created such consternation here last fall, paid us another visit on Sunday last. The general supposition is that it entered the village some time during Saturday night, and remained in some secluded place during the day. Immediately after dark, however, his catship sallied forth, entered the house of Thomas Rowane, and made a general onslaught on the entire family. It first made a spring at Mr. Rowane, who struggled manfully against such terrible odds, but being overpowered he fell exhausted to the floor, torn in a terrible manner. Seeing the position of Mr. Rowane his wife and family heroically ventured their lives in his defence, and after a terrible struggle, in which all engaged were more or less injured, they succeeded in driving the beast away. Fearing its return, Mrs. Rowane ran for help, and soon a number of persons went to the relief of the family, which was found in a fearful state of terror and excitement. The animal afterwards attacked Chief Henry, on George street, and, although terror-stricken, he succeeded in escaping with a few flesh wounds and some rough handling. The animal is described by those who saw it as about 5½ feet high, built in proportion, and fearfully ferocious in appearance. It is thought that a large bounty will be offered for its capture.—Arthur Enterprise.

Cheese Manufacture.

There is now a great deal of cheese made in this province, some of it very good. Agriculturists are, fortunately, not in the position of other manufacturers, as it is to their advantage to impart the best methods of working to each other. With a little more of this there is nothing to hinder this province from becoming the first cheese country in the world.—Montreal Witness.

ELECTION BETTING.

Some of the Great Sums Wagered by New Yorkers.

Lumping all the money that has been bet in this city on general and particular results of the elections, the amount will not fall far short of $2,000,000. Most of it is in the hands of stakeholders, or deposited in bank in the form of certified checks. At Kelly & Bliss', in Twenty-eighth street, the cashier said they were holding $200,000, which had been bet in varying amounts from $100 up to $10,000. They would not pay out any of the money until after the official count. Among the heaviest betters during the campaign was Major Shaughnessy, of Montana, formerly sheriff of that territory. He has bet at various times at the Hoffman house aggregating $30,000, all on Blaine. He will probably be one of the heaviest losers in the sporting fraternity. William Wise, of Harper's, has bet altogether $25,000 on Cleveland. While he will be a general winner, he will lose some more of his reckless bets, among which are several of $1,000 to $5,000 that Cleveland would have 100,000 majority in this State. Mr. Kelly, of Kelly & Bliss, is said to have bet $50,000 on Blaine. S. V. White, the broker, better known as Deacon White, is said to have bet $60,000 on Blaine, which is the largest amount any individual has staked on the result. Jay Gould made three bets of $5,000 each the Saturday before election, all on Blaine. He has, besides, bet apout $15,000 on the tatooed knight and must now add $30,000 to the general losses he has sustained by the defeat of his favorite candidate. His partner, Wash Connor, loses $5,000, which he had bet through his brother. James D. Smith, a broker, also loses $5,000 on Blaine.—New York World.

READING FOR SUNDAY.

THE UNSEEN BATTLE FIELD.

There is an unseen battle field
In every human breast,
Where two opposing forces meet,
And where they seloom rest.

The field is veiled from mortal sight
'Tis only seen by One
Who knows alone where victory lies
When each day's fight is done.

One army clusters strong and fierce,
Their chief of demon form;
His brow is like the thunder cloud,
His voice the bursting storm.

His captains, Pride, and Lust and Hate,
Whose troops watch night and day,
Swift to detect the weakest point,
And thirsting for the fray.

Contending with this mighty force
Is but a little band,
Yet there with an unyielding front,
These warriors firmly stand.

Their leader is a godlike form,
Of countenance serene;
And, glowing on his naked breast,
A simple cross is seen.

His captains, Faith, and Hope and Love,
Point to the wondrous sign,
And, gazing at it, all receive
Strength from a power divine.

They feel it speaks a glorious truth,—
A truth as great as sure,—
That, to be victors, they must learn
To love, confide, endure.

That faith sublime, in wildest strife
Imparts a holy calm;
In every deadly blow, a shield,
For every wound, a balm!

And, when they win that battle field
Past toil is quite forgot;
The plain where carnage once had reigned,
Becomes a hallowed spot—

A spot where flowers of joy and peace
Springs from the fertile sod,
And breathe the perfume of their praise
On every breeze—to God.

Judging from Appearances.

Until seeming is at one with being, it will never be safe to judge things from the appearance only. Appearances are not always deceptive, but they often are; and the outer bloom may cover the inner working of the canker-worm. All things are not naked to our eyes, as they are to the eyes of Him with whom we, and all men, have ultimately to do; it is therefore the part of the highest wisdom to accept the estimate of good and evil, as it is revealed in His Word, rather than to trust our own weak seeing. So doing, we shall be in less danger of being allured into that way which seemeth right unto a man; but the end thereof are the ways of death.—Exchange.

True Education.

It is in youth as in after life that vicious propensities are best counteracted, not by stern precept and rigid law, but by turning the feelings and passions into a purer channel, by giving a higher object to generous ambition, by centering the active energies on more worthy pursuits; by teaching them, in short, to find their highest gratification in mental and moral culture. Let a man's pride be a gentleman—furnish him with elegant and refined pleasures—imbue him with the love of intellectual pursuits—and you have a better security for his turning out a good citizen, and a good Christain, than if you have confined him by the strictest moral and religious discipline, kept him in innocent and unsuspecting ignorance of all the vices of youth, and in the mechanical and orderly routine of the severest system of education.—Exchange.

Immortality.

We know better than to look to the columns of our daily press for our theology, but the New York Sun sheds clear light when it says: "No doubt there is a profound satisfaction in the thought that the good we do will live after us. We may rejoice also at the benefit the world derives to-day from the good deeds of those who are dead and gone. But set up this sort of immortality as a substitute for the personal immortality which Christiaity promises, to praise it as a nobler object of aspiration, to try to appease the longing of the human heart with the prospect it offers, is all in vain. Conscious life after death is the immortality which man longed for in ages past, long for to day, and will always long for. Science may doubt and philosophy deny, but the hope of such an immortality will be as eternal as the foundations of the earth." Yes, and it is a hope that maketh not ashamed.—Christian Guardian.

Encouragement.

Encouragement is something that we naturally look for. A little praise, or word of hope or a cheerful smile—something for the hungry soul to grasp and the weary mind to rest upon, as we climb the toilsome mountain of life. How many poor hearts have sunk into despondency, when a little encouragement would have reassured them? How many have taken their lives in the hour of despair, when a friendly hand stretched out with aid might have saved them? The child looks to the mother for help and encouragement when it is taking its first step in walking. The school boy looks for encouragement from its teacher, when he is taking his first step in education. And so on through life. The soldier looks for it on the field of battle; it is the cheering voice of his leader that urges him on through the dangers of death and crowns the day with victory. The poet and the artist look to the world to acknowledge their genius and give them praise. It is encouragement that calls forth their noblest words and helps them to climb the mount of fame until they surmount all difficulties and write their names in flaming letters upon its summit.

Then let us give encouragement to each other in every effort of good, in every noble action; in the little duties of life—and we will be happier for it; the world will be better, and a smiling Providence will look down and bless our labor of love.—Adelaide E. Troop.

God's Guidance.

We met a Christian friend recently, whom we found in deep perplexity, because, in a most difficult emergency, he could not decide which one of the several paths open before him should be selected. In the anxiety of the moment he exclaimed, "Oh, for a distinct revelation from God!"

Such solemn periods, when weighty interests seem to hang suspended upon a single word, are not unfrequent in human life. How should they be met? How may we successfully pass the trying ordeal?

Remember that God chooses to reveal his will not usually as a whole, but in fragmentary parts.

This method is in love to us. Through this method our highest discipline is accomplished. Faith is strengthened in this way; indeed, all the Christian graces. A conviction of this ever present will cause us to wait patiently and trustfully until the clouds are lifted, and we shall see the true path.

Remember, in all these seasons of testing to "keep thine heart with all diligence." Do not fret. Do not neglect prayer. Do not demand immediate relief. Do not, by a word of murmur, lose a sense of the providential care and goodness of God.

Remember, that if we steadily look to him, he will not suffer us to go far astray. And though, through our ignorance, we take the wrong path for a little time, he will turn us about in such a manner that our mistake will result in final advantage, provided always that he mark our deep sincerity and our entire consecration to his service.—Exchange

Eccentric Apple Trees.

Mr. Gray, who lives in Williamsville, has a curious apple tree. Three weeks ago it blossomed, and later on little apples formed. Late frosts killed the fruit, and it fell to the ground. Last Sunday Mr. Gray was again surprised to find his apple tree covered with blossoms on one side. This indeed is strange. Mr. Haggerty, Bagoat and William streets, has a remarkable tree. It has blossomed for the sixth time this season.—Kingston Whig.

A CANADIAN ABROAD.

Who will dare to say any more that Canada and Canadians are not recognized in England? If there is any so base as to suppose that a provincial literature has no status in the mother country, let him read of the brilliant career of George Stewart, jr., essayist, journalist and historian. Mr. Stewart has written two books, edited a quarterly review in St. John, a monthly magazine in Toronto, and a daily paper in Quebec. Only the other day a young man in the Week spoke somewhat depreciatingly of the merits of Stewart's work, which shows that in his own country he is not sure of a place among the Dii Majores. In Great Britain it is far otherwise. He was the guest of Earl Spencer at Dublin. He was introduced to the Athenæum Club by Matthew Arnold, and was made an honorary member of that most distinguished scientific and literary society. He and Mrs. Stewart were the guests of the Lord Mayor of London, and he held high discourse there with many eminent men. Prof. Tyndall did himself the honor of inviting Mr. Stewart to lunch, and John Morley called upon him. He was visited by the poet Browning. The Marquis of Lorne invited the distinguished Canadian to come to Inverary as guest of himself and the Princess, but a multiplicity of other engagements made it impossible for Mr. Stewart to go. He, however, accepted a letter of introduction from the Marquis to Baron D'Eyncourt, commonly known as Alfred Tennyson, and another to John Bright. Bright being at the time employed in making speeches, was not ready for a flow of soul, but arranged to have Mr. Stewart at his London residence at a later day. All this shows that Canadian literature is read and understood across the water, and that our distinguished men of letters need not fear that they will be ignored in the mother land.—Montreal Herald.

WIT AND WISDOM.

"In what condition was the patriarch Job at the end of his life?" asked a Sunday School teacher of a quiet looking boy at the foot of the class. "Dead," calmly replied the boy.

"Shall I sing 'Far Away'?" she asked, as her fingers sought the keys. "Yes, I think you had better," he replied, "unless you want the neighbours to make a complaint." He doesn't visit there now.

A poor emaciated Irishman, having called in a physician as a forlorn hope, the latter spread a huge mustard plaster and clapped it on the poor fellow's breast. Pat, with a tearful eye, looking down upon it, said, "Dochter, dochter, dear, it strikes me that it is a deal of mustard for so little mate."

A boy in urging his father, for whom he was a clerk, to join in his early closing movement, was sharply rebuffed, whereupon he said, "I wouldn't be like a rat in a trap, anyhow!" "What do you mean by that?" demanded his father. "I mean," answered his son, "that a rat in a trap is always opposed to the early closing movement."

"Mac, I've been reading a summary of mortuary statistics for the past half year, and this thing bothers me. It seems that the death rate is very much greater among the young than among adults. Now, why should it be that more die young?" "Well," answered M'Glue, in an offhand way, "I guess it is because more are born young."

"The wild man tamed, and what to do with the poor drunkard," will be the subject of discourse by the Rev. I. Tovell to-morrow evening in the George Street Methodist Church.

Judicial Sale.

The Judicial sale of lot 17, 18, 19, North of Albert street, the Webb property, is postponed until Monday, 24th Nov., 1884, at 2 p.m., at the Master's Chambers over the old Toronto Bank

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate winds, mostly from south-west and south; fine weather; slightly higher temperature.

Its Twenty-first Year.

We congratulate the Stratford Herald on the fact that it is no longer "in law an infant and in years a boy," as it has attained its twenty-first year. As a matter of fact, the Herald has been a stalwart man for some time, as it is a good-sized pager vigorously edited.

Sailsbury's Xmas Cards.

Owing to the exceedingly delicate tints of the Xmas Cards in Sailsbury's window it will be impossible to display them longer than this evening. If you have not seen them you will do well to call in next week, as they are going fast, and you will find yourself amply repaid by being able to say you have seen the handsomest cards in the market this year. No trouble to show goods.

FOR TRIMMED and Untrimmed Millinery at the lowest possible prices, call at Alexander's.

Ornamental Cresting.

Messrs. Wilson and Morrisgg, Insurance Agents, who are introducing a new kind of ornamental cresting, have recently been placing on the residence of Dr. Geo. Burnham a sample of the kind of work done by the firm they represent, the Hamilton Ornamental Works. The cresting is of a new and neat design, painted blue, tipped with gold, and is eighteen inches wide. It wonderfully enhances the appearance of a building.

How it is Done.

It may be interesting to subscribers to know that the binding of Picturesque Canada has already commenced in the REVIEW Bookbindery. Various styles are chosen by subscribers. We have two new embossed designs in gold leaf for the sides, both of which are very handsome and appropriate for the work. Morocco or Calf is generally selected, the favorite colors being black, dark brown, dark red, dark blue, and dark green, either of which produce very striking effects. Parties anxious to have their volumes bound within a limited period should send in their books now, to give the binders time to finish the work properly.

The Motive Power.

Mr. F. A. Ferguson, representing the Tuerk Motor Company, of Chicago, is now in town superintending the placing of one of the celebrated motors in St. John's Church, for the purpose of supplying motive power to drive the large organ. The motor is placed in the basement of the church, and may be put in motion or stopped at the convenience of the organist. The motor is of one and a half horse power, and is of the same manufacture as the one used in the REVIEW office. It will no doubt be found a great convenience, as the duties of an organ blower on such a large organ were very arduous indeed. The motor will be in working order to-night.

Beware.

The Canadian Post, that licensed jester of Lindsay, persists in maintaining that when we put the heading "fowl proceeding" on an item from Omemee it was intended for a pun. This jester (in olden days, when kings kept jesters for their personal amusement, they were known by another name) must know that the item told how fowl were proceeding to New York. The heading was perfectly legitimate. We would kindly advise the Post not to run foul of us in that way too frequently, or it may—but we will not befoul our columns with language employed by foul-mouthed papers. At any rate, if it does, it may regret the proceedings that will follow, though it will not be foully dealt with.

The Through Grain Trade.

For the past two years the Midland Railway has been carrying on a brisk business in the through grain trade. The grain comes from the ports of Chicago, Duluth and Prince Arthur's Landing, and is conveyed from thence by steamers to Midland. There it passes to the elevators recently established in that town, and is loaded on the Midland cars. It then passes via Peterborough Belleville, where it is conveyed per Grand Trunk Railway to the various eastern ports and distributing points. Since the Midland has been operated by the Grand Trunk Company the transfer accommodations have been much facilitated and now through grain is daily passing through Peterborough in large quantities.

The Market.

The markets this week have been well attended both by producers and consumers. Wheat continues at about the same price, with scarcely any increase in volume. The barley receipts are rather light, the rush being practically over. Peas are scarce, and remain firm at good prices, and the supply of oats is far below the demand. During the last two weeks the annual fall movement in dressed hogs and packed butter has commenced. The price for butter is high, but that of hogs is rather lower than that of preceding years. The supply of fall fruit and vegetables is fully up to the demand, and fair prices are realized for most of the productions. The poultry offered for sale is of a good quality and abundant supply. Butter in rolls and fresh eggs bring high prices. The following is a list of commodities with market prices:—Butter per pound, 22c.; eggs per doz., 22c.; turkeys, 75c.; geese, 55c.; chickens per pair, 40c.; duck per pair, 50c.; apples per bag, 75c.; potatoes per bag, 35c.; parsnips and carrots per bag, 50c.

A Pointer to Business Men.

Dinner will be served for business men from 12.30 to 2.30 every day at Faucher's Restaurant and Bodega.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

A Regular Meeting Held in the Council Chamber.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held in the Council Chamber on Friday evening.

Present,—Mr. A. McNeil (Chairman), Messrs. C. Stapleton, A. Rutherford, R. H. Green and the Medical Health Officer, Dr. Clarke.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The CHAIRMAN said that there should be some action taken in reference to the dry earth closets before next spring. Some places were in a worse condition now than they were last spring.

Mr. STAPLETON favored appointing an official inspecter for the sanitary duties.

The CHAIRMAN instanced a certain lane which was fully a foot higher than it was a few years ago on account of ashes and other rubbish being thrown out to cover filth.

Mr. RUTHERFORD was in favor of having the Sanitary Inspectors to strictly carry out the regulations.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Mr. STAPLETON,—That the Sanitary Inspectors be requested to enforce the Health Act or to resign their position.—Carried.

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT.

The first annual report of the Medical Health Officer was read by Dr. Clarke. It was long and exhaustive.

On motion the report was received, adopted, and ordered to be forwarded to the Provincial Secretary.

The Board then adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman.

MIMIC HOUSE OF COMMONS.

First Session of the First Parliament of the Dufferin Literary Club.

The first session of the mimic parliament arranged for by the Dufferin Literary Club was held on Friday evening. Mr. L. E. Horning having previously been called on to form a Ministry, he announced that the portfolios has been filled as follows:—

Hon. L. E. HORNING, Montreal, Premier and Postmaster-General.

Hon. J. D. MCILMOYLE, Toronto, Minister of Railways and Canals.

Hon. A. CLUNG, Halifax, Minister of Finance and Customs.

Hon. F. P. HENRY, Brant, Minister of Justice.

On motion of Hon. L. E. HORNING, seconded by Mr. J. H. LONG, leader of the Opposition, Mr. W. Cushen, Brandon, was elected Speaker.

The Hon. Mr. CUSHEN, on taking the chair, returned thanks to the House.

The following Speech from the Throne was read:—

Gentlemen of the House of Commons.

I am rejoiced to state that the past year has been one of prosperity. Our country has been free also from any devastating pestilences, for which we are all thankful.

The public mind seems to have been unusually active during the recess, and public opinion has been rapidly advancing towards more reform in the various departments of Government.

You will be asked to amend the present constitution of the Senate and make it elective.

So many counties having adopted the Scott Act during the past year, the Government think the time suitable for the introduction of a more prohibitory liquor law.

The franchise system and the distribution of the Parliamentary seats will come before you for your earnest attention.

A measure for the revision of the tariff and one looking towards reciprocity will be presented.

The existing postal and immigration laws will need your most careful consideration.

May your deliberations be wise and patriotic and fraught with great good to the community.

Hon. Mr. HORNING moved the adjournment of the House. The Speech contained important suggestions and he thought it advisable to give the members time to consider them.

Hon. Mr. MCILMOYLE seconded the motion, and it was carried.

The House then adjourned for one week.

After the House had adjourned the President of the Literary Club took the chair, and addresses were given by Mr. D. W. Dumble, Honorary President, and Dr. Tassie and Mr. James Stratton, honorary members.

A Great Specialty.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large lot of handsome Wool Squares, Shawls, Jerseys, Nubias, Polka Jackets, Hoods, etc., being manufacturers samples, at about half price.

Enlarged.

The progress made by the newspapers of Canada is an indication of the advancement of the Dominion. The latest journal to give such evidence of prosperity is the Barrie Northern Advance. It is now an eight-page, forty-eight column paper, and it is an excellent weekly journal.

Chit Chat.

—Exhiliarating mornings.

—Bright sunny days.

—Cool starlight nights.

—How long will this weather last?

—A solitary drunk at the Police Court this morning.

—Embankments are being thrown up against the George street sidewalks so as to prevent the water running into the cellars next spring.

—One of our 'cyclists was out for a ride this morning. He reports the roads in a fine condition.

—New time tables will be issued on the Ontario & Quebec and Grand Trund Railways at an early date.

A Public Benefit.

Habiliment Hall has, since its establishment in Peterborough, proved to be in very many instances a public benefit, inasmuch as you can purchase everything that is needful in the gents' furnishing line at all seasons of the year, without running from store to store for your wants. The trade of this house has been steadily growing, until now it has assumed very large proportions. The tailoring department is under the sole supervision of Mr. Andrew McNeil, who has had years of experience, and no work is turned out that is not first class in every respect. The same care is bestowed upon cheap and costly suits alike, and the verdict of the patrons of Habiliment Hall is that the cut and fit—which is a good deal—are both A 1. At the present time the store is exceedingly well stocked with gents' plain and fancy underwear in profusion. There is also displayed a splendid assortment of Cardigan jackets, all wool mufflers, silk mufflers, winter hose, ties, gloves, etc., etc., in varieties and styles to suit everybody. Mr. McNeil has spared neither pains nor money to make an unusually attractive and elaborate display for the holiday trade. A look through the store will repay one, and is almost invariably the means of tempting you to open the "money bag" and buy freely. The motto of Habiliment Hall is "First, be sure you're right, then go ahead!" and in buying the present stock for the winter months the proprietor felt that he was right in considering the wants of all, and consequently the store will be found literally crammed with everything that a purchasing public may require. A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street.

IN READY MADE Mantles and Ulsters, Children's and Ladies' sizes, you will make no mistake to buy Alexander's.

GENTLEMEN,—

Our New Fall and Winter Tweeds and Suitings are all in Stock, and on our shelves, where you or we can lay our hands on them in a jiffy.

Too many to give separate accounts of, too many patterns to eulogize, too many lines to mention all.

They all have one object in view. To keep out the WIND and the WINTER—and to give you at the same time a stylish and gentlemanly appearance.

We'll skip stuff, cut, trimmings and buttons and much about styles, to say:—There's one way of telling you about them that touches your hearts, for it touches your pockets. THEY COST LOW and they're worth all they cost—and more.

And Mr. Peter Simon, the varsatile, scientific, stylish and mathematically correct Cutter shall carve for you the goods.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

OUR LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

EXTENSIVE BUSINESS IS BEING CARRIED ON IN OUR FACTORIES.

Trade in a Flourishing Condition—A Healthy State of Affairs—The Manufacturies Taxed to their Utmost Capacity—No Surplus Stock.

During the present season building operations have been carried on in Peterborough on a large scale, all available workmen have had plenty of work to do, and the builders and contractors have been at their wits end to fill out all orders Our business houses have been extended, altered and improved, thus showing a satisfactory condition in the retail trade. A new line of railway now penetrates our town, bringing with it its long train of advantages. But the greatest evidence of our prosperity is the fact that our mills and factories are in a constant hum. In some cases they work with a full number of hands and at full time, and in other lines of manufactures the demand for goods is so great that the factories are kept in operation by night as well as by day. Perhaps it would not be uninteresting to make a few remarks in regard to our most extensive manufactory,

THE AUBURN WOOLLEN MILLS.

Since 1872, when the mills were made more than six times their former size, they have proved to be a boon to the Peterborough public in more ways than one. Directly, they give employment to a large number of our artizans, and the railways profit by bringing in the raw material and by taking out the manufactured goods. Indirectly, the business man reaps his benefit by supplying the workmen and their families and in other countless ways the general public receive more or less benefit.

The Auburn Woollen Mills are operated by a joint stock company

THE BUILDINGS.

The mills are composed of seven buildings, all of solid stone masonry except the gas house, which is of brick. The main building, used for the carding, spinning, weaving and finishing departments, is four stories high and is 120 x 60 feet. The wing at the north side, used for spinning, warping and cloth scouring departments, is three stories high and 80x44 feet, The eastern building, used for the drying and wool rooms and the designing departments, is two stories high and is 44x60 feet. The building immediately south of this one, used for the picker room and machine shop, is one storey high and is 60x30 feet. At the south of the main building and running east and west is a building 70x40, one storey high, used as a dye house. To the west of this building is situated the boiler and gas houses, one storey high, and respectively 40x30 and 15x24 feet. The gas house is fitted with a brick chimney, 80 feet high, and other wooden buildings are attached for the purpose of "holding" and "purifying."

At the south end of the main building there is an elevator tower and at the centre of the east side a main tower in which is placed a winding staircase.

THE PREPARATORY PROCESS.

The wool used at these mills comes from Cape Colony, South Africa, and Montevideo, South America. The wool when it reaches the mills is placed in a large store house from whence it is taken when required. The first process it undergoes is that of scouring. It is placed in a large vat of mixture which loosens the dirt in the wool. It is then placed in rollers where the dirt is thoroughly squeezed out. Then it is put in a scouring box of perpetually flowing clear water thus rinsing out any refuse that may be left. The dyeing room is the next into which it goes. In this room some of the seven huge caldrons of different colored liquid dye are continually boiling. Into one of these the clean wool is thrown and there it remains for twenty-four hours, when it absorbs all the dye and nothing is left but the water. After it is taken out of the dye vats it is placed in a centrifugal extractor, which revolves at the rate of 1,000 revolutions to the minute. It is freed from the water and carried on large trucks up a gang-way to the drying room, where it is spread out into two large vaults heated with hot air. After it is thoroughly dried it is separated into different grades and colors and is piled up in the various bins.

THE MANUFACTURING PROCESS.

From the bins it is taken to the picker room in which are in operation three pickers. While the capillary material is going through the shredding process it receives an aspersion of an oily composition, so as to render it more easily worked in the succeeding processes. From the picker room it is taken in the elevator and hoisted to the carding room, which is situated on the fourth story of the building. In this room it is carded into long, pretty looking roping. The material from this time goes downward. In the next floor it is converted into yarn. Another flat lower and it is metamorphosed into tweeds of the various kinds. When the now manufactured goods reaches the first or lower flat it undergoes an inspection, and is then taken to the fulling room, where it undergoes various procecses, making the cloth more dense in texture, and is also cleansed by means of ponderous washing machines. It is then taken to the finishing room, where the final touches are put on by means of trimming and raising a nap on the goods. It is lastly measured and rolled (by machinery), ticketed, and is packed in cases ready for shipment.

THE CONDITION OF THE BUILDINGS.

On each of the flats a large number of heavy oak columns support the ceilings, and the excellent light afforded, both by night (when the buildings may be lighted by gas), and by day, is a special feature. Each and every building speaks for itself in regard to the care bestowed upon it. The annual measures to preserve the buildings from decay is now going on. The roofs are receiving their attention, and some of the stonework is being tuck pointed. The whole premises from one end to the other betoken prosperity in trade and efficient management.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Mr. Kendry, the manager of the mills, informs us that they have, during the past summer, been working their full capacity, and that there are now employed at the mills as many hands as there was at any previous time. The reputation of the Auburn Wollen Mills is now well established, and the productions find their way to the wholesale houses between Halifax and London. There is now no surplus stock on hand and orders have been already received which will keep the mills in full operation until the end of the season. The yearly output of the mills approximates to $200,000.

GENERAL.

The grounds on which the mills stand are composed of 22 acres. On these grounds stand numerous cottages, in which some of the operatives reside. The Company's offices are situated across a raceway from the mills. The offices are very comfortable, lighted with gas and heated with coal grates. A large fire and burglar proof vault is also placed at the north side of the offices. The cost of the buildings is estimated at $56,000, and that of the machinery $90,000. Some idea may be formed of the extent of the mills from the fact that it takes two hundred and forty large sized gas jets to properly light the buildings at night. Two new bridges have recently been constructed and put in position across the raceway, which runs between the the offices and the mills. They are both of the same design and are neat, handsome and solid.

OTTOMAN and Brocaded Mantle Cloths just received at Alexander's. Prices right.

NINE MEN DROWNED.

The Capsizing of a Life Boat and the Sad Results that Followed.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 16.—A special received from Pictou to-night says a crew of eleven wreckers from the steamship Inveralt, stranded at Pictou island, in attempting to land in a lifeboat yesterday afternoon during a northerly gale had their boat upset on a reef, and eight were drowned. The cook, Wm. Allard, observing the accident from the shore, put off in a small dory to attempt their rescue. Shortly afterwards he lost an oar, and being unable to reach it, he went adrift, and is almost certainly lost. James Curry and another islander launched a larger and stronger boat, and at the peril of their lives reached the lifeboat, which by this time had been carried about two miles out to sea with Lewis Lawrence Fred Doran, Wesley Verge, Pierre Lachance, Narcisse Poradis, and Henry and Arthur Brown still clinging to it. The four latter caught hold of Curry's boat as it drifted past them, and with the exception of Arthur Brown were got on board. The latter was too weak to hold on, and loosing his grasp, sank before he could be assisted. Before the life boat could be again reached it was righted by another wave, and the remaining three clinging to its bottom, entirely helpless, were washed out of sight. The probability is that they were already dead or almost so. The five now in Curry's boat found themselves adrift and unable to return to the island, but in the meantime James Hogg, the lighthouse keeper, and two other islanders, hearing of the accident, started in pursuit in an open sail boat, overtaking the other three or four miles out. All were safely got on board, but finding their return against the gale impossible, the boat was headed for Pictou town, where she arrived last night.

The names of the men lost are Wesley Verge and Charles Johnston, of Halifax; Lewis Lawrence and Hugh McFarlane, of Pictou island; George Mectan and his son Henry Mectan, Fred Doran and William Allard, of Quebec; and Arthur Brown, of Liverpool. The steam wrecking barge Florence left Pictou to-day for the scene of the accident, and is expected back to-morrow.

The Chieftain.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—A meeting of the friends of Sir John Macdonald has been called by Senators Ryan and Ogilvie, and the city members, Messrs. Gault, Curran and Coursol, to be held in Mechanics' hall on Monday, to arrange for a fitting public celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the Premier's entrance into public life. It is expected that the demonstration will take the form of a mass meeting in some central place, such as the drill shed, which will be roofed in this month. Committees to carry out whatever programme may be decided on will be struck at this meeting. The Junior Conservative Club has in hand the preparation of the banquet to Sir John, and has already completed the plan of what will undoubtedly be the grandest demonstration ever given in this country. The celebration will take place upon Sir John's return from England if he can make it convenient to remain over in Montreal at that time.

Dominion Banks.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—The bank statement for October shows a general increase. The note circulation of banks in the Dominion increased $2,542,000 over September, deposits by the public increased $680,200, and discounts increased $529,582. The total assets in October were $219,014,000, against $216,827,000 in September. The total liabilities were $136,832,000 in October, against $134,060,000 in September. The net balances due by banks outside of Canada to Canadian banks were $16,477,671, being an increase in October of $919,822 over September. Notes and bills and other debts overdue, secured and unsecured, show a decrease of $108,000 in October, compared with September. This is the most satisfactory statement since October, 1883.

ROBBERY BY BRIGANDS.

DEADLY CONFLICT.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Advices from Baku state that early in November conflicts between Christians and Mussulmans, lasting two days, occurred at Salian, a small town of Asiatic Russia, on an island in the River Koor, fifteen miles above its mouth in the Caspain Sea. Firearms were used on both sides and many persons were killed. The police were utterly unable to restore order. The Governor of Baku has gone to the seat of the disturbance.

KHIVA'S DOOM.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 15.—The misrule of the Khan of Khiva has driven 150,000 Kibitkas into Russian territory. Russian troops have occupied Kungrad, ninety miles north of Khiva, on the Amos River, because the Khan constantly violates the treaty of 1873. The Khan's incapacity to carry on an orderly government, it is declared, will make it necessary to pension him, and establish a Russian administration at Khiva.

CAIRO, Nov. 15.—Reports from up the Nile show that the Canadian boatmen are experiencing more difficulty in getting the boats up the cataracts than they anticipated. The muddiness of the water prevents them from seeing the rocks. The difficulty at the Dal Cataract, however, is diminishing, and the flotilla's rate of progress is likely to increase.

WANTED.

THOSE who have followed, with any degree of closeness, the discussions of economic questions which have taken place from time to time in the press, in Parliament and on the platform in this country must have, long ere this, arrived at the conclusion that some better means of eliciting facts and educating the people on subjects the proper understanding of which is so important to the future of Canada, is sadly needed.

No doubt the proposal to establish a chair of political economy in Queen's College, Kingston, is attributable to some such feeling as that we have indicated, but laudable as such a proposition is to those who make it, and beneficial as the establishment of such chairs will in due time no doubt prove, we are inclined to think that there is within our reach a better and less costly means of accomplishing more immediate and perhaps better results, and without the adoption of which the establishment of the chairs referred to might prove an injury rather than a blessing—and that is by the formation of an association for the promotion of economic science.

The advantages to be derived from the formation and vigorous maintenance of such an association, having for its chief object the discussion of economic questions as they affect Canada and Canadian interests, are, in our opinion, neither few nor far between. Hitherto the discussion of such subjects has been left entirely in the hands of rival politicians, and of organizations whose chief object is the promotion of class interests. By the formation of such an association as that which we now suggest a platform would be provided whereon the theorist and practical man, the agriculturist and merchant, the laborer and the employer of labor, the lender and borrower of capital, the manufacturer and importer, the freetrader and protectionist, would meet and discuss face to face their rival panaceas for all the ills the body politic is heir to, and where the facts (real and imaginary) upon which they base their arguments, would have to be submitted to the scrutiny of those who are not only most likely, but are most able to either demolish or confirm them.

It is no doubt highly desirable that there should, as there do, exist Boards of Trade for the discussion and promotion of mercantile interests; granges for the discussion and promotion of the interests of the farmer; labour unions for the advancement and protection of the labourer; professional associations for the care of professional interests; freight agents' associations to see that the railway corporations which they represent are properly compensated for the transport of freight; manufacturers' associations to look after their own particular interests; political associations to promote the interests of rival parties, and so on throughout almost the whole category of interests and employments into which the people of the country are divided, but these only discuss matters from their own particular standpoint, and too frequently endeavour to secure their own interests without any thought of the golden rule, which requires them to do unto others as they would have others do unto them. What, therefore, is wanted, is an association in which all these individual associations and interest will be represented, and in which all will obtain a respectful hearing with the sole object of winnowing the wheat from the chaff which is to be found, in greater or less quantities, in the views and objects of all, and in this way bring about a clearer and better understanding of the relative economic positions of the various occupations into which our people are divided and of the Provinces to one another, and of the Dominion to the other country and the rest of the world.

That Canada possesses the material for the working of such an association intelligently and successfully was amply proved by the papers read and offered and by the discussions which took place in the economic section at the meeting of the British Association for the Promotion of Science at Montreal last August. That being the case, all that is required is that steps should be taken to bring those who take an interest in such questions together. That once accomplished we have every confidence that everything else required will follow in good time and that we shall soon have in full blast an Association for the promotion of Economic Science in Canada that will prove a worthy outcome of the meeting of the British Association last summer and that will soon make itself felt both as an educator, and as a direction of that portion of the Legislation of the Dominion, which has to do with economic questions. We trust some one will see their way to making a move in the direction indicated at no distant day.

NO INTERMEDIATE STATE.

A Sermon by the Rev. Alex. Bell, Preached in St. Andrew's Church.

On Sunday evening there was a very large congregation at St. Andrew's Church. After the usual opening services,

The Rev. ALEX. BELL announced as his text Job xiv., 12:—

"So man lieth down and riseth not: till the heavens be no more, they shall not awake, nor be raised out of their sleep."

The plain meaning on the face of the words was, he said, that when a man died he entered into a state in which he would remain until the resurrection. That state of disembodied souls which intervened between death and the resurrection was what some men called the intermediate state. Their belief in regard to it (which he would call the Protestant belief, resting wholly upon the Bible, for they acknowledged no other authority), was that those who died impenitent go directly to their reward in hell, and that those who die in Christ go directly to Heaven. Whether at the resurrection the sufferings of the wicked were increased, or the bliss of the blessed was enhanced, did not come into the question. In their belief there was only two places for departed souls. Others differed from them in the matter. The Roman Catholics said there were four places, namely, Limbus Infantum, where the children who die unbaptized go, and never enter Heaven; Hell, to which those who die in mortal sin go direct, for they made degrees in sin, which the Protestants did not admit; Heaven, to which the martyrs only go direct after death; and Purgatory, for all the rest, where they must purge themselves from all faults. The keys belonged to the Church, the Roman Catholics believed, and it might deliver the souls from their sufferings or keep them there. Those who were said to go through the fire were not the wicked; none went from there to Hell; but they were the merciful, the upright, who were already subjects of grace and sure of Heaven. They had to wait there until they washed off the remaining stains—something forgotten or overlooked, or which they had not time to attend to on earth. To far worse than life's circumstances they must go to purge themselves from their faults.

As to the unbelieving, there was no difference of opinion; they only differed in regard to the believers. They said that those who died in Christ went directly to the Lord; the Roman Catholics said they went to Purgatory. They made their appeal to the Word of God, the only authority. And what did it teach? Luke xvi., 22, showed that the beggar was taken to Abraham's bosom, and the 25th verse that he was comforted, and not in pains and sufferings. To the thief on the cross, Christ said, "To-day shalt thou be with Me in Paradise." To the Jew, Abraham's bosom meant the height of happiness, and Paradise the happiest place conceivable. The Lord and the thief immediately after their deaths were to be in Paradise. Where was that? The Jews adopted this word for the highest state of happiness and bliss. This view of the word was confirmed by II Cor., xii., 2 and 4, which showed that the Third Heaven and Paradise were the same. The plain teaching of the words in Rev., ii., 7, was that Paradise was simply Heaven, where Christ is and where he manifests His glory and exercises His power. The plain meaning of II Cor., v., i., 1, 8 and 10 was that the soul at death was received into a place of blessedness. Every man must appear before the judgment seat. A righteous man goes to his home in Heaven and remains there until the judgment, when he is rewarded according to the deeds done in the body. But if he has been freed from the sins which clung to him surely the purging was in vain when at the judgment he is rewarded according to the deeds done in the body. Surely God would be unjust if he laid on the souls the sins for which they had suffered. Phil. i., 21 and 22 meant that Paul believed his state of existence after death would be better than it was while he is was in the flesh. Departure meant death, and as soon as he departed he would be with Christ, and Christ was not shut up in a prison of torment, but was in Heaven. In Eph. i., 20; Heb. i., 3, and Romans viii., 34, Paul told them that Christ was at God's right hand, and Paul's departure would take him to Christ. Rev. xiv., 13, showed that those who died in the Lord were from that moment blessed. Death meant emancipation from labour and trouble, and an entrance into blessedness. What family was referred to in Eph. iii., 14 15? It was God's family, the family of the redeemed, part of which was on earth and part in Heaven. There was no third place for them. Paul evidently had no knowledge of any but the two places, Hell for the wicked and Heaven for the righteous. He might go on and add other texts such as "The blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin," whatever sin it might be. The blood once applied the soul was safe. Heb. ix., 27 showed that as they died they were judged. The plain statement in it showed that there was no third place. He had taken enough to show what their belief was and that it was Scriptural. The abiding place of the righteous, "Now with the Lord," implied a complete sanctification, perfectly holy, or they could not have got into the presence of the Lord. Christ has perfected forever them that are sanctified.

He quoted from the creed of Pope Pius IV., 2nd article, to show that Roman Catholics were bound not to interpret Scripture otherwise than in accordance with the unanimous consent of the Fathers. If they could not get that consent they could not accept the teaching. To establish the fact of a third place they were in the habit of quoting the second book of Maccabees, xii., 43. They might at once dispose of that by saying it was not canonical. It was the story of some Alexandrian Jew who had his mind leavened by Platonic philosophy. The Jews, the early Christians, and the Greek Church would not accept it, and it was not accepted by any Council until the Council of Trent legislated for all Christendom, and lifted this book into the position of the Word of God. But supposing that it was canonical, it would not support the doctrine of Purgatory without being distorted. Those for whom the sacrifices were to have been made were guilty of idolatry, which according to the Roman law was a mortal sin, and they must have been in hell, where no prayers or offerings could do them any good. The man who wrote the book must have been a bad theologian, and it was bad logic to use it in support of Purgatory. If it proved anything it proved that prayers and offerings should be made for those in hell. Matt. v., 25 and 26, was quoted in support of the doctrine. On this the Fathers were divided. Some said that the prison was hell, the creditor God, and the debtor the sinner, and as the sinner had nothing with which to pay the debt, he could not get out. According to Purgatory, the sinner can pay and does pay as long as he is there, consequently there was no Purgatory in this passage. Matt. xii., 31, was quoted to prove that some sins are to be forgiven in the world to come, but it did not follow. The Jews divided existence into two periods, the present and the future, and this expression in the mouth of a Jew meant that there was no forgiveness. In Mark iii., 29, they were plainly told that this sin was not to be forgiven. Again, in regard to this verse, the Fathers were divided. It could not refer to Purgatory, for the whole point of the passage was forgiveness, a thing unknown in Purgatory. The unpardonableness of one sin did not prove that another was pardonable. I Cor., iii., 12-15, was quoted in support of the doctrine of Purgatory, but again there was a division among the Fathers, and it could not legitimately be produced. Looking at the language they would see that it was metaphorical, for the fire tries the works, not the person. It extended to saint and sinner alike. The Roman Purgatory was only for some, and was for the person, accordingly this portion of the Scripture did not apply. The raising of the son of the widow of Nain and Lazarus was referred to, and the question was asked, where were they? They replied that these were miracles, and a miracle was a departure from the ordinary course of nature. Nothing could be taken from this to support any regularly established place. I Peter, iii., 19-20, was admitted to be a difficult passage. Without waiting to attempt to show what he believed to be the real meaning of it, it was shown that the spirits were those who were disobedient at the time of Noah. They had been guilty of mortal sin and would not be in Purgatory, and the passage did not support the doctrine. He might go on with every portion of Scripture urged in proof, and show that it gave no support to the Roman doctrine of Purgatory.

It was urged that the doctrine was universally believed, and it was argued that this proved its correctness, in the same way as they proved the existence of God from universal belief. But there was this difference. The belief in God was established against a guilty conscience, while the other was the promptings and desire of a guilty conscience that some such place should be found. But the belief in the doctrine of Purgatory had not been universal up to the 16th century. The Greek Church did not believe it, though it was in connection with the Latin Church until the 8th century. This corruption was brought into the church by the heathenism round about. The ancients prayed for saints and sinners alike. The ancient liturgies contained forms of prayer for patriarchs, prophets, apostles, martyrs and even for Mary, the mother of God. These liturgies were in use for hundreds of years, and if they taught that there was a third place all these must have been in that place for that length of time. The early Christians believed in only two places for the dead, but they had fallen into an error, which in the hands of Gregory took shape and soon became a source of power and profit to the Roman Church. Neither Scripture, nor the Fathers for the first four centuries, gave them anything to support the belief in an intermediate place. The Church that decreed there was a purgatory also declared that the souls detained there would be benefitted by the prayers and works of the living, especially by the holy sacrifice of the mass, but if there was no money there would be no prayers or mass. It was said that the heathens got the idea from the Jews. It was the other way about. After the conquests of Alexander the Jews came in contact with Platonic philosophy and got the idea. Still that intermediate state was different from Purgatory. The fathers were not unanimous in regard to it, and according to their law it should be thrown over. In the word of God there was nothing to give countenance to such a doctrine.

RIGHT ON TIME.

An Old Man Who has not Shaved Since 1860 Turns Up.

A tall, broad shouldered man, of apparently 55 years, walked into Binder's Seventh street barber shop on Saturday afternoon and seated himself in a chair. A heavy black beard covered his face and his shirt front, and was finally lost to sight within the capacious recesses of his waist-coat.

"Hair cut, sir?" said the barber as he began to tuck a towel around the collar of his customer, preliminary to picking up his shears. The old man, who had been busy with his beard during this interval, now exposed it to the astonished gaze of the shop. It reached fully three inches below his knees when it was uncoiled. He replied: "No, but—" here he glanced around the shop with a triumphant smile—"I want this beard taken off clean." Apparently seeing that some explanation would be welcome to the astonished gathering of barbers and customers, the old man said in tones that showed the emotion stirring within him:

"For 24 years no razor has touched my face. This beard is the result. It was in 1860. I was as spruce a young chap as ever kicked up his heels at a Lancaster county wedding and everybody knew young Joe Barstow in those parts. They called me young Joe to make a difference between the old man and me. The old man was a Bourbon Democrat to the back bone and I was with him to the split in the 1860 convention, when the Southerners put up John C. Breckenridge and we—the North—nominated Stephen A. Douglas. The old man went in for Breckenridge. I felt strong on the subject and worked for Douglas day and night. I used to be very smart in my appearance in those days, but I worked so hard I had no time for prinking up.

"One night I made a speech at a meeting in the old Turnpike tavern. I had a week's growth of stubble on my face and before I had spoken a dozen words some lout sung out, 'Go get a shave.' Everybody laughed as they looked at me. 'Get a shave?' says I; 'no razor touches my face until I see a Democratic President in the White House.'"

"I have kept my word. Take it off and roll it carefully up in a piece of paper, barber, for I am going to send President Cleveland a chain made out of it."—Philadelphia Times.

MANITOBA AND DAKOTA.

In both Dakota and Manitoba the lands belong to the central government. In Manitoba a young man may locate a homestead when he reaches 18 years of age; in Dakota he must wait till he is 21. In Manitoba he may take up 160 acres of land, preempt 160 more, and take a third quarter section under the tree-planting regulation. In Dakota, unless he is a discharged soldier, he may take only 80 acres within the railway limit, and may preempt only 80 acres more. If he desires to homestead 160 acres he must go at least 20 miles from any railway. In Manitoba, the means for maintaining the Provincial Government are supplied by the Dominion; in Dakota the local Government is supplied by local taxation. Freight and passenger rates to and from Manitoba are lower than those to and from Dakota, and in the former agricultural products fetch higher prices than in the latter. In almost every respect Manitoba is more prosperous than Dakota, and her population is certainly increasing at a more rapid rate, extent of territory being considered.

The traitorous Grits are doing all they can to injure Manitoba, but their power for evil grows less from year to year.—Hamilton Spectator.

LINES

IN MEMORY OF OUR DARLING, GEORGE HECTOR SEDGWICK, WHO DIED APRIL 1ST, 1884.

I miss the call in the morning,
I miss the bright face at the door,
The mirth and the music at sunset,
The songs I shall hear—never more.

I miss the dear voice and the laughter,
The twining arms—kisses so sweet;
The little round head at the table,
The sound of the dear little feet.

I thought to have watched thee, my Hector,
Through childhood and youth's happy day;
When evening's dark shadow's came o'er me
Have found thee my comfort and stay.

But since it was God who called on His own,
His mercy and blessing in full to bestow,
I will wipe off the tear and stifle the moan,
For my loss is his gain; he is happy, I know.

Who knows but my Hector will meet me
With arms outstretched at the gate,
With the glad shout, "Ma, come to me!"
And lead me along through the gate?

O fairest, O purest and dearest sweet Hector!
From thy place in high heaven remember thou me.
And petition our Lord that my heart grow not chilly
Till He in His mercy does take me to thee.

And when I have bathed in that fountain,
And earth mists are washed from mine eyes,
And when I am robed and immortal,
I will know—and be satisfied.

ONTARIO CROPS.

The Report of the Bureau of Industries for November.

The report of the bureau of industries for November deals chiefly with the grain and root crops of the province, and gives tables of produce based on 1,250 returns made to the bureau on Oct. 25th. Those tables show that the harvest of grain crops has been even more bountiful than appeared by the estimate of Aug. 1st, and form a gratifying contrast to the tables of last year's harvest. The quality of the grain, too, is generally excellent, being plump, hard and heavy. Barley, however, was badly discoloured by rain of the harvest season, and the bulk of it does not rank higher than second grade. Wheat is remarkably free from defects of any kind. The grain is above the standard weight, and the average yield of the spring and fall varieties is 22.3 bushels per acre, or 9.6 more than last year. Oats also show a large yield, although in the northern and northwestern counties this and other spring grains suffered from the drought of June and July. Compared with the harvest of 1883 the aggregate and average yield of cereals is as follows:—

	Aggregate.		Average.
	1884 bush.	1883 bush.	1884 bush.	1883 bush.
Fall wheat	3,722,288	11,656,957	23.0	10.6
Spring wheat	14,969,661	9,726,063	20.2	16.6

The total yield of peas is 13,691,607 bushels or 3,000,000 bushels more than last year, while the average per acre is 24 bush., or 43 bush. more than last year. The quality is of unvarying excellence, little or no damage having been done by the bug. Beans and corn, which were in an unpromising condition at the end of July, made a surprisingly good recovery in August and steadily improved to maturity. The yield of the former is 592,044 bush., and of the latter 12,935, 889 bush., being an average of 23.8 and 74 bush. per acre respectively. Last year both crops were destroyed by the early frost.

The root crop is generally an excellent one, especially potatoes, mangolds and carrots. Turnips suffered to some extent from the August drought, but they are of good quality. The aggregate and average yield for 1884 and 1883 is as follows:—

	Aggregate		Average
	1884	1883	1884	1883
Potatoes, bu	27,546,261	16,403,782	163.2	98

The clover midge has been very destructive on all fields from which a first crop of clover was taken, but where fields were pastured until the beginning or middle of June the seed was unharmed.

Fruit trees are in a healthy condition, and have made a good growth of new wood, but with the exception of apples the crop of the season has been less than an average. Apples are plentiful and of good quality.

The area of fall wheat sown this year appears to be somewhat less than last year, but the land at seed time was in a much better state of tilth, and the young wheat has made a vigorous growth.

A Railway Catastrophe.

HAMSTEAD, Tex., Nov. 15.—About half past one yesterday morning the north-bound train on the Southern Texas Central Railway was wrecked at Clear Creek station, two miles south of Hampstead, and as far as known ten people were killed outright and fifteen wounded more or less dangerously. Investigation by railway authorities reveals that the diabolical work was done by discharged employees and thieves in the vicinity who sought to wreck a freight train for spoils. Breaking into the section house the wreckers obtained tools, and by pulling the spikes and unfastening the fish plates, arranged the rail to yield to pressure without, however, entirely removing it. It happened that the passenger train, having right of way and being behind time, was the first to reach the scene of the disaster. Striking the loosened rail the engine and tender got over safely, while the two baggage cars, mail and express and two Pullman sleepers went over the 30 foot embankment and into the creek. In the baggage car, L. Cordoza, travelling passenger agent of the New York, Texas and Mexican Railway, was drowned, with E. T. Louis, baggage master, and Green Lewis, colored porter. The killed are E. T. Louis, L. Cordoza, Leman Leaks, newsboy; Green Lewis, H. P. Thomas, wood contractor; a German lady and three children, Julia Childress, of Atlanta, Ga., six year old, was taken from the water drowned. A large number were wounded.

Advertising Canada.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will despatch to-day a special grain exhibit to England, to Mr. Alexander Begg, general European emigration agent, for distribution through the various agencies, with the object of promoting the tide of emigration to the Dominion. The exhibit, which is a most elaborate and extensive one, is made up of the products of the Canadian Pacific experimental farms, and consists of samples of grain and roots. There are in all upwards of sixty-five bags of grain and twenty cases of roots. A surplus of about 600 bushels of selected grain has reached the city and has been offered for sale. A portion of the Canadian Pacific exhibit will be on view at various exhibitions throughout England and the continent.—Montreal Star, Nov. 15.

The Home of "Maud S."

Mr. Bonner and party on Friday visited Woodburn Farm, where "Maud S." was bred and where they saw the sire and dam, as well as the brother and two sisters of the trotting queen. The party was much pleased with the family, and Mr. Bonner was warmly congratulated by the proprietor of the great breeding farm. On his return to the city Mr. Bonner was informed by Bair that he had jogged "Maud S." and had found her free from soreness and as lively as a well nourished kitten. The trainer intimated that he would like to make another attempt at record beating, but Mr. Bonner decided that she should be turned out for the winter, he being well satisfied with 2.09¼ in the month of November.

The Science of Phrenology.

At a small town a professor of phrenology gave a discourse on the development of the cranium. He said: "The development at the back of the head, my friends, indicates parental affection. Now, you will observe," he went on, feeling the head of the boy on the platform, "that thi sbumpis abnormal in size, thus indicating that this lad loves and reveres his parents to an unusual degree. Is that not so my lad?" "Naw." "What? You do not love your parents?" "I think well enough of mither," replied the boy, "but I ain't very fond of feither. That bump you're afeeling of of he give me last night wid a cricket-stump."

LINDSAY.

PLENTY OF MONEY.—Taxes have come in fast during the past few days, a discount of 2 per cent. being allowed on all paid up to Wednesday evening. Both in the town clerk's office and the police court where the collector was stationed the money rolled in splendidly the last day. The collector says taxes are coming in more freely than they have come in for several years. Considering the taxes are so much in excess of former years this speaks well for the financial position of the Lindsay people as compared with former times.

FIRE.—On Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock the baking shop of Mr. A. A. J. Soanes was noticed on fire between the wall and the roof, and though the bakers were at work at the time it had made considerable headway when discovered. An alarm was quickly given and at once a number of citizens went to work with pails of water. The firemen also were soon on the spot and quickley quenched it. The fire had evidently caught from the chimney, and had it not been discovered as soon as it was would have caused a considerable conflagration, there being so many old frame buildings in close proximity. The loss to the building will not be large, but considerable damage resulted to pastry, etc. by water.—Warder.

PORT HOPE.

FIRE.—At midnight on Friday an alarm of fire was sounded from all the bells when it was found that the roller skating rink was in flames. The Hose and Chemical Companies were promptly on the ground and in a short time the fire was under control. The upper storey and roof of the building were entirely gutted. The building, which was owned by Mr. Peter Robertson, was insured in the North British and Mercantile for $1,000.—Guide.

Big Colonization Scheme.

QUEBEC, Nov. 14.—Monseigneurs Lorrain, of Pembrooke; Duhamel, of Ottawa; and Bouillon, of Boston, are in Quebec interviewing the Provincial Government in reference to a big colonization scheme which their lordships have on foot. They intend, if possible, to secure some concessions from the Quebec and Dominion Governments for the purpose of colonizing a large track of valuable land in the vicinity of Lake Temsicaminque, on the upper Ottawa. They propose erecting tramways along the rapids on the River Mattawan, to be utilized for portaging, and they also intend to place two steamers on the northern lakes in order to convey the host of settlers, which they anticipate will take advantage of the newly acquired lands to their destination.

Soon Forgotten Advice.

"Doctor, I want you to do something for me. My nerves are shattered completely. I am not able to eat anything, and I sleep very little at night. What could you advise me to do?" "What has brought about this condition?" Drinking too much, I'm afraid." "Well, I would advise you to give up drinking." "H'm, that idea never occured to me. What's your charge for the advice?" "Nothing!" "Nothing! I'm much obliged to you, doctor. Let's go and take something!"

A Piute Prophet.

Captain Zach, a piute who is said to have kicked up his heels and cavorted over the alkali plains, Nevada, for more than 80 summers, being questioned in regard to the coming winter, he said: "You see um this winter he be one way or two. If he take warm road he be more as any winter in long time; if he take cold road he be worst winter ever you see. He no be like common winter—he be big hot or big cold."—Territorial Enterprise

Murderous Land Quarrel.

SAN SALVADOR, Nov. 14.—A mob of two hundred men attacked the house of James Paredes, Thomas Padilla, and Captain Panche, in Nahuezalco, and murdered them, with the wives and children of the two first named. Subsequently they murdered a police captain, and several others. The victims number fourteen. A dispute regarding the proprietorship of land was the cause.

The Result of "Red Lion."

On Friday while some school boys in Ashburnhem were playing the game "red lion" a lad about 13 years of age named Bennet suffered a severe accident in the shape of a broken leg. He was assisted home by some of his companions who were, together with the lads present, of the impression that the injury was of nothing more serious than a painful bruise. Through the night, however, the limb became painful and on Saturday morning Dr. King was summoned. On examination he found that the leg was broken. The bone was set and the boy is now getting along as well as may be expected.

How it is Done.

It may be interesting to subscribers to know that the binding of Picturesque Canada has already commenced in the REVIEW Bookbindery. Various styles are chosen by subscribers. We have two new embossed designs in gold leaf for the sides, both of which are very handsome and appropriate for the work. Morocco or Calf is generally selected, the favorite colors being black, dark brown, dark red, dark blue, and dark green, either of which produce very striking effects. Parties anxious to have their volumes bound within a limited period should send in their books now, to give the binders time to finish the work properly.

Hymenial.

On Saturday evening last Mr. Charles H. Clementi, of the Post Office Department, Ottawa, and Miss Clara H. Stevenson, daughter of Mr. James Stevenson, Peterborough, were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father by the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, M. A., Rector of St. John's Church, in the presence of a number of the friends of the young couple. Miss Lillie Barlee and Miss Florence Stevenson were the bridesmaids and Mr. George Scott, of Toronto, was groomsman. The bride was the recipent of a very large number of beautiful and costly presents. The happy couple departed on the Ontario and Quebec Railway on a tour to the east and to New York. We unite with their friends in wishing them a long life of uninterrupted happiness.

To-Night at the Opera House.

The benefit concert accorded to Messrs. Clarke, Simons and Wallbrook will be held in the Opera House to-night. The programme is an exceedingly good one and one which cannot fail to be appreciated. The services of Miss Rose Clark, the medalist in elocution at the Whitby Ladies' College, have been secured. Mrs. Chambers, the favorite soprano of Peterborough, will also be a special feature. Mr. Clarke himself will appear and give an imitation of the London church chimes. The programme abounds in rare and interesting features and those who attend will undoubtedly be well satisfied with the way in which they spend the evening. Messrs. Clarke, Simons and Wallbrook have given their time, talent and services to a great many church and other entertainments during the past few years and those who profited by their services should come out to-night and show their appreciation in a substantial way.

FOR TRIMMED and Untrimmed Millinery at the lowest possible prices, call at Alexander's.

Fire on Harvey Street.

At about half past one o'clock on Sunday morning a fire broke out in a cooper shop on Harvey street belonging to Mr. John Britton. The fire alarm was wrung, but before the firemen arrived the building, which was a wooden structure, was burned almost to the ground. In a few seconds after the hose cart arrived two streams of water, supplied from hydrants, were playing on the adjoining brick building, which was happily saved, with the exception of part of the roof. Mr. Britton is of the opinion that the fire was the result of incendiarism. The cooper shop was burned about four years ago, but was rebuilt on a larger scale, this making the second time it has been reduced to ashes. The building was insured in the Norwich Company for $300, and in the Northern for $150. The machinery was insured in the Northern for $70.

The Talmage Lecture.

Perhaps never was there such a rush for seats at the Opera House, Peterborough, on any occasion as is experienced in regard to the lecture "Big Blunders," which will be delivered by the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage on Wednesday night, under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows. Only a few days after the first notice of the lecture the best seats were all secured and now only a few seats under the gallery remain to be disposed of. Mr. J. Minore, Secretary of the Lodge, has received telegrams from Lakefield, Norwood, Hastings, Lindsay and other places requesting him to secure seats. Special trains will be run from all these places and as large numbers are expected no doubt the Opera House will be packed. The Peterborough people should lose no time in securing their seats as they will be speedily taken when the trains arrive. Perhaps this will be the last time that the Peterborough public will have opportunity of hearing this renowned and eloquent lecturer.

Chit Chat.

—Cooler.

—A few fine flakes flew this forenoon.

—The stove dealers are now reaping their harvest.

—There is a big run on stoves.

—A meeting of St. John's branch of the C.E.T.S. will be held on Tuesday evening.

—She thrice adjourned inquest on the body of John Johnston will be held in the Court House to-morrow evening.

—The quarterly meeting of the members of the Mechanic's Institute will be held at 7.30 this evening.

—When the firemen were hauling the heavy hose cart up the street on Sunday morning, a lady who had been aroused volunteered her assistance and helped them to pull the cart for some distance. The gallant firemen were so well pleased by her kindness that they think of organizing a ladies' company in connection with the brigade.

Xmas Cards.

Our Xmas Cards will be ready in a few days. Having sold out our stock last year completely, as many of our customers are aware, we are prepared with the finest and choicest cards procurable for this season's trade, all new. We will confidently submit the cards for inspection, believing the same verdict will be rendered this year as last, as to their cheapness and beauty, and expressed by the same indisputable proof—the clearance out of the whole stock. A. L. DAVIS & Co.

Experience Teaches.

Many there are who have learned to their sorrow the truthfulness of the above, and who, after due reflection, resolve to steer a straight course in the future and thus keep far away from anything that would be the means of again causing them to grieve for time lost and money spent foolishly. Some reflect wisely, and in many cases, profit by their experience, while others, finding it difficult to leave the accustomed path of their every-day life, trudge slowly on, never once stopping to think how to save a penny. To the latter class a little wholesome advice is necessary. You want good and at the same time cheap clothing for the winter; this is imperative—you cannot do without them. You have not a small fortune to spend, but you want a good article nevertheless. Of course you do; that's right. Then call on A. McNeil, at Habiliment Hall, and you will act the part of a wise and prudent man.

THE FIRE BRIGADE—A SUGGESTION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I had occasion the night before last to see something of the work that our volunteer firemen have to go through, whenever a fire occurs—and this was only a very small fire indeed. On the alarm of fire at half-past one at night they had to spring from their comfortable beds, hurry on their clothes and run in some cases a long distance to the fire hall; then as soon as three or four were on hand they had to drag the heavy hose reel, with what speed they could, through the muddy streets—a labor in itself—and having got the water on they had to work away until after four o'clock, before they had this comparatively insignificant fire completely out. Then they had to get the hose reel back to the station, separating about half-past four, some of them wet and cold, and all tired and hungry. Then the most of them, if not all, have to be at work at seven in the morning, as if nothing had happened, and all this without pay. The work at an ordinary fire is most exhausting. Men feel the need of some stimulent to make up for this exhaustion, and that the stimulant may be of a harmeless kind, and that we may do at least a little towards making more comfortable the men who voluntarily and without remuneration protect us against this terrible foe, I suggest that there be established at the fire hall the means for supplying to the firemen a cup of hot coffee or beef tea and something to eat on their return from a fire. In the first place there would be required a couple of coffee or tea boilers with spirit lamps, such as are used in restaurants, and a supply of crockery, &c. Then there would have to be kept on hand and renewed from time to time a supply of coffee, sugar, condensed milk, beef-tea, biscuits and cheese and other eatables that would keep. On the fire being got under control, one or two members could return before the rest to the Hall and have all the preparations made, or in case of a long continued fight with the fire the refreshments could be brought to the spot. As the ladies always do anything of this sort in the best and happiest way, would it be asking them too much to beg them to take the matter up and organize a committee to look after it? I am satisfied that all needed subscriptions would readily be given by the citizens generally. Will the ladies who are willing to assist please hold up their hands?

Yours, etc.,
E. B. EDWARDS.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1884.

A PRECIOUS EPISTLE.

During the recent election in Beauce a remarkable incident occurred which goes to show the character of rouge politicians. Mr. de Lery, of that county, is a strong Conservative, and was a warm supporter of Mr. Taschereau, the Conservative candidate. He had special charge of the interests of the party in a particular part of the county, and was therefore in a quasi position of trust in respect of it. He is a personal friend of Mr. Langelier, brother of the member for Megantic, and was formerly member in the Legislative Assembly for the County of Montmorency, and one of the most active of the Liberal leaders in the district of Quebec. Taking advantage of this friendship, the latter wrote to Mr. de Lery on the eve of the election, the following remarkable letter:—

"ST. JOSEPH, 30th October, 1884.

"MY DEAR WILLIAM,—Whyte, the Liberal candidate, has been elected by a majority of 43. This is a sign of the times. We are also going to carry Beauce. Why, without appearing to do so, not give us a lift (coup d'epaule). TELL YOUR FRIENDS QUIETLY TO VOTE FOR POIRIER This is the best way to preserve your popularity. Listen to me for this time. You see that the Federal Government is going to the devil; what is the use of supporting it as you are doing? I depend upon your giving us a helping hand. ARRANGE WITH DEMERS.

"Yours truly,

(Signed) "CHARLES LANGELIER.

"P. S.—It appears that Theberge and others have proofs of corruption on your part, and they propose to prosecute you for the penalty. WE WE WILL ARANGE ALL THIS LATER ON."

We take it that, as in the proverbial case of a lady's letter, the point of the above is in the postcrip. It was bad, it was miserably discreditable and dishonourable on the part of Mr. Langelier, to suggest, under the sacred name of friendship, the base betrayal of trust which he proposed to Mr. de Lery; but it was if possible still more infamous to suggest a punishment to be inflicted in the event of that gentleman's failing to listen to the base proposal. Mr. Langelier may plead that his conduct was not altogether without precedent, that the "speak now" episode in Mr. Blake's career, and the Hertepisode in Mr Mowat's, furnish some justification for this kind of political method. But honest men of all parties can have but one feeling, that of unmitigated disgust at the writer of such a letter as that which we publish above. Mr. de Lery, unlike the late Mr. Wood, and the present Mr. Hart, treated this suggestion with the indignation which it merited. He remained true to his party and his trust; and he has handed over his tempter to the well-merited contempt of honest men of all parties.—Montreal Gazette.

The Plenary Council.

The Plenary Council, now in session at Baltimore, is the most significant Roman Catholic gathering ever held on this continent. A Plenary Council comes next in order of importance to a General Council, such as the Council of Trent, or the Council held at Rome in 1869-70, when the doctrine of the infallibility of the Pope was promulgated. The Baltimore gathering consists of all the church dignitaries of the United States. There are in attendance 13 Archbishops, 60 Bishops, 7 Abbots, 1 Prefect Apostolic, 11 Monsignori, 18 Vicars-General, 23 superiors of religious orders, 12 rectors of seminaries and 90 theologians. The acts and decrees of the Council are decided upon in private session. Until these have been forwarded to Rome, and have received the sanction of the Pope, they will not be made public.

An Abduction Outrage.

HAMILTON, Nov. 16.—On Saturday night, about 7.30, three men in a buggy grabbed a woman from the sidewalk at the corner of John and Catharine streets, and drove off with her, despite her struggles to escape, and cries of "They'll kill me!" "They'll kill me!" Several citizens hearing the cries ran after the rig as it turned up the mountain, but the men drove very fast, two of them endeavoring to stop the woman's cries, and the third lashing the horse, and the startled citizens were unable to overtake them.

A Secret Lead Mine.

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 17.—A party of Cornplanter Indians not long ago went to a point in the neighboring county of Armstrong, and returned with a good supply of native lead. The Indians have for a hundred years known the locality of a good lead mine in that county, but all efforts of the whites to discover the locality have failed, as the Idnians always cover up their tracks successfully. Experts are now making a thorough investigation, and hope to find the vein.

Cost of the Hocking Valley Strike.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 15.—The committee of the Board of Trade to-night reported the losses sustained by the strike in Hocking Valley since June 17, as follows: Loss of trade to members of the board and coal companies. $1,630,000; to business outside the board, $350,000; loss of freight to railroads centreing here, $225,000. It is estimated that this city's proportion of the losses is $3,500,000.

Preparing for the Presidency.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—It is believed that Cleveland will resign the governorship before January 1, so as to let Governor Hill pass upon the work of the entire session of the Legislature. It is understood that Cleveland will not consider the matter of his Cabinet until he resigns the gubernatorial office.

Killed by a Policeman.

DETROIT, Nov. 17.—A tragedy was enacted at 3 o'clock on Sunday morning in the alley bounded by Croghan and Lafayette streets and McDougall and Elmwood avenues. Patrolman Thos. Holland shot and instantly killed Edward Bates in his own yard. There were no witnesses to the shooting, which the officer claims to have been accidental.

A Double Drowning.

PORT ELGIN, Nov. 17.—A heavy sea was running to-day when two men and a boy ventured out to lift nets, and had made two trips safely in a yawl, but the third time the boat was capsized, throwing all out. It is thought two of them became entangled in the net, as they were never seen to rise again. The third, man named Barner, managed to get hold of the boat, but when rescued was in a very low condition. The names of the drowned were Alvin Shoemaker and Robt. Strong, a boy aged 14 years. Shoemaker leaves a wife and three children.

Timber Churches.

The common tradition, says the Builder, that the timber of old churches was frequently of chestnut, seems to be exploded by the researches of the French chemist, M. Payen, who procured a large number of pieces for examination, and pronounced that they were not chestnut, added to which, chestnut trees, whatever their abundance in olden times, are now extremely rare. We are told that if letters were drawn upon oak and chestnut planks, by means of pure sulphate of iron dissolved in distilled water, the characters appear at once in black upon the oak and deep violet upon the chestnut, while ammonia produces a short-lived red upon the chestnut, which is much paler and less distinct upon the oak. Another mode of examination is by making sections of the wood, which cannot well be mistaken, as chestnut timber possesses only eccentric layers, while all French and American varieties of oak show the medullary rays crossing the woody fiber from the center across the circumference.

If you want Underclothing, don't procrastinate, but avail yourself of the twenty per cent. discount now being offered on all sales of Winter Underclothing at Andrew McNeil's.

Wooden Water Pipe.

Respecting the durability of wooden water pipe, a member of the Engineers' Club, of Philadelphia, said: "The section of spruce was originally about 14 inches in dimater at the large end and somewhat smaller at the other, having a rot iron band about 1½ in. wide, ⅜ in. thick at one end and tapering to a thin edge at the other, so that it could be driven on or into the end of the log near the outer circumference. A piece of iron pipe 4 in. internal diameter and about 12 inches long, tapered to a thin edge at each end, served to connect the ends of the two adjoining logs, which were driven over it end to end, and prevented from splitting by the iron bands around the ends of the logs. In some cases no interior iron coupling pipe was used; one log was tapered at one end and driven into the next one, which was prevented from splitting by the exterior iron band. The 4 in. pipes, so far found, were of yellow pine, spruce, and oak, of about 12 feet lengths, and from 12 to 24 feet in diameter, and supposed to have been laid between 1795 and 1805; the depth at which they were found varied from 2 to 8 feet below the surface of the street. The outer bark and heartwood of the spruce logs were generally sound, while the inner bark and sapwood were decayed, except where the soil was dry, gravelly or porous, when the greater part of the wood was decayed and the iron badly corroded. A specimen of red oak from a log adjoining the spruce one was decayed on the under side, but other portions looked nearly as fresh as if recently laid.

REFORM CORRUPTION.

AGAIN the manner of conducting an election in Ontario have been before a law court, and again our judges find that corruption by Reformers was rampant. Within the last few days judicial decisions has been given in four cases, and in all four cases judges find the self-styled party of purity to be grossly corrupt.

Algoma is the last constituency that has formed the subject of enquiry, with the old result. Mr. Lyon, it will be remembered, fraudulently misrepresented the constituency for the last session, but knowing himself to be a fraud, he ran away from the prospect of facing a law court, confessing himself to be an imposter and usurper of the rights of others. He hoped that he would thus check further investigation, but he was mistaken. The case was still taken before the court, and one of our judges has branded him as personally corrupt. The other judge, though more lenient, does not absolve him, but gives him the benefit of the doubt as to the matter of disqualification, there being a loophole of escape on account of such corrupt acts being necessarily deeds of darkness, and difficult of absolute, direct proof.

It will be remembered that this Lyon was placed in his usurped seat by the conspiracy of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, with their tools, to disfranchise the majority of the electors of Algoma by closing polling places where Conservatives abounded, and by every other corrupt trick that could be practised. It will also be remembered that this same Lyon conspired with Mr. Mowat and his colleagues to run after and invite bribes from political opponents in order to slander the leaders of the Conservative party by pretending that they participated in these transactions. In reward for these base services Mr. Mowat rewarded his tool by most nefarious legislation to shelter him, if possible, from the law. It was, however, in vain, and the name of Lyon is added to the long list of Reformers whose pretended purity hides gross corruption.

AN HISTORIC REFORMER.

EITHER because it is strangely ignorant of history, or because of its usual utter disregard for truth, the Globe perpetrates a most absurd blunder in comparing Sir John Macdonald to Walpole. We may inform the Globe that Walpole was not a Conservative, but a Reformer. The very fact that Walpole was notorious for corrupting politicians should have prevented the Globe from thus running off the track. A better parallel for Walpole would be the Hon. E. Blake, who in Toronto bought a Minister out of the Cabinet and a Speaker out of the chair; who in Ottawa sat in Council with colleagues, a third of whom were bought from the other side of the House; and who last session, by his agent, the Globe, offered, though in vain, to buy up the Quebec representatives wholesale. Walpole was far too consistent a Reformer for the Globe to pass him off as a Conservative. A school boy would be ashamed of such a falsification of history as is involved in classifying Walpole as a Conservative.

THE WORLD'S TELEGRAPH.

The Dominion of Canada as Compared With Other Countries.

A Brantford contemporary says:—Canada has been represented to be a "Slow-going" country. We don't believe it. In the matter of great internal improvements, she stands first among the countries of the world, regard being had to population. In railways she has gone ahead with wonderful rapidity, and in canals she is not wanting, and in telegraphic lines she is as prominent as she is in railways. A recent report of the Public Works Department points out that our telegraphic accommodation is greater than either that of the United States or any European Country. The number of offices in Canada is 2,259, or one to 1,914 of the population, as based on the census of 1881. In the Scientific American, it is stated that the number of American telegraph offices in 1882, was 12,917, and the number of telegrams forwarded during the year was 40,581,177. The number of telegraph offices in Great Britain and Ireland in 1832, was 5,747, the number of telegrams forwarded being 32,965,029. Germany had 10,803 offices, the number of telegrams forwarded being 26,260,124. Russia had 2,813, the number of telegrams forwarded being 9,800,201. Belgium had 835 offices, the number of telegrams forwarded being 4,066,843. Spain had 647 offices, the number of telegrams forwarded being 2,830,186. British India had 1,025 offices, the number of telegrams forwarded being 2,032,605. Switzerland had 1,160 offices, Italy, 2,590, and Austria, 2,696. The number of telegrams forwarded in the last three countries mentioned was 8,040,182, 7,026,287 and 6,626,303, respectively. It will be seen by these figures having regard to population, that Canada stands A No. 1. while she stands only third or fourth among the nations in the absolute magnitude of her commerce. To say under these circumstances, that Canada is a "slow-going" country, is to pronounce upon her an unmitigated libel.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The Medical Officer's Report—A Review of the Work.

The following is the report of Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, which was submitted to the Board of Health:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Peterborough Board of Health:

GENTLEMEN,—In presenting to you the Medical Health Officer's first annual report, a word or two may be said in reference to the purposes of these institutions which an Act of Parliament has rendered necessary in the Municipalities of the Province.

The first, and I believe the greatest object, is to call attention to the vast importance of sanitary work, more particularly in crowded towns, in limiting the progress of disease, in removing those unhealthful conditions which are a standing invitation to outside epidemics, in not only giving the prospect of longer life to our citizens, but ensuring that they shall be healthier and happier and more fit to cope with the struggles of existence. Coupled with this is popular education in the means by which this perfect sanitary condition may be brought about. The second object is the enforcement by law of sanitary precautions and necessities where occasion demands it.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" should be the motto of every Board of Health. When sickness comes it is too late to act. The blow has been struck, and we can as soon expect to give life to a murdered man by punishing the assassin as to cure the disease by putting an end to its cause. It is unquestionable that a large proportion of diseases is due to conditions arising from ignorance of the laws of life or carelessness of their effects. Consequently by proper attention to these conditions many diseases may be prevented, or, at the least, greatly ameliorated. As an instance of the value of sanitary work in lessening the tables of morality we may take the ratio of deaths to population during the six years before the passage of the English Health Act of 1875 and the six years after that date. We find that during the first mentioned period the death rate was 22.09 per 1,000 and during the last mentioned 20.63 per 1,000, the total saving thus effected in six years amounting to 119,118 lives. A skeptic might say that this was all chance. Science believes in no such thing as chance. Science believes that everything happens as the result of an inexorable law, that every atom of dust blown about the streets is deposited in its place, that every drop of rain is urged to its destination by the resistless force of that law. Precisely the same thing occurs as regards the elements of disease. Not a germ of disease floats through our air but was generated by exact conditions and will reproduce its kind when it lodges in the proper soil as surely as wheat produces wheat, or an acorn the oak. It is time, therefore, that we should get rid of the idea that disease comes by the visitation of God, that is to say, that it is unpreventable and should be submitted to with the fatalism of a Hindoo. Some time ago a serious epidemic visited Scotland and the people asked Lord Palmerston, the then Prime Minister, to appoint a day of humiliation and prayer for the aversion of the plague. He answered that as soon as the people had cleaned up the filth about their streets and dwelling houses he would have no objection to accede to their request, but that before such measures had been taken, it would only be an insult to the Almighty to ask Him to remove what had been caused by negligence and could be checked by their own exertions. The rule is applicable everywhere. Strict cleanliness is the great precautionary measure. And this cleanliness must be general, thorough and constant. A town which, otherwise a model of sanity perfection, presents a single nuisance, is similar to a splendidly fenced field of grain with one little gate open. Epidemics are sometimes a blessing in disguise by arousing popular attention to sanitary errors. It would, however, be criminal to wait for epidemics. Let us be constantly alive to our necessities. Eternal vigilance is the price of health as well as of liberty.

During the first few months the Board has been in operation much has been done. Although late in starting a good commencement has been made. To be sure we have not done all we could have wished. Our hands have been tied by various causes. Some questions have arisen as to the correct intrepretation of the law. Being a new thing it was natural too that many should object to the stringency of some clauses. But I think I am justified in saying that upon the whole the law has worked well, and that there is a general feeling among the public that even those regulations that are least palatable should be carried out, not, perhaps, with the utmost rigor, but with a temperate firmness which is certain to attain the desired end.

The particular questions that claim the attention of the Board are

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

From a sanitary point of view when a town reaches the dimensions of Peterborough all slaughter houses should be removed outside. From the very necessities of the case they must gather about them more or less deleterious matter, even though the utmost caution be exercised. Careful inspection has been made once or twice a week during the season, and the butchers themselves acknowledge the benefit of a stricter attention to cleanliness. I believe they have done their best to meet the views of the Board. Some of the places being old and more saturated with soakage have necessitated the use of large quantities of disinfectants. The very troubles used in keeping them passably clean is an evidence of the difficulties in the way.

SEWERAGE.

The necessity for better sewerage was urged in a former report, and need not be referred to except to emphasize what was then said. I have talked over the matter with most of the medical men here, and they unanimously consider it one of the most pressing needs of the town. Private individuals and large property owners take the same view.

Closely connected with this is the question of the disposal of excreta, and earth closets. At a former meeting of this Board a resolution was passed insisting upon the substitution of dry earth closets for privy vaults in the central parts of the town. Although a good deal of interest has been awakened by the subject, few have complied with the resolution. The season is late and we are not sure yet that the most convenient and economical form of dry earth closet has been put in the market. I visited before that a good kind was being manufactured in town. Further improvements have been made in it to meet more extensive requirements. A stock company has also commenced the manufacture in Toronto of an earth closet largely used in England, and known as Heap's earth closet. Others are at work, and next season we bid fair to have the subject forced upon us by the solicitations of sellers as well as by the decrees of the Board. An important point is the supply of dry earth, for it is precisely where it is most needed that it is hardest to be procured. We have urged the matter upon the attention of gardeners and others. A lucrative business might be done in supplying dry earth for closets and removing excreta for purposes of fertilization. When we consider that from a town of 8,500 or 9,000 inhabitants, upwards of 200 tons of solid excreta might annually be obtained under a good system, we may judge of the fertilizing power that is lost. With the dry earth system all this might be removed in broad daylight without the slightest offence. When these facts are known more generally there will be no obstruction to the working of the dry earth system.

REMOVAL OF GARBAGE.

This is another important question. Scavenger carts ought to be more common in our town. Hotels and private families have a large amount of table and kitchen refuse difficult to dispose of. Pigs are prohibited, and in consequence everything is thrown into the back yards, or too often into the privy. In the investigation of nuisances we have found this to be a common cause of complaint among neighbors.

WELLS.

Since last report I have analyzed the water from several more wells, and found considerable organic matter in most of them. The purity of water can not always be judged of by its appearance. As stated in the first annual report of the Provincial Board of Health "well water may be bright, cool and sparkling, and yet highly dangerous, from the presence of the products of decomposing nitrogeneus matter, and frequently from the presence of specific germs that may have filtered from neighbouring privies. Under the microscope water containing sewage discloses the presence of bacteria and infusoria, the frequent causes of bowel complaints, typhoid and other diseases. The notion that by filtering through the earth water is rendered pure is an erroneous one." Considering the vast amount of excreta with which the earth is saturated it is a wonder that diseases from impurities in water is not more common. At the same time we are always running a risk, the only remedy for which is to obtain our drinking water from a pure source, outside of the town.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

It is a matter for congratulation that no serious epidemic has visited the town this season. The most noticeable feature under this head has been the occurrence of a number of cases of typhoid fever, a fact of melancholy interest to the Board of Health as thereby we lost one of our most faithful members. Fortunately this disease, owing to the more rational treatment of the present day, has a favourable termination in the majority of cases, but its presence in any form is an indication of sanitary error. The reported cases have been subjected to strict investigation, and are believed to be due not so much to general causes as to some local neglect. Typhoid fever is one of those diseases which ought to be completely prevented by the adoption of enlightened principles.

A few cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria have also occurred. When reported complete seclusion has been insisted upon. Disinfectants, and the various other means of limiting the disease, have been used. Reported cases have also been placarded.

Respecting the reports of medical men in infectious disease, this part of the Act has not been as satisfactorily carried out as I could wish. Some of the leading practitioners have sent in reports faithfully, and have been active in giving assistance in furthering the regulations of the statute, but quite a number of cases are not heard of except by accident. These oversights will become less frequent as the advantages of the law are more fully recognized.

A few other matters claim our notice. The Spaulding's Bay question has been discussed ad nauseam. No medical expert is needed to prove it a nuisance of the first order. It is sincerely to be hoped that some means will be found by which this town nuisance may be abolished, and thereby an example set to minor offenders.

The closing or reconstruction of the Hunter street drain seems to have been relegated to the limbo of too expensive luxuries. In the exact centre of the town, it smells to heaven as if a Presidential candidate were buried there. In default of more thorough work a great change might be made by simply cleaning out the shaft and putting a few pounds of disinfectant at the bottom.

The condition of the streets demands our notice also. I think they should be scraped oftener, particularly in the latter part of summer and fall. There is too much mud. Let us think for a moment of the composition of this mud. The sweepings of the stores, scraps of fruit, manure, dirt of all kinds festering together in an unsavory mass. When dry weather and high winds come all this is blown in the form of dust about the streets to be inhaled by everybody, the prolific cause of catarrhs, bronchitis, feavers, diarrhœa, and it is hard to say what else.

The sawdust nuisance is another point of importance, but being of general interest is dealt with more fully in the answer to a series of questions issued by the Provincial Board. What we should think of is the fact that half a dozen mills are discharging constantly into the river an amount of sawdust equal to about 10 per cent. of the output of lumber, that a large proportion of this is carried into the Little Lake, that there it is mixed with sewage and other refuse from the town and surrounding shores, and that thus there is danger of the lake being converted ultimately, in part or in whole, from a beautiful sheet of water, admirably for purposes of recreation, into a vast malarious marsh in comparison with which Spaulding's Bay would seem a rose bed. Certainly this subject should receive the most careful consideration and comprehensive measures be taken with as little delay as possible.

In compliance with a request from the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, weekly reports of disease, instead of monthly, as formerly, have been sent up. These, I believe, will give as fair an idea as possible of the ratio and prevalance of diseases in the municipality.

I may say here that I have received scores of complaints as to nuisances of all kinds, alleged or real, from private individuals who did not wish their names mentioned or the matter brought before the Board. With the assistance of the Inspectors, I have endeavored to have these affairs rectified as satisfactorily as possible. But it should be remembered by the public that the laws of the Board of Health are similar to any other laws, and that complete satisfaction can only be obtained by open and undisguised complaint.

To conclude, as I stated in the beginning, education is of paramount importance. How should this be obtained? The time is coming when we shall have it taught in our schools, but that is not yet. Our newspapers do noble work in giving the public selections from the best medical and sanitary publications. The Provincial Board of Health distributes pamphlets as far as its means allow, but these means are limited. To help along the good work I propose next spring and summer to write a series of letters to the papers on various sanitary subjects, giving practical hints as to those questions which lie nearest us and concern every individual. It is my desire, and I am sure it is the desire of every member of of this Board, that the town of Peterborough, so conspicuous among other towns by its beauty and situation, by the enterprise and prosperity of its citizens, may be noted still more for that perfection of sanitary arrangement without which all natural gifts and all acquired advantages would be in vain.

Respectfully submitted,
J. CLARKE, M. D.,
Med. Health Officer.

THEN AND NOW.

I loved you not. A year since leaves were falling
And autumn clouds hung gray with discontent,
And through the woods the sighing winds were calling
As if to find the way the summer went,
Do you remember when the sullen river
Gave back the dreary sky?—then first we met—
And oh! how soon sped darts from Cupid's quiver
But harmless fell—I'd not learnt loving yet—
For then I loved you not.

I love you now. Again the winds are raging
Amid the leaves upon the autumn boughs,
And scarlet, red and brown the leaves are changing,
As all things change, except, perhaps, our vows.
I love you now—what need to pause and ponder?
Love knows no law, and leaves no room to guess
The ceason for his coming—then why ponder
That I so prize these hours of happiness?—
For oh! I love you now.

SOMETIME.

Sometimes, in my life's early morning,
Sweet dreams of the future there came;
Dreams of the future immortal,
Of a life full of glory and fame;
But the sweet dreams of childhood are over
And awakened by thoughts more sublime
My laurels I'll reap at Death's river,
As I cross its dark water sometime.

Sometimes, when my soul is weary
And burdened with care and woe,
I wander along by the streamlet,
And list to its musical flow;
And I fancy the voice of an angel
Blends with its musical chime,
Awakening my soul from its slumber
With its notes of the sweet sometime.

Sometimes I think of a loved one
Who has passed from mortal sight,
Borne away in the arms of the angels,
Away to the mansions of light;
Up the golden stairs, unfettered,
His world-weary feet may climb;
I, too, shall mount it, besides him,
In the distant, yet near, sometime.

WOOD PAVEMENTS.

As containing data and deductions of general interest, we publish a letter recently written by Joseph P. Card, of St. Louis, to O. Chanute, C. E. While the fact that the writer is the president of a wood-preserving company should be given due weight, it should be also remembered that he is an expert in this line of practice, and has diligently studied all the bearings of the case from a business as well as a constructive standpoint:

"In the first place," says Mr. Joseph P. Card, "it is admitted by all, that it is of little use to lay any pavement without a good and substantial foundation, and none of the substances used requires this more than wood.

"Such being the case, a substantial concrete foundation is first laid, and it should cost the same, whether granite, wood, or other material be placed upon it; consequently the only thing to be considered is the cost of the wearing surface, the lasting qualities of same, and its desirability as a pavement when completed.

"In my opinion, the trouble with wood pavements in this country has been: First, the lack of a proper foundation. Second, the people generally have expected a wood pavement, which should have cost as usually laid (with a board foundation) $1.25 per square yard, to last as long as a granite pavement (with a concrete foundation) that cost $4.50 or more per yard.

"Now we take Broadway, New York, for instance, which is 44 feet wide, with a concrete foundation, ready to receive either granite or wood blocks, and suppose granite block are laid at a cost of say $3.60 per square yard, which would be equivalent to $8.80 per front foot for the abutting property.

"On the other hand, a preserved wood block pavement is laid with blocks say 3½ inches by 5 inches deep, leaving a space of ¼ to ⅜ of an inch between the rows, to be filled with suitable materiol, at a cost of $1.62 per square yard, or $3.96 per front foot.

"Now what would be the result? The granite pavement would probably last 10 to 15 years with slight repairs, and the wood pavement 5 to 9; but for comparison we will suppose the granite to last 15 years and the wood 5.

"The granite costing $8.80 per front foot, the wood $3.90 for five years, or $11.88 for 15 years (allowing two renewals), and deducting 79 cents difference in interest at 6 per cent. would make wood cost for this period of time $11.09 per front foot, or a difference of $2.29 per front foot, equal to 15 cents per front foot per year more than granite, which is virtually nothing.

"Now, in my opinion, the wood pavement would be more likely to last over five years than the granite to last 15; but if I am incorrect, who is there living or doing business in a street like Broadway, where property is worth thousands per front foot, that would not willingly pay the slight difference, or many times the difference to get rid of the incessant noise and confusion incident to a stone pavement?

"I think the thoroughfares should be paved with wood, and the by-streets with granite or stone, as it would last indifinitely.

"My reason for using a five inch wooden block is, that when the surface of the street becomes worn down to the extent of 2 to 2½ inches, it becomes so irregular that the remainder of the blocks, whether 2½ or 5 inches, are so softened with moisture, which accumulates in the depressions from rainfall or by sprinkling, that they soon go to pieces.

"Wood on end, if it could be kept dry, would outwear granite, as shown by Col. Flad's tests made at our water works here, consequently the drier the wearing surface is kept the less wear.

"Fully creosoted wood blocks under heavy traffic wear rapidly, as shown on the Brooklyn bridge, for the reason that the oil keeps the fiber soft.

"There was more wear on the St. Louis bridge, which is paved with wood, in the two months which the bridge was salted, to remove slush and ice, than in the balance of the year.

"In other words, the principal wear of any wood pavement occurs during wet weather, and the aim should be to keep the wearing surface of the wood as dry and smooth as possible.

"With a good concrete foundation once down, the wooden blocks could be renewed when necessary, during night time, with little or no inconvenience to travel.

"From a sanitary point of view, the concrete foundation would prevent what most people seem to dread, the leaking through of impurities to the soil beneath, while the treated blocks would disinfect any portion that might enter the same."—Scientific American.

The Congo Conference.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—Prince Bismarck, in his speech at the opening of the Congo conference, alluded to the high, beneficient and pacific aims the conference had before it. It had for its object the solution of three main questions. Free navigation with freedom of trade on the Congo river, free navigation of the Niger river and the formalities of the valid annexation of territory to be observed in future on the continent of Africa. Negatively the conference would not concern itself with the present questions of sovereignty. The Chancellor hoped the labours of the conference would result in the further increase of peace and good-will among the nations. Sir, E. Malet, the British Commissioner, echoed the sentiments expressed by Prince Bismark and accepted the points proposed as the basis for discussion, with the following reservation: England was willing to see the principles of free navigation, etc., extended to the Niger, but expected that surveillance over the exercise of those principles would not be made the business of an International body. That was only the privilege of England, as she was the chief, if not sole proprietary power of the Lower Niger. Portugal has drawn up a memorandum to the Conference, insisting on her right to the Congo, and declaring Portuguese treasure and blood had been freely spent to maintain order on the Congo for the benefit of the commerce of all nations. Portugal admits the principle of freedom of passage along the great African rivers, and has no intention of establishing a restrictive tariff. She would merely exact taxes from trade sufficient to protect the liberty and safety of person and property.

TREES IN CITIES.

The planting of Gray's-in-road will be no small part of the improvement of a district of London that till recently had few attractions, and if the Holborn Board of Works be stimulated to carry on the work it is only to be hoped that other bodies will follow the good example. Any one who has looked down on London from great height—say from St. Paul or Queen Anne Mansions—will have been surprised at its greenness. Little oases of verdure are freely spread about through the great wilderness of brick or soot-stained stone. And yet London does not give the general impression of a city where tree life is valued or cultivated. One great essayist of the past generation, who busied himself much with the charms and attractions of the great city, used to boast that in the busiest part of the capital a Londoner need still never lose sight of a tree, and he used to mention with pride and special example near Ironmonger lane which saved Cheapside from being an exception to his rule. But the truth is that London gas and London trees are hidden away from the ordinary predestrian. They are to be met with in the parks and squares and in a few little secluded churchyards insulated and themselves almost buried in the surrounding bricks and mortar. In fact tree life for London is passing through a period of transition. Our ancestors planted elms and oaks apparently without much sympathy or appreciation of their value. London grew apace. London atmosphere developed a new constituent and the smoke and soot flakes of a busy and dirty city killed many and stunted most of the city trees. Then came what may almost be called a discovery. The singular fitness of the plantain, shedding annually its year's growth of bark and the crop of soot that had settled upon it, was demonstrated just when it was needed. There is no reason why all the great London arteries might not show something of the greenness of the Thames Embankment. Portland place might be such a boulevard as Paris would be proud of. On the Ziel at Frankfort they have freely planted trees that leave a Londoner without his favorite excuse of the climate and the smoke.—London Daily News.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Acknowledgment.

We have to thank Mr. R. J. McCallum for copies of Valparaiso, Indiana, papers. The Democrats in that city appear to be very highly elated over the result of the election.

Rev. A. H. Munro's Bible Class.

The Rev. Mr. Munro will take up the Mosaic civil law in the Bible Class to-night in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, (over the Post Office). Last week the subject under consideration was the Tabernacle. The session was one of the most interesting that the class has ever had. All young men are invited to attend this class.

FOR TRIMMED and Untrimmed Millinery at the lowest possible prices, call at Alexander's.

Mill-Dam Re-Built.

The dam forming water power for the Auburn Woollen Mills, the Hilliard flour and saw mills, and the Blythe Woollen Mills, is being rebuilt. Almost the whole structure is being built up with new timber, and the heavy stone piers are being repaired. The work will cost a very considerable amount and the cost will be divided between the Auburn Mills Company and Mr. G. Hilliard.

Mechanics' Institute.

A quarterly meeting of the members of the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute was held in the rooms of the Institute, with Mr. A. Macfarlane, the President, in the chair. An amendment of the constitution was carried, empowering the Board of Directors to appoint the chairman of their standing committees and providing that the chairman of the other committees should constitute the Finance Committee. Notice of motion was given for an amendment providing that the subscriptions of members should not be taken for a less term twelve months, to end at the beginning of May in each year.

A Convenience to Travellers.

Mr. Robert Hamilton, Jr., has established near the Ontario and Quebec Railway station a very handsome and commodious refreshment restaurant. The building is one story high, is 24 x 16 feet, and is fitted up inside with every requisite convenience for a first class restuurant. The place is kept open both night and day so that the tired travellers may, when reaching Peterborough, be served with a good hot cup of coffee, a nourishing glass of beef tea, or anything in the edible line usually kept at a first class establishment. Mr. Hamilton informs us that he is being well patronized by the travelling public and the south end people. Gas is now being introduced into the building.

Returned from the North-West.

Mr. Robert Green, son of Mr. Benjamin Green, who has been for the last three years a resident of the North West, is now in town on a visit to his friends and acquaintances. He has been, together with his brothers, Messrs. Samuel and John Green, in business at Columbia, N.W.T. He brings with him several specimens of osseous articles in the shape of buffalo horns, antelope horns, mountain sheep horns, etc. He has also a collection of ores, both gold and silver, from the neighbourhood of Prince Arthur's Landing, and several specimens of fossils from the Pacific slope in the shape of petrified moss and other articles. Mr. Green informs us that the numerous Peterborough boys in the North-West Territory are obviously doing well. He is pleased with the country and will return in about two months.

Robbing the Mails.

For some months,—since the middle of the summer—letters have been missed and it was suspected that all was not right in the mail department of the Grand Junction Railway. There have been two mail clerks on the line, the custom being, we understand, for the two clerks to have charge of the mails between Peterborough and Belleville and also on the Madoc branch, taking alternate weeks in coming to Peterborough. One of the clerks was W. D. Abercrombie, whose parents reside at Picton, and as the letters were missed when he had charge of the mails to and from this town suspicion fell upon him. Efforts were made to trace the matter, and finally Inspector Jones, of the Post Office Department had the mail clerk, Abercrombie, arrested at Belleville. He appeared in the Police Court in Belleville, and was remanded until Wednesday morning. There are some fifteen charges against him.

Complimentary Benefit Concert.

The complimentary benefit concert accorded to Messrs. Clarke, Wallbrooke and Simons was held in the Opera House on Monday evening, and was in every respect a success. The concert was opened by a piano solo by Miss Rose Clarke, who afterwards distinguished herself in elocution. As an elocutionist she showed a remarkable degree of versatility in assuming characters, having impersonated different ones, from that of the naughty girl to that of the old miser. It is needless to make remarks as to Mrs. Chambers. Her singing was on Monday night, as it always is, rich, pure and sweet. Each time she appeared she was met with evidences of satisfaction, and was recalled with salvos of applause. In the "Wood Nymph's Call," her style was particularly happy and the audience seemed as if they would never tire of hearing her. The artistic and illuminated club swinging of Mr. T. McNaughton was exceedingly interesting, and the audience found vent for their admiration in frequent bursts of applause. The character songs of Messrs. H. O'Neil and D. Donoghue were, to judge by the decisive encores, in high favour with the audience. They were each recalled. Miss. Dunn, a very petite young lady for public singing, rendered "Baby's Lullaby." She has a sweet and pleasing voice and well deserved appreciation was bestowed upon her. The Silver Shower dance of Messrs. Wallbrooke and Simons was well given and loudly encored, as was their performance further on in the programme. Mr. F. Clarke's banjo solos and his imitation of the church chimes were well received. Prof. Doucet played in the second part a piano solo which was acknowledged with appreciation. The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Rector of St. Lukes, contributed a reading. The concert was closed to the playing of "God Save the Queen" by Prof. Freeman's Orchestra, which enlivened the audience with their racy overtures several times during the evening.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Increasing north-easterly winds, mostly cloudy weather with local falls of snow, turning to rain in some localities, followed by cold north and west winds to-night.

Talmage's Lecture.

The limited number of reserve seat tickets having been disposed of, and the demand being still large, the committee have found it necessary to provide more, they have consequently done so. A new plan has been made showing the position of these seats, which are undoubtedly the best seats in the hall. Persons who have not yet secured their seats can now do so. Tickets and new plan at Hartley's music store.

A. L. DAVIS & Co.

Obituary.

The news of the death of the Rev. J. W. Buchter will doubtless be received by the people of Peterborough with profound regret. The melancholy event occurred at shortly after noon to-day. The deceased had been unwell for about two weeks, but it was thought by his friends to be only a temporary illness, and that he would soon be well, but the sickness proved to be fatal. He died of a complicated type of fever, at his residence on Murray street. The Rev. Mr. Butcher entered the ministry in connection with the Bible Christian Church, at the age of twenty, and has since lived in devoted service to Christ. He was born in Suffolk, England, and before he came to Peterborough for the first time, about sixteen years ago, he lived in Prince Edward Island. He remained in Peterborough, during his first ministration, about four years, and then was called to other stations. After serving the church for forty-one years he was superannuated, and has been in Peterborough for the past two years. At the time of his death he was sixty-three years of age. His death was unexpected and was a great shock to his large circle of friends.

The windows of Mr. M. McFadden's furniture store are now dressed with some very beautiful and interesting articles to be disposed of at the bazaar to be held in aid of St. Peter's Cathedral fund. The articles for the No. 2 ward department, consists in a handsome parlour set of furniture (7 pieces) trimmed with crimson railroad plush given by the ladies of No. 2 Ward, a set of Tambour Japanese curtains given by John McDonald & Co., of Toronto; a white waxwork cross with gracefully twining wax flowers, encased in glass and standing on a low pedestal of crimson plush, given by Miss McLaughlan; a fancy doll's bed of walnut with darn or net trimmings and cannopy top, given by Mr. McFadden; a table cover of silk and plush crazy work with hand made fringe, given by Miss Hanlan; and a marble mirror stand and mirror, given by Mr. Henry LeBrun. The articles for the No. 1 Ward department here displayed consist of a very elegant fender stool about four feet long, trimmed with gold and crimson turning cord, crimson plush, and covered at the top by fancy needlework, given by Mrs. Hurley; and a wreath of artificial flowers encased in a glass and walnut case, given by Mrs. Coughlin. A cover for a fender stool in arrasene work on garnet plush, given by Mrs. Delaney, will be disposed of in the No. 3 Ward department. The articles are tastily arranged in the windows and have attracted, during the last few days, a great deal of attention.

POLICE COURT.

OBSTRUCTING THE STREET.

TUESDAY, Nov. 18.—Mr. Jas. Stevenson presided at the Police Court this morning.

Thos. Trennum was charged by P. C. Adams with having obstructed Queen street by allowing his waggon to stand thereon longer than was necessary for transacting business. The defendant pleaded guilty and was ordered to remove the waggon and pay a fine of one dollar and costs.

Sweeping Reduction in the Price of Underclothing.

TWENTY PER CENT. DISCOUNT FOR CASH.

Having an unusually large stock of Winter Underclothing, and recognising the fact that the time to sell it is the present, we offer to the public all our Winter Underclothing at twenty per cent. discount for cash. This is no old stock; every article fresh this season. Our range is the most extensive in Peterborough, the prices running from 50c. to $3.25. It must be sold. Don't lose this opportunity. Come early, while we have the full assortment. This is no catch-penny, but a genuine reduction. It being the first time in our business history of quoting prices or offering a percentage, our friends will see the genuineness of the sale. We have the goods, and fearing we might have to carry over to next season a large percentage of our present stock if offered at the usual prices, we take this means of preventing it. Again we say it is genuine. Come and see for yourselves. It will be no trouble to show the different lines and quote prices.

KEEP OUT THE WIND AND THE WINTER!

GENTLEMEN,—

Our New Fall and Winter Tweeds and Suitings are all in Stock, and on our shelves, where you or we can lay our hands on them in a jiffy.

Too many to give separate accounts of, too many patterns to eulogize, too many lines to mention all.

They all have one object in view. To keep out the WIND and the WINTER—and to give you at the same time a stylish and gentlemanly appearance.

We'll skip stuff, cut, trimmings and buttons and much about styles, to say:—There's one way of telling you about them that touches your hearts, for it touches your pockets. THEY COST LOW and they're worth all they cost—and more.

And Mr. Peter Simon, the versatile, scientific, stylish and mathematically correct Cutter shall carve for you the goods.

THE REASON WHY

Our Shoe Store is always Crowded

With Customers is very apparent to those that have visited it and seen our immense Stock and compared our prices with those asked elsewhere for the same goods. Never have we had such Bargains in Boots and Shoes as now. Never have we sold as many as now, and the more we sell the

GREATER BARGAINS

we have, as we are able to buy in larger quantities and at corresponding low prices. We retail as many Boots and Shoes as most jobbers sell at wholesale, consequently manufacturers make no difference in price to us than wholesale trade, while smaller dealers are obliged to pay which is about the same as our regular retail price for the same quality of goods. It must be very evident to any thinking person that there must be a reason for our immense Shoe Business, and that our low prices, complete stock, and attention shown to our customers can be the only attraction powerful enough to draw such crowds to our store, and place us, with but two years' growth, as one of the largest retail Shoe Houses in Eastern Ontario.

JOBBERS' PRICES,

Remember our system of business is square with all. Goods marked in plain figures and no second or third prices made.

A HOME DRUGGIST
TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. P. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

FIRE AT OMEMEE.

The School Building and a Dwelling House Burned—The Village in Danger.

By Telephone to the Review.

OMEMEE, Nov. 19.—The union and public school building in this village was discovered to be on fire at about six o'clock last evening. It was a two and a half story frame building with two wings. The people of the village turned out and worked energetically, but the building was entirely destroyed, together with a dwelling house belonging to Mr. Johnston. There is a hook and ladder company in the village, and a hand fire engine. For a time the Town Hall, drill shed, and Orange Hall, which were near the school building, were in danger, and it was feared that the greater part of the village would be burned, but the noble work done by the villagers kept the flames from spreading further than the dwelling house mentioned. The fire originated in the east end of the school building, but from what cause is not known. There was a stove in that part of the building. The loss on the school building was about $4,500, and the only insurance on it was $1,800 in the Royal. The loss on the dwelling house was probably $300 or $400; no insurance. The school is being conducted to-day in the Town and Orange halls, so the boys were not allowed to enjoy a holiday. The school building will probably be rebuilt at once.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent. reduction on Winter Underclothing. Andrew McNeil.

AN OPEN VERDICT RETURNED.

The Concluding Inquest on The Body of John Johnston.

The adjourned inquest on the body of John Johnston was held in the Council Chamber of the Court House on Tuesday evening. All the members of the Jury were present and the coroner, Dr. Fife, conducted the inquiry. Mr. C. W. Sawers appeared for the friends of the deceased, and Mr. J. B. McWilliams acted on behalf of Mr. Cochrane.

JOHN COCHRANE, sworn, said:—I do not know anything about the circumstances of John Johnston's death. On Saturday evening, Oct. 4th, I left my own place, lot 18, in the 6th Con. of the Township of Cavendish, and started to go to Joseph White's place, in the 15th Concession, on lot 8 or 9. I got there before sundown and remained there all night. It was after day light when I got up on Sunday morning. After breakfast about 5 a. m. I started for home. I came down to Pencil Lake and there had a little delay. I had brought down my Winchester rifle to the lake and I then carried it back home again. I returned on Sunday the same way as I went on Saturday. I arrived home at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. I brought home two hind quarters of a deer which I had shot on Saturday while going to Pencil Lake. It must be as much as 8 or 9 miles from my place to Serpentine Lake. The direction I travelled on Saturday was north. I was not at Serpentine Lake or near Irwin's camp this year. I heard that Irwin had a lumber shanty back in that direction. It might take two hours to walk from my place to Pencil Lake. I bought a cow from Joseph White but don't care to answer when I bought it. It might take me four hours to go from my place to White's. The reason I remember the 4th of October is that George Westlake was at my place. It is seventeen years since I was at Serpentine Lake and it is three years since I was within a mile of it. I have two guns, one a Winchester rifle and one a shot gun. I knew Johnston well. The last time I saw him was at Roddy's hotel in Peterborough last winter. I have known him for the last twelve years. I have hunted with him and have had scarcely any quarrel with him. We had a slight difference once in regard to some dogs but we were friends in a few days again. We have talked together and on several occasions have slept together since we had that difference.

J. B. MCWILLIAMS sworn, said:—The distance from the place where the deceased was found to where John Cochrane lives is about 10 miles. I have had experience in the woods and I think it would take about seven hours to walk that distance. I do not suspect any one of killing Johnston.

After a short consultation the Jury brought in the following verdict:—"We find that the late John Johnston came to his death from the effect of a bullet having passed through his body, at whose hands, after diligent inquiry, we are unable to ascertain."

SMALL POX EPIDEMIC.

Carried into a Village through Ignorance—Five Deaths Reported.

KINGSTON, Nov. 18.—Rev. Father Fleming, of Tweed, who was in the city to-day states that smallpox is in seven families in that village. The people are terrified, and many are leaving the place. On Sunday two men died, and the priest and the grave digger had to bury their remains, as no assistance could be secured. Even the doctors refuse to attend the sick. This afternoon Father Fleming and two Sisters of Mercy left for Tweed, taking with them supply of vaccine. He was vaccinated before leaving. A gentlemen from Tamworth says smallpox is at the French village near that place, and great fears are entertained of its spreading.

SPREADING.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 18.—An outbreak of smallpox has occurred in the township of Hugerford, about four miles from the village of Stoco. The disease was brought into the locality by a Frenchman named Grinore, who was attacked by it on his return from Quebec. No one knew what his ailment was, and nothing was done to prevent the infection from spreading. A bee was held at Grinore's, and the result was that J. Granger was smitten with the disease and died from it. The Sinclair family were also attacked, and Mrs. Sinclair and one of her daughters died. Two deaths have also occurred in a family named Patterson, in the same neighbourhood. Now that the worst is known the inhabitants have established a sanitary cordon about the infected district, within which no one is allowed to penetrate, and from which no one is allowed to go out.

The Most Renowned of Dwarfs.

Jeffrey Hudson, perhaps the most renowned of all dwarfs, was born in 1619, at Oakham, in Rutlandshire. His father and mother were of the full height, and Jeffery was the only one in their family who was in any way extraordinary. Jeffrey's father kept the Duke of Buckingham's baitingbulls, and the little fellow was presented to the Duchess of Buckingham between the seventh and ninth year of his age, and when he was scarcely a foot and a half in height. It was Jeffrey Hudson who, soon after the marriage of Charles I, when that king and his bride were entertained at Burleigh, was served up to the table in cold pie, whence he jumped on to the tablecloth fully armed, and made passes at the ladies with his little sword; there is a rare old picture of this amusing incident in the dwarf's career. The duchess presented him on that occasion to Henrietta Marin, who was highly pleased with him and kept him as her dwarf for many years afterwards.

Poor Jeffrey was continually squabbling with the people about court, more especially with the giant porter of the palace. On one occasion he was nearly drowned in the basin he was washing his face and hands in. Another time a large shrub was the only obstacle between him and death by drowning in the Thames. In 1860 he was despatched on a domestic mission for Henrietta Maria, and, returning richly laden with presents from Mary of Medici to her daughter, he was made prisoner by Dunkirk privateers. Jeffrey fought a duel with Mr. Crofts, who came to the rendezvous armed with nothing more formidable than a squirt. Jeffrey, who was not inclined to submit tamely to such an insult, insisted on fighting a real duel, and shot his antagonist dead immediately. Jeffrey's portrait was painted several times by Mytens and Vandyke, and his smart little waistcoat, breeches add stockings are preserved in the Ashmolean museum at Oxford.

A Strange Case.

AURORA, Nov. 17.—People north of Aurora are agitated over what may turn out to be a narrow escape from being buried alive. A boy named Silas Lyon, seventeen years of age, only son of Mr. Henry Lyon, of the 2nd concession of Whitchurch, was taken ill a week ago last Sunday with inflammation of the bowels and died on the following Saturday. The funeral had been appointed to take place to-day. The friends of the deceased assembled, and the service, before the removal of the body, had been begun, when signs were noticed about the body indicating that life was not yet extinct. The funeral was postponed until Thursday next, by which time the painful suspense in which the family now live will doubtless have been turned into either joy or bitter disappointment.

Treed by a Bear.

Mr. Donald Irvine, one of the famous Nautilus four-oared crew, is at present in the wilds of Muskoka, working at his trade with the contractors for the new junction railway from Gravenhurst to Callender. A recent letter tells of a very exciting adventure which he had the other day. He and a companion were at some distance from the rest of the party, when a big black bear came out from behind a pile of rocks. Bruin decided that the stalwart "Scotty" would make the best eating and took after him. He beat the record at tree climbing, but the bear was accomplished in that line and followed him. Donald retired to the end of a limb and there remained till his companion returned with a rifle and the bear was shot.—St Catherines News.

Chronic Grumblers.

Grumbling and exaggeration are common faults, which are often closely related. They have their origin generally in a sour or misanthropic mood of mind which makes everything appear in dull or unsightly colors. In a great many cases bad health has something to do with the mood which creates a disposition to grumble. But a great deal of the grumbling and complaining, about things as they are, come from people who have some hobby of their own to propose as a remedy for the world's evils, and who have a comfortable conviction of the superiority of their own judgment and the infallibility of their own remedies.—Christian Guardian.

PALATKA, Fla., Nov. 17.—A number of prominent citizens who formerly resided in the Northern States have issued a statement denying the reports that negroes created disturbances here on and after the election day and fired buildings. They say the colored portion of the population deserves praise for the peaceful and quiet manner in which they acted under such excitement and disappointment.

SHELLING THE REBELS.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Dongola advices state that the rebels returned in great force to Amderman, near Khartoum, twenty days ago. Gen. Gordon sent two steamers to shell them out, but the attempt was unsuccessful. The rebels returned the fire vigorously with Krupp cannon, and with such execution that the paddle of one of the steamers was soon disabled. Both steamers have returned to Khartoum.

AFTER years of patient research among the flora of his native land, Dr. Van Buren discovered a little plant that is fast making his name famous on both sides of the Atlantic. From its health-giving sap he has given to the world a preparation now known as Dr. Van-Buren's Kidney Cure, which promptly relieves and permanently cures all kidney disease.

IF you are a professional man, an editor, lawyer, clergaman or doctor, so thoroughly overworked that now every mental effort is attended with a sense of weariness, followed by headache and more or less severe nervous prostration, take a dose of Dr. Austin's Phospha tine along with your meals every day for a week or more, and we are certain it will relieve you. An Irish gentleman was recently attended by an eminent London physician, who, pausing and looking at him with an inquiring glance, said: "I should like to know, sir, if your family have been long-lived?" "Long-lived is it?" responded the patient thoughtfully, "Well, doctor, I'll just tell you how it is. Our family is a West of Ireland family and the age of my ancestors depended entirely on the judge and jury that tried them."

The water-mark letters may be very pale, but by looking closely against the light, you cannot fail to see them.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1884.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD, P. C. G. C. B.

THE fact that the Queen has conferred upon Sir John Macdonald the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath is another recognition of his eminent services, that comes most appropriately at the present moment, when Canada is about to celebrate the fortieth year of the public life of her great statesman. Crown and people have been of one mind in conferring honors upon one who has so well earned them. And in these days, when there are some who affect to sneer at our connection with the rest of the Empire, and to undervalue the tie that unites us with our brethren, it is also a just source of satisfaction that our Sovereign has thus honored Canada as a whole in the person of her most illustrious son.

Some men pretend to despise such distinctions, and launch their jests alike at the recipients and at the fountain of honor. This is a false view to take; such honors are not lavished indiscriminately, and if of little value intrinsically, they are far from being despicable, as marking the eminent public services of those who are thus selected for distinction. This very Grand Cross of the Bath, for instance, is limited, as a reward for civil services, to twenty-five members, and to be judged worthy of a place among these twenty-five is a sure proof that no slight services have been rendered to the public. As an example that will bring this more especially home to Canadian readers it may be observed that one of the latest recipients of the Grand Cross of the Bath was Lord Dufferin, and a reward that was considered appropriate for his exemplary services is evidently not one to be lightly esteemed.

The fact that this additional honour has been bestowed upon Sir John Macdonald by the advice of Mr. Gladstone shows plainly that it was from no personal favor or political sympathy that it was offered, but upon adequate public grounds alone.

One criticism of those who delight at carping at our connection with the rest of the Empire, at our Sovereign, and at any marks of her favour, is so unwarrantable that we cannot forbear a few words of disapprobation. They pretend that such honours can only be bestowed on account of services to the Empire, and not to Canada, on which account they should not be received or valued by Canadians. The fallacy of this view consists in looking upon Canada as being apart from the Empire. Canada is as much a part of the British Empire as England, Ireland or Scotland, and is no insignificant portion, either. That the Premier of Canada should be made a G.C.B. is an additional proof that this fact is practically recognized.

In this case the Royal recognition has only followed the verdict of the people. By his many and great services to Canada Sir John Macdonald has well earned the many honors that have been conferred upon him, alike by the people and by the Sovereign.

A CANADIAN protectionist reefers to the growth and prosperity of the United States. Then the Reform journals arise and shout "Yes, but the United States is large, and the free interchange of commerce between the different States practically gives them free trade." Reports come across the lines of a failure or a strike of employees in some manufacturing or other establishment, and then the sage Reform journals chorus, "Ah! See the baneful effects of protection!" Not very consistent, but the inconsistency in their arguments does not trouble them much.

The discussion of the annexation of Jamaica developed the characteristics of the press of each political party in Canada. The Reform press discussed the scheme on its merits, without enquiring whether Sir John favored it or not.—Belleville Ontario.

THERE is considerable truth in the above, for the Reform press, in declaring that Sir John Macdonald favoured the annexation of Jamaica and was scheming to bring it about, without enquiring whether he did favour it or not, did show a characteristic of the press of that party that is very fully developed.

The Late Mr. Houde, M. P.

On Saturday Lt.-Col. Frederic Houde, M.P. for the County of Maskinonge, died at Louisville. His death, though premature, was not at all unexpected, as he had been ailing for a long time and for the past two years has been seriously and even dangerously ill. It has only been by his firm will and great spirit that he has been able to enter into and fulfil the numerous engagements that his position demanded.—Montreal Star.

Not Allowed to Land.

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 17.—The steamer Matteo Bruzzo, which left Montevideo with cholera on board, has arrived here. The authorities refuse to receive the steamer. It is stated during the voyage that ten persons died from the disease. The Brazilian Government will supply provisions required by the steamer to continue the voyage to some other port.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE STALWARTS DID IT.

It seems a funny idea, but the fact is that after having served the Blaine men as a bludgeon to knock Folger over, Cleveland has now been made to serve the Stalwarts as a cleaver to cut down Blaine. And thus the whirligig of time brings in his revenges.—New York Sun.

NO DOUCT OF IT.

There is but one opinion among the fair minded and patriotic Canadians, and that is; that Sir John deserves well of his country after a life time spent in its service.—Irish Canadian.

SELF HELP.

But he can see, and does see, that a protective system affords, in a time of general depression, a larger quantity of recuperative power to a nation's industries: and the Canadian workmen has, therefore, a serious and laudably selfish battle to fight, in maintaining and improving his own system of self help by means of protection against foreign labour.—Toronto Mail.

QUITE AN ADMISSION.

There are people who can see in Sir John all that is noble, good and virtuous.—Belleville Ontario (Reform).

WE FEAR IT IS INCURALE.

The Globe should cease for a time dealing out doses of Jamaica ginger to its readers. A blister of Spanish fly, applied with the assistance of Dr. Tupper, would probably help it along.—Ottawa Sun.

DAKOTA SETTLERS.

The New York Sun, noticing the large sales of land made in Dakota of late years, says that the greater part of the land has gone into the hands of "actual settlers." We knew that Mr. S. S. Peck is an actual settler in Dakota, though he continues to draw a Government salary in Ontario; but we do not think Messrs. Pardee, Hardy, McCraney and others can be called actual settlers in Dakota. It is evident, however, that their principal interest is there, for we are told that where the treasure is, there will the heart be also.—Hamilton Spectator.

COMMENDATION FROM THE ENEMY.

The Conservative Government of Canada has remitted the duty on the statue of the Hon. George Brown. 'Twas a graceful act.—St. Thomas Journal (Ref.)

BUT PLEASANT TO THE COUNTRY.

The establishment of a new cotton mill in New Brunswick to employ 1,200 people will be sad news for the Grits.—Toronto Mail.

THE "GLOBE" POLICY.

There are various degrees of scandal, from the scandal circulars in regard to the President elect down to the habit of calling names. The newest discovered way (in the Globe of yesterday) is to remind the public that Sir John A. Macdonald "has frequently been styled the 'Canadian Walpole,'" and then to pick out of Justin McCarthy's History of the Four Georges the most beastly sketch of this statesman and to apply it to the Canadian Premier. This does not need a word of comment. Our own opinion of scandal is that, like Achan's "accursed thing," it is useless to either victor or conquered, and the possessor of it, like the son of Carmi, should be treated to political and social stoning.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

A GREAT LAKE.

A Lake in the North-East Territory said to be as Large as Lake Superior.

Mr. F. H. Bignell, of Quebec, who left that city in June last in command of the transport expedition to Lake Mistassini, has returned home. He reports that the lake is very much larger than was supposed. He says the lake waters are very like the waters of Lake Superior, and actually swarms with various species of fish, including huge lake trout, speckled trout, river trout, fresh-water salmon, lunge, pike, pickerel, perch, whitefish, and a species closely resembling cod. The fur-bearing animals include beaver, lynx, otter, and black bears, all of which are numerous. The region around the lake and its banks is well wooded. The general character of the region is flat and undulating, with occasional tracts of excellent arable land, the whole as far as could be judged, resting on a limestone formation, and outcropping rocks show promising mineral indications. The only thing certain known about it was that it seemed to be an expansion of the Rupert River, just as the great western lakes are expansions of the St. Lawrence.

From the 10th to the 15th of September he was on the great lake, noticing the low lying character of its shores, the deep and numerous bays with which they are indented, and the enormous depth of the waters, which render it navigable by almost any sized craft. Occasionally islands were met with, some of them very beautiful and others pretty large. Upon one of these he was weather bound for some time, the sea on the lake running mountains high. On the 17th 120 miles of navigation had been made, and yet the body of the lake, which had gradually expanded, had not been reached. He feels satisfied that the great lake and its satellite form no part of the Saguanay River system, but lie beyond it altogether, in Rupert's Land. It is stated that the Hudson's Bay Company have had their agency there for upwards of hundred years, but have held it a secret that a lake of such dimensions ever existed. The size of this body of water is supposed to be as large as that of Lake Superior.

The Mica Mines of Ontario.

Mica, as an article of commerce, has been sought for in every quarter of the globe. To the present date the mines of the Carolinas have really supplied the mica for the whole world. Scientists have long held the theory that from the peculiar formation of the rocks of Ontario mica must exist there in its best form.

However, the explorations made (until a very recent date) have failed to discover the article in crystals of sufficient size and quantity, to suit the demands of dealers in this commodity, which, by the way, has become, from an ever increasing demand, almost as precious as gold.

But through the persistent and well sustained efforts of one mining agent in our city, whose faith and practical knowledge had years ago convinced him that mica did exist in Ontario in its best form, we owe the discovery of a mine now in successful operation, turning out mica in quantities and in quality equal to any in the world. Experts had almost despaired of ever finding mica in paying quantities. Practical miners will, however, hail this fact with delight, and to any who may have any doubt on the subject, we would say that samples of the crystals can be seen in the office of Mr. Thos. Dowsley, the gentleman above referred to, and that the mine has been purchased by Alderman W. E. Brown.—Ottawa Sun.

Why He Didn't Laugh.

A gentleman in a horse-car while reading a paper discovered what he deemed a funny item, and proceeded to read it out for the benefit of his neighbor. A tired look on the listener's face was his only reward. The reader was disappointed; but seeing something still more comical he thought, "Well, I'll try him with this." As he finished his reading, instead of the loud guffaw which he expected to elicit, he actually beheld a tear trickling down his neighbor's cheek. "Why, how is this, man?" cried the reader; "have you no sense of humor in you?" "I had once," dejectedly replied the party addressed, "but alas! I am now the proof-reader of a comic paper."

A Remarkable Snake.

The following incident occurred to Milt Tony, of Dry Pond, Jackson County, not long since: As he approached his bed to retire one night he discovered a large black snake lying on the cover, which frightened him very much, so that he yelled for his wife to bring something to kill it with, and picking up the bed, he carried it out doors and commenced beating on the snake. When he thought he had killed it a close examination revealed the fact that, instead of being a snake, it was a coil of hair belonging to his wife.—Atlanta Constitution.

E GORDON RELIEF EXPEDITION ASCENDING THE RIVER NILE.

e: er from a Canadian—Their Experiences in Egypt—Travelling by Rail and by Water—The Natives Minus Modern Machinery — Water Drinking Under Difficulties.

(Correspondence of the Review.)

CANADIAN CONTINGENT NILE EXPEDITION,
KENNAH, Egypt, Oct. 15, 1884.

Hurried away from Alexandria as if it was plague stricken, this is the first place and the earliest opportunity I have got the chance of resuming the history of my voyage.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 8.—I arose with the sun, with the expectancy of getting a good look at this famous city, founded more than 2,000 years ago by the great Alexander. But little can I say about it. To me it was as has been said of the city of Washington—a city not of magnificent distances, but one of lanes and alleys, and alleys and lanes, (with countless offshoots of mosques, towers, pillars, minarets and pinnacles,) from whose every nook and cranny poured forth countless hordes of wretched, ragged, rascally ragamuffins, with here and there a bright spot among them in the shape of an Egyptian dandy, brilliant with his Oriental gaudiness, but the view was but a fleeting one, as we were not allowed to leave the steamer, and could only catch occasional glimpses as we were marched along to the railway station at 11 a.m., where we were penned up in something like sheep cars, one half boarded up, the rest open, with iron bars run through the standards. As we leave the city, going south, on our western side is a long level stretch of bare ground, bounded on one side by the railroad and on the other by the river or canal, on which are situated fine looking buildings, flat roofed, in the centre of beautiful gardens, surrounded with walls built of stone, as white as chalk, and groves of date, palm, locust and many other trees, whose names, botanical or common, I am quite ignorant of, suffice it to say that after our long voyage they looked deliciously cool and shady, and made me sigh in remembrance of our own dear piny woods in Canada.

Farther on the fields are laid out in squares with drains above the level, into which the water is shed, dipped from the river, in some places raised by a wheel worked by oxen. When they want to water the field they break off the side of the drain and the water flows over it. But so many and varied are the ways of irrigation I would need a special letter on that head to describe them.

I forgot to mention that as we went through part of the city we could see traces of the bombardment, in the ruins of many a fine building, and here and there on the outskirts conical balls, half buried in the sand, were visible.

I regret I could not see more of this ancient and famous city, but you won't lose much by the lack of my description, as no doubt all reading people will find the story told a hundred times and oftener, in a far more lucid and graphic style than I can pretend to.

When about two hours from the city the features of the scene change considerably, houses, or rather huts, built of mud and straw mixed, are huddled together in small villages. The majority of these huts seem to be not more than seven or eight feet high, mostly roofed with straw, stone, turf, cornstalks, &c., and some apparently nothing but mud walls and roofless, others conical, like beehives, men, women, children, donkeys, goats, sheep, dogs, all living in the same dusty, dirty, dingy enclosure. You cannot wonder at the hold, the strong hold, that plague, cholera, and a legion of other diseases has in these miserable, filthy hovels, or of the holocaust they make of the wretched fellaheen, as they call the peasants here. Hundreds, mayhap thousands, are periodically swept away by pestilence. No record of their lives, no memorial of their deaths, they die like the dogs surrounding them, unknown and unwept.

Some of the houses we pass though are far better. Large courts in the centre, blank walls to the outside. Many of them have tall towers, attached mostly round with dome like tops, the upper story open, with pillared arches supporting the peak and roof. But the old saying that "Distance lends enchantment to the view," is fully realized here.

Afternoon of the 8th brings us through a corner of the desert, and dull, dark, dismal and dangerous as the ocean is in its worst moods, let me rest on its bosom, however angry it may be, in preference to the desert. If I ever get back to Peterborough and hear any one anathematize the watering cart in our dry season, there,—Better for that man that he had never been born, if he is inclined to dusty profanity he had better tie a nether millstone round his neck and seek in ba-te the deepest pool of the Otonabee, (oh for one glimpse of its bonny face this minute), rather than meet me in my wrath —at least he would die wholesale and not by piecemeal.

Dust on the road and dust in the air,
Dust in your eyes and dust in your hair,
Dust on your coat, your pants and your shirt,
Till you feel you are naught but original dirt.

Late in the afternoon we passed a part of the country all flooded, and every half mile or so villages built on islands. The country seems densely populated.

At about 5 p. m., we passed two magnificent bridges, whose architecture any nation might be proud of. Built of white stone, at each end a great arch, surmounted by high towers, and every other arch on each bridge is capped by an arch and two castellated towers. If I had any knowledge of architectural technical terms I would be better able to describe the peculiarities of the many strange shaped buildings we pass on our route.

About 7 p. m. we reached Boulak Dakrow, where the cooks, sent in advance the night before, had coffee, canned meat and bread ready for us, and a welcomed meal it was, for all we had on the train was hard tack and canned corn beef, without anything to drink. At some of the places where the train stopped for orders the men would rush to the muddy canal to assuage the intense thirst which troubled them. Our stay at this place was only an hour and a half. It is 6 miles from Cairo, which city was of course not on our list of visits, but still we could see something of the features inseparable from a great capital city. Domes, pinnacles, minarets, long lines of camels, dark-skinned Egyptians, with the red fez caps and donkeys. O dear! what countless numbers and what noises!

The asses were all smothered up in bundles of grasses,
But the whole scene my descriptive power surpasses.

We just got a glance at the pyramids as we passed. They were some miles away, but yet they loomed up majestic looking, as if scornful of their battling with the ages past, and defiant of the coming struggle with the eternal ages to come.

After we left our halting place night closed around us, and we curled ourselves up on the dirty seats and slept, or tried to sleep, until morning, when we awoke at Minieh, where there are great locks, which feed three or four of the large supply canals. They are wonderfully grand works, and far away ahead of anything I ever saw in that line, though I suppose Europe can match, or more than match them.

We soon fly along through the horrible, intolerable dust. Ugh! it makes my tongue thick to speak the word.

The natives seem to be getting poorer. We pass many corrals of matted corn stalks without roofs, some of them (the aristocratic quarters, I suppose) daubed with a thick coat of mud. We have passed some of the native threshing floors, and just think of it—the grain is drawn on to a level clay floor, and piled up without any covering but the sky; one part is kept clear and a circle of sheaves is spread on it, then oxen are driven around to stamp the grain from the sheaf; then the poor souls pitch it up with some kind of a fork, and the wind blows the dust out of it, and the women finish the job by sifting it through a sieve.

Farmers of the County of Peterborough and suburbs take my advice—don't try to thresh the produce of your hundred acres that way, but save your dimes and buy a good thresher from Peter Hamilton—if he can't suit you then go and be —— sieved.

About 9 a.m. on the 9th we reached Assouit, commonly called "Sioot"—out with our tump lines, strap our kits on our back and tramp, four deep, about a mile through the dust to a steamer, where we select our quarters, get a lunch of soft bread, good coffee and canned meat, then off for the town which is two miles distant from the river. Some of the men hired donkeys, some camels and others footed it, and those who trusted to shank's mare were almost paralyzed with laughter at the mounted corps—the donkey knights particularly. (I was going to say donkey Indians, but you might have thought I was trying a pun, so I changed the form of speech.) Well, of all the small quadrupeds adapted by nature for locomotion, these donkeys beat the record. It would have looked far better to have seen the ass carry the donkey than the donkey carrying the ass.

The city of Assiont is quite a large place, enclosed with a wall of brick made of mud and straw. In rambling through the streets, ones mind would revert to the days of short clothes or incipient knickerbockers, when the "Arabian Nights," with its magical descriptions, held us spell-bound.

Little I thought during my cribhood that I ever should view almost literally the descriptions of that wonderful book.

The streets are narrow and crooked—the upper stories projecting over those below—no sidewalks—but the high buildings with their overhanging balconies keep the streets pretty cool, as they shut out the sun to a great extent. But the bazaar was the place we sought, and we found it, or rather them, for there seemed to be many, swarming absolutely with men, women, children, dervishes, beggars, camels, horses, asses and some oxen, the latter and the camels generally carrying enormous loads.

Such screaming and yelling and jawing and, if I could understand, I suppose swearing too—every moment you would imagine the natives were going to get into each others wool (if they have any) and we were always in expectancy of a free fight and a repetition of the glories of the far famed Donnybrook Fair. On one side were tradesmen sitting, or rather squatting, on bits of rugs or carpets, plying their occupations—some shoemaking, some tailoring, some vending their wares, in little stalls that you would imagine a ten dollar bill would clean out. One wizened looking old parchment faced fellow, a scribe, attracted my attention. He was sitting cross legged on a mat in front of a door, reading from a long scroll to a most attentive audience of five or six. I assure you he was quite a subject for an artist. The bazaar is not unlike an American arcade, and at every step you are solicited to buy their wares. Of course, being ignorant of their lingo, we could not do much in the purchasing line, but after all managed to supply our wants. Many of the Egyptians are very fine, noble looking specimens of humanity, straight as an arrow, broad chested, square shouldered and erect in carriage. They are the finest developed men in chest and shoulder I ever saw. You would not meet a man in a day's travel (old or young) with a stoop, but their legs are very spindly. Most picturesque indeed is the dress of the better class and merchants, but that of the labourers or fellaheen is something less than scant and more than ragged, and in fact many that I saw were all but stark naked.

We had no time to visit the Mosque for the steamer Beherak and her iron scows were loaded and at one o'clock we started up the famous Nile. Dirty Nile it should be named, for its waters are just the color of Peterborough mud puddles after a heavy rainstorm and much thicker.

You know the story of Babel and the confusion of tongues, well if you were here with me you would be right into it.

The Coolies loading and yelling all the time, the fruit venders screaming out the nature of their stock in trade, our men, French, Indian, English, Irish, Scotch and Canadians all haggling, squabbling and swearing in their respective patois. I tell you it set my poor head in a whirl. If the threatened Gehenna to evil doers is anything like this (maybee its worse) I'll keep away from it for certain.

The laborers are freemen I think, yet the overseers thrash them with a will if they are slinking or if they make any mistakes. I saw a diminutive white commisary lambasting a native that stood about six foot four, a fellow big enough to crush the very life out of the little miserable atom of humanity, if he had only the pluck, but the great slabsided hulking coward ran away even as a little child would. It made me grind my teeth with rage to see the little white crab so brutal and the Egyptian giant so cowardly.

We left Assiont or Sioot after 2 p.m. with a tow of two iron scows and a Nile boat. The river runs about five or six miles an hour, and the steamer tacks from one side to the other like a sailing vessel working against the wind. She had to do this to take advantage of the slack water and keep as much as possible out of the current. About a dozen of the men were left behind, but they hired a small steamer and caught up to us in the evening.

At sun down we moved along the shore and then the fun commenced. All hands striving to secure a place on which to lay their weary bones. Soon every available spot was filled and some had to take to the roof and some to the shore for a resting place.

The steamer and scows are not much larger than Peterborough can boast of and sleeping room for 380 of our men, a commissary or transport corps, or part of one, all the native boat-men and all officers of the C. T. Corps and our own being necessary, you may imagine what a pickle we were in.

Oct. 10.—After breakfast ammunition boots were served out to us all. They are a laced boot, heavy, sewed and pegged, with an iron shoe on the heel, but they fit well and are really good.

About 11 o'clock p. m. one of the Manitoba men took sick and could not get to the steamer, when the doctor was called. The natives would not let our men have the boat which was astern of the coal boat, but some of the boys stripped and swam back to it, put the sick man in it, and pulled to the steamer, where they left him in the doctor's care. (He was all right the next day.)

Oct. 11—At noon the steamer stopped at the town of Girgeh. We were allowed to go ashore. A canal divided the main part of this place from the bank where we landed and we crossed by a ferry—no material difference between it and Sioot, only not so extensive. We went to the bazaar and bought a few necessaries. Some of us were invited to enter the palace of one of the big bugs of the town. We were ushered through great iron gates across a fine paved court (into which all the windows faced), then into a large room with raised divans. Silent blacks served us with cigarettes and cups of coffee, about a tablespoonful in each. We chatted in a sort of mixtherum gatherum, bowed, smiled, smoked and, shaking hands with our host, who was certainly most courteous and gentlemanlike in demeanour, departed on our way rejoicing.

As we neared the ferry quite a row was going on. Some of our men had no money and more that had would not pay and the ferry man would not take them over without pay. Some of the roughs threw the ferry man into the canal, took possession of the boat and ferryed the lads over. Some were decent enough to pay, but more were better pleased to act the "dead beat." Leave at 4 and moors by shore all night.

Oct. 12.—This morning the current is very strong and we do not make more than four miles an hour. At noon we coasted along beneath great cliffs of white rock which form the walls of the Nile Valley here and average from 300 to 600 feet in height. The valley seems about 10 miles wide and is walled in on both sides by these cliffs. We passed close enough in some places to see the natives quarrying the white stone and we could also notice many great caves cut in the face of the rock.

Every available spot in the valley seems cultivated and every few yards natives are dipping water into the irrigating drains—I will try and explain how it is done: They build two posts (at the end of the bank) with mud and corn stalks, on them is placed a cross stick and directly across this piece is swung a pole 15 or 20 feet in length, one end of which is weighted with a great lump of clay, and at the other end is a pendant rod with a skin bucket shaped like a bowl with a wooden rim attached to it. They pull on the rod until the bucket dips into the water, then the weight at the other end aids them in raising it well filled to the trough of the drain. Another method is by fastening earthen jars rather narrow at the neck to the rim of a large wheel worked by oxen, and as the wheel revolves the jars are filled beneath and emptied into the trough above. There appears to be thousands of men employed at this work, and scattered along the sides of the river every few yards are one or other of these rude machines—though the wheel is not unlike our elevators in Canada.

We ran short of tea and coffee to-day—our food, hardtack and canned meat, washed down with Nile water. We have only three great earthen filters and they cannot supply the fifth of the water we need—so many of the boys filter the water through their felt hats, they are just as good filters as the earthen ones, and far quicker. Landed last night on the eastern side of the river, and opposite to a city whose name I could not manage, it was a tooth shaker. As the sun set the city seemed stamped in relief against a lovely sky, delicately yellow, shaded partly by violet clouds tinged with the faintest coloring of sage green just where the yellow and the violet blended, and towards the south a leaden grey coloured mass with other colouring so merged and mixed, with the tall domes and minarets outlined against the beautiful back ground of a many coloured sky, the whole stealing down as it were to the water's edge where the faint lines of innumerable Nile boats lie with their tall slender masts and the pale twinkling lights from the buildings along the shore; all this makes such a delicious picture that my mind will dwell on it with thankfulness for many a long hour.

The men soon were on shore. Some amused themselves by bathing and visiting the villages near, and others before the sun set made for the mountains, a mile or so away, and not a few, I am sorry to say, to steal melons from the poor natives. When night fell all turned up except one from our gang named Condon. He had been seen near the top of the mountain at dusk, and fears were entertained that he would never be able to get down again in the dark. But just as a party was forming to search for him two Arabs brought him in. Shots had been heard earlier in the evening in the direction of a melon patch, and next day it was rumoured that a native had been shot. All I could learn was that while some four fellows were stealing melons the natives attacked them, and one was struck on the back with a hoe, and while struggling in the grasp of three or four his companion fired at one of the peasants who fell.

The Colonel says if there is any truth in the report he will hear of it when we reach Assouan, and he will hand the man over to the military authorities. But if I give you no surer information before you publish this, you must not place too much dependence on what is as yet only a report.

October 14.—At 10 a.m. we were so close to the shore that we could jump off and visit the town of Abhamad, but as it is much of a muchness with all the other towns I did not think it would pay.

All the women I have seen as yet are tatooed on forehead and chin, and are not so good looking as the men, but I have seen a good many who keep their faces covered, and I fancy that they are one of two extremes, the beautiful or the repulsive. If the former, modesty or bashfulness will account for the mask; if the latter, if their faces are ugly and hard looking, maybe their hearts are soft, and they don't like to uncover lest they frighten us to death.

The native Nile boats are built with square stern and very high and pointed prow. They have masts from 20 to 30 feet in height, with a great yard or boom attached to the top of the mast, at an angle of about forty degrees, and to this is attached a great triangular sail. These boats are very speedy and carry great loads.

Oct. 14, 10 a.m.—We passed the city of Amadie, built close to the side of the river. The tops of the buildings are perforated, and twigs built into the walls for the use of colonies of doves, which attach themselves to every town.

We have passed several large potteries to-day, their tall chimney shafts and neat buildings built of good white brick reminding one of home. All goods are shipped here either on Nile boats or on camels, which latter carry enormous loads—enough, one would think, for a good team to draw.

To-day we have taken turn about at grinding our coffee, which operation is performed with the aid of an iron pot and a hard stick. We roast the beans in the lid of the pot.

We have a sort of swing hung from the side of the scow, to which we hang and trail in the water as a substitute for a swim, but it takes no small amount of muscle to hold on, for the river here runs about 7 miles an hour and the boats between four and five.

They have the same primitive tools for cultivating the land that were in use 4,000 years ago, and it seems a miracle to me how they ever manage to get work done sufficient or shapely enough to raise crops.

Passed the night on a sandy shore. Some of the lads raised a howl that some animal was running over them, but it was only rats—pleasant for them. One of ours, named Lackie, and myself, have rigged a sort of hammock under the roof of the scow with our tump lines and sleeping mats and are better off than the rest. It is not a very comfortable resting place. It is too short by a foot and high at the head and heels, but it is better than being tramped on by men and run over by rats at night time.

OCT. 15.—Stopped near the town of Kermeh for seven hours, where the steamer coals. Spend the time in swimming and trading with the natives for melons and other kinds of fruit and earthen drinking jars, which keep the water we filter through our hats quite cool. The natives take anything in trade—empty meat tins, tobacco, old boots, shirts, knives and many things which, though useless to us, are useful to them. They are great cheats though and generally get the better of our fellows in some way.

October 16.—Land this evening at Luxor (the ancient Thebes), in the province of Karnak. It was near dark when we landed, and we explored the ruins chiefly with the aid of lanterns, but I have neither time or space to describe them in this letter. I could not post my letter there as all my money was gone, and we have not received any pay as yet, thought it it said that we will get paid at Assouan. We are now 8 days on the river and have barely four days rations on board, but we expect they will last until we reach Assouan. The distance from Assiout, where we took the river, to Assouan, is 350 miles, only think of taking 12 days for such a distance!

I must close now for the present, so good-bye for a day or two. J. A. S.

I post this at Esneh, where we are now stopping for an hour.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly from east and south, cloudy to fair weather, slightly higher temperatures.

Electric Light.

Messrs. Peter Connel & Co. and Mr. C. B. Routley have adopted the electric light for the purpose of showing off their goods. The lamps introduced are of an improved style. They are neat and ornamentul. The goods in both stores look well at night under the influence of the subtle fluid.

FOR TRIMMED and Untrimmed Millinery at the lowest possible prices, call at Alexander's.

A Line in the Right Place.

About a week ago Mr. J. Carlisle, builder and contractor, had the words "Houses to Rent," inserted in the DAILY REVIEW. Within two days he had rented five houses, and has since been besieged by numerous applicants for rental of houses. He has let all of his dwellings and now wishes us to inform the public that he has now no "Houses to Let."

The First of the Season.

To-day and yesterday, that sluggish pond at the south end of the town known as Spaulding's Bay, during the summer such an eyesore, was the scene of life and activity. The ice is now firm and several of our local skaters took advantage of the opportunity offered, and went for a trial glide. On Tuesday evening a large number engaged in the bracing and exhialrating sport.

The "Electric" Lamp.

Mr. Adam Hall is introducing a new lamp called the "electric." Its lighting power is equal to that of six ordinary lamps. It burns coal oil and is neat in appearance. The wick used is circular, and two great advantages it possesses are those of leaving the chimney perfectly clean when used, and the absence of any cracking effect on the chimney. The wicks if properly used will last twelve months.

Hurt while Playing Football.

A few days ago Mr. Max Hamilton, of this town, who is attending Queen's college, Kingston, met with an accident. While engaged in playing a game of football his opponent's knee came in contact with Mr. Hamilton's body. It was at first feared that the injury was a rupture of the kidneys, but we are glad that such is not the case. The injury was of a pain-but slight character.

To Subscribers of "Picturesque Canada."

We take pleasure in informing subscribers to PICTURESQUE CANADA, that we are prepared to bind the work in various styles, at the lowest possible prices. We make the binding of PICTURESQUE CANADA a specialty, having secured artistic covers and having an experienced binder and gilder, who is prepared to produce the work as it should be. Parties at a distance desiring the work bound can send them to us and we will return to them when bound, paying express charges both ways.

A Narrow Escape.

This forenoon, shortly before twelve o'clock, Mr. James Gardiner and wife, of Millbrook, were coming to Peterborough in a buggy. When crossing the Ontario and Quebec railway track, about two miles from here, the horse was walking leisurely along. The track crosses the road at an oblique angle, and just as the last wheel was rolling over the track it was suddenly jerked off. The horse, which was a young and spirited one, started forward, but was controlled by Mr. Gardiner. As soon as Mr. Gardiner had time to turn around he saw the Ontario and Quebec midday express train speeding away in the distance, but heard nor saw nothing of it as it was approaching him. When Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner saw how narrow had been their escape from death, they were both very naturally frightened. Happily no bodily injury was sustained by either Mr. Gardiner or his wife.

An All Night Boom in Clothing.

Last night and this morning the George street pedestrians were surprised to see the City Clothing Store lighted up, and the fingers of the operativrs inside busily plying the needle and thread. Remarks and comments such as these were frequently heard: "I guess the the City Clothing Store is booming," "Harry LeBrun is an enterprising fellow sure enough," "Oh, this is the fall season that accounts for it, LeBrun is always busy at this time of the year," etc., etc. The true state of the case was, however, learned this morning. At this season of the year the trade at the City Clothing store is very brisk, but so brisk is it this year that all the hands are kept making until ten o'clock each night. On Tuesday evening Mr LeBrun gave orders to the effect that the doors of the workshop should be opened at 10 o'clock. By some misunderstanding the order was not carried out and the result was that the operatives were locked in. They at once took in the situation and made the best of it. They settled down to work again and made their exit this morning at 7 o'clock, tired and hungry after their night's toil.

Chit Chat.

—Cool and frosty.

—A blank at the Police Court this morning.

—The second electric light pole has been placed in position.

—The renowned lecturer, the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, has arrived in town and is at the Grand Central Hotel.

—He will deliver his popular lecture, "Big Blunders," at Bradburn's Opera House to-night.

—One hundred and twenty-six years ago to-day the British Museum was established.

—The ice on the little bays is now in good condition and the urchins are enjoying themselves hugely.

—The weekly meeting of the City Band Dancing Assembly is changed from Thursday night to Friday night.

—At 3 o'clock this afternoon a waggon load of apples in barrels was passing up George street. One of the barrels fell off and the apples rolled about on the street. They were gathered up again while several suspicious looking small boys loitered around with hungry looks.

The Talk of the Town.

THE SAVED ARMY.

Rumour Contradicted—The Forces Reinforced—New Stations.

There were several officers of the Saved Army at the soldiers meeting on Tuesday evening, including General H. P. Lindsay, Capt. Maggie Gibson, Capt. Effie Mason, Lieut. Annie White and Lieut. Louise Pearce. In a conversation with an officer of the Army this morning some facts regarding the organization were gathered.

"Is there any truth in the rumoured amalgamation of the Saved Army and the Salvation Army?" was asked.

"None whatever," was the reply. "The Saved Army wishes the Salvation Army success in the good it is trying to do, but some of the rules of the two armies are so opposed to each other that they could not amalgamate."

"Would you mention some of the rules?"

"Well, one principle of the Saved Army is to work in perfect harmony with all churches, and none of its meetings are held at a time when they would interfere with church services. Being non-denominational it works in harmony with all Christian bodies. This, I believe, is one of the chief points of difference between the two armies. We urge all our converts to connect themselves with some church.'

"Did the Saved Army ever propose amalgamation to the Salvation Army?"

"Decidedly not; the report is entirely incorrect. On the other hand, offers have come from some of the Salvation Army officers to us, but they were rejected. The fact is, at the last Council of War a resolution was passed giving an official denial to these reports. We believe that the distinctive features of the two armies are such that each has its own field, and there is work enough for both."

"Have you any idea of what the rumor originated from?"

"It may have arose out of the amalgamation of the Saved Army and the Lord's Army. The Lord's Army was composed principally of officers and soldiers who had seceded from the Salvation Army, and it has amalgamated with the Saved Army, as their views were very similar. Since the Council of War was held here the Saved Army has been increased by 12 officers and 1,000 soldiers in Western Ontario, some being from the Lord's Army and some from the Salvation Army."

"Have any new stations been opened recently?"

"Yes, in the eastern division Grafton was opened last Saturday and Kingston will be opened next saturday. Capt. John Munt and Capt. Sarah Hays will have charge of Kingston. Lindsay and a number of other stations will be opened shortly."

"Has the Saved Army been growing much?"

"As one evidence of its growth, I might state that an edition of ten thousand hymn books which is being printed for us now at the REVIEW office will make the thirty-fifth thousand since the Army was orgauized over a year ago. There are now in the neighbourhood of 33,000 soldiers in the ranks of the Saved Army."

"I hear that the army is sending out pickets to hold evangelical services."

"We held a meeting in the Methodist Church Ashburnham on Tuesday night, by invitation of the pastor. Any church or place that would wish such assistance may obtain it by applying to the officers, as we believe that much good can be done in that way."

"Is the Army doing as much work here now as it did when it first came here?"

"More good, I believe. We have better order and closer attention, and I believe that more solid and lasting good is being done than when a larger number of converts were coming forward. After nearly every meeting some one who has been impressed by the truths presented by the officers and soldiers remains to talk with the officers, and good results follow. A number of the Peterborough converts of the Army are now officers in charge of stations, and others have removed from here whom we frequently hear from. Many who are in Peterborough yet show the reality of religion by their undiminished ardour in the work of the Lord, and by their everyday life."

Having received this information regarding the views of the officers as to what the Army was doing, the scribe sharpened his pencil and departed.

NEW TWEED ULSTERINGS in Unions and All Wool at Alexander's, from 50c. up.

Gone Northward.

On Wednesday, the 12th of November, Mr. Vyvyan, merchent toilor, of Midland, took unto himself a life partner, Miss Mary Kindred, of Keene, being his happy choice. They proceeded to the northward town to take up their abode, but amidst all their joy they did not fail to remember at which establishment they might procure elegant, durable and, in comparison with the quality, cheap furniture to furnish their home. Of course the reader will at once surmise where the furniture was bought. A few days after their departure Mr. D. Belleghem received an order to supply the furniture, and on Tuesday (only a few days after the order was given) it was packed and shipped for its destination. Mr. Belleghem is establishing for himself, not only a local reputation, but a Provincial one. His furniture now finds its way to almost all the neighbouring towns and villages and also to some more remote. Newly married people will find it to their advantage to call at this large furniture emporium and see the extensive variety of goods, even if they don't buy.

A Great Specialty.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large lot of handsome Wool Squares, Shawls, Jerseys, Nubias, Polka Jackets, Hoods, etc., being manufacturers samples, at about half price.

Sweeping Reduction in the Price of Underclothing.

TWENTY PER CENT. DISCOUNT FOR CASH.

Having an unusually large stock of Winter Underclothing, and recognising the fact that the time to sell it is the present, we offer to the public all our Winter Underclothing at twenty per cent. discount for cash. This is no old stock; every article fresh this season. Our range is the most extensive in Peterborough, the prices running from 50c. to $3.25. It must be sold. Don't lose this opportunity. Come early, while we have the full assortment. This is no catch-penny, but a genuine reduction. It being the first time in our business history of quoting prices or offering a percentage, our friends will see the genuineness of the sale. We have the goods, and fearing we might have to carry over to next season a large percentage of our present stock if offered at the usual prices, we take this means of preventing it. Again we say it is genuine. Come and see for yourselves. It will be no trouble to show the different lines and quote prices.

A HOME DRUGGIST
TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. — E. P. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

FALSE ALARMS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I wish to call the attention of those hasty individuals who ring the fire alarm for a chimney on fire, or without knowing for a certainty that there is a fire at all, to the annoyance and loss it is to the firemen, who have to leave their work, no matter how urgent it may be, and, after a hard run, find that they have been hoaxed. Although we only work for glory (and it is very unsatisfactory pay), we are at all times ready to meet our terrible enemy, no matter what personal sacrifice it may be to the individual members of the brigade, but we do not wish to be called out unnecessarily.

Yours, &c.,
A FIREMAN.

Peterborough, Nov. 20, 1884.

COBOURG.

HORSES DROWNED.—On Monday afternoon J. Bradley, a farmer, left his horses and waggon securely tied in front of one of the stores on King street. The team became frightened, broke loose and dashed along King street till they came to the street running to the west pier; along this they ran till they reached the end of the pier, and plunged into the lake where the water is sixteen feet deep. Neither horses nor waggon have been seen since.

PORT HOPE.

LAID UP.—The Norsman is laid up. She made her last trip on Saturday. The season with her has been a fairly successful one, notwithstanding the general depression, thanks to the successful management of Capt. Geo. Crawford.—Guide.

FINED.—Mr. Johnson, District Inspector of weight and measures, has been in town for the past few days. He laid information against three traders having in their possession, in two cases, the old wine measures, and in one case a spring balance. They were fined, in each case, $5 and costs. This should be a warning, and no doubt will be, to traders to banish all illegal weights and measures.

ACCIDENTS.—On Tuesday afternoon while Mr. William Hurd was putting on a double window in front of St. John's Church, Pine street, he fell a distance of fifteen or twenty feet on the board walk, breaking two ribs. About a week ago a like accident happened to Duncan J. McMillan. He unexpectedly stepped into a square hole in the floor of the elevator, striking his side very violently against the sharp edge of the floor.—Guide.

NORWOOD.

NEARLY COMPLETED.—Mr. Brown's sash and door factory is rapidly approaching completion. It is a substantial structure.

MUSICAL.—Miss Errett, of Peterborough, has taken over Mr. Heathfield's class and will visit this village every Wednesday. Miss Errett is a musician of rare talent and we would earnestly recommend her to those requiring the services of a firstclass teacher.

DEATH OF AN OLD SETTLER.—The funeral of the late Henry Tedford Ferguson, who died on Thursday morning last, took place last Friday. A long line of mourning friends bore testimons to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by the community generally. Mr. Ferguson was born in Ireland in the year 1807, and when quite young came to this country and settled in Dummer. At the time of the McKenzie rebellion he served his country in the present 57th Battalion, Peterborough Rangers, then known as the 7th Provincial Battalion of Peterborough. At the close of the rebellion he returned to Dummer, where he has since resided. He served the township faithfully as Councillor for a number of years and at the time of his death was a consistent member of the South Dummer Methodist Church. The sincere and deep sympathy of those who knew him is tendered his wife and children. He was in his 77th year. Requiescat in peace.—Register.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent, reduction on Winter Underclothing, Andrew McNeil.

A Big Navy Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Admiral Porter in his annual report says a comparison of expenditures in foreign navies with our own will go far to put a stop to the cry that wasteful extravagance has been shown by the Administration in its fiancial affairs, and will show the necessity of our doing something towards building a navy if we want to keep pace with the spirit of the age, and hold ourselves ready to maintain the respect of foreign nations. The assertion that we want "a small but affective navy" does not cover the case. No small navy can be an efficient one if we consider the needs of the country.

Reipted.

At the eleventh hour a respite of eight days has been granted by Judge Ramsay, in the case of Mrs. Boutel, sentenced to be hanged in Quebec at eight o'clock on Thursday morning. It is believed the respite is principallp upon the grounds of irregularities, which existed during the trial of the woman.

LYONS, Nov. 19.—A thousand Ouvriers entered the works to-day where the municipal labourers are employed, and demanded employment, accompanying the demand with threats towards the labourers already engaged. The commissary of police failing to quet them, summoned the gendarmes who ejected them. They returned, and again forced an entry into the works, when the cuinossiers charged and dispersed the rioters, several of whom were arrested. A renewal of the trouble is feared tomorrow.

SHOT DEAD.

A Life and Death Struggle Between a Detective and a Convict.

For some time past the Montreal police have been looking for a man named Leandra Fauteux, who, about two years ago, was sent to the penitentiary for three years, having been convicted of robbing Presbyterian Churches. The man escaped six months ago, but could not be found. Between ten and eleven o'clock on Wednesday morning, Detectives Lapointe and Naegele were strolling up St. Lawrence Main street when Lepointe suggested that they should search this house, which is known as a habitual resort of thieves, for Fauteux. They went into St. Lawrence Main street and passed through a store kept by a Mr. Gobier, by which they entered by a side passage into the yard. They knocked at the door, which a young girl named Lizzie Murray opened, and in response to the enquiry "was there anyone in," answered, "no one but women." This did not satisfy the detectives, who proceeded to search for themselves. On going up stairs into a small room, about ten feet square, they found the man in bed and a woman in the room. The place was quite dark as the blinds were closed, and in opening them the officers did not recognize the man as he had his beard shaved off. The man played drunk," and the detectives not being quite sure of their quarry went down again. At the foot of the stairs Lapointe said, "Louis, I think this is Fauteux; we will take him on suspicion." Lapointe was lighting a lamp to go up again, when the man came down stairs with his pants and boots on, while his right hand was behind his back. When four feet from Lapointe he fired, and Lapointe cried out, "I am shot," and fell. Naegele then drew on Fauteux, but his revolver missed fire, and before he knew what had happened, he found himself thrown out into the yard. He shouted to Constable O'Reilly, who was fortunately at hand, to go and bring the relief, and then heard some one shout "they are murdering Lapointe." He tried to force the door, when Lapointe cried out "For God's sake hurry up, Louis, they are murdering me." He put his foot against the door and got it partly open, and there saw Lapointe on his knees, holding Fauteux's wrist, while Fauteux was trying to turn a revolver which he had in his imprisoned hand upon Lapointe. Naegele fired point blank at him, and he fell shot through the temples. Three women, named respectively, Alphonsine Leclare, Marie Laballe and Lizzie Murray, and a man named Marchant, were arrested and are held for witnesses. Lizzie Murray is a prepossessing young woman about nineteen years of age, and she stated to our reporter that when the detectives knocked at the door Mrs. Leclaire told her to go and open it, and tell them that no one was there. She did so, but they went upstairs. Fauteux pretended to be asleep, but when the detectives went down he got up and put on his pants and boots, and told Marie Labelle to give him his revolver, which she did, taking it out from underneath the pillow. Fauteux then went down stairs, the woman following behind. Lapointe was just going to light a lamp when he saw Fauteux raise his hand, and the revolver go off. Lapointe cried out, "I am shot," and Fauteux rushed at Naegele, and pitched him out, locking the door. He then went at Lapointe and tried to shoot him, she in the meantime shrieking "Murder," when Naegele pushed the door partially open and fired, Fauteux falling instantly, bleeding at the temples. He looked such a horrid sight as she had never seen before.—Montreal Witness.

Decimated by Death.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 19.—For a number of weeks past a fatal disease has been prevalent in Buchanan and Dickinson counties, isolated localities in western Virginia. The number of deaths and the terrific nature of the disease are as yet undefined. It is supposed to arise from poisonous water. The krought, continuing there for months, has nearly dried up all the streams, springs, and wells, and it is supposed the water left is impregnated with mineral poisons. A reliable correspondent tells a pitiful story, and says in some cases as many as four corpses have been found in a single house.

THE Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland has conferred the honor of knighthood on Mr. Samuel Lee Anderson, who for some years past has discharged the duties of Crown Solicitor for Dublin.

THE Marquis of Londonderry died on Oct. 6th. As Viscount Seaham he represented North Durham in Parliament for many years. His eldest son and successor is Charles Stewart, Viscount Castlereagh, Member of Parliament for County Down.

THE Dublin Evening Mail says it is by no means improbable that Lord Spencer will be succeeded in the Vice-Royalty by Mr. Gladstone's Scotch Monte Christo, Lord Rosebery. Scotland will then have secured a footing in Ireland with a vengeance—with Lord Rosebery from Mid-Lothian, Mr. Campbell-Bannerman, from Stirling, and Sir Robert Hamilton from the Orkneys.

MAGNIFICENT WATER STRETCHES.

We are are informed that the C.P.R. is adopting the Mackenzie-Blake idea of utilizing "the magnificent water stretches." We were not aware that the C.P.R. was taking any steps towards emptying the Fort Francis lock of the sawdust with which it is said to have been filled to prevent accidents, and this was Mr. Mackenzie's great contribution towards utilizing the water stretches. The C.P.R is making extraordinary and unprecedented progress in constructing a complete trans-continental through route, to utilize those magnificent water stretches between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, but this was hardly the Mackenzie-Blake plan. In fact, according to the chief organ of these gentlemen, the C.P.R. has been guilty of undue haste in pushing forward this great national benefit.

THE FREE TRADE CONSISTENCY.

The Globe wishes to remind the REVIEW that flouring mills are not in any sense depending upon the N.P. for work. Why then do the Globe and its friends tell the people of the Maritime Provinces that the N.P. interferes with their importation of flour from the United States? To which of its contradictory statements does the Globe wish to adhere? As to the Globe's statement that "establishments not in any sense depending upon the N.P. for work are about the only kind now running to their full capacity," we may remark that we have just described the Auburn Woollen Mills of this town as being thus run. Yet the Globe generally tells us that Canadian woollen mills are depending upon the N.P. for work. Which position will our contemporary now choose?

SPARE MR. MOWAT.

The Globe asks: "Why should not everyone who gives or takes a bribe be sent to prison?" One reason is that when a few more of his followers had by their usual practices qualified themselves for gaol, Mr. Mowat would interfere by legislation to snatch them from the penalties of their corruption. It is not salutory that the spectacle should be presented to the country of such interference with the judges and such vetoing of their decisions. It is therefore doubtful whether it would be well to place Attorney-General Mowat under this painful necessity.

"The Nun of Kenmare."

Two middle aged ladies dressed in the sombre garb of the Catholic sisterhood were among the cabin passengers who were landed at the barge office from the Guion line steamer Alaska yesterday afternoon. One of them was the eminent Sister Mary Frances Clare, mother superioress of Kenmare convent, in Kenmare, Ireland, in which position she has become known in the world at large as the Nun of Kenmare. She is noted for her piety, charity and the deap interest she takes in the growth of her religious faith. It is the purpose of the distinguished lady to give a series of lectures in this country to raise means sufficient to begin the building of a grand cathedral in Nottingham, England, which, when completed, will only be surpassed by St. Peter's in Rome. While in Rome she established a new order of the sisterhood, and intends to start branches of it in all the large cities of this country and Canada, where she will also lecture. The eminent lady was born in Mullingar, West Meath, and was a sister of Sir Robert Cusack, M.P. Her family was immensely wealthy, but Miss Cusack discarded all worldly considerations and entered the convent of Kenmare.—New York Journal.

Caught in His Own Trap.

James Rae, a well-known local trapper, who lives on lot 20, con. 5, Eramosa, had a most unpleasant experience the other day. He had set a bear trap in a swamp on his farm, and was engaged searching for the same when he fell into it. The spring came down upon his legs, holding him fast, and inflicting serious bruises. His shouts, however, soon brought to his assistance Luke Stout, who was plowing in an adjoining field, and who immediately relieved the prisoner. Mr. Rae has since been confined to his house. It is fortunate that no bones were broken.—Guelph Mercury.

Prehistoric Remains.

BINGHAMPTON, Nov. 18.—The tomb of an Indian chief with many valuable treasures about him was opened on the farm of George Stowe, two miles north of this city, last night. Men were working in a sand pit, and came across the tomb by accident. This is believed to be one of the most interesting discoveries of this sort ever made, as the implements found in the tomb date back to before the discovery of this continent by Columbus. The relics will be carefully collected and further investigations will be made.

The "Light of Asia" Dead.

Forepaugh's sacred white elephant, the "Light of Asia," died at the winter quarters of the showman in Philadelphia. The companion of the dead animal was deeply distressed, and the whole elephantine herd bellowed in sympathy after the beast fell over and expired. Forepaugh estimates his loss at $52,000.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

AMERICAN STYLE.

No. 7x8 nonsense now. Have you heard from Maria, Judge? Hand down the "little brown jug!"—Valparaiso, Ia., Messenger.

NOT A FREE TRADE VICTORY.

It was quite to be expected that in England the triumph of the Democratic party would be hailed as a victory for free trade. With the English journals the wish is father to the thought, but the truth is that in the platforms of the rival parties there was very little difference on the trade question.—Toronto Telegram.

AN EMINENT MAN HONORED.

The honor which has been conferred upon Sir John Macdonald—the Grand Cross of the Bath—is an important one, and such as he and his friends will fully appreciate. Sir John has received many titles, some of them meaning little, and some of them meaning much, but all having some significance to a man of his eminence.—Kingston Whig (Reform).

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

The happy completion of a political fabric on this continent, British by inheritance and British by sympathy, is an achievement which her Majesty thinks deserving of high recognition.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE DOMINION'S DEBT.

Reform papers and speakers will regret to learn that the debt of Canada is less in proportion to population than that of any other considerable British colony. English papers are just now publishing the following statement of debt per head:—United Kingdom, $107; New Zealand, $292; Queensland, $264.50; South Australia, $212; Victoria, $122; New South Wales, $114.50; Cape of Good Hope, $61; Canada, $36. The debt of the United States per capita is about equal to that of Canada; but there are these differences between the two—that Canada owns very valuable public works, while the United States owns none; the pension list of the United States is equal to a debt of a thousand million more; and all the States have large debts of their own. Compared with other countries, Canada is very well off.—Hamilton Spectator.

SIR JOHN'S HONORS.

Sir John has not yet attained to the peerage, but he has reached the very pinnacle of knightly greatness, no higher rank of knighthood being possible to him than that of Knight Grand Cross of the ancient order of the Bath.—Montreal Witness (Reform).

HASTINGS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SEASONABLE.—The Indian Summer is upon us with all its hazy glory and if farmers are naturally sore at heart over the low price of grain they at least are rejoiced that ploughing is good, and everything can be got in ship shape order for winter.

SPORTING.—Some straggling hunters from the back country pass the road here occasionally with trophies of the chase in the shape of deer.

A SCRATCH MATCH.—Some fair shooting was done at the butts the other day, a disciple of Esculapius and a master of the Ferule making the best score.

FEELING OF RELIEF.—A feeling of relief is depicted upon the countenance of our merchants here because the gang who committed the extensive burglaries in Peterborough lately is supposed to be a local and not a travelling gang; so that now they can serenely slumber without the self-cocking pepper box being under the pillow, and are pleased to think they do not live among the wickedness of cities.

NEW PARSONAGE.—A new Methodist parsonage, the foundation of which is just completed, will form a nice L-shaped house, though a person looking at the stone work of the cellar declared it would be no sin to worship there; since there was nothing like it either in the heavens above, the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth. A new building here is something to be talked of, for the craze has been for years past to preserve the antique and to judge of the way that old frame houses are treasured and moved round one would say our village was conservative in more ways than one.

ELECTIONS COMING.—And now approaches the time when candidates for municipal honors, seeking the bubble reputation, even at the babies' mouth, will cultivate that fellow-feeling which is said to make us wondrous kind, and often makes us wonder what kind of tuft-hunting animal it is that perennially accosts us in the dull time of the year to manifest a too-too intensely pseudo interest in our welfare, swearing to a lifelong knowledge and friendship to the latest arrivals—the babies. Lost by Water.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 18.—The following letter under date of Nov. 10th, has been received from Mr. Julian Gifford, of Silver Islet, and is published by the Port Arthur Sentinel. We found a wrecked small boat yesterday in Perry's Bay, about half a mile from the landing here. In the boat were two bodies, one of a half-breed, the other apparently a white man. The bodies had been in the water about three days, which would coincide with a heavy south-west storm which was experienced here and in which they undoubtedly perished. There is no clue to their identity, there being nothing but tobacco and pipes in their pockets. The boat is built square stem and very old, green rail, white bottom, 22 feet keel, rigged for two masts, no name on it. From the fact of finding nothing on the bodies we are inclined to think there were others in the boat. The bodies were buried. On hearing the circumstances of the finding of the bodies and learning that there were no marks of violence on them, Coroner Clark decided that an inquest was not necessary, and who the the drowned men are has not, so far, been ascertained. It is thought, however, that they may possibly be the men from the Mission at Fort William, whose reported drowning has been announced.

The Bitter Bit.

The capture of a thief under very exceptional circumstances is reported from Paris. He contrived to gain admission into a set of chambers during the absence of the lawful occupant, and proceeded to lay hands on everything of value he could find. In the midst of this operation, it occured to him that his wardrobe was in urgent need of renewal, and he therefore took off his clothes with a view of replacing them with others he found in the room. Scarcely, however, had he reduced himself to the garb of primitive man, when he heard a step out side, and promptly hid himself under the bed. Some one entered the room, and the thief lay noiseless for several minutes. At length the comer departed and he ventured to leave his hiding-place. But, much to his disgust, he discovered that the visitor was a gentleman in his own way of business for not only was everything in the chambers carried off, but even his own suit of clothes had disappeared. He was, therefore, compelled to await the return of the owner of the property, who handed him over to the police.

Meeting of the Conference—The Formation of a League.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Imperial Federation Conference resumed its session to-day. A resolution was adopted providing for the formation of a league, the object of which will be to secure the permanent unity of the Empire without interfering with the existing rights of local Parliaments, as regards local affairs, so as to combine on an equitable basis the resources of the Empire, maintain common interests, and organize for the defence of common rights. The League will use every means to attain this object, and invites the support of all political parties.

THE LAND OF BONDAGE.

THE RDON RELIEF EXPEDITION ASCENDING THE RIVER NILE.

Ruins of the Great Temple at Luxor — Palace Hotel of Cook, the Great Contractor — Carved Rocks and Ancient Caves.

(Correspondence of the Review.)

ESNAH, Egypt, Oct. 18, 1884.

As I promised, I now continue my letter from Luxor. It was almost night when we reached there, and as the rule exists, only three of each gang can get off the steamer at one time. I had to wait my turn until 10 p. m., and although I was in my hammock the report of the wonders to be seen made me jump out lively and I started for the town determined to see all that I could under such unfavorable circumstances. I caught a native who procured lanterns and with their aid we explored the ruins of the smaller temple near the shore.

It appears to be lower than the surrounding buildings, and seems as if it had been cleared up for sight seers.

In front of the temple, or its ruins, is a double row of giant pillars, about eight or nine feet in diameter, of stone, resembling our freestone. They have huge capitals on the top which must be fully twenty feet. In the centre of this row are some stone steps leading to a large oblong room, with walls and ceilings of stone; both covered with all manner of figures cut in. As far at I could judge they were in some way intended to represent the history of their own times, or the period when the temple was built.

To the left of the first room is another yet larger, its walls figured in the same manner, and across the centre of the ceiling is a row of life-sized carvings of men in different costumes. At the end of this room were two stone steps, guarded on both sides by two large statues and in the centre, on a raised stairs of stone, a very large figure, which, I fancy, represents an Egyptian monarch.

Many mummies in stone caskets are kept in this room. I cannot say a great deal about this grand structure, but, greedy as I was for information, I had to be satisfied with the mere cursory inspection that the light of a lantern afforded.

Having left the temple, we proceeded to view an obelisk which is said to be 135 feet over and 18 feet under the ground. It appears to be one solid stone of granite, highly polished and most ornate with countless figures carved on its sides. It is said to rest on copper or bronze figures, but, if so, they are buried out of sight. Close to it are three gigantic figures with human heads and bodies of animals, but they are sadly broken and defaced and partially buried; they also are of polished granite.

The greater temple is two miles off, and as it was far too late to procure a boat, I had to leave it unexplored, with the hope that on my return trip I may be more fortunate.

There are some fine hotels in Luxor. I visited one kept by a man named Cook, who is the owner of a large line of steamers and scows. The grounds are enclosed by a stone wall, and you proceed to the main entrance through an avenue of beautiful trees and sweet scented shrubs. Near the main entrance are two ancient sand stone figures in a sitting posture, and the portal itself is supported by a row of large stone pillars; this was all I could distinguish in the darkness.

OCT. 17.—We were away before sunrise and passed a good many towns and villages, in many of which are large sugar refineries and potteries, some of the former employing as many as 1,000 hands. They are, I believe, invariably superintended by Europeans, and indeed from the dress and appearance of many who were at the river edge watching us pass, I feel certain they were not to the manor born.

These factories appear to be well built of good brick, and are very like such works in America.

I noticed on the great chimney of one of them the date of its erection, 1857, which, being the year I was born in, led me to reflect and moralize not a little, and if the retrospect was in any way profitable, it was decidedly uncomfortable, and left a taste on my mouth as if I had been taking assafetida pills.

As we pass along to-day the banks are well wooded with beautiful trees, the chief the shady date palm with its luscious fruit. I hear that the Government impose a tax of two piastes (10 cents of our money) on every stump, as a Canadian lumberman would say, and as they appear to me to grow in thousands, I guess the Khedive makes his tobacco money out of it. I saw plenty of rose bushes, and melon and cucumber patches are ubiquitous.

Corn, sugar cane and cotton seem to be the chief staples of this extraordinary country, and when I heard to-day that three and sometimes four crops a year are taken off this strangely tilled soil, I felt the dose was too large, and looked squint-eyed at my informant to see if he was cramming me. However, not being posted theoretically in the history of Egypt, agriculturally or otherwise, I swallowed the pill.

To-night (17th) we find that we have only four days' wood for cooking our four days' coffee, so that if our journey to Assouan takes longer than that, our fare will be a little hard. I mean to have a piece of our hard tack polished and set in a ring when I get home.

Rumours are flying in all directions of some bungling in regard to supplies, and it is said that the medical stores are not at all properly filled up, which is a hard look out, if true, for though we have had wonderful good health as a body, yet in a climate to which our habits and temperatures are foreign, no one can tell when some epidemic may break out, either climatic or caused by our own indiscretions, but as I said of the shooting affair, it may be only a rumour.

Oct. 18th.—Land this morning at Esneh, where there is another Temple two-thirds under ground, a flight of stone steps leading down into it. The roof is supported on pillars about six feet in diameter, and the walls and ceilings, like those of Luxor, covered with many carvings and hieroglyphics. Two very large and deep wells are sunk in the floor.

This evening a small steamer came down from Assouan with supplies of coffee, tea, sugar, salt, onions and potatoes, in quantities sufficient to feed us liberally for the rest of our trip. By-the-bye, I haven't seen a potatoe patch since I landed. I wonder do they grow them here. I must ask.

Five of each gang were here detailed to carry the food to our barge. The distance to be covered was about two hundred yards, and though it is work it is a happy release from our life of inertia, and we enjoyed it as if it were pastime.

One of the men while ascending the gangway lost his sack of potatoes. He dropped it into the river, but we managed to fish it out again. Each sack weighs about two hundred pounds, and as I carried one of them myself up the steep incline of the gangway, I can assure you that the weight does not decrease as you near the dumping place.

While the men were getting off the barge one of them got impatient, and a merry lad in our gang, whom we have christened Peggy, persuaded him to jump. He did so, and went clean to his hips in the soft mud, and stayed there for some time, the butt of the crowd, until fun being satisfied, he was pulled out.

This was not his only misfortune, however, this day. He had all his clothing except underwear attached to his tump line trailing after the barge to cleanse them, the line gave way, and away went his duds down the stream forever and ever.

The confinement on the barges is very hard on the men, there is no room to move round or exercise in any way, and the only opportunity for stretching our limbs is when we reach shore at night, and if that is not fit even those who are the happy recipients of leave are disappointed.

The country looks somewhat better this last day or two than lower down. There are more trees, and the use of oxen drawing water prevails more than north of Luxor.

The average width of the river is about a thousand yards, but it widens in some places to a mile or more. The soil appears to be a mixture of dark brown clay and sand as tenacious as glue, and when the flood subsides were it not for the system of constant irrigation the land would bake as hard as the brick used for building, and would crack and split and make agriculture of any kind utterly impossible.

The Hospital Sergeant distributed coloured glasses to us this week to save our eyes from the glare of the sun and the sting of the flies—of these anon. I have a crow to pluck with them and will shortly devote a half hour to the pests of Egypt. The sun is very hot now, but all seem to stand it well so far.

Oct. 19.—Off early again this morning. About 10 a. m. one of the steamers towing part of the boats intended for the expedition passed us. At noon we ran on a sand bank, but soon got off again. While delayed thus I could make out, some distance off, a large sugar refinery and what appeared to be a large aqueduct.

About 2 p. m. Baker Pasha passed us going down the river on a small and very fast steamer. He is a very fine looking fellow and we gave him a hearty cheer, to which he responded right royally.

A little further up we got quite close to a cliff which seemed to be of sand stone and the strata appeared to be 15 or 20 feet deep.

The entrances of many caves can be seen here and still further on we saw a number of Arabs kneeling at a large rock apparently worshipping it or something on it. Their camels were tethered close by.

At 4 p.m. we passed the ruins of a large fortress built of brick and erected on a high hill, with a bastion and four flanking towers. We could see some fine arches yet standing, with fluted cornices and other ornamentation, the whole exhibiting traces of great strength We moor not far off on the edge of a corn field. Colonel Dennison told us that, according to all he could learn, we will not have to go beyond Dongola, and our work will be only up a small stretch of rapids; the rest of the river being impassable through low water. The expedition will, in all probability, go across the desert from that place and we will be quartered there until it comes back.

OCT. 20.—The valley now begins to narrow—the cliffs are only from a quarter to half a mile apart and not near so high as lower down. We have passed some ancient quarries and tombs; the face of the rocks are carved and pannelled in various ways, and innumerable niches and caves are cut into them, and at the back of these niches figures of both men and animals are carved and stand out in bold relief. One place looks like the entrance to a temple—pillars cut out of the solid rock, with cornices and fanciful paintings, yet plainly to be seen. Here might be taken out stones 20 feet across and any length required, with crack or flaw.

It strikes me forcibly that the great stone figures we met with lower down have been cut out of the face of the rock here and transported to the sites they now occupy. Now and then we catch glimpses of the desert. The cliffs keep getting nearer the bank. The shores do not wear the same appearance of fertility, a narrow strip of good land now, and anon all rocky, sandy and barren, here and there a nook with a few palm, locust and orange trees nestling under the steep rock.

We shall reach Assouan to-day, and as I have at all times to write under great difficulties—men jostling and tumbling over me in all directions, even this moment writing in a kneeling posture with my bag for a rest—I shall close lest I miss the mail, not knowing the hour letters may be ordered in. Our work is now before us. I fancy it will be no child's play, but I think we will manage it all right, and do our best for the honor of the Land of the West. Best wishes to all. J. A. S.

OUTRAGES BY A TRAMP.

Barns and Stacks Deliberately Fired—The Scoundrel Still at Large.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 18.—Yesterday afternoon about four o'clock, a tramp called at Ira Hummason's lot 22, concession 5, West Zorra, and after getting something to eat walked to the barn and set fire to a straw stack, which soon communicated to the barn, containing 700 bushels of wheat and 200 of barley, also 30 tons of hay, consuming all. He then proceeded to Alex. McDonald's, lot 26, 6th concession. Finding that gentleman washing his boggy he asked for a nights lodging, and being refused walked to the other side of the barn, remarking that he (McDonald) would be sorry for it, and touched a match to the straw stack, destroying it with the barn and the whole season's crop. He then ran across to lot 27, 7th concession, and set fire to Thos. Rutherford's straw stack, destroying two barns with the year's crop and four hogs. He then went to lot 28, 8th concession, and was detected setting fire to Walker Meadows' straw stack in time to drown it out, but not in time to katch the tramp, who is still at large. His discription is:—Age about 30, light complexion, red moustache, high cheek bones, grey coat, new boots with red tops. He wore a small cap. If caught in West Zorra lynch law is feared.

EXHIBITIONS.

THAT good results would accrue to those countries which manufacture any special article, or carry on an especial trade, by exhibiting specimens of their manufactures and articles of export at an exhibition at a distant or foreign country, is reasonable. The Forestry Exhibition at Edinburgh was a good opportunity for this country to make an exhibit that would give a country, already a large customer, a better idea of what it was capable of, but, unfortunately, only one Province had a display there. This one Province was New Brunswick, which appears to have been the only one that appreciated the importance of the exhibition and was the sole one that was directly represented. The joint exhibit of New Brunswick and the Land & Lumber Company, at Edinburgh, has already produced good results, as it is said that orders have been received for classes of wood that have hitherto not been exported. From England an order has lately been sent for wood for light boxes, and from Paris for a veneering wood to resemble Hungarian ash. These orders have been filled, and a trade of considerable proportions will probably be established by this means. This is said to be a result of the exhibit at the Edinburgh Exhibition and it shows the importance of paying attention to these shows. It pays for a country not to neglect them.

In this connection we might call attention to the World's Exposition to be held in New Orleans from December 1st, 1884, to May 15th, 1885.

A movement is on foot to hold a World's Exhibition in Montreal in 1886, and the proposal should meet with encouragement.

Lump Sugar.

In answer to a correspondent who asks the difference between the sugar which is sold in apparently smooth-cut lumps, and other white sugar, the lumps of which are somewhat rough on their surface, the New York Sun says:—The difference is considerable, and the latter, which is pure loaf sugar cut into lumps, always commands a higher price in the wholesale market, and cannot be adulterated. It is called in the market "cut-loaf." The former quality of sugar is what is known as "cubes." The cut-loaf sugar is made in lumps of fifty pounds out of cane sugar, then sawed into slabs, and these slabs are partly cut through and partly broken. It is easy to distinguish the marks of cutting and breaking on each lump. The cube sugar is made of soft sugar and pressed in moulds, which gives the smooths appearance. The cut loaf will keep its shape in any climate, and is suitable for shipment. The cube sugar will sometimes, on a sea voyage, resume the consistency of the soft sugar, and the change of form is due to adulteration. The safest sugar for anyone to buy is pure loaf sugar, and it is much sweeter than any other. The principal substance used in adulterating sugar is glucose, which is sugar made from various vegetable substances, chiefly grain. While glucose is sweet, it is easily detected by the expert because it is not so sweet as cane sugar. It is nevertheless, very extensively used to adulterate cane sugar and produce the cheap sugars which are sold in the market. Reputable dealers sell it at as glucose, but there are many who sell glucose for sugar. The nature of the glucose is to make a close, sticky sugar; it does not produce grains like cane.

Sir John's Movements.

A MINISTER, while angling, came on some boys' gudding" in the stream for trout. The minister, addressed them, said. "I wonder that you are not ashamed of yourselves to be catching the poor trout by "gudding" them beneath the stones. You know that is most unfair." The representative of the "gudding" fraternity retorted from across the stream—"It's you that should be a shamed for trying to cheat them wi' sham flies."

HOW TO TELL GENUINE FLORIDA WATER.—The true Florida Water always comes with a little pamphlet wrapped around each bottle, and in the paper of this pamphlet are the "Lanman & Kemp, New York," water-marked, or stamped in pale, transparent letters. Hold a leaf up to the light, and if genuine, you will see the above words. Do not buy if the words are not there, because it is not the real article. The water-mark letters may be very pale, but by looking closely against the light, you cannot fail to see them.

Two men were going through a field in which there was a very fierce bull, which began to run after them. They ran till they were fit to drop, and just as the bull was almost at them one of them said, "John, can you say a prayer?" "No," said John, "but I can say grace," "Say grace, then," said the other. Just as the bull was going to toss him up in the air he knelt down and said. "For what we are about to receive, the Lord make us truly thankful?"

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Judicial Sale.

The judicial sale of lots 17, 18, 19, north of Albert street, the Webb property, is postponed until Monday, 24th Nov., at 2 p.m., at the Master's Chambers over the old Toronto Bank.

Shut Down for Repairs.

The agricultural works of Mr. Peter Hamilton have been closed so that the annual fall repairs may be successfully made. The works will be closed down for about a week, when they will again be put in operation.

Real Estate Transfer.

A house and lot belonging to Mrs. Catharine Kelly, was sold on Wednesday by Mr. Charles Stapleton, auctioneer, to Mrs. McMartin for the sum of $505. The property is situated on the west side of George street, a few yards above McDonnell street.

A Cool Bath.

On Wennesday evening a large number of skaters were enjoying themselves on Spaulding's Bay by gliding over the smooth surface of the ice. All went well and happily until one of the merry-making company broke through the ice. Fortunately he was near the shore when the ice sank beneath him, and a few steps through the chilly water brought him safe to terra firma.

Cold To-night.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Increasing southerly, veering to west and north-west winds; fair to cloudy weather, with light local showers of sleet or rain, mostly in the northern portion; higher temperature during the day; cold again at night.

Another Fire Alarm.

This forenoon at about eleven o'clock a few taps on the fire bell was given. It was soon discovered that the smoke and flames were proceeding from the residence of Mr. D. Lundy, on Queen street. The hose reel and fire engine were brought out of the station, but happily they were not needed. The cause of alarm proved to be only a chimney on fire. The blaze was quenched and the apparatus returned to its proper place.

FOR TRIMMED and Untrimmed Millinery at the lowest possible prices, call at Alexander's.

Chit Chat.

—Milder.

—The flakes fly in flurries.

—The trial of the alleged burglars has again been postponed.

—The new skating rink has been roofed and shingled.

—Coal and wood is coming into town in large quantities per Grand Trunk Railway.

—Just fifteen years ago to-day the first ship sailed through the Suez canal.

Well Conducted.

The members of Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows desire to return thanks to Mr. E. J. Hartley for the efficient way in which he conducted the reserved seats arrangements for the Talmage lecture. It is safe to say that there were more reserved seats secured for this lecture than was ever secured for any similar occasion in Peterborough. Yet the people were all shown to the seats they had secured, and every one appeared well satisfied with the business-like manner in which the affair was arranged.

To Subscribers of "Picturesque Canada."

We take pleasure in informing subscribers to PICTURESQUE CANADA, that we are prepared to bind the work in various styles, at the lowest possible prices. We make the binding of PICTURESQUE CANADA a specialty, having secured artistic covers and having an experienced binder and gilder, who is prepared to produce the work as it should be. Parties at a distance desiring the work bound can send them to us and we will return to them when bound, paying express charges both ways.

Bake Shop Burned.

Sortly after one o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in the bake shop of Mr. John Craig, confectioner, George street. The bake shop is situated at the northern part of the street, on the west side, between London and McDonnell streets. When the fire was first seen it was issuing from the corner of the building, which was a frame one, where the furnace stood. The fire alarm was rung and the firemen turned out. But the flames had spread rapidly and the wooden building was reduced almost to ashes before any effective work could be done. The firemen, however, attached the hose to the hydrants and did excellent work in saving the brick building formerly occupied by Mr. R. H. Carew as a grocery, and a new house which is being erected for Mr. Alexander. The Carew bankrupt stock, which is being disposed of by Mr. John Cameron, was considerably damaged by the smoke and water. Mr. J. Craig will lose in the neighbourhood of $400, having had, together with the building, a considerable quantity of stock destroyed. The building was insured for $200 in the Citizens insurance Company. There was no insurance on the stock of groceries.

In Conversation with Dr. Talmage.

After the lecture on Wednesday evening quite a number of clergymen and leading citizens visited the renowned lecturer, the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, in his private parlor at the Grand Central Hotel. An hour or so was spent in agreeable conversation, during which time the visitors were highly pleased with the lecturer's conversational powers. He spoke in high terms of our town and people, and expressed himself as being well satisfied with the attention given to him at the lecture, and at the intelligence of the audience. One of the visitors asked him how he managed to suit and moderate his voice to small audiences, to which he replied, "I don't know; I never had any experience with small audiences. My tabernacle in Brooklyn holds six thousand people, and when I speak there is seldom less than four thousand present. While travelling and delivering lectures, such an audience as I talked to to-night is a fair example of what they all are." The lecturer departed this morning by the early Ontario and Quebec train for St. Thomas, where he will deliver a lecture to-night. He will go to Brooklyn to spend Sunday, and then he will depart on a two weeks' lecture tour through the Southern States.

THE BURGLARY CASE.

The Suspected Persons in the Police Court—Ferguson as a Witness.

At the Police Court this morning John Ferguson was charged by Chief of Police Johnston with having on the 23rd of October, in connection with Robert Duncan, jr., and Wm. Noble, taken, stolen and carried away a quantity of furs from the premises of Joseph Mills.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty and decided to be tried by a jury.

Part of the stolen furs were brought into Court.

Mr. C. A. WELLER, County Attorney, stated that he would investigate the matter only so far as Noble and Duncan were concerned and that Ferguson would be required to act as a witness.

Messrs. J. BURNHAM and R. E. WOOD, who appeared for Noble, objected to the proceeding stating that the charge was a joint one and the prisoners could not be tried separately.

Mr. C. W. SAWERS, appearing for Ferguson and Duncan, objected to the proceeding on account of Ferguson being under arrest on the same charge.

The information was amended, striking out Ferguson's name from the information paper, and the first witness for the prosecution was called.

Chief of Police JOHNSTON was sworn,—I am the Peterborough Chief of Police. I recognize these articles here produced. I first saw them in a barn belonging to Mr. E. Chamberlain on Friday the 7th of November. I received private information in regard to the stolen articles and acting on that information I proceeded to the barn and took possession of the furs.

To Mr. Wood,—I received a letter, but refuse to let it be seen. I knew Mills' store was robbed and was on the alert for the discovery of the goods.

JOSEPH MILLS, sworn,—I am a fur dealer in Peterborough and recognize the furs produced as my own. I have previously examined them. They were last in my possession on or about the 23rd of October.

To Mr. Sawers,—I closed at seven o'clock and none of my clerks were at the store on the night of the burglary. The next morning I arrived at the store, but a clerk was there and had made the discovery that the store had been burglarized. I found no tools in the shop.

JOHN FERGUSON, sworn,—I know these two young men, the prisoners. I recollect them coming to gaol. When they came to gaol I asked them what they were imprisoned for, to which they answered on suspicion of robbing Mills' store. I live in town, but I left Peterborough some time ago, and have been working on the Lake Ontario steamboats. When I came back to town I heard that the store had been robbed. Will not say whether I said anything to the prisoners about keeping quiet in the gaol in case detectives were in hearing. I do not recollect their saying anything to me about the matter. I was not in town at the time of the burglary referred to. I do not recollect where I was on the 22nd of October. I did not know where the furs were hid, and said nothing to Mr. Ritchie regarding them being in a barn. I know Ritchie. I had no conversation with him until after the prisoners came to gaol, when I told him what they had told me.

At this stage the witness refused to answer any questions on account of the event of the answers being brought up as evidence against himself.

The MAGISTRATE then gave the following ruling:—I rule that the witness is not bound to answer any questions in this matter, as although his name is struck off the complaint he is a prisoner in gaol on another charge of larceny, and an information is laid against him for robbery or larceny in connection with the prisoners on the night previous to the 23rd of October, and the County Attorney will not undertake to say he is not to be prosecuted in connection with this largeny.

Mr. WELLER stated that he would be obliged to ask for another adjournment of the case.

The case was adjourned until Wednesday next.

The prisoners were admitted to bail at $1,000 each, and two surieties for each at $600.

BIG BLUNDERS.

An Eloquent and Interesting Lecture by the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage.

On Wednesday evening Bradburn's opera house was crowded to hear the celebrated Rev. T. DeW. Talmage deliver his forcible, striking and witty lecture on "Big Blunders." The lecture being given under the auspices of the Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, Mr. Jas. Stevenson took the chair and briefly introduced the lecturer. After some introductory remarks in favour of taking a genial view of life and of the world, he plunged into his subject. The first blunder he described was that of a multiplicity of occupations. All men should find their proper work, and then stick to it. He dwelt at length on the virtue on "Stickatitiveness." It was not only preachers who had a "call"; every man should have a call from God for his life work. Then by concentrating all his energies he became a power indeed. The next blunder considered was indulgence in bad temper. There was no excuse for this, as North America—both Canada and the United States—was the best of lands and this the best of ages. He drew some amusing sketches of the proceedings of men of different temperers, with their results. Another blunder was discouragement under bad treatment. Incidentally he described the ill effects of gossip, and scouted the idea of the practice being especially feminine. Other allied blunders were excessive or deficient amusement. If there were no blossoms there would be no apples, and he did not believe that a Christian's face should be a counter on which to measure religion by the yard. Amusements should be such as would not militate with home pleasures, and here he drew a beautiful picture of a true home. Another blunder, and one of the gravest, was the formation of the wrong kind of domestic relations. The best remedy in such an unfortunate case was to "grin and bear it." After sketching some of the mistakes in this respect, he urged that there was no need to make such a bad choice, when there was so many gems to be found. After a highly poetical sketch of a true wife, he avowed his belief that with a good wife a man might face the world. Another big blunder was the idea that there could be success in life without enterprise. Graphically he described what enterprise had enabled men, and especially those of our race, to do for the world. He reverted to the idea with which he started, that there never was a better time than the present. He described the march of the two wings of the great armies of civilization and Christianity—the British and American wings—encircling the whole world, to meet in the Holy Land. The tide of civilization was rising all the time and if there was any apparent retrogression it was only the recoil of the wave, as each in succession rose higher. It would be impossible to give an adequate idea, to those not present, of the versatility of this celebrated lecturer, the bursts of eloquence and flashes of wit with which in turn he illustrated the different branches of his subject. Mr. G. A. Cox, the Mayor of Peterborough, as an Oddfellow, moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer with appropriate remarks of eulogism. Mr. Wm. Cluxton, in seconding the motion, added his meed of praise, and then thanked the audience for their support, which would encourage Otonabee Lodge in their efforts to bring within reach of the people of Peterboroug such a pleasure as they had just enjoyed. The motion was carried by enthusiastic clapping of hands and the lecturer bowed his thanks.

Body Found.

Dr. Bingham has received a telegram stating that the body of Mr. Kenneth Urquhart, of Lakefield, who has been missing, has been found, we believe, near Niagara.

LAKEFIELD

From Our Own Correspondent

SAD.—The report was circulated on Wednesday evening last through the village of the death at Niagara of Mr. Urquhart, an old and respected resident of this place. Mr. Urquhart has been for a short time a little erratic by his friends and it is feared that he met with some accident while visiting some friends at the Falls. It is said that he seemed strange and wandered around a good deal, and early one morning he was missed and could not be found. The particulars of this sad affair have not yet transpired. The widow and stepson, Mr. Bird, have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire village.

MUNICIPAL.—Municipal matters are quite flat, there being but very little interest at present taken in village affairs. It may only be the lull before the storm, but as yet there is but very little, if any, talk among voters of candidates for Reeve or Councillors. There are, no doubt, many eligable men willing to sacrifice themselves for the good and welfare of the village, as is usually the case, but they are as yet not to the fore.

FORESTERS' MEETING.—The regular semi-monthly meeting of Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. F., will be held in the Foresters' Hall, on Queen street, on Thursday evening next, 27th, at 8 o'clock, sharp.

HULL'S MILLS.—Hull's mills began running the middle of last week, and is at present in full blast. The mill is supplied with water over the new dam, the western abutment and first pier being nearly completed. The new dam is progressing very nicely, and if the weather remains open a short time longer the main portion of it will so far advance this fall as to ensure navigation next summer.

ENTERTAINMENT.—An entertainment consisting of the comedy of Caste was given in aid of the Lakefield Cricket Club in the P. C. A. hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 13th. The hall was very poorly lighted, a defect the trustees should without delay remedy, as nothing can detract so much from the pleasing effect of an entertainment. Notwithstanding drawbacks, this entertainment was, in its way, fairly successful. The Peterborough Orchestra Band was present, and assisted the presentation wonderfully by the rendition of excellent music. We understand that by special request the performance will be repeated on Friday evening next, the 28th inst.

NEW STATION MASTER.—Mr. Robert Richardson has recently been appointed station master, or agent, Midland Division, G. T. Railway, at Lakefield. This appointment gives very general satisfaction to the people of Lakefield. Mr. Richardson was brought up from childhood in Lakefield, being son of our much respected townsman, Mr. John Richardson, senior. Robert is known and respected by every one and his appointment by the railway officials, who ever they are, is a grateful compliment to his industry and honesty, and very popular with those having business to do at the station.

Sweeping Reduction in the Price of Underclothing.

TWENTY PER CENT. DISCOUNT FOR CASH.

Having an unusually large stock of Winter Underclothing, and recognising the fact that the time to sell it is the present, we offer to the public all our Winter Underclothing at twenty per cent. discount for cash. This is no old stock; every article fresh this season. Our range is the most extensive in Peterborough, the prices running from 50c. to $3.25. It must be sold. Don't lose this opportunity. Come early, while we have the full assortment. This is no catch-penny, but a genuine reduction. It being the first time in our business history of quoting prices or offering a percentage, our friends will see the genuineness of the sale. We have the goods, and fearing we might have to carry over to next season a large percentage of our present stock if offered at the usual prices, we take this means of preventing it. Again we say it is genuine. Come and see for yourselves. It will be no trouble to show the different lines and quote prices.

WOODEN TELEPHONE.

A score of merchants, brokers, publishers and reporters stood in a circle around a wooden box fastened to the wall of the second story of 67 Greene street and listened to the performance of the box, which was a new acoustic telephone, operated without the aid of electricity. A large wooden disk, with a mouthpiece two and a half inches in diameter, was fastened to the front of the box, and across the mouthpiece was stretched a diagraphm of wooden basket work. A non-insulated wire ran from a nickle-plate key on the exterior of the basket-work across the street and four blocks up town to a companion talking box.

"Hallos, there, let me hear you sing," said a handsome young man with a brown mustache, who stepped out of the group around the telephone. He said this in a whisper that was not audible to other gentlemen standing less three feet away.

"All right," bawled a voice at the other end of the line. "I'll sing," and a half a second later the notes of the "Sailor's Sweetheart" floated from the box so distinctly that it sounded as if somebody in the next room was singing. The notes of a mouth harmonicon and an ordinary metal whistle was transmitted with equal clearness; and when the orator blew his breath on the diaphragm the listener at the other end detected at once what he had done. He blew a horn that produced an echo like a fog alarm, called out fractions and stock figures clearly and closed the test with a swelling "Hurrah for Ben Butler."

"The secret lies in the diaphragm," said Inspector A. A. Knudson. "It is made of an imported wood. Four layers of it woven together are screwed to the mouthpiece disk, and then the telephone box is complete. The wire used to day is made of phophor bronze, but ordinary steel wire can be used. It requires no insulation because no electricity is used. The diaphragm is so sensitive that it can reproduce the vocal vibrations distintly even at a distance of two miles. Aspirates and sounds that it is impossible to transmit over any known telephone are produced by this diaphragm."—New York Sun.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

To the Editor of the Review.

SANITARY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I have read with interest the report of the Medical Officer of the Board of Health, published in a recent issue of your paper, and shall esteem it a favor if you will publish the following comments thereon;—

The report informs us that, "from a sanitary point of view," when a town reaches the dimensions of Peterborough, all slaughter houses should be removed. Can you inform your readers why the slaughterhouses in the town have not been removed?

The report does not give us any information as to the effect, "from a sanitary point of view," of a combined slaughterhouse, piggery, and decomposed tallow rendering establishment. Perhaps the Board thinks one smell neutralizes another:

"Similia similibus curantur."

We are also informed that careful inspection "has been made once or twice a week during the season." The condition in which the slaughterhouses were found by the inspector we are not informed, but for the information (I use the word advisedly) of the Medical Health Officer, the Nuisance Inspector, and the Board of Health, I assert that if they make personal enquiry of any one of the residents in parts of the town where certain slaughterhouses are situated, they will learn what it was their duty to have ascertained months since, that the smell, not only in the immediate neighborhood, but hundreds of yards distant, has, all through the season been simply intolerable. Query: "What is the use of inspecting a nuisance if no steps are taken to remove it?" I have been authentically informed that under instructions from the Board of Health poor men living in isolated cottages have been compelled to sacrifice their only, and perhaps pet, pig. How is it that men not poor are allowed to keep from 20 to 30 pigs in a thickly settled portion of the town. Another query for the consideration of the Board of Health Medical Officer and nuisance inspector: If one pig is a nuisance, how many pigs are necessary to deodorize one pig? Thanking you for your space.

Yours, &c.,
CAST-IRON-NOSE.

The Small-Pox Outbreak.

The reported outbreak of small-pox in the village of Tweed is denied by the authorities, who assert that not a single case exists or has occurred there, but that the disease is raging at Stoco and east of Bogart, where a number of deaths have occurred.

DROUTH, DISEASE AND DEATH.

A Terrible and Mysterious Epidemic in Virginia—People Dying by Hundreds.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 20.—The counties suffering from the unknown and fatal disease before reported are Lee, Dickenson, and the edge of Scott, in Virginia, and Harland, Lee and adjoining counties in Kentucky. The symptoms are described as being like those of Asiatic cholera, followed by terrible hemorrhages of the bowels. Persons attacked die or recover in about a week. The disease is frequently fatal in 24 hours, and occasionally in a few hours. In most instances it visits an entire family, and is considered so contagious that in some cases people die alone, their friends being afraid to visit them. It is estimated that over 300 have died in Virginia. The people are demoralized and business interests suffer. A similar scourge visited this section in 1854. Cattle are also dying. In some sections rain has fallen for two days, and it is probable the drouth is over.

FRIGHTFUL RAVAGES OF THE DISEASE.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Information received here from Perryville, McDowell county, this State, near the Virginia border, gives a frightful account of the ravages of so-called cholera in the extreme south-western counties of Virginia and the adjoining territory of Kentucky. Making every allowance for exaggeration, the loss of life already has been appalling, while the condition of survivors is terrible in the extreme. No rain has fallen in Cumberland mountains, in which the infected district is situated, for four months, the drouth entailing not only the almost total failure of the crops, but the cutting off of the supply of water over a wide area. Difficulty was experienced in obtaining water for stock as early as the middle of August in some localities, but no actual suffering occurred among the inhabitants until about the end of September, when, the ordinary source of supply having for the most part failed, the mountaineers were compelled, in order to sustain life, to obtain water for household purposes from what were known as "poison" mineral springs in the mountains or from the small amount remaining in deep holes in the beds of creeks. A persistent use of the water soon developed a peculiar disease as deadly as Asiatic cholera in its nature, which has since raged with terrible fatality over half a dozen counties in Virginia, West Virginia, and Kentucky, the loss of life thus far being variously estimated at from 400 to 800. Among children and adults well up in years the mortality has been greatest, but no class has been exempt. In a number of instances, especially along the forks of Maclean's creek, a tributary of Big Sandy river, and in the valley of Powell river, entire families have perished, while in numerous other cases but one or two members of a household survive. Few recovered from the disorder, from 60 to 80 per cent. of those attacked dying, this being accounted for by the fact that pure water is still unobtainable, and that proper food and medical attendance cannot be had. The drying up of the streams has necessitated the stoppage of numerous small grist mills along the mountain valleys, and the population for the most part appears to be in most abject want and misery. The locality is almost inaccessible to the outside world, there being no railroad with one hundred miles.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent. reduction on Winter Underclothing, Andrew McNeil.

A CONTESTED WILL.

An Alleged Long-Lost Brother Turns Up and Claims $70,000 Property.

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—A will case which has excited the interest of nearly all Essex County has just been decided at the Chancery Court sittings at Sandwich before Judge Proudfoot. The will bring into notice property worth from $65,000 to $70,000, situated in Essex Centre and Amherstburg, and consists chiefly of town lots. The property was owned by Geo. Wilson, who died about a year ago at Amherstburg, and left the property, or at least the bulk of it, to one George P. Thomas, of Amherstburg, who was employed by the deceased. The testator was never married and had lived in Amherstburg for twenty years. He was about 60 years of age at the time of his death, and about a year before this he made a will, leaving the bulk of his property as stated, as he had no other living relatives with the exception of a Mrs. McLean, who was his cousin, and who acted as his housekeeper. Simon Fraser and Wm. Johnson, of Amherstburg, were named as the executors of the will. Shortly after the death of the testator the will was offered for probate, but a stranger, claiming to be a long-lost brother of deceased, came forward and announced his intention to contest the will on the ground that Wilson was insane at the time the will was made, which would therefore render it invalid. The case was removed from the Surrogate to the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, and was set down for the present session. The counsel for the executors were William Reade, solicitor, and J. A. Lash, counsellor. Duncan Dougal, of Windsor, appeared as solicitor, and T. A Delamere as counsel for the claimant, who became the contestant by the executors taking the initiatory steps in the Chancery Court to carry out the provisions of the will, and to make the brother prove that the testator was insane. George Wilson was born in Quebec, and when he was very young his father and mother died, after which the family broke up. The deceased was then adopted by a family in Toronto, where he remained until he was old enough to take care of himself. He then came to Amherstburg, where he was employed as a clerk. He finally saved enough money to purchase a farm at Essex Centre, which was a few years ago divided into town lots, and now forms part of the village of Essex Centre. The property in Amherstburg is also very valuable. After evidence had been given, the judge said that he had decided to take the case from the lawyers. He further stated that the alleged brother and his agent Robbins had laid themselves liable to be prosecuted for a criminal offence, the merits of which were not for him to discuss at present. "Having reviewed the evidence," said the judge, "I find that the contestant's own evidence proves the competency of Mr. Wilson to make a will; that there is not sufficient proof to establish the identity of Robt. Wilson, and that he bear each and every cost of this case."

Another Hotel Fire.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 20.—The Brickett building, comprising several stores, the Craighton House, and several boarding houses in rooms above, were burned this morning. The fire originated in the hotel and quickly spread to the roof. The twenty-nine inmates of the hotel barely escaped. Several tied the bed clothes together and came down on the outside of the building. One man was badly cut by sliding down a telephone wire. A baby was tied in a sheet and thrown to a fireman. Katie Gilmartin and Jose Branaham jumped from the fourth storey window; Katie Gilmartin was fatally injured and the other seriously hurt. The loss by the fire, $22,000; origin unknown.

A Story of Wellington.

Mr. Wagner has left on record a quaint story illustrative of the curtness of the hero of Waterloo. The tutor had gone to Apsley House to tell the Duke of a house suitable for the boys and himself. "The rent is so much," said Mr Wagner. "Take it," replied the duke. "The taxes are so much." "Pay them." "The furniture is so much." "Buy it. Anything more." "No, sir." "Then good-morning"

RECIPROCITY TREATY.

MADRID, Nov. 20.—The treaty of commercial reciprocity between the United States and Spain for Cuba and Porto Rico, just concluded, is the most complete reciprocity treaty ever negotiated by the American Government, embracing not only the exchange of products, but also special shipping privileges for vessels of the two nations, abolishing all tonnage and cousular fees on vessels and cargoes and making all other fees the same as for national vessels for errors when fraud has not been proved, and contains a stipulation against the imposition of new export taxes. The treaty will go into operation as soon as ratified by Congress, as the Cortes conferred full power on the ministry not only to make the treaty but to ratify it, and to put it in operation. Mr. Foster will return to the United States immediately and resume his residence in Washington.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—In the French Senate today M. Gavardie taxed the Government with abandoning French interests in Egypt and rupturing the French and English condominium. M. Ferry, in reply, said the Government had one sole object in view, a solid and durable agreement with England, and the Government had been awaiting a month for promised communication on the subject from England. M. Freycinet maintained that had France interfered in Egyptian affairs it would have been involved in troubles similar to those of England. Whenever a power set foot in Egypt European complications followed. England, he said, will not overcome her trouble in Egypt without summoning a fresh conference. The position of France in Egypt, he (M. Freycinet) continued, was neither compromised nor was it irrevocably lost. He believed the English and French would yet combine and find a solution of the Egyptian question, since both nations have a common interest in solving the troubles.

COLLISION.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Red Star line steamship Pennland, from New York for Antwerp, collided with a Swedish barque off the Goodwin sands. The barque was sunk. No details of the disaster have been received. The steamship Pennland was unharmed by the collision. The crew of the barque were saved.

SIXTY PERSONS POISONED.

CAIRO, Nov. 20.—The British forces in Egypt numbers 16,000. There are only two regiments in Cairo. The leaving of such a small garrison there is thought to be unwise.

ATTACK ON FRENCH GUNBOATS.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Le Paris says Gen de Lisle telegraphs that the Chinese made a vigorous attack on the French gunboats Eclair and Trombe, as they were proceeding along the River Clavie, after revictualling the garrison at Tu Yen Quan. One sailor was killed, and eight wounded. Gen de L'isle reports further that 8,000 Chinese are coming down the Red River, but says he is ready to meet them. He has sent Colonel Duchesne to relieve Tu Yen Quan and clear that region of the enemy's forces. Le Paris also says three first-class cruisers are being equipped to proceed to China.

REDISTRIBUTION CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Before agreeing to a conference on Saturday next upon the Franchise and Redistribution Bills, with the Marquis of Sailsbury and Sir Stafford Northcote, Mr. Gladstone insisted that there should be an exchange of the schemes proposed by both parties, in order to ascertain what chances there may be of securing a harmonious arrangement.

Renewal of Brain Cells.

According to the novel computation of a German histologist, who has been calculating the aggregate cell forces of the human brain, the cerebral mass is composed of at least 300,000,000 of nerve cells, each an independent body, organism and microscopic brain, so far as concerns its vital relations, but subordinated to a higher purpose in relation to the function of the organ, each living a separate life individually, though socially subject to a higher law of function. The life term of a nerve cell he estimates to be about sixty days, so that 5,000,000 die every day about 200,000 every hour, and nearly 3,500 every minute, to succeed by an equal number of their progeny, while once in every sixty days a man has a totally new brain.

REFORMERS AND THE PEOPLE.

It is a very easy method of conducting an argument, for those who are not trammelled by any regard for honesty, to ascribe to an opponent opinions he has not expressed, and then to controvert them. Without the least foundation for its assertion the London Advertiser misrepresents us as stating "that once public opinion is ascertained at a popular election the question at issue is to be regarded as forever settled, and the defeated party are bound to abandon their own views and are to zealously support ever after the views of their political opponents." The Advertiser well knows that we never maintained any such absurdity, and therefore its refutation of our alleged error is altogether beside the mark. We contended that the defeated party, not at a popular election, but by a parliamentary vote after such an election, should give a fair trial to the policy thus adopted by the people through their representatives. This is the only possible means by which any organized body can act with advantage, whether it is a nation, a committee of a town council or even a business firm. This is not the course that the Advertiser and its friends have adopted in regard to the National Policy, and therefore we have a right to look upon their pretended regard for an appeal to the people as more hypocrisy.

The Advertiser is equally guilty of misrepresentation when it says that the REVIEW gave no answer to the enquiry whether we were prepared to deal with the question of the annexation of Jamaica without giving the people an opportunity of pronouncing upon it. In the very articles to which the Advertiser refers we expressed, not once only but repeatedly, our perfect willingness that there should be such an appeal if the question ever became a practical one.

Again, however, we would ask the Advertiser what value it can attach to an appeal to the people, when it announces that it would no more consider itself bound to abide by the decision than it did in the case of the National Policy. Why should Reformers pretend to care for an appeal to the people, when they reserve the right, if the verdict is against them, to endeavour by every possible means to prevent the success of the policy adopted.

After a fair trial we believe that the minority should be free to advocate a reversal of the decision, but the fair trial should be first given. This was not done in the case of the National Policy, for from the very outset the policy, adopted by the people, and in fact the people themselves were treated with the utmost contempt by the Reform party and its organs.

EXPLOSION OF DUALIN.

One Man Killed and Another Fatally Injured—Blown to Pieces.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 20.—On the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway, a mile north of Yarker, four men, blasting post holes, were sitting around a camp fire, thawing 15 pounds of dualin. The explosive was in pound cartridges and it ignited. The men were warned to run, and they did, but two returned and attempted to save the dualin. As they took up the cartridges in their hands an explosion followed. One was blown twelve feet and lived five minutes. His hands, legs and part of his face were blown away. The other man shared the same fate, losing a hand and leg. He had the side of his head badly disfigured. The name of the deceased is V. Irons, aged 42, married, and from St. Anne's, Que. He leaves a wife and nine or ten children in poor circumstances. The wounded man is named A. Perrin, aged 35 years, married, also from St. Anne's, Que. He has a large family, wholly dependent upon him for support. Perrin was taken to Napanee, where he remains in an unconscious state with no hope of recovery. Iron's remains were sent to St. Anne's.

The Pacific Province.

This country has hitherto labored under great disadvantages, the principal one being its isolation; but the barriers that have shut us away from the rest of the world are being surmounted. The direct communication with the east afforded by the Northern Pacific has had a most marked effect on the business of Victoria, and this must react on the whole Province. There has been an awakening in all branches of trade, and a new spirit of enterprise has been infused into the community, the fruits of which appear in the extensive building operations that have been going on, and the numerous projects on foot. The Canadian Pacific, which will be completed within a year, will affect the prosperity of the country to a still more marked degree. The possibilities of this Province are illimitable if we can but have the men and capital to work them out. Our resources are varied, and new fields of enterprise will suggest themselves as the country becomes better known. The future of Victoria is assured. As the Province advances the metropolis must increase in size and importance, but its growth cannot now be retarded under any circumstances. The convergence toward this city of two great transcontinental railways place it in the same position as San Francisco, and taking into consideration its climate and surrounding resources, and its situation on the direct line of commerce and travel, in the course of a very few years Victoria will become the greatest city of the Dominion.—Victoria (B. C.) Paper.

OUR LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

A BRIEF ACCOUNT OF THE WORK DONE BY THE BRODIE WOOLLEN MILLS.

The Output this Year—Since the Opening of the Factory a Steady Trade Has Been Done—Enlargements and Improvements—The New Buildings.

Although in appearance the Brodie Woollen Mills are not so pretentious as some of our manufacturing establishments, yet in point of the amount of output, and of benefit to the town, they occupy a foremost position.

THE MILLS

are situated on the west side of the Otonabee river, about three hundred yards north of the Ashburnham bridge. They are partly of a frame structure, and partly (that part now in course of construction) of brick. The main building is a frame one, three stories high, and 100x40 feet. At the north end there is a wing 40x17 feet, which makes the main building for the distance of 40 feet, 57 feet wide. At the south end of the building there is a tower 15x15 and 95 feet high, which is used for stair and elevator purposes. The picker room is situated to the south of the main building. It is of solid brick, 25x47 feet, and is thoroughly fire proof, as those who stood and watched the scorching flames which consumed the contiguous office and dye room only a few weeks ago plainly saw. The picker room was then thoroughly tested and proved by its resistance of the fire to be of excellent service. As was before mentioned, the office and dye room have been burned. They were of a frame structure, and were two stories high. They are now being rapidly replaced by a solid brick building two and a half stories high, and an isolated boiler house, 28x16, at the east side. A chimney 85 feet high conveys the smoke from the furnace. Although the fire occurred only about four weeks ago, yet the debris has all been cleared away, the foundation laid, and the first storey of the new buildings erected. The work has been, and is being pushed energetically forward, and it is expected that the buildings will be completed within two weeks.

THE MOTIVE POWER

is supplied by large water wheels. It will be noticed that a boiler house is being built. The boiler is used for generating steam and for supplying hot water for the preparatory and dying processes.

THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS

are situated chiefly in the main building. The carding and spinning departments are on the top flat; the warping and weaving departments are on the second flat; and the finishing department occupies the first flat.

GENERAL.

The Brodie woollen mills are operated for the manufacture of flannels of different kinds, those is greatest demand being the grey, navy and military flannels. Cape and Montevidian wool is used exclusively.

"How has trade been since you established the mills?" asked the reporter of Mr. Brodie.

"Well," said he, "a brisk and steady trade has been done ever since the factory was opened, but this year we have been unusually busy. So great has been the demand for goods in our line that we have been obliged, so as to keep pace with the orders, to keep the mills in operation night and day."

"I suppose your output will be large this year," said the reporter.

"Yes, our output this year will be larger than last year by a considerable amount. It will reach this year I think to the neighborhood of $135,000, but of course had we not worked double time it would have been much less."

"How is it that the mills have shut down these last few weeks?"

"Well, of course we might keep the carding, spinning and weaving departments in operation," said Mr. Brodie, "had we the materials to work on, but you see the preparatory departments have been burnt and therefore the wool cannot be prepared for the manufacturing processes."

"How long will it be before you open again?" asked the reporter.

"I think we will be able to start again in less than two weeks."

Mr. Brodie has now on hand a large number of orders, and is anxiously waiting for the time to come when the factory may again be put in operation. The new wing, which will be built this season, on the east side of the main building, will largely increase the size of the factory, and as Mr. Brodie intends to supply the new building with new machinery, the output next year will also be considerably increased.

The mills are lighted at night by the electric light, which illuminates the building almost as bright as noon, so that the operatives may work as well as by day. The mills are well kept, neat, and are filled from top to bottom with the newest and most improved machinery.

The annual amount paid out for wages and incidental expenses is about fifteen thousand dollars, and the number of yards of flannel manufactured yearly by these mills is something more than five hundred thousand. This amount of money spent yearly within the town cannot fail to greatly benefit our merchants and business men.

A Shocking Sink.

One evening as Mrs. Harriet Hollister, wife of Timothy Hollister, of 20 Aurora street, was turning off the water from the faucet over the sink in the kitchen, using her right hand, her left hand being in contact with the iron lining of the sink, she was suddenly prostrated with a severe electric shock. Mrs. Hollister's first thought was that she had been struck with paralysis or apoplexy; and that was also the opinion of her family. Dr. E. J. Morgan, Sr., was summoned, and found that the inside of the thumb of the left hand had been blistered in several places. This led him to believe that Mrs. Hollister had received a strong electric shock from some source. About twenty minutes after her mother had been so peculiarly affected, Miss Hollister, in drawing water from the same faucet, also received a shock, although not so strong as the first one had been. The family then became convinced that the trouble existed in the water-pipe and sink. This morning manager Wolverton, of the telephone exchange, after a brief examination of the premises, found the secret of the trouble. Mr. Hollister's residence was connected with the Ithaca hotel by a dead private telegraph wire. This wire had been crossed with the electric light wire. The dead wire was connected with the metallic roof on Mr. Hollister's house, which in turn was connected with a tin water conductor with the water pipe leading to the sink. When the dynamo machine of the electric light company was in operation the current passed over the dead wire to the tin roof and thence to the water pipe. It needed only the completion of the circuit by Mrs. Hollister to obtain the full benefit of an artificial stroke of lightning. Mrs. Hollister is about the house again as well as ever. It is needless to say that the dead wire will be removed at once.—Ithaca Journal.

A DRY TIME.

When the Earth Cools Down and Drinks up the Ocean.

Prof. Cooke'y, of New York, says:—

"Most of the planets have probably cooled down by radiation to a solid undercrust like the earth. The sun, owing to its greater mass, is still a fiery globe, and yet cooled down so as to have a solid crust. But our moon, being a body of small mass only about one-eighteenth of the earth's mass, is supposed to have cooled down to a solid globe all the way from its surface to its centre. Its internal heat is supposed to have been all radiated away into the surrounding cold space. Now the hot interior mass of earth can, of course, contain no water, and little or none of the free gases that constitute an atmosphere. They would be boiled off, expanded and driven to the surface, where are found now the great bulk of our oceans and our atmosphere, but when the earth shall have parted with its internal heat, having thrown it into the surrounding cold space as the moon has done, then the cold, solid but porous mass within its present crust, which is now incapable of absorbing water or air, on account of the present high temperature, will begin to drink up the water and air just as the parched soil after a summer's drought drinks up the rain, and the ground is dry a few minutes after the shower. But you may well ask, could the solid porous mass within the present crust of the earth thus drink up the whole of the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and cause all the waters of our globe to disappear? Let us examine this more closely.

While the interior of the earth remains as hot as it is at present it is no more possible for the water and air of our globe to penetrate to these fiery regions than it is for a drop of water to remain on a hot stone. But the earth is losing its heat day by day and year by year, radiating it out into the surrounding cold space. I know it has been computed that the earth receives from the sun annually just as much heat as it loses in a year by radiation into the surrounding space. Grant that it be so for the present and for many thousands of years to come. But the trouble is the sun himself is cooling off, and, therefore, will not always be able to send us as much heat as at present. The time will, therefore, surely come when we shall lose more heat by radiation into space than the sun will be able to return to us. Then it will be only a question of time for the earth gradually to cool down, as the moon has already done, from surface to centre. When that time comes will not the dry but solid and porous core of our globe drink up the oceans and atmosphere, causing them to disappear, not into large cavernous pockets, but into the minute pores of its substance?

The proposition appears to be established by strict calculation that the interior of the earth when cold will be able to absorb more than four times, possibly more than thirty times, the amount of water now on its surface. Now, it seems certain that in the manner first explained, the earth will continue to lose both its superficial water and its atmosphere. The earth, like other planets, and even the sun himself, are regarded as doomed at some future day to the same fate. Melancholy fate! some will say. But why complain of the general law of nature? Everything in nature has its morning of life, its high meridian of glory and strength, its evening decline and its midnight of blackness and death. In the case of a world—is that the last term of a series?"

A LETTER IN RHYME.

FROM MRS. LEIGH, OF BELLEVILLE, TO MISS CARRIE MCDUFF, OF HAMILTON, ONT.

Dear Carrie, as day after day passes by,
Bringing never a line from my pen for your eye,
You have thought me unworthy of interest or pity,
Just like some old tramp that one meets in a city;
But dearest old Carrie, my health has been poor,
Such twinges of pain I have to endure—
Neuralgia—and then a bad cold on my chest,
I felt very seedy it must be confessed;
I rubbed "Radway" without—swallowed powders within,
And lotions peculiar to rub on my skin;
Then my friends all were urging and generously trying
To do what they could to prevent me from dying;
Their chickens they slaughtered—the feathers were flying;
I had custards and paps to fill up the gaps,
Which invalids suffer from after short naps;
I had beef, iron and wine—a tonic divine,
And clusters of grapes sent me fresh from the vine;
Such luxuries soon banished weakness and pain;
I'm Commander-in-Chief of my house once again;
Poor Charlie, who thought I was seriously ill,
Suggested politely my making a will;
He said it was only a well meant suggestion,
My illness might possibly end in congestion;
He made just the faintest most distant allusion
About leaving my worldly affairs in confusion;
As I felt my dear husband was acting directly,
I ordered a document written out neatly,
Leaving Charles the possession of all for his life,
To be cut off at once should he marry a wife;
I could not but grin when that clause I popped in,
As I had not a doubt that 'ere two years were out
Mr. Charlie would like to go flourishing about
With a wife on his arm and my funds in his purse,
Which Mrs. Leigh second would help him disburse;
Of course I'm aware, it was scarcely quite fair,
But Charles is so flirty I had to take care.
Now some news I must find for your mental digestion,
From where, is now ever a troublesome question;
Our church sale is over—in laces and collars,
In brackets and aprons we cleared ninety dollars;
We ladies for weeks had been meeting to sew
Some went to work and a few went to blow;
I was not of that last mentioned number you know.
So we cut out nice clothes and our neighbors dissected;
The last mentioned duty we seldom neglected;
After cutting and basting, and knitting and blowing,
We managed to get through a good lot of sewing;
And collected a fair share of fine things together,
Which sold very fairly in spite of foul weather.
What became of the proceeds I don't know, I'm sure,
Perhaps they were given to the indigent poor;
Perhaps they were popped in the clerical purse,
May they bring down a blessing, instead of a curse.
Dear Charlie is suffering no end of dejection
Concerning the recent Algoma election;
As the "Grits" in that quarter have come off victorious,
The "Cons," my dear girl, do not feel over glorious.
I freely allow that I don't care one bit,
As, between you and I, I am three parts a Grit;
If Charlie knew this he'd go off in a fit.
General Gordon is under a siege at Khartoum,
The public about him seems quite in a fume;
He's regarded, of course, in the light of a martyr,
And poor William Gladstone is catching a tartar;
Should anything happen to Gordon, I know,
John Bull will be making no end of a blow.
A weak minded publisher sent me some cash
For a story,—I first thought of cutting a dash,
But afterwards thought of a much better way,
A few of my long-standing debts I would pay.
The amount of each bill was by no means so bulky,
But managed to keep all my creditors sulky.
They beam on me now with the warmth of the sun,
And I peacefully sleep without fear of a dun,
Mrs. Benson is blessed with a third pair of twins,
They scream all the time as if lying on pins;
She thinks them both angels! oh, happy delusion,
A small pair of fiends were a juster conclusion,
My thoughts on those infants I'll keep in seclusion.
What now can I tell you? Why, nothing at all.
There's not been a party or bachelor's ball,
Not even a mild little "Do as you please,"
Our town is as flat as the flattest Dutch cheese.
Not a murmur of scandal floats by on the air,
No matches to speak of, I'm just in despair,
No wonder you get such dull letters from me,
LEANORA AURORA ANGELICA LEIGH.

CAMPBELLFORD.

A PRODUCTIVE BEAN.—In the garden of Mr. James Whitton, in Campbellford, there sprung up and grew, and flourished, the past summer, a bean which brought forth of its like nearly one thousand fold. A boy was given the task of computing the yield, and he shelled out 994 beans. It is a white bean—a new variety which Mr. Whitton purchased in Kingston last year.

A FAN CUTS OFF A FINGER.—It is an accident not often recorded where a lady loses one of her fingers by the use of a fan, and we are not going to publish such an instance, but a workman in the Trent Valley Woollen Mills had one of his fingers taken off by a fan on Wednesday. The fan is one used to expel the steam in the dye house, and makes a thousand revolutions per minute. Mr. Thomas Ashton was observing its movements and placed his hand near it to feel the air-propelling power. While doing so the little finger of his right hand came in contact with the fan, and it was severed as completely as if it had been cut with a knife. The severed finger was dressed by a physician, and a small portion more of it removed beyond the second joint.—Herald.

Burdette on "Home."

The time comes when a man leaves his old home to build himself a new home, a temple in which his wife shall be the goddess—and also the janitor. The man she worships as a hero, whom she imagines pure gold, she often discovers is at least three-quarters brass. A woman has one peculiarity—she always speaks of her father's house as home. No matter how small a man may be abroad, of how little importance in the outside world, at home he is governor, or lieutenant-governor at least. We step off the stage and the world doesn't forget us—it never remembered us; everything goes on just as usual; conquest or defeat, crown or ruin other lives, and there is no thought of us. But at home our name and our memories are kept green—until our property is divided among the lawyers, at least.

American Counterfeiters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The chief of the secret service reports that the amount of counterfeit money captured or surrendered during the year was $684,000, a large proportion of which was in flash notes. The chief says the events of the past year give evidence of a revival of the manufacture of counterfeit money, which was practically suspended during the years 1882 and 1883. He is of the opinion that there is to-day in the hands of counterfeiters nearly $300,000 of new spurious notes of the denomination of 10 and 20 dollars, which have been produced since January last. The counterfeiting of coin has not been unusually active during the year.

A Bright Youth.

A nine year old boy named Henry, who lives at the west end of Portage la Prairie, has been developing some peculiar proclivities lately, which, if not suppressed, may have serious results. One day last week he bathed his head in coal oil and then touched a burning match to his hair. His father, who was standing close by, noticed the latter act and smothered the flame as quickly as possible, but, notwithstanding his prompt action, the boy's hair was blackened to a tinder. A few days since the same boy sprinkled a can of powder on the floor and touched a match to it "just to see it fiz."—Winnipeg Times.

The Clock.

"The clock's a modest thing," murmured Fitz, reflectively, "always got its hands before its face."

"It's a naughty open-faced thing," snapped the old lady.

"And no welcome visitor to the spot cash man," chimed in Pinder, "for it's always going on 'tick.'"

"And an arrant coward," mused Sukey. "I never saw a clock of any good that wasn't always running."

"That's in order to be on time," remarked Fitzgoober.—Atlanta Constitution.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

IN making grape jelly select the fruit when not fully ripe. Wash and drain, then put in a preserving kettle, mash well, and heat till all the skins are broken and the juice flows freely. Strain and use the juice only with an equal amount of sugar.

TO remove silver stains from clothing, immerse the stained fabric for a few minutes in a concentrated solution of chloride of copper, then rub with a crystal of sodium hyposulphite, previously dipped into ammonia which has been diluted with an equal bulk of water. If the chloride of copper solution is quite neutral, the color of the fabric will not be affected.

FURNITURE POLISH.—The following is commended as better than the average of such preparations: Spirits of turpentine, one pint; rectified oil of amber, one pint; olive oil, one pint; oil of lavender, one ounce; tincture of alkanet, half an ounce. A cotton rubber is saturated with this polish, which is then applied to the wood. The latter is then well rubbed with soft, dry, cotton rags, and wiped dry.

POPOFF ON THE TREATMENT OF COLD IN THE HEAD, COLD ABLUTIONS OF THE FEET.—Dr. Propok Popoff, of Minusinsk, Siberia, states that in more than 200 cases of acute and chronic rheumatic coryza, he used with great success the following simple plan of treatment: Twice daily (in the morning on rising and at night on going to bed) for two days the patients are ordered to wash their legs, from the sole up to the knee, with ice-cold water, and to rub the washed parts with a dry towel, or a piece of rough linen or cloth until a vivid redness and feeling of warmth appears. The whole procedure takes not more than five minutes. No other measures or precautions are required."

FARM GLEANINGS.

A TON of straw is worth, when rotted down, not more than $2 or $3 for manure. In its coarse condition it is worth even less, as it costs too much to evenly distribute it. The better way, when straw will sell at $6 to $10 per ton, is to sell a part; buy, or at least sell more grain and oatmeal, and thus put the barnyard manure in more concentrated form.

FRUIT trees, especially apple, should have a pile of earth around their trunks before winter sets in, and all rubbish removed for some distance and burned. This will prevent mice from working at the bark. The mouse is a timid creature and will not stand above the snow line even to make a meal. Banking with snow during the winter will serve a good purpose, but it needs to be repeated, and banking with well packed soil is better.

FROM the cultivation of a little less than a quarter of an acre in this village, Mr. Robert Dinwoodie informs us that he has the following return this season: 110 bushels potatoes, 2 bushels onions, 2 bushels carrots, 3 bushels beets, 2 bushels parsnips. Besides this he raised all the lettuce and radish to supply his own table and some of his neighbours. The above is not easily beaten. The potatoes were principally Clarke's No. 1 and Beauty of Hebron varieties.—Campbellford Herald.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Blacksmith and Wheelwright gives the following: My method of shoeing a kicking horse or mule is a follows: I attach a ring to the tail, tying or braiding it with the hair, and then tie one end of a rope to the ring and buckle a strap around the fetlock with a ring attached to the strap and standing the same as the ring in the tail. I next pass the loose end of the rope down through the ring at the fetlock and thence up through a ring in the side of the shop, or in a post outside. When I pull on the rope the animal is obliged to lift his foot, and is unable to kick. This plan will also place the foot in a position for shoeing.

WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

The World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition was inaugurated by a resolution of the National Cotton Planters' Association of America at its annual meeting in October, 1882. The original intention was to designate it simply "The World's Cotton Centennial," the year 1884 being the centennial anniversary of one of the great commercial events of America—the first exportation of cotton from the same; but subsequently this comparatively limited intention was abandoned, and the scope of the enterprise was extended by making it "The World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition," thus imparting to it both a national and international character, which decision was more emphatically confirmed by an act of the United States Congress and by proclamation of the President to the whole world.

In accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress the location of the exposition was fixed at New Orleans and ample funds were at once provided for the same. The United States Government will expend $300,000 for its collective exhibit, and $1,000,000 was loaned by the Government to the enterprise; $100,000 was appropriated by the city of New Orleans, $100,000 by the State of Louisiana, and $500,000 was subscribed by the citizens of the city of New Orleans.

The classification of the exhibits will comprise the following groups:—1, agriculture; 2, horticulture; 3, raw and manufactured products, ores, minerals and woods; 4, furniture and accessories; 5, textile fabrics, clothing and accessories; 6, the industrial arts; 7, alimentary products; 8, education and instruction; 9, works of art; 10, pisciculture. These ten groups have been divided into 1,006 classes. In addition to these will be a number of other special and interesting departments.

Water, gas and steam, and other motive power for machinery will be supplied gratuitously. Neither American or foreign exhibits will have to pay rent for the space allotted them in the exposition, but a reasonable entrance fee, suitable to the character of the exhibit offered, will be charged to the exhibitors of the United States.

The buildings and grounds devoted to the purpose of the exposition will be of ample capacity, and will embrace all the improvements and facilities suggested by the experience of previous expositions of a similar capacity. There has been erected five principal buildings.

In addition to the other great structures will be 40 saw mills in constant operation, enormous and elegant accommodations for live stock; costly and imposing structures of various manufacturing concerns, and two magnificent buildings erected by the Republic of Mexico at a cost of half a million of dollars. This Republic will maintain a distinct exhibit, and have quartered on the grounds during the entire exposition a battalion of infantry and one cavalry with the two principal bands of the same. This will be an attractive feature.

The exposition being under the joint auspices of the United States government, the city of New Orleans and National Cotton Planters' Association of America, it will be formerly opened on Tuesday, the 16th day of December next by the President of the United States, assisted by his cabinet officers, the Congress, governors of the various states, and President Diaz, of the Republic of Mexico. A formal and urgent invitation to assist in these exercises has been extended to his Excellency the Marquis of Landsdowne and his cabinet ministers. The inauguration exercises will be conducted upon an elaborate and appropriate scale.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Business Brisk.

Business in musical goods must be good, as Mr. D. Smart informs us that he disposed of no less than three of the celebrated organs of the firms he represents on Monday.

Ontario Directory.

Mr. H. H. Harvey is delivering to the Peterborough subscribers the Ontario Gazetteer and Directory for 1885. It appears to be very carefully compiled, and to be so well arranged as to be easy of reference.

Debating Society.

The Auburn Templars have organized a debating society, and held their first bebate for the season on Thursday night. An interesting evening was spent, and it is the intention of the society to have a fortnightly debate through the the coming winter months.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to moderate westerly winds and fine weather, lower temperature to-morrow night.

The Late Mr. Urquhart.

The many friends of the late Mr. Kenneth Urquhart, of Lakefield, will be glad to learn that his body was recovered on Wednesday below Niagara Falls. An inquest was held there to-day, and a verdict of accidental drowning was returned. The body is being brought to his late home, and is expected to arrive in Peterat 11 o'clock to-morrow.

History of Peterborough.

Mr. J. C. Gardner is now in town distributing the "History of Peterborough" to the subscribers. It is a handsome work. We will speak of its contents shortly after a careful perusal. We learn that the delivery has been very successful in the Township of Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer, which the agents of the publisher, Mr. C. Blackett Robinson, have already visited.

OTTOMAN and Brocaded Mantle Cloths just received at Alexander's. Prices right.

A Piano Purchased.

We understand that the Rev. Mr. Beck, on behalf of the Church of England Temperance Society and the Girls' Friendly Society, has purchased a new piano for the exclusive use and benefit of these Societies. The instrument is a handsome upright of the most recent design, from the well known piano factory of R. S. Williams & Son, of Toronto. Two years ago Mr. Beck purchased a similar instrument for himself from the same firm and is evidently a good judge of the merits of this class of pianos.

A Smash.

While one of the electricians engaged by the Peterborough Electric Light Company was engaged in putting a fresh carbon into the lamp in the store of Mr. Joseph Mills, the ladder slipped and fell against the lamp, knocking it from the hooks from which it hung. It fell heavily on a counter and thence to the floor, breaking it in several places. A boy standing near the counter narrowly escaped being injured, the iron frame of the lamp having gone within a few inches of where he was.

A New Plan.

Mr. D. Smart is now having made a new plan of the reserved seats in Bradburn's Opera House. The plan is quite novel in design and is the work of Mr. R. A. Smart. It is framed with French walnut and ornamented with guilding. The seats are correctly laid out, are covered by glass, and when in use the plan stands in a slanting position. The person who wishes to secure a seat steps to the counter, selects the seat, and the plan, by means of hinges, may be dropped on the counter and the seat duly marked. The plan is a neat one and is attractive in appearance.

Excitement Among the 'Bus Men.

On Thursday night, while the porters and 'bus men of the town hotels were waiting at the Grand Trunk depot for the arrival of the 8.30 train, a misunderstanding arose between the 'bus driver of a leading hotel and an ex-porter of the same hotel. The driver was on the top of the 'bus and the ex-porter was on the ground. The ex-porter was desirous of having the driver come down to settle the dispute with their knuckles, to which the driver seemed disinclined to comply. Hereupon the ex-porter started to climb up the 'bus, but the driver presented a gleaming revolver and advised the ex-porter to descend. The ex-porter descended.

Personal.

Mr. W. J. Morrison, the energetic agent of the Souris and Rocky Mountain Railway, has just returned from the Rocky Mountains and is visiting his brother, Mr. Geo. A. Morrison. He reports everything looking well in Manitoba, and states that the prospects of this road are very encouraging.

Mr. A. S. Manhard, Travelling Passenger Agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, is at present distributing advertising matter in regard to the Manitoba product car which will arrive in Peterborough on Monday. He will make his headquarters for some time to come in Peterborough at the Grand Central Hotel.

Col. Villiers, Inspector of Armories, was in town on Thursday, inspecting the armoury here. He left on an afternoon train.

A Big Suit.

Messrs. T. Dolan & Co. have just turned out a suit of clothes, the dimensions of which are perhaps as large, if not larger, than any suit of clothes ever turned out of a clothing store for practical purposes. The suit is made for Mr. J. H. T. Smith, who is at present engaged in digging trenches for the Peterborough Gas Company. The vest around the waist measures 66 inches, and around the chest 62 inches. The coat around the chest is 64 inches, and around the waist is 68 inches. The pants are 56 inches in length, and measure in circumference at the hips 70 inches, and at the waist 64 inches. The suit is made of eleven and a half yards of full-cloth. When giving his order Mr. Smith laid particular stress on the fact that his last suit was too small, and that he wished this suit to be made so that he might have comfort in it, and ordered the pockets to be made ten and a half inches wide. This is a slight departure from the ordinary "big egg" and "big fish" items, but it is nevertheless true, every inch of it.

ASHBURNHAM NOTES.

The Italians Again in Trouble—A "Ghost" on Elizabeth Street.

A WOMAN AT THE BOTTOM OF IT.

A few evenings ago a love sick Peterborough young man came across to this side to see his girl. By some "accident" he got pretty well loaded with Gooderham and Wort's lemonade before he started. It is well known that the Ashburnham gallants have a dislike to any outsider coming in to win away the hearts of the fair ones from themselves, so when our hero made his appearance on the other side of the bridge he was greeted with a volley of stones, sticks and other missiles. Being well charged with the courage-making fluid he gave signs of defending himself. A loud noise ensued, and Constable Craig appeared on the scene. The young man was taken in charge, and languished in the cool shades of the lock-up during the night. The next morning he was brought before His Worship, Magistrate Wood, and fined $2 for being drunk and disorderly. The fine was paid, but the young man complained bitterly of his usage in Ashburnham. First he was stoned and then he was fined.

AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

It seems that some of Italy's dusky sons have again been lightly embraced by the iron arm of the law. A short time ago two Italians got on a spree, and by way of amusement commenced to curse each other in the middle of Elizabeth street. One was cut slightly in the neck and the other one made off. Constable Craig arrested the remaining one, who was dangerously flourishing a cocked revolver and a dirk knife. The next morning the arrested party, Salvator Grazian, was brought before His Worship Magistrate Wood, and was fined $20 and costs for carrying firearms contrary to the law. The fine was cheerfully paid, and the offender seemed quite relieved when he was set at liberty.

A "GHOST" SCENE.

A few evenings ago a rising Ashburnhamite was walking slowly homeward, ruminating over the events of the day, when he was suddenly brought to a standstill by beholding directly in front of him a form clad in white. He stood transfixed for a moment, when he dashed to the other side of the street. The form moved silently into a neighboring alley and disappeared. The affrighted villager hied home as quickly as possible, and is now averse to leaving the fireside in the evenings. He positively affirms that it was no illusion, because he looked at the apparition for several minutes. It was a very material ghost, however

EVERYBODY in need of good Dress Goods at reasonable prices should buy from Alexander.

"On the Heights."

Look out for the large posters announcing the dates on which the celebrated Dr. J. H. Vincent, of New York, will deliver sermons in the George Street Methodist Church and a lecture on the above mentioned subject.

Greenhouse Burned.

At about 3 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday of this week the greenhouse at the residence of Mr. James Wallis, Merind, was destroyed by fire. The flames were confined to the greenhouse, but about 3,000 or 4,000 plants were burned.

Chit Chat.

—Warm and bright.

—The snow has disappeared.

—A blank at the Police Court this morning.

—There will be a meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Association at the office of Mr. Wm. Cummings this evening.

—It was Mr. J. Craig's stock which was insured for $200, not the building. Besides his loss of $400 by the recent fire he will be not a little inconvenienced.

—The Peterborough Lacrosse Club intend to organize some kind of athletic sport for the winter. It will probably either be a snow shoe club or a gymnasium.

—There will be a meeting of the Dufferin Literary Club this evening.

If you want Underclothing, don't procrastinate, but avail yourself of the twenty per cent. discount now being offered on all sales of Winter Underclothing at Andrew McNeil's.

Score Another for Peterborough.

Mr. Geo. W. Hall to-day received information from Mr. D. Christie, of the firm of Christie, Brown & Co., Toronto, and President of the Biscuit Manufacturers' Association, that at a meeting of the Association held at the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, last Wednesday, after a careful examination, the soda biscuits he manufactures were classed as 1st class. The result of this is that Mr. Hall's sodas are now classed as being equal to those manufactured by the best firms in the Dominion. This information ought certainly to be encouraging to Mr. Hall, and it is to be hoped our citizens will show their appreciation by asking their grocer for Hall's sodas.

Sweeping Reduction in the Price of Underclothing.

TWENTY PER CENT. DISCOUNT FOR CASH.

Having an unusually large stock of Winter Underclothing, and recognising the fact that the time to sell it is the present, we offer to the public all our Winter Underclothing at twenty per cent. discount for cash. This is no old stock; every article fresh this season. Our range is the most entensive in Peterborough, the prices running from 50c. to $3.25. It must be sold. Don't lose this opportunity. Come early, while we have the full assortment. This is no catch-penny, but a genuine reduction. It being the first time in our business history of quoting prices or offering a percentage, our friends will see the genuineness of the sale. We have the goods, and fearing we might have to carry over to next season a large percentage of our present stock if offered at the usual prices, we take this means of preventing it. Again we say it is genuine. Come and see for yourselves. It will be no trouble to show the different lines and quote prices.

A Vicious Horse.

CROSSHILL, Nov. 20.—A horse owned by John Frame, of this place, got loose in the stable in Mr. Frame's absence, and when his children opened the door to feed him he rushed out, and after running about a mile and a half was met by a former named Ward, on horseback, whom he immediately attacked by kicking, breaking one of Mr. Ward's legs. Mr. Ward succeeded, however, in dismounting and, as quickly as possible crawled over a fence or the thinks he would have been killed. Some neighbours, witnessing the affair, came to his relief and removed him to his home.

Remarkable Marksmen.

The extraordinary proficiency of the Dutch Boers of South Africa in marksmanship makes them dreaded enemies. An Englishman who has been hunting among them lately says that he saw one fire hastily at a bustard which was flying about two hundred yards distant, and sent a rifle ball through its body: but as this did not wholly stop the bird, which flapped rapidly along the ground, the Boer fired a second time and cut off its head.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

WANTED AN ESCORT.

So She Runs Away and Marries a Darling Young Peddler—Angry Relatives.

Mrs. Elizabeth Powell, a woman of seventy years of age, lived in a village of Farmingdale, Long Island, for forty years. Her first husband, Conkling Baylis, died fifteen years ago, and her second husband separated from her. Three months ago a handsome young peddler, John Bauman, engaged lodgings with Mrs. Powell. He paid more attention to the old lady than to his business during the six weeks that he staid there. Some of Mrs. Powell's friends talked with her about her boarder and informed her of the ugly rumours that were flying about the village.

"You can tell the villagers," Mrs. Powell replied, "that I love Johnny and I will marry him if he will have me. The winter is coming on, I'm getting old, and I must have somebody to escort me to the theatre and such places."

Her friends consulted a physician about her mental condition. The old lady heard of the action of her friends, and fearing that they might succeed in separating her from her admirer, started for New York in company with Bauman, and they were married by an Episcopal clergyman. They spent their honeymoon in New York and Mrs. Bauman returned to the village later on to close up her affairs. She started Bauman in business and informed her friends that she was happy at last. Her grandchildren threaten to have her arrested for bigamy, as she was not divorced from Mr. Powell. She is the sole executrix of her first husband's estate amounting to about $30,000.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

An Address by Greeley before the Geographical Society.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Lieut. Greely read a paper relating to his recently ended expedition before the American Geographical Society to-night. The hall was crowded with people, who gave the explorer a warm reception. In introducing Greely, President Daly said he had no faith in the theory of an open Polar sea, but believed such expeditions as Greely commanded were productive of much knowledge regarding the North. He begged Greely to accept the occasion as an earnest of the deep interest felt by the people in his late sufferings and achievements that had resulted. In the course of the address Greely said:—"I started on the expedition, as most have done before me, without all the appliances that should have been provided; without the funds we should have had, and without all the instruments that should have accompanied such an undertaking, and which we found necessary." Concluding, he said:—"You all know of our timely rescue. What happened then you have all read of, and you will read more." This sentence caused something of a flutter in the audience. Greely made no reference to the horrible scenes that had been published.

His Lordship objected to him as a son-in-law, and induced his son Bernard to write a letter to his daughter libelling him. The lady gave the letter to Mr. Adams. The Mahdi's people are deserting and fleeing to the hills, having lost faith in him. Khartoum was illuminated upon the tidings reaching there that a British expedition was en route for its relief. Everybody in Khartoum reveres Gen. Gordon. His orders are implicitly obeyed. The Mahdi announces he will not attack Khartoum during the present month of Moharrem because it would be contrary to the laws of the prophet.

THE LONG-LOST CHARLIE ROSS.

Another Candidate Discovered in St. Catharines—Plausible Story.

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 21—A young lad about 15 years of age, light hair and complexion, and blue eyes, was brought to the Journal office on Thursday afternoon by two men named Thomas Wright, of Port Dalhousie, and Isaac Kingston, of this city. These men stated that in their opinion and from what they had seen and known of the boy, he is the long-lost and much sought for son of Walter Ross, of Philadelphia. The boy, on being questioned, says that he believes he is 15 or 16 years of age. His first recollection is of playing in Philadelphia with a boy named Anderson, who lived near his parent's residence. He says that his own name is Charlie Ross. He was taken away from his home by a gipsey, who was called John Fleets, in a covered waggon, and giving something that set him asleep. After travelling a considerable time he crossed a long bridge, which he now believes was the Niagara Suspension bridge. He remained with the gipseys for four or five years, and finally ran away from them near London, Ont., on account of ill treatment. He then wandered about the country, working for various people in various places, and for a year or two in this neighbourhood, among his employers being Messrs. Newman & Reid, of Port Dalhousie, and Mr. Vine, of this city. Mr. Kingston, of this city, had seen the boy with gipseys, and learning that his name was Charles Ross, took an interest in him, and both he and Mr. Wright believe that he is the veritable and long lost Charlie Ross. The boy says that the gipseys marked him with a hot needle on his chin, they scarred him with a letter V on his thumb, a letter Y and a straight mark on one foot. The boy is now in charge of Mr. Wright, of Port Dalhousie, who will maintain him until Mr. Ross, of Philadelphia, can be communicated with.

The Tribes of the Soudan.

We have time and again been told that the Egyptain slave trade has been suppressed, but it has not. An official has been appointed to inspect all boats passing up or down the White Nile to see that no slaves are smuggled through. The officer came aboard our steamer and insisted on inspecting the passenger's trunks. We assured him that there were no slaves secured in the trunk, and refused to permit the inspection. The officier may do his duty well, but immense numbers of slaves are purchased and transported by caravan down the banks of the Nile until they reach a slave camp outside Khartoum where I saw an immense number. The False Prophet, who was born at Dongola, engaged in in boat-building at Abbas Island, on the Nile, and gathered around him a regiment of followers armed with spears, an army which was victorious in many battles, and literally annihilated several armies that were sent out to subdue them. There is a singular tribe of dwarfs that live on the west bank of the Nile, south of the Shillook country. One of the warriors of this tribe was only four feet tall. The Shillooks and the Dinkas, on the opposite side of the river, have a crude form of religion, worshiping a cow. Their intelligence is of limited order. They seem to lie without any appreciable motive for so doing. It is found, however, that the natives respond quickly to the influences of civilization and evangelization. The powerful and never conquered Shillooks are a tribe numbering a million. They paint their faces white, color their hair, which stands out all over their heads, red, contrasting most strangely with their black bodies. They have a queer custom. A man will frequently have 500 wives. At his death his eldest son, who probably has wives of his own, must adopt his father's wives. The complications of relationship are queer. The children are uncles of his children and his children are the nephews of his children or something to that effect.—Exchange.

OUR FUTURE.

IT is astonishing what a number of absurdities are written in regard to imperial federation. One objection that is constantly put forth by the opponents of this idea is that imperial federation involves the application of one tariff to the whole of the scattered portions of the empire, and that Canada would not submit to having its tariff fixed for it. This is not a weighty objection, for the reason that imperial federation does not necessarily imply a common tariff. There is no reason why it should not be arranged for Canada, Australia, and so forth, to raise their own revenue from customs, the money required for imperial purposes being then levied in the shape of contributions from the different portions of the empire according to some proportion to be agreed upon.

The Monetary Times, which is usually more sensible, is now raising an equally futile objection. It says, "a kingdom without a king is an impossibility; but the future of the colonies is not likely to be, as a rule, monarchical." Of course there cannot be a kingdom without a sovereign, but the Monetary Times is clearly wrong if it means that every kingdom must have a separate sovereign, or how is it that the Three Kingdoms have not three sovereigns? Canada and Australia are as much monarchical and have as truly a sovereign as the kingdoms of England, Ireland and Scotland.

We cannot agree either "that it is unwise to throw a challenge at the nations by telling them that if they quarrel with England, they must fight, not her alone, but also a number of auxiliary kingdoms." Union is strength, and the knowledge that any nation attacking the old country or its colonies (for the att would be reciprocal) would have to reckon with them all, would go far to avert such an attack.

The concluding criticism of the Monetary Times, that, "in the end, equality of representation would cause the rule of empire to pass from Westminster to Canada, Australia and other outlying portions of the confederation," and the doubt expressed whether "England is prepared to accept for herself the future which this implies," is, in itself, a complete answer to those who oppose federation, because, as they say, Canada and the colonies would be altogether outvoted.

The fact is, that Canada is fast growing to a status, that would warrant its forming a partnership on somewhat equal terms with the mother country, and that would render imperial federation far from an absurdity. There is no necessity for unduly hurrying such a change in the constitution of the empire or in the position of Canada. We have been growing into that position by not slow advances, and we can continue to progress without excessive impatience. But there is no reason why we should not look forward to this and aim at it as our future position, instead of working for annexation or for an independence that would cut us adrift from the old flag.

He Approved of it.

A man's animosity toward a political opponent is sometimes so bitter that it does not cease even when the opponent is dead. A year or two ago a gentleman who had figured most prominently not only in the history of Massachussetts but in the history of the country, suddenly came to the end of a long and useful life. On the day of the funeral one of the strongest political enemies of deceased, and a man whose name is well known to every man, woman and child in the commonwealth, was asked: "Are you going to attend Mr.——'s funeral to-day?" "No," responded the distinguished gentleman, deliberately; "but (dryly) I wish you to understand I heartily approve of it."—Boston Gazette.

A Child Lost in a Woods.

Late Friday afternoon the town was startled by the information that Willie Williams, a little boy only two and a half years, was reported as missing since ten o'clock in the morning. Scouting parties were immediately organized and after dark had set in upwad of 100 men were searching in the surrounding country, the number being added every hour. The poor mother was almost distracted. Many of the searchers returned to their homes at a late hour of the night, but in the morning the number was again largely increased. Every saddle-horse and vehicle was brought into requisition and scores were out again on foot. Finally a trail was discovered made by the little feet some five miles from town in a southerly direction, and, although faint, it was followed for hours with great patience and perseverence. At a distance of nearly nine miles from the town the little wanderer was finally discovered, lying down crying, with his hat in his hand and nearly exhausted. He rose to run away from the strangers who had found him, but dropped again from exhaustion after running a few steps. It was but a moment before he was in a buggy on the way to town and was soon clasped in the arms of the mother, whose sufferings had been most intense and so prolonged.

The little fellow had traveled fully 20 miles in a tortuous course over the sand and among the mesquite mounds; he had been from home 32 hours, without food and water, and it is only surprising that he was alive when found. A great shout went up from all parts of the town as soon as it was known that he had been found and a large number of shots were fired as a signal to those who were searching in the near vicinity. The next day he was still much exhausted and weak, but, apparently not seriously injured in health. He was badly sun-burned and so footsore that he could not bear his weight on them.—Deming Tribune.

A DELAYED WEDDING.

The Intending Bridegroom Goes to the Lock-Up Instead of to the Altar.

That there is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip is probably felt to-day by a young couple who were to have been married last evening, but who were parted from one another by the hands of the law as they were about to be made one. The bride that would have been but for this unforeseen interposition is a pretty young English girl, an orphan, living in a respectable house on Chatham street. Her beau also lived on the same street, is good looking, dresses in style, smoked cigars, played billiards, and was altogether the sort of a young fellow who is calculated to make an easy conquest of the hearts of those fair ones who are not very good judges of character. His name is James Warmaley and his visible means of existence was "clerking." All arrangements were made for the wedding to come off last evening, and at seven o'clock a goodly sized party of friends and others on either pleasure or business intent had assembled in the house which has been the young woman's home during her residence here. Everything wore the rosy appearance which is the rule on such interesting occasions, when the portly form of Detective Richards made its appearance, and, retiring with the expectant bride and a few friends, held a consultation, greatly to the interest of the wedding guests, who were led, from the actions of the young woman, to expect some startling developments. Mr. J. M. M. Duff, who was present to issue the marriage certificate, and Rev. J. H. Dixon, who had been summoned to tie the nuptial knot, were called to join the detective's coterie, and after some further confabulation a genuine sensation was caused by the announcement that the wedding was off. It was soon found that Walmsley had been arrested by Detective Richards as he was on his way to the wedding on a charge of forgery. It appears Walmsley decided to raise some funds for a wedding tour, and as a preliminary possessed himself of the bank book of a fellow-boarder, Mr. John Cullen. He then went to the St. Joseph Street branch of the City and District Saving's Bank, and showing the book, which was registered there, asked to draw $100. An order for that amount was drawn out by the clerk and handed to him, and he signed Cullen's name. The clerk, knowing Cullen, immediately took possession of the book and cheque and refused the money. It was for this that he was arrested, and since his arrest a number of other charges have been preferred against him by his fellow boarders, who, until the present, were unable to account for the disappearance of valuables and money from their rooms. He was taken before Police Magistrate Desnoyers this morning and remanded, and in the meantime his sweetheart is left lamenting. —Montreal Star, Nov. 21.

SILOS.

We have been asked what are silos. The silo is a building erected for the purpose of excluding the air from green food intended for the consumption of cattle. Bradstreet's contains a very intelligible description. It says of the silo:—

"It is a scientific advance upon the ancient method of preserving green food by covering it with earth. The silo is a pit usually constructed of masonry, the sides and bottom of which must be waterproof, into which green fodder is packed and pressed down with such necessary covering and weight as to exclude the air and thus prevent fermentation. The pits are usually twenty feet in depth, and are most cheaply constructed if nearly square in form and so divided into compartments as to be readily covered with grooved planking upon which the superincumbent weight is placed. This form of division is advantageous in allowing the use of desirable portions of the ensilage without removing the pressure from the remainder. The pits should be near the barns or sheds where cattle are kept. If they can be located against the slope of a hill it affords obvious advantages in filling and afterwards weighting down the mess with stones or some other form of pressure. The whole secret of success in preserving the contents of a silo is the thorough exclusion of the air. The cornstalks or other fodder is more readily compressed if it is pressed into short lengths ready for feeding before it is put in the silo, and the work of filling should be as rapidly done as possible to prevent the commencement of the heating or fermenting process before the silo is filled. The fodder from a properly constructed silo is better for cattle when taken out than when put in and more readily digested. Another prime advantage is in compact storage. In a silo with an inside measurement of 40x16 feet, and a depth of twenty feet, 250 tons of fodder may be stored and kept in good condition indefinitely."

There is no difficulty, with proper arrangements for preserving food in silos, to keep one cow throughout the year on the produce of an acre of ground. In England during the past two years corn has been sown for food, and it has yielded as high as 30 tons to the acre. No part of the continent can surpass South Western Ontario for stock raising. The Northwest cannot for a moment be compared with it. With properly constructed silos, and with the practice of soiling, there is nothing to prevent at least 50 head of cattle being kept throughout the year on 100 acres. Fruit-growing and stock raising will indeed be found the most profitable kind of farming.—London Advertiser.

Changes on the Earth's Surface.

The lighthouse keeper at Reykjanes, the southwest point of Iceland, discovered on July 29 last that a new island had suddenly appeared above the water, about nine miles from the mainland. Nine weeks ago the British consul in Iceland visited the island, which he describes as a black volcanic rock of small extent. In this neighbourhood several islands have from time to time risen to the surface or sunk out of sight. Geological writings give a great many instances of important changes on the earth's surface that have been made within historical times. The stupendous volcanic eruption of Krakatau on August 27 last year entirely changed the physical aspect of the Sunda straits. A part of Krakatau was shot out of the sea and dropped into the straits eight miles northward. The greater part of the island, containing several thousand million cubic yards of earth, was hurled through the air over Zang island, and plunged into the channel seven miles to the northeast. These two new pieces of land, which have been named Steers and Calmeyer islands, now appear above the sea where previously 240 feet of water existed. Where the volcano of Krakatau stood a sea fathomless by a line of 1,000 feet now exists.

General Sir S. H. Lefroy recently called attention to the fact that ninety-six more or less extensive tracts of land are known to be rising or sinking. Geologists tell us that the Atlantic coast between Cape Cod and Cape Hatteras has been sinking for centuries, and that the subsidence has not yet ceased on the coasts of New York and New Jersey. The Indians who lived on Manhattan Island when the Dutch colonized it two centuries ago, said that in the time of their great-grandfathers it was possible to cross Hell Gate dry shod from one bank to the other. Prof. Guyot estimated that since the colonization of the country, this part of the coast has subsided twenty-three and one-half inches every century.

Science is not yet able to tell in accordance with what law these upheavals and depressions of the earth's crust occur. Geologists, however, have been able to fix almost exactly the limits of the areas both of upheaval and subsidence. There is now no doubt that many of these islands of the southern Pacific Ocean are the lofty portions of a continent which sank until the waters covered it. Other parts of the Pacific Ocean bed are gradually rising, and are thrusting here and there new islands above the sea.

While the greater part of the American continent is slowly rising, Australia is gradually sinking. Lieutenant-Commander De Long found evidence that Bennet Island had risen one hundred feet within quite recent times. Thus year by year the earth is reconstituting its seas and continents.—New York Sun.

READING FOR SUNDAY.

THOUGHTS IN A CITY CHURCH.

Forgive the fault if sometimes on Thy day
And in Thine house my prayer has folded wing:
My spirit turned from Thee to things of sense,
And found delight in vain imagining.

Ah, cool and quiet places where men pray!
Without, the gentle sound of cawing rooks;
Within, the country faces flushed with health,
The white smocks bent above the dog-eared books;

Soft breath of mignonette and scented thyme
From the warm hands of children sitting by,
And through the open door a veil of elm
Across the glory of the summer sky;

The sound of voices in the shady lane,
The trembling heat above some quiet mound;
And here the sunbeams' painting on the wall,
The ivy's shimmering shadow on the ground;

And everywhere a presence, without name,
Subtle, ineffable—a spell, no more—
Breathing from arch and elm, from flower and grain,
Ay, from the trodden stones upon the floor.

A something that we know is not, to-day
A something that gives strength to prayer and song;
And if we miss it as we kneel to pray,
Art Thou extreme, O Lord, to mark it wrong?

Nay, for the desolate town was never thine,
Unloveliness hath never part in Thee!
Yet, where gross man hath marred thy handiwork,
Souls that he could not reach are white and free.

So that I breathe the breath of fragrant lives,
And learn that where flowers sicken, hearts grow strong.
The better man within me cries, "Content!"
Albeit the weaker whispers still, "How long?"

Duty.

Duty, be it a small matter, or a great, is a duty still; the command of Heaven, the eldest voice of God. It is only they who are faithful in a few things who will be faithful over many things; only they who do their duty in every-day and trivial matters who will fulnl them on great occasions. We all admire and honor the heroes of Alma and Balaclava; we all trust in God that we should have done our duty also in their place. The best test of that is—Can we do our duty in our own place?—Ex.

Learning by Experience.

He who learns by experience, both sweet and bitter, touches the secret spring of success. He can turn whatever knowledge he possesses to the best account, while without this practical wisdom, stores of knowledge may be wasted. This power, like every other, may be cultivated. It strengthens by exercise, it withers by disuse. Those who are naturally deficient in it may improve by carefully directing their thoughts to definite ends to be gained, by calling up to frequent remembrance their past mistakes, follies, and faults, with their subsequent ill effects, and by reviewing with equal care the reverse and brighter side of their experience. It is in this way the discipline of daily life comes to be our most valuable friend; it is in this way the past may be made a safe guide and an inspiring influence to the future.—Ex.

Training in Youth.

Infancy is the only time when it is natural or right to be exclusively recipient. Between this time and full maturity giving and taking should be wisely alternated until one becomes as essential to the happiness as the other. It is not kindness, but cruelty to neglect this training in responsibility, to allow youth quietly to appropriate everything and contribute nothing. It is simply a training in selfishness which quickly bears ingratitude as one of its chief fruits. Children who are honored by their parents' confidence, and accustomed to add their quota of assistance, and bear their share of self-sacrifice whenever the good of the family requires it, will rarely be guilty of ingratitude. They are not opposed to, but in quick sympathy with their parents, not because they are gifted with specially sympathetic natures or are in any way superior to ordinary young people, but simply because they have been made sharers with their parents in cares and hopes, the responsibilities and labors of the family.—Exchange.

How to Pray.

A thoughtful woman noticed that, in repeated instances, when she prayed for a clear, sunny day, it was sure to rain. After a time, she decided that the matter of the weather was a subject concerning which she ought not to wish for her own way on special occasions. Then, again, it was revealed to her that most likely, at the very time she was asking for fair weather, another petitioner, as devout as herself, was beseeching for rain, and while she longed for fair skies that a pleasure excursion might be enjoyed the more, the other was begging for bread; that the wheat fields, dry and thirsty, might be refreshed with water from above. Which prayer would be likely to carry with it the most to commend it? The Psalmist tells of God's "Giving them their desire, but sending leanness into their souls." We doubtless often ask for that which, were it granted us, would prove a blight rather than a blessing. We have sometimes thought prayer, in order to be absolutely safe, must resolve itself into the one petition. "Thy will be done." Yet we are justified in asking what we will, if only the prayers are offered in the right spirit. And a lesson is taught in that request of the disciples to their Saviour, "Lord, teach us to pray!" As we grow older, how the petitions crowd! It seems a new necessity arises almost every day, calling for special prayer, and what a comfort that God is always there waiting to hear and to grant or withhold that for which we ask, according to what is best in His sight. In repeated instances Christ tells His disciples to ask and they shall receive, and that whatsoever shall be asked, believing, shall be received. But in the fourth chapter of James we read, "Ye ask and receive not, because ye ask amiss." A careful reader of the Scriptures will discover that few, if any, of the promises of the Bible are unconditional. Something is invariably required on the part of the believer in order that the promise shall be fulfilled. Eternal life is freely offered in one place, while in another we read the mournful instance, "Ye would not come unto me, that ye might have eternal life." The Bible teaches plainly that we are to express our wants or desires in order that they might be gratified. We learn slowly, but surely, that our petitions must be the right ones for us in the sight of God, else they will be wisely withheld, just as the judicious mother withholds from a coaxing child the dainties it longs and cries for, but which, if given, would cause sickness and pain. Subordination is a difficult lesson to learn fully. But when we shall have learned entire submission to the will of the Great Creator we shall know how properly to pray, and the answer will always satisfy, inasmuch as it will filfull in us His most acceptable wish.—Exchange.

A French Brigand.

A Boulogne correspondent writes to the London Times:—"The inhabitants of the small towns and outlying districts in the Ariege and Aude departments, bordering on the Spanish frontier, have for some time past been the prey of a man named Campilla, who has destroyed life and property on numerous occasions. He has hitherto baffled every attempt made to secure him by the gendarmerie and bands of armed peasants. Not a day passes but some fresh ravages take place. The brigand is most daring, and is reported to be a good marksman. He has stated that he carried sixty cartridges, which he will make use of against his assailants, reserving the last for himself when flight would be useless. While the population of Ax were absent from their town recently looking for him, Campilla proceeded to affix a notice on the post office, which is situated opposite the gendarmerie station, stating that he would burn the place. Shortly afterward destructive fires broke out simultaneously in several houses on the market square, which were burned down. The diligence carrying the mail that night had a narrow escape. He attempted to stop the horses, but the driver had the presence of mind to whip them up, and so eluded the assailant."

Found Dead.

On Thursday morning Mr. Anthony Lyster, son of Dean Lyster, was found dead lying on a sofa in his residence on the Glebe farm, Cataraqui. He was all right on Wednesday and it is thought that feeling sick after he got up next morning he lay down on the sofa and expired from the effects of heart disease.

LINDSAY.

DEER HUNTING.—A hunting party numbering Messrs. Walters, Welsh and others returned home on Thursday from a hunting expedition out to the back country. They brought with them sixteen fine deer as trophies of the chase.

A SPLENDID ENGINE.—On Thursday afternoon of last week steam was got up and the new engine tried at Sadler, Dundas & Coy's mill. The result of the trial was most satisfactory. During the last two seasons the capacity of the mill has been seriously cramped by the want of a sufficient head of water during the dry season. Some time ago the firm determined to put in stram power as an auxiliary to the wheels, and arrangements were made with the William Hamilton Machine Co., of Peterborough, to supply a boiler and engine of the most improved design. Preparations were also made to build an engine house in which the boiler and engine should be placed. Close to the saw mill the foundation was dug out and a fire-proof building was erected about 24 x 40, built of stone and brick, with roof covered with iron. About three weeks ago the boiler and engine arrived at Lindsay and the work of putting them in was commenced under the direction of Mr. Wm. Hickey, an experienced employee of the Hamilton Works Co. The boiler is of steel, 66 inch shell by 14 feet long, with 98 tubes, and will generate steam up to 85 h. p. The engine is a splendid specimen of the excellent work made at the Hamilton Co's shops. It is of the Corliss pattern frame, cylinder 16 x 20 inches, with balance valve, variable cut off, and is rated at 80 h. p. when running with a pressure on boiler of 60 lbs. So well had the work been fitted in the shops that little or no alterations were needed after steam had been turned on, a result probably in a measure due the accuracy with which the engine has been placed and the shafting lined up by Mr. Hickey. The boiler is fed by a two-plunger pump driving the water from a condenser and heater to the boiler. The condenser in use is of the most modern design and will insure a large saving of fuel, the feed water going to the boiler very little below the boiling point. With the engine to supplement the wheels the mill can now run at its full capacity and easily turn out 250 barrels of flour during 24 hours. During the season of high water the engine will not be used but be brought into requisition as soon as the water-power begins to fall.

MINDEN.

GOOD TRAPPING.—Since the opening of the season Mr. Wm. Otta has trapped or otherwise secured 25 beavers, 30 minks, 15 deer, 2 otters, 3 fishers, 1 martin, 2 red foxes, 1 grey fox and 33 muskrats. Next!

A MUCH NEEDED REPAIR.—The Anson school board received tenders for the erection of a bridge near the school house for the accommodation of the children, and the contract of erecting a bridge was awarded to Mr. S. S. Peck, for the sum of $90. This bridge has been long needed and its erection is a step in the right direction.

MORE CATTLE.—Our genial warden, Mr. Wm. Gainer, has been buying more cattle and yesterday shipped to Toronto from Kinmount two car loads of very fine beeves. They were bought north of this place, and some of them would have done credit to frontier drovers. Mr. Gainer is distributing a large amount of money through this county this fall.

OUR WOOLLEN MILLS.—Mr. John Goodman, the proprietor of the Minden Woollen Mill, informs us that he has this year carded no less than 10,000 pounds of wool, and he has enough coming in daily to keep the mill going. At the present time there are several hundred pounds of wool ahead. The amount carded this year will be in excess of any previous year's work, as the highest total of any year was about 10,000 pounds. Some people are ready to object to giving bonuses to industries at all times and under all circumstances. This is an instance in which bonusing has done material good, for if our farmers had forwarded their wool to Lindsay, the cost of carriage would have been fully two cents per pound, and if the total amount handled had reached 10,000 pounds the total cost of shipping would have reached $200. This would have been a direct outlay of money, which our sheep breeders may consider they have saved by having a home mill. We should have other industries.—Echo.

NEW TWEED ULSTERINGS in Unions and All Wool at Alexander's, from 50c. up.

MIDLAND.

CONTRACT LET.—The contract for the erection of Messrs. Stafford and Ruby's brick block with a frontage of sixty feet and two stories high was on Tuesday last awarded to Mr. Wm. West. The contract price is $7,000. The building is to be finished by the 15th of July next. Tenders were received from other parties in Midland, Toronto, Barrie and Penetang. The plans and specificatons were prepared by Messrs. Kennedy, Galiver and Holland.—Free Press.

BOBCAYGEON.

QUARRY.—Mr. Millburn has again opened the Corporation quarry, and is shipping a quantity of stone to Lindsay for the new St. Paul's Church.

SHORT.—It is rumoured in Harvey that the contractors for the Buckhorn locks have come out over $20,000 short, and are awaiting the action of the Government in the matter.—Independent.

A Racy Rat Story.

A large number of rats established themselves in a hay loft, about midway between the floor and the top of the hay. The owner of the premises, hearing a continous squealing noise, took a fork and removed the hay from the place whence the noise proceeded, and uncovered a nest of about twenty rats. Several of them ran and were caught by the dog, but a bundle of sixteen full grown animals remained on the spot; their tails were plaited together, something after the fashion of a whip cord. By picking up one of them the rest adhered, and could not be shaken apart. It was supposed by persons who saw them that in order to avoid the cold the rat occupying the top of the pile sought a warmer place by creeping underneath, but not having room to draw his tail after him it was left sticking out; the next rat did the same, and so on until it had changed their position, and every individual rat's tail was entwined into the curious knot that held them together. If they had not been discovered and killed they must have starved, as they could not have separated.—Counoquenessing News.

Another Muddle Threatened.

BUFFALO, Nov. 20.—An Albany special says that the State Board of Canvassers found the Richmond county returns badly muddled, a difference of 950 having been discovered. The totals by cross footings not being as large as the totals reached the other way. The Clerk of Richmond county has been sent for to straighten the matter out. Should this not be done by Saturday, the board must close up its work and leave out Richmond county and its 1,900 plurality for Cleveland.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Mr. Walter J. Nesbitt, of Michigan, and formerly of Peterborough, is in town visiting friends for a few days.

Dogs and Sheep.

On the night of Thursday, Nov. 20, the Lillico brothers, of North Monaghan, had two sheep killed and two badly injured by dogs. The dogs invaded the barnyard and did the mischief there, one of the sheep having been killed under the barn.

The Whistle-Wing.

The steamer Whistle-Wing was frozen in on the river Trent on Tuesday night, Nov. 18th. She had a scow of wood with her, but was unable to break her way through. The river was frozen to a thickness of two inches. She has gone into winter quarters at the Trent Bridge.

The Big Man.

Mr. Pete Simons, cutter for Messrs. T. Dolan & Co., informs us that the big man is coming for his big suit this evening. Mr. Simons also says that he has never been "stuck" on any suit he ever undertook to make, whether big or little, and never fails to suit both great and small.

"Keep warm! Keep warm! Keep warm!" Twenty per cent. reduction on all Winter Underclothing at A. McNeil's.

Poultry Association.

A meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Association was held at the office of Mr. Wm. Cummings on Friday evening. It was a representative meeting and considerable business was transacted. The chief business of the evening was to decide on whether or not to hold an exhibition this season. It was resolved to hold the exhibition some time during February.

School Entertainment.

On Friday afternoon a very pleasant entertainment was held in Miss Fair's room in the Central School. Recitations were given by Misses E. Giles, May Snider, Lillian Ritchie, Annie Sproule and Lilian Beatty; readings were rendered by Misses Clara Gamble, Ada Metheral and Perl Walker (Scotch reading); and A. Weir acted as Chairman.

The Product Car.

The car which is travelling eastward on the Canada Pacific Railway, filled with samples of the products of the Prairie Province, will reach Peterborough early on Monday morning, and will remain for twenty-four hours. It contains samples of minerals, soils, vegetables, and grain of different kinds. The car is a convenient one, and is built specially for the purpose of exhibiting the products. Everyone is invited to come and inspect the car at the Ontario and Quebec Railway depot on Monday.

New Time Table.

A new time table has just been issued for the Ontario & Quebec division of the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is the fourth issued since the opening of the road, and will take effect on Monday morning. The express train from the east arrives at 5.30 a.m. instead of 5.52 a.m. The mixed train, formerly arriving at 8.00 a.m., now arrives at 7.04 a.m., and the mail train formerly arriving at 7.13 p.m., now arrives at 6.43 p.m. The trains from the west arrive as follows:—The mail train at 12.10 p.m., instead of at 11.40. a.m.; the mixed at 8.07 p.m., instead of at 8.00 p.m., and the Montreal express at 11.11 p.m. instead of at 10.58 p.m.

Fell From a Scaffold.

On Thursday afternoon, while Mr. J. Beech was engaged in painting a part of the outside of the new terrace which is being built by the Canada Central Loan and Savings Company on Rubidge street, he met with a painful accident. He was doing outside work, but as it commenced to snow he turned to go inside of the building. In turning his foot slipped and, notwithstanding his efforts to save himself, he fell to the ground, a distance of about fifteen feet. The ground is in an uneven state and where he fell a ditch is being dug for the Water Works Company. Into this ditch he fell, his head striking a stone which inflicted a severe wound. He was conveyed to his home on Chambers street and Dr. King was called. In addition to the scalp wound the patient suffers from a sprain in the right wrist and knee joint and several minor bruises. This morning he complains of pain in both arms, but otherwise he is doing fairly well.

A Suggestion.

The following paragraph is from the Lindsay Post:—

"A mock parliament—a fictitious House of Commons—has been organized among the young men of Peterborough. From the composition of the Cabinet it is apparent that the sectional interests have been pandered to. It is to be hoped that the Minister for the Interior will bring before the House the proposition to at once vote an additional appropriation of $500,000 to the Trent Valley Canal. As several of the Cabinet have been over the route they will be able to intelligently discuss the matter."

We might say that the Minister of Railways and Canals (of this Parliament) has hinted that he would have the canal completed in about a year, but as the leader of the Opposition represents a distant constituency he may oppose it. In fact, it is said that one member of the Opposition, supposed to represent a western Ontario constituency, has been looking up Hansard for the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie's speeches on the subject, in order to get "pointers" for an oration in opposition to the canal. We believe, however, that the Post's suggestion is a good one, and that if the "Ministry" propose a reasonable appropriation they will be supported on that point by almost the entire "House."

The Mock Parliament.

The second session of the Mock Parliament was held in the Mechanics' Institute on Friday evening. After routine, Mr. Deacon, member for New Westminster, B. C., moved the Address in a speech that won for him congratulations from both sides of the House. Mr. J. Hawkins, member for Cobourg, seconded the address in a humorous speech, into which he also introduced some heavy matter, the agricultural statistics weighing fully sixty pounds to the bushel. Mr. J. H. Long (Gaspe), leader of the Opposition, sharply criticized the Address and the policy of the Government. The debate was continued on the Ministerial side by the "Hon." J. D. McIlmoyle and the "Hon." F. P. Henry and by Messrs. Eastwood and Armstrong on the Opposition side, and was then adjourned. The Premier gave notice of a bill for the reduction of postage on letters to two cents per half ounce and the abolition of the franking system, and the Minister of Justice gave notice of a bill extending the franchise and making the punishment for bribery more severe.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

The Canadian Foresters Show Marks of Esteem to Bro. A. McNeil.

On Friday night a very interesting event occurred in the new hall of Court Peterborough No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters.

It was the first time that Bro. A. McNeil took the chair of the High Chief Ranger, having assumed that title on the above mentioned night. After the business of the evening had been transacted Bro. W. H. Watson, D. D. H. C. R., stepped forward and read the following address:—

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 21, 1884.

Andrew McNeil, Esq

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The officers and members of Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, having found your services of such value in assisting them in their work of securing and furnishing their Hall, cannot let this opportunity pass without presenting you with some token of their appreciation of the same. On behalf of this Court we are requested to present you with this water pitcher and drinking cup as a token of the high esteem in which you are held by the officers and members of this Court.

Signed on behalf of the officers and members,
JOHN FANNING, R. Secy. H. W. WATSON, D.D.C.H.R.

Mr. McNeil was taken utterly by surprise, and for some minutes was unable to speak. After some minutes he recovered himself, and replied in feeling and suitable terms, thanking the officers and members of the Court for their handsome and valuable gift.

The pitcher is a very beautiful tilting one, of silver, and is engraved with noticeable neatness. On the front of it is inscribed the following: "Presented to Bro. A. McNeil, Nov. 21st, 1884, by the members of Court Peterborough, No. 29, C. O. F., for his services in assisting them to furnish their new hall."

ALL BUT FATAL.

A Man is Run Over on the Ontario and Quebec Railway by a Larry.

On Friday evening at about 4 o'clock a man named James Humphries and seven others were coming to town from a western section on a larry or hand car. Some of the men were engaged in "pumping," some were sitting on the side of the larry, and Humphries sat in the front part with his feet almost touching the ground. While coming down an incline about two miles from town the larry was going at full speed. One of Humphries' feet stubbed on a board which was laid from rail to rail and he was instantly thrown forward from the machine and drawn under it. When under, the hooks and gearing caught his clothing, and dragged him for a considerable distance over the uneven ties.

Owing to the velocity with which the car was running the men were unable to check the rate of speed and to bring the car to a stand still until it had left the mangled man a considerable distance behind.

When the car had been stopped the men proceeded back along the track and reached their wounded fellow workman. He presented a sad appearance. His clothes were all rent, his limbs covered with blood and he was unable to move. His companions tenderly laid him on the car, and he was brought to the Peterborough station where he was made as comfortable as circumstances permitted. Dr. Kincaid was sent for, the wounds were dressed, and it was ascertained that no bones had been broken, but that he was severely bruised on the left side, on the legs, and his hands and arms were severely abrased.

After the wounds had been dressed he was supplied by Mr. R. Hamilton, proprietor of the depot restaurant, with nourishing food and refreshments. Humphries assigns his misfortune to his own carelessness in sitting in the front part of the larry, but is thankful for his miraculous escape from death. Owing to there being no hospital in town the man remained in the baggage room all night and is still lying there at noon to-day. He comes Guelph, and was engaged in cutting wood for the stations along the line.

OTTOMAN and Brocaded Mantle Cloths just received at Alexander's. Prices right.

Raffle Postponed.

The raffle for the grand music box, which was to have taken place at Faucher's Bodega and Restaurant on Monday, Nov. 24th, has been postponed until the following Tuesday evening, Nov. 25th, at the same time and place.

The Good, the True, the Beautiful.

What elevating thoughts and ideas arise, and how the heart swells with the proud knowledge of the unobling capabilities of our race, as those words are repeated—the Good, the True, the Beautiful! The Good, which includes benevolence and all the charitables acts of the noble and self-sacrificing people, who minister to the wants of others, physical, mental and moral; the True, which comprises those principles of truthfulness and straightforwardness that make life bearable, and the strength of friendship upon which are at times happy to rely; the Beautiful, which adds pleasure to existence, brightens those gloomy periods of life and makes the happy periods more blissful. The noblest principles of noble souls—the highest elevation to which we can ascend—the grand platform of the Good, the True, the Beautiful! There is no one so devoid of good aspirations that he does not admire those principles. And they are as necessary in our apparel as in our thoughts and actions. A good suit of clothes, a true fit and reliable material, and withal beautiful goods, is what all desire. This want can be supplied in Peterborough, and the place to go is at ANDREW MCNEIL'S, Habiliment Hall, George street.

Dominion Exhibit at New Orleans.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—The Government have decided that the time is too short for them to take part in the New Orleans exhibition. The gentleman here on the part of New Orleans states that the reason why Canada was not asked at an earlier date was that the managers thought that an invitation to Great Britain included Canada, as Canada was a colony of Great Britain.

Woman Suffrage.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—In the Woman Suffrage Convention last evening, Mrs. De Geer, of Kansas, said women were freer in Kansas than in any other State, and would soon be enfranchised. Mrs. Clay, of Kentucky, said women in her State were as much slaves, in many respects, as Negroes formerly were. Mrs. Atkinson, of Indiana, said the women in that State had taken an active part in the late Presidential contest. Resolutions were adopted, proposing memorials to Congress for the adoption of woman suffrage as the sixteenth amendment to the constitution, and to all state legislatures, for woman's enfranchisement. It was voted to raise $5,000 for the work in the state and territorial legislatures in behalf of woman suffrage.

Don't Wear Tight Shoes.

Adam Pfaff, a resident of Warsaw, N. Y., about three years ago was drawn as a juryman and wore to court, at Bath, a new pair of boots for the first time. They were too small for him, and although they gave him intense pain he kept them on all one day. When he removed his boots at night he found no relief from his pain, and was unable to sleep. During the night his feet, legs, hands, arms and body began to swell, and his sufferings became so great that he was removed to his home as quickly as possible. From that day to this the pain has never left him for an instant. His joints are enlarged greatly, while his toes, feet and hands are swollen to three times their natural size. The flesh on some portions of his body is shrunken and withered. He is entirely helpless, and cannot leave the chair without help, and has to be fed like a child. Mr. Pfaff's sufferings are at times terrible to witness, and he prays for death.—New Yrok Times.

Fashionable Suicide.

Mr. Kuke is a very smart man, with a desire to get off bad puns. The other day he came into the house where his wife was, and in a breathless voice began:—

"My dear, you know Miss Annie Jenkins, don't you?"

"You mean that pretty girl over on the next street?"

"Yes, she's the one."

"Well, what of her?"

"Why, she ate arsenic this morning and dyed—"

"What? Why, I saw her alive and well last night! You don't mean to say that she is dead?"

"I said she ate arsenic and dyed—"

"Gracious me! What an uncertain world this is. To-day in time; to-morrow in eternity. Tell me how her death occurred."

"Death? I didn't say anything about death."

"Why, yes you did. What do you mean? Didn't you say she ate arsenic and died?"

"Yes, but I was going to say she ate arsenic and dyed her hair, but you interrupted me before I finished. Didn't you ever notice what a beautiful complexion she has?"

The vase she threw at him cost $20 at the Rockwood pottery, but women are not always accountable for what they do.—Merchant Traveller.

Dr. J. H. Burton, Valdosta, Geo., says: "I have for several years used Scott's Emulsion and find it to act well in Consumptive and Scrofula, and other conditions requiring a tonic of that class."

A Remarkable Escape.

Mrs. Mary A. Dally, of Tunkannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despared of, until last October she tried a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50lbs. in a few months. Free trial bottles of this certain cure for all throat and lung diseases at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

OUR GREAT

CLOSING SALE

A Decided Success.

We are giving more Bargains and a better class of Goods than any other house that advertises a Clearing Out Sale.

The Reason Why

The people are satisfied to buy from us: They buy their goods at one price during this sale, not as some people who are selling out and charging three or four prices. This we know to be true, so beware of such places, and buy your goods from a responsible house and that is at

In values they have made a rout,
If in doubt you'd better try."

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

The President-Elect Gives His Views on His Future Administrative Policy.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—The Albany correspondent of the Times had an interview with Governor Cleveland yesterday, in the course of which the Governor said:—"No harm shall come to any business interest as a result of the administrative policy as long as I am President. I intend to surround myself with the best and broadest minds in the party, and then bend all my energies toward making an administration that shall at least assure every element that the transfer of the executive control from one party to another does not mean any serious disturbance of existing conditions. It is almost incredible to me that there should be any feeling of uncertainty whatever as to the future so far as the result of the election is concerned. Those who are to succeed to power by the will of the people are as much interested in the future of the United States as those who yield it. They also have an equal stake in the prosperity and advancement of the country. They are as thoroughly committed to the maintenance of values and as earnestly anxious for sterling business prosperity as their opponents. Naturally they will be careful about pronouncing for a policy inimical to the interests of the very class which more than any other has thus honored us with its confidence. Coming into power after so long an absence, the party ought and will, so far as the executive is concerned, bring liberal views and good impulses in the control of the Government. It would be unnatural for the party not to be actuated by a desire to continue in power by demonstrating that it deserved the highest confidence of the people. This it cannot do if it would unsettle business, and make a factious war upon the well conserved plans of the Government. This is the view I take of the proper position for the party just assuming control of the country in a crisis like this, and the standard by which I shall be guided while in the Presidential office. If I follow this plan I hope for and expect a fair and honest response from the Republicans with whom I may have relations as well as the hearty support of my own party. I feel, of course, that I have grave responsibilities, and approach them with a feeling of more or less anxiety."

A FATAL JOLLIFICATION.

Sad End of a Democratic Demonstration —Killed by a Sky Rocket Explosion.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Nov. 22.—During a Democratic jollification to-night an explosion of sky rockets occurred, which resulted fatally to three persons and seriously injured a number of others. When the explosion occurred the rockets shot in every direction, and the wildest excitement ensued. Douglas McIlvenny was struck on the chin by a rocket and when picked up the stick was found protruding from the back of his neck. James Moody, aged 10, was hit in the chest and fatally injured. Daniel Gunsley, aged 13, was struck on the thigh by a rocket, which fractured his hip, he was also injured internally. Louis Black, Chas. Saffen and Wm. Warren were all badly hurt. Several others were bruised and tramped on in the panic following the explosion.

Disabled on Her Trial Trip.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The new despatch boat Delphin, which John Roach & Son had about completed, started on her trial trip up the Sound on Thursday morning, with Admiral Simpson, Commander Howell, Lieutenant Barber, Constructor Fernald, Chief Engineer Henderson and Hy. Steers, members of the naval advisory board. One account says the Dolphin steamed along under a moderate pressure until she was abreast of Faulkner's Island light. Word was then passed to send her ahead at full speed, that she might be tested. The engineer gave the throttle a whirl, steam rushed into the cylinder, and then came a crash that shook the ship from figure head to stern. Her main shaft had broken off like a piece of old cheese. Another account says the speed of the vessel had exceeded the expectations of those on board, and the pilot had just been ordered to turn about for home when a crash came without warning at 2.30 a.m. The Dolphin will probably be brought here in tow to-day. She has not yet been formally accepted by the Naval Department.

The ease with which he converses, and the affability of his manners denote him a man of the world. He is an accomplished gentleman.

THE COE FRAUDS.

THE information that Mr. Coe and his associates in his iron mining enterprises in North Hastings have orders to ship to Cleveland, Ohio, all the ore they can supply, and that probably next year this will amount to 20,000 tons, is a matter of especial interest to our readers in this county. There is every reason to believe that the iron ores are as rich and plentiful in the eastern and northern townships of the County of Peterborough as in North Hastings. In fact the corrupt and wasteful alienation of this valuable public property by Mr. Mowat and his colleagues to Coe and his friends has taken place in both counties.

In one aspect this matter concerns the whole Province. It is open at least to grave doubt whether it is wise and prudent thus to send away in its raw state to a foreign country such valuable material, that foreigners may have the profit of manufacturing it for us, when after a time, if not now, we might manufacture it for ourselves to our own profit. Some day we may have as a community cause to regret that we have been stript of this public wealth without any compensating public advantage. It will hardly be sufficient consolation to know that there has been much private advantage from the transaction, that Mr. Coe and his friends have realized a handsome amount in payment for their political services, and that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have been able to pay their political debts by the corrupt and dishonest use of public property entrusted to their stewardship.

From another point of view the matter is of consequence to the Province at large, as well as more especially to the immediate neighbourhood of the mines. The fact that the ore when mined is being exported in its crude state instead of being smelted on the spot is evidence of another piece of dishonesty connected with this job. It will be remembered that Coe and Company were not only rewarded with mining lands, but they were also gratified by the alienation to them of vast tracts of good agricultural and pastoral lands. The transparently false excuse for this wasting of the real estate of the people of Ontario was that the land thus granted bore timber that was essential to the development of these mines, and that they were not fit for settlement. Those acquainted with the district well knew that this was a barefaced falsehood—that the land was fit for settlement and that statements to the contrary were a mere pretence to further enrich Mr. Mowat's friends. Now, however, even this filmy subterfuge is swept away, for the fact that these plotters are selling in the raw state all the ore possible, shows how little excuse there was for this enormous reservation of timber for them. It is not surprising that this peculation and dishonesty on the part of the Mowat Administration should have been shrouded in the mystery that is the appropriate atmosphere for such transactions. It is not strange that the Ministers and their journals gave false accounts of the misappropriation of this enormous amount of public property, that they delayed as long as possible giving any information, and that when a return was brought down at the close of the session, it was in direct contempt of the orders of the House, for it deliberately withheld the most important information that had been ordered. Even now, owing to this dishonest concealment, the whole truth is not known, but enough has already come to light to show it to be a nefarious transaction.

We must now give a few words to one branch of the case which has a special interest for the people of some of the townships of this county. By these payments of Mr. Mowat's political debts with public property thus alienated by wholesale, the settlement of these townships has been and is being impeded, for intending settlers having examined and selected farms, have found the Coe gang before them on the choicest lots. And there is good reason to believe that the ratepayers of the townships are still further wronged. The plan of operation appears to be, not to make these grants till a bona fide settler applies, but to hold them in reserve until there is thus a necessity to put them forward in order to defeat the claims of genuine settlers. This is not only a hardship to those whose time is thus unjustly wasted, but it is a pecuniary injury to every ratepayer in the township. Coe and the other favored grantees really own the property, so as to have a claim against all comers, and yet through the dishonest suppression of the fact they are absolved from the duty of paying taxes. Not only are Coe and Company for corrupt motives being rewarded with public property, but in addition every ratepayer in the townships concerned is being called upon to pay the taxes rightfully due by these pets of Mr. Mowat.

CANADIANS IN EGYPT.

AN ENGLISH CORRESPONDENT'S VIEW OF THEIR WORK.

The Experience no Child's Play—Arduous and Dangerous Labours and Slow Progress—Astonishing the Natives.

We have published interesting letters from one of the Canadian contingent of the Nile expedition, giving a graphic account of their movements, but the following from the London Standard will be interesting, as showing how others look upon their work:—

AMBIGOL, (via Sarras), Nov. 5.

Major Dorward, with five of his pioneer boats, arrived here at noon, after a most arduous and difficult journey. After almost incessant labor they have only succeeded in making thirty miles since Sunday morning, and to-day they took five hours in getting the boats two miles, although all hands were at work at oars and ropes. The three injured boats have been repaired, the holes in their sides being covered with tin or lead plates, and they are now ready to continue their journey. The Canadian voyageurs have greatly modified their first views as to the difficulty of the task of navigating the Nile at this season of the year, and admit that the passage at Bahr-el-Hajar is a very serious and arduous undertaking, and very much harder than anything they expected to meet with. They think that it is hardly likely that the main body of troops can get up even this far without serious accidents. The Royal Engineers all go through a course of rowing at Chatham, while the soldier of the line knows nothing whatever about boating. If, therefore, the former have had such immense difficulty in bringing up their boats, how vastly greater will be the task to men unable to handle an oar? Moreover, the pioneer boats only carry six thousand six hundred pounds, and that they are far too deeply laden for safety in such rapids, while the boats with the troops will carry eight thousand pounds. The Canadians are of opinion that the difficulty and danger will be best met by the army advancing in parties of ten boats at a time; there will then be sufficient voyageurs to man the boats, and to bring them up through the difficult places. If more than ten boats were to come up at a time there would be grave risks of collision, as the stream often catches them and sweeps them across the river with great velocity, and a clear stream is necessary for safety. The engineers say that the work coming up has been terrible. It began every day with daylight, and ended only when it became too dark to see what they were doing, and they were frequently breast deep in water. A ration of rum at night, when work is over, would go a long way to cheer them after their toil, but at present none is issued, and as the men regard this as the one luxury of their life of continual toil, it is, I think, a mistake that they should be deprived of it. There is, however,

THE CANADIANS SAY

LITTLE OR NO GRUMBLING;

the men work most cheerfully and zealously, and one prevading idea is to push forward. Therefore, there are more jokes than growls over their severe work and privation. In slack water the boats sail well, but their sails are insignificant in size in comparison to those carried by the native craft, and are but of little use where the current runs strong. The public must expect to hear of many serious mishaps before the expedition arrives at its destination, and should understand that, although there may be no great risk from the action of the enemy, the men comprising it do run a considerable hazard of death by drowning, to say nothing of the effects of such tremendous work in such a climate. After having had experience in eight campaigns with British troops, I must pronounce this to be by far the most arduous undertaking that I have accompanied. The boats are about to commence the

ASCENT OF THE AMBIGOL CATARACT.

This is a very difficult undertaking, especially as the height of the river alters every day, and a line found comparatively easy one day, may be impracticable on that following. Between Ambigol and Mangal, a distance of twelve miles, the river presents the appearance of a continuous rapid, now running smoothly, but with great rapidity, now foaming and breaking over the rocky bed. I shall ride along the bank and watch their progress over the most difficult part.

5 p.m.—The boats passed up the rapids nearest Ambigol without accident. They were partially unladen. They were then taken up separately, two Canadians taking their places in the boat to steer her, and the united crews of fifty men laying on to the hawser, and so hauling them one by one up the rapids. The shores near Ambigol are strewn with the timbers of shipwrecked boats, showing how dangerous is the navigation of this part of the river, and the natives reckon that fully ten per cent. of their crafts employed last month were wrecked on the passage. While the engineer boats were ascending the rapids Alleyne's boat came down, and shot the rapids with great velocity, to the immense astonishment of the natives and Egyptian soldiers. Indeed, the sight of North American Indians thus navigating British troops up the cataracts of the Nile is one of the

in a campaign. As Alleyne's boat shot past those of the Engineers the voyageurs shouted out to the up-going Canadians that the river was extremely difficult above, and that unless with the aid of a strong wind they would find it impossible to get up. They tell me that the river here is at least three feet lower than it was when they went up. The boats of their party are more manageable and make far better progress by the help of the wind than those of the Engineers, still more than the heavily-laden boats which follow, as they carry little more than half the load. The voyageurs calculate that not more than sixty boats could possibly be passed up the Ambigol Cataract daily, even if all were manned by experienced men. As the north wind, which is even now precarious, ceases altogether in January, it is evident that the time available for the expedition to reach Berber and Khartoum is very limited, for it will not be possible to drag or row the boats after the wind has ceased to help them on.

PROTECTION BY ELECTRICITY.

A Burglar's Silent Watchman and Enemy—How Electricity is Used.

Our reporter visited the operating room of the Holmes Electric protection Company of Canada, No. 710 Craig street, and inspected their patent apparatus, by which safes, rooms and warehouses can be made absolutely burglar-proof. The safe to be protected is enclosed in a wooden case, small copper wires being worked into the wood, so as to be invisible. In the front are two doors, which open and give access to the safe. The panels of these doors are composed of two sheets of thin copper foil, insulated by sheets of silk paper, and covered on each side with pasteboard. This is so painted that the resemblance to the rest of the wood cannot be detected. The alarm is given somewhat as follows: The doors fasten with a series of brass spring "catches," to which the copper wires and foil are connected, the whole being in connection with a main wire which leads to the operating office, and is connected there with a small, delicate, upright galvanometer, the needle of which, when the doors of the case around the safe are closed, stands at a given point. There is a "constant" current of electricity, supplied from gravitation batteries, continually flowing around the circuit, and any variation of the current deflects the needle, which causes a "drop" with a number attached to fall and strike an alarm bell. The door of the safe being opened or shut decreases or increases the strength of the current, which will deflect the needle and thus gives the alarm. If a person even puts a needle through the sheets of copper foil in the case of the safe he destroys the insulation and an alarm is given. If any of the small or main copper wires are tampered with, the alarm is struck. Inside the operating room, all day and night, are a number of special constables, who, when any alarm is given, are at once despatched to the place which the number of the alarm indicates, the key of which is kept sealed up, only to be used when needed. For further protection each case has an electric bell inside, and a button which connects with the wire leading to the operating room. Now the owners of the premises are requested to notify the Company at what time they open and shut their safe, and so, if done before the time, the men are sent to enquire what is the matter. When opened at the right time, the alarm is given; to show that all is right the operator responds from the operating room by ringing the bell inside the safe by pressing upon a button, and if it is the person duly authorized who opens it, he gives a secret signal back with the button. The Company have also a clever electrical instrument by which watchmen can be made to report at given intervals at the operating room, which is recorded on a paper tape, something like the Morse code of signals. Any failure to report during the night would have the effect of having the special constables down to see what was wrong. On the watchman repeating the call twice assistance would be at once sent to him.—Witness.

Scattering Fertilizers by Hand.

Professor Stores, of Harvard University, has been experimenting with a view of answering the question:—"About how much of a given fertilizer would a man naturally throw from his hand in sowing an acre?" A half acre was measured off, marked with stakes, and a careful laborer, familiar with such work, without any knowledge of the intended experiment, was set to scattering different kinds of fertilizers, "as if he were sowing grain thickly." The following were the results per acre: nitrate of soda two hundred and fourteen pounds, muriate of potash one hundred and senvent-three pounds, superphosphate of lime one hundred and seventy-three pounds, blood, bone, and meat-dust fertilizer one hundred and twenty-four pounds. The last named substance was a light, soft and dry powder, the dried refuse of a slaughter house, weighing fifty pounds per bush. The superphosphate was a dry powder, weighing sixty-eight pounds per bushel, and the potash-salt was likewise a fine powder, sixty-nine pounds to the bushel. The nitrate of soda was somewhat coarse, and a bushel weighed eighty-eight pounds.

A second set of sowings was also made by a tall young student in every way the opposite of the careful laborer. He carried the fertilizer in a bag slung on his shoulder, and walked at a more rapid pace than his predecessor, who carried the fertilizer in a pail upon his arm. His scatterings were: Nitrate of soda one hundred and ninety-four pounds, and muriate of potash one hundred and sixteen pounds. The difference in the case of the soda-salt is not great, and two hundred pounds may be taken as the average amount a person will conveniently scatter upon an acre; with the potash salt the difference between the sowings was greater.

MESMERIC MYSTERIES.

Attitude of the Body Affects the Aspect of the Face and Frame of the Mind.

The distinguishing feature of the earlier stages of mesmerism in man is that by slight stimulation any one centre can be set in violent activity, and its activity easily stopped, without the activity spreading to other distant centres. It is on this that the mesmeric phenomena usually exhibited depend; with most of these phenomena you are no doubt familiar, so that I need mention one or two only.

Complicated reflexes may be produced in various ways, just as we have seen is the case with a frog even when without its cerebral hemispheres. Thus Braid mentions that on one occasion an old lady who had never danced, and who indeed considered it a sinful pastime, when mesmerized began to dance, as soon as a waltz tune was played.

A statement made to a subject will often produce implicit belief, notwithftanding the evidence of his senses. I remember telling a subject that I was about to bring a hot body near his face, and he was to tell me when it was painful. I put my finger upon his cheek, upon which he cried out violently that I was burning him. When he was awakened he remembered that I had touched him with something very hot. The idea I had given him was remembered, the evidence of his sense of touch was disregarded.

There are certain attitudes which we usually assume under the influence of certain moods or ideas; from each of the muscles concerned in bringing about any one attitude, impulses travel up to the brain, and give rise to a definite muscular sensation which comes, therefore, to be associated with a particular mental mood. In mesmerized people the production of a definite muscular sensation not infrequently produces in the mind the mood with which it is, in the wakeful state, associated. At the same time ideas may be produced corresponding to the mood, and the ideas may give rise to particular actions, such as laughing, crying, fighting.

If the head is pushed back and the shoulders opened out, the face assumes a look full of pride or haughtiness, and, if the subject be asked what he is thinking about, he will give some answer indicating what a fine fellow he fancies himself to be. If then the head is bowed and the shoulders contracted, the aspect of the face changes to one of humility and pity. Occasionally it happens that a slight pressure on a single muscle, which causes it to contract, will, by a radiation of nerve impulses, produce the muscular sensations proper to a group of muscles, and this will give rise to the associated frame of mind. Thus very different feelings may be made to rapidly succeed one another in the mind of the subject by simply pressing on various muscles of the head and neck. At first sight such an experiment looks like a revival of the now happily forgotten phrenology.—Popular Science Monthly.

AN ELECTIONEERING TRICK.

How Two Pairs of Pants Decided an Election in Minnesota.

Sibley and Ramsay were the Gubernatorial candidates in Minnesota in 1858 and party feeling ran high, that is, votes became high, because they were mighty scarce. The partisans of each candidate were worked up to a great pitch in their endeavors to have the honor of electing the first governor of the new state. When the returns began coming in it appeared that Ramsay would walk away with the State. There were a few of Sibley's men who smiled in a quiet way as they sat back and waited for precints in the northern part of the State to be heard from. Away up near the British line and just across from Pembina, Manitoba, one Wilson had been sent in the interest of Sibley. According to an organic provision, Indians were allowed to vote if clothed as legally qualified citizens. In that locality there are several thousand redskins, who had been overlooked by all the politicians except Wilson, who was a genuine specimen of a genius of a frontier statesmen that have passed away with the advent of baser practices of a more refined civilization. He would talk French to the half-breeds from the Hudson bay region, Sioux or Chippewa to the aborigines, who then were spread all over the North-West. When he reached the place where the Indians were the thickest, election day was only ten hours away, and what he proposed doing had to be done quickly. During the night he skirmished around trying to procure two pairs of pants, but the settlement couldn't produce a single spare pair. Wilson was nearly despairing of working his game successfully, when two old whisky-logged frontiersmen volunteered to keep to the shanties during the day for a couple of bottles of the best. Wilson was well supplied with this, and the next day the two old topers were missed at the polls, but their breeches were in the hands of Wilson, who appeared on the scene as soon as the sun rose. With one assistant he marshalled the Indians in line and in a jargon of Indian and English, explained what they should do. The first savage was robed in the pants of the old chap who was then playing old sledge with his "pard," robed only in blankets. While this first vote was being cast the other pair of pantaloons was being hung upon the limbs of the next noble red man, and while this fellow was dropping in his ballot the breeches were taken off the first Indian and put on No. 3. So the entire line was gone through with and when the hour for closing had arrived, those trowsers had covered hundreds of strange legs. When that district reported Sibley's election was assured, and when Wilson arrived from his successful northern tour he not only got a grand reception, but even the soubriquet of "Pembina," that clung to him for years.—St. Louis Post-Despatch.

NEW TWEED ULSTERINGS in Unions and All Wool at Alexander's, from 50c. up.

An Incident of the Late Campaign.

A good story is told of a Republican stump speaker in the hills of western Pennsylvania. Wishing to present a forcible illustration of his views of the respective parties, he took a "warnut," so called in the vernacular of those hills, with him, and something to crack it with. Holding it up in the course of his speech, he said: "Fellow citizens you see this 'warnut,'—well, this outer hull is like the Demoratic party, soft and spongy, with no strength in it; see, I even break it with my fingers," and suiting action to the words, he disclosed the inner nut, and said, "Now this shell is like the prohibition party, hard and dry, with no substance it it; but the kurnul—the kurnul, my fellow citizens, is like the grand old Republican party, full of fatness and sweetness." He then proceeded to crack the "warnut" and give the audience an ocular demonstration of his illustration, but behold! it was rotten.

Poker in Missouri.

"I used to be fond of poker," he said, and the expression of his face became retrospective, "but since I got four aces downed out in Missouri I hey' sorter gi'n up playin' the game."

"Your opponent had a straight flush, did he?"

"No, he had five jacks."

"That's impossible."

"Stranger, hev you ever played poker in Missoury?"

"No, sir."

"Well, if you ever do set down in a game out thare and a red-eyed man whose clothes smell of cattle whittles a corner off the table and allows that he hez five jacks jest bunch your kiards in the pack and say, 'Thas's good.'"

A White Weasel Wakens Kingston.

A number of boys chased a white weasel down Princess street last night. It ran into Moore & O'Connor's boot shop, where a regular "fox" hunt took place. After an hour's chasing about the shop the little intruder concealed himself in some corner where he could not be found. This morning he made his appearance again.—Kingston News.

A Great Loss.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—The Record says Pennsylvania is losing $22,700,000 a year through the suspension of coal mining in the anthracite region. It asserts the losses entailed upon the State through railway pools, railway restrictions on supplies and the coke syndicate amount to $9,247,000 a year.

A Good Ration For Hens.

We have frequent warnings against the perils of feeding hens too much Indian corn, from people who affect poultry wisdom, and write for the agricultural papers. Where one hen suffers from excess of corn, we venture to say, ten suffer from too little. Too little feed is the besetting sin of the rural districts. We live there and happen to know; people grumble because they get only six or seven dozen eggs a year, change breeds often, make crosses, and thus their yards swarm with all sorts of barnyard mongrels, as a poor substitute for full rations. Nothing but feed in the hopper will make hens grind out the eggs. If corn was dangerous, or narrow quarters, for thirty light Brahma hens, we should have found it out this summer. Early in May, after the garden stuff began to come up, we shut up the hens in an old building about fifteen feet square, without floor, and with sides and roof of unscrupulous ventilation. It was a legacy of past generations, and had worn itself out as a carriage house many years ago. It is a standing witness that ventilation is good for fowls. The rations have been corn, given three times a day, kept in a box, generally about six quarts a day, a little more added when the box was found empty, broken clam shells kept in another box constantly on hand—a part of the skim milk and butter milk from one cow, a pail of water from the pump every morning, and a run of an hour before sun set upon the lawn, where there was an abundant supply of grass. Two applications of kerosene, from the lamp filler, to the perches, have kept the fowls from lice, and the health of the flock has been remarkably good. The egg production has been abundant, and if there has been any danger in a constant supply of corn, the hens have not found it out. The eggs have been well fertilized, and the chickens strong and healthy. The theory of feeding has been that we get the most profit from fowls when we give them all they can eat, and a sufficient variety of animal and vegetable food. Milk has been the main supply of the former, and corn of the latter. We have come to the conclusion that there is a call for a reform in poultry keeping. Too much liberty and low feed is bad for hens. —T. B., American Agriculturist.

Greenhouse and Window Garden.

A sudden cold snap, or "cold wave," as it is now termed, is liable to come at any time during the winter, and must be guarded against in the greenhouse by attention to the fire, and in the dwelling by moving the plants away from the windows, to the middle of the room....Dryness of the air is the chief obstacle to successful window gardening. Plants succeed much better in the kitchen than in the parlors, as the air is charged with moisture from the cooking, etc. If the house is heated by a furnace, there should be a pan for evaporating water in the furnace, kept well supplied. If stoves are used, keep vessles of water on them....Dust is injurious to plants. Much may be prevented from settling on the leaves by covering the plants with a light fabric whenever the rooms are swept. All smooth-leaved plants, like the ivy, camellias, etc., should have a weekly washing with a damp sponge. The others may be placed in a sink or bath tub, and given a thorough showering.... Water should be given as needed, whether daily or weekly. Do not water until the soil is somewhat dry. Keeping the earth constantly wet, soon makes unhealthy plants. Let the water be of the same temperature as the room. Hanging plants dry out rapidly. Plunge the pots or baskets in a pail or tub of water, and after they have ceased to drip, return them to their places ....The so-called green-fly, or plant louse, is easily killed by tobacco water. Apply this when of the color of weak tea. Red spider is very minute, and works on lower sides of the leaves. When these turn brown, the spider may be suspected. Give frequent showers, laying the pot on the side, and apply water with the syringe. Scale insects, and mealy bug, are best treated by handpicking, before they become numerous....Chrysanthemums, when through flowering, should have the stems cut away, and the pots of roots taken to the cellar....The pots of bulbs which were placed in the cellar or in a pit, for roots to form, may be brought to the window, and as they grow, give an abundance of water. If needed, support the heavy flower spikes of hyacinths by a small stake.—American Agriculturalist.

Devoured by Wolves.

A despatch from Vienna says that in Eastern Hungary a clergyman, with his wife and child, was driving in a sledge from Kramsoua to Kislonka, when a pack of wolves pursued them. The mother was terror-stricken and let the child fall from her arms. The father leaped from the sledge to save the child. The father and child were at once fiercely attacked. The father fought desperately and killed two wolves, but was at last overcome. Both he and the child were devoured. Meanwhile the horses had rushed onward with the sledge bearing the agonized mother. In her terror she gave premature birth to a babe. The shock proved too much for the woman, and when the sledge reached Kialonka she was dead. So the whole family perished within an hour.

Outrageous.

On election day a gentleman at Laredo, on the Rio Grande, observed a large number of Mexicans in the town. "Where do all these Mexicans come from?" asked the stranger. "From the other side of the river," replied a candidate. "What are they going to do over here?" "O! they are going to be voted." "What for?" "For a dollar apiece." "Why, that's outrageous." "Yes, it is too high, but what can we do about it? Our opponents, the Reformers, have run up the prices on us. Before the Reform party was organized we could get all the Mexican votes we wanted, delivered at the polls, for 50 cents a head, but now the lowest price is $1 a head, spot cash. I tell you it takes money to be elected to office on the Rio Grande."—Texas Siftings.

A Muscular Madman.

About 8 o'clock on Thursday morning a muscular man named Davis created a sensation on Jamest street, Hamilton. Davis is subject to fits of insanity, and had one of his bad attacks that day. He possessed himself of a pitchfork and took possession of the street; for a time no one dared approach him. After the pitchfork was coaxed away from him it took the united strength of five policemen to take him to the cells, whence he was conveyed to the asylum. He is a very dangerous man when insane. While suffering from a similar attack about a year ago he pounced on Mr. Rissman, of the Immigration Department, and almost strangled him.

The Abutments Completed.

The abutments of the Hunter street bridge have been finished, the last stone having been laid on Saturday. They are built of lithographic limestone from Coboconk and present a substantial appearance. A temporary bridge is being built across the creek, which will greatly facilitate traffic until the new bridge is erected.

New Time Table.

A new time table has just been issued for the Ontario & Quebec division of the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is the fourth issued since the opening of the road, and took effect on Monday morning. The express train from the east arrives at 5.30 a.m. instead of 5.52 a.m. The mixed train, formerly arriving at 8.00 a.m., now arrives at 7.04 a.m., and the mail train formerly arriving at 7.13 p.m., now arrives at 6.43 p.m. The trains from the west arrive as follows:—The mail train at 11.40 p.m., instead of at 12.10., a.m.; the mixed at 8.07 p.m., instead of at 8.00 p.m., and the Montreal express at 11.11 p.m. instead of at 10.58 p.m.

The Late Mr. Urquhart.

It is generally believed that the late Kenneth Urquhart came to his death by pure accident. Above Niagara Falls a small canal has been dug for the purpose of supplying power for manufacturing purposes and it empties below the Falls. Across this canal a new bridge is being built, which is, on account of the numerous apertures, quite unsafe to walk on in imperfect light. It is supposed that Mr. Urquhart arose early in the morning and went for a walk, when he slipped through the above mentioned bridge. The body was found by a cooper's boy at the lower end of the canal. An inquest was held, at which a verdict of accidental drowning was brought in. The body was brought to this town on the Grand Trunk Railway noon train and was interred in the Little Lake Cemetery on Saturday afternoon.

Removed from the Baggage Room.

James Humphries, who was run over by a larry on the Ontario and Quebec Railway on Friday night, is now (thanks to the efforts of some of our citizens) in comfortable quarters. It seems that the proper steps had not been taken to have the man removed to a place where his wounds might be successfully attended to, for Councillor McNeil, a member of the Charity Committee, informs us that that committee had not been apprized of the man's misfortune. On Saturday night Humphries still lay in the baggage room at the railway station. Mr. J. Newhall, hackman, volunteered free conveyance to a place of comfort, if such place might be obtained. After numerous inquiries and rejections, Mr. R. N. Roddy, proprietor of the Canadian Pacific Hotel, offered to take the man to his house and care for him. He was accordingly removed and the Town Physician, Dr. Kincaid, was notified to attend. It may be stated, however, that the station agent of the Ontario and Quebec Railway was in no way to blame for the man lying so long without proper quarters. Mr. Jennings was under the impression that there was an hospital in town, but when he found out otherwise, made deligent enquiry, but secured no satisfactory information. Humphries is now getting along well.

OUR NORTH-WEST.

A Fine Exhibition of the Products of the Prairie Province and the Territories.

The exhibition car, which is now on its way over the line of the Canada Pacific Railway, visiting the chief towns situated thereon, arrived in Peterborough on Saturday evening. It was not expected here until Monday morning and during Saturday night and Sunday it was a topic of conversation throughout the town. The car is fifty feet long, eight feet in width, and is tastefully painted and suitably lettered. It is heated by coal oil stoves, is lighted at night by numerous powerful lamps, and daylight is afforded by a sufficient number of windows and by the glass doors at each end.

The inside of the car presents a novel appearance, and one on entering naturally asks himself whether he is in a railway car or in an exhibition building. The exhibits are shown in two rows the length of the car, with a passage way with railing on each side, running between them. Of course a large proportion of the car is devoted to the exhibition of the products of the ten experimental farms which were established in the North-West by the Canada Pacific Railway Company in the fall of 1883. As it stands on the track, east and west, the western half of the car is devoted exclusively to the exhibition of samples of the produce of these farms. Different kinds of grain in its natural state, bound in neat bundles, are placed side by side along each side of the car, and so luxuriant is the growth, that in some kinds of grain the stalks meet at the top. The straw is clear and white and the heads well filled. Under the shadow of each bundle of heads, a bag about quarter filled with the representative grain, neatly turned down, sits for inspection.
